SUMMER

Kilbourne students enjoy the sand, sun, and surf of summer break 1994.

*"Summer
Summer
Summer-
time. Let's just sit
unwind..."*

Straggling to school at 7:55 A.M. required much effort as visions of sand, sun, and complete relaxation danced in the heads of most Worthington Kilbourne students on the first day of classes. The truth was difficult to accept: Summer '94 was officially over. No more sleeping in till noon and beyond, no more lazy days at the beach, no more summer fling. . . it was gone, all gone.

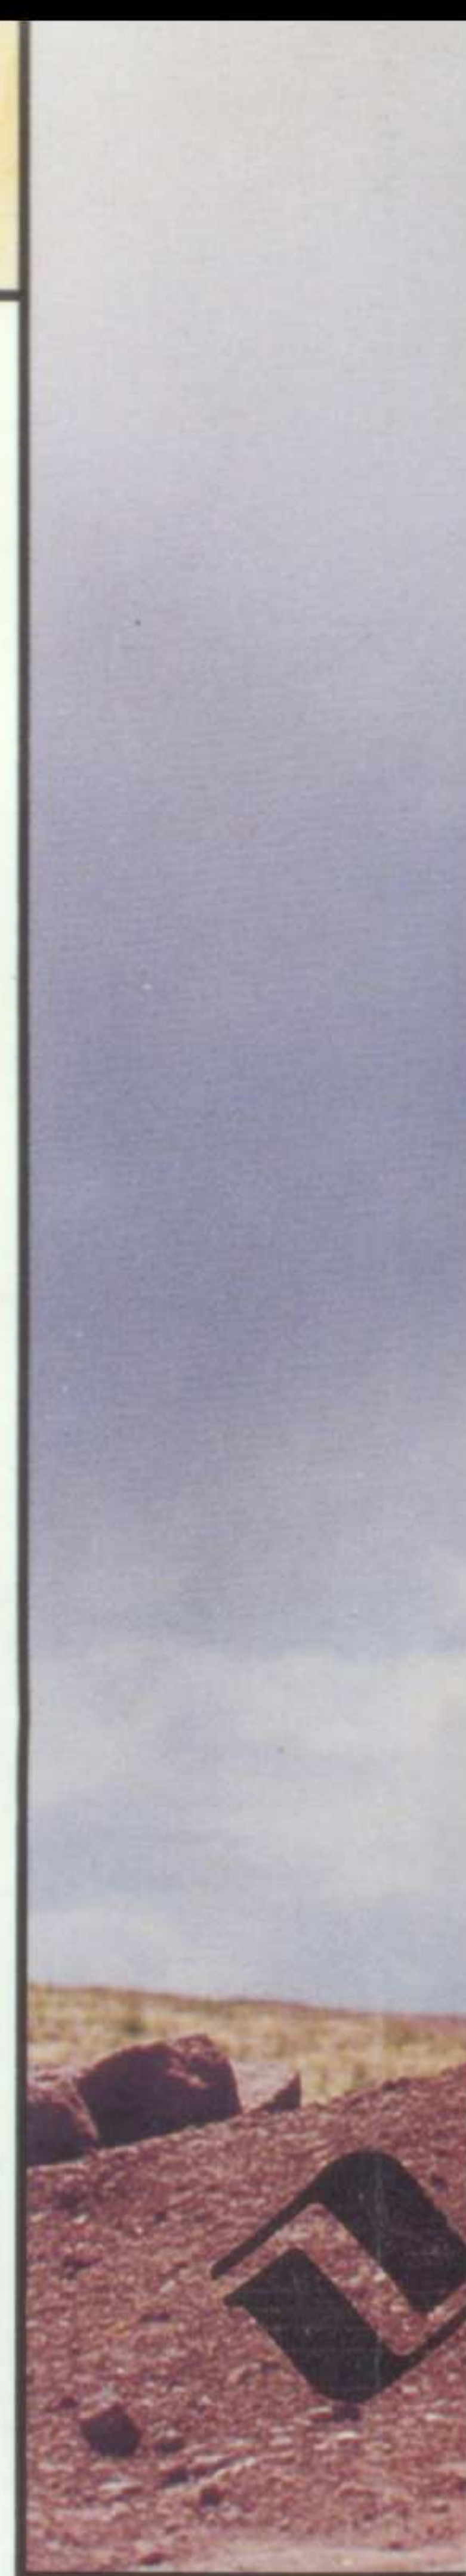

As I drifted in a dream-like state through the hallways on August 28 while longing to be back in the California sunshine again, I learned that I wasn't the only one who thought that this past summer was the most amazing yet. Senior Martin Lamp who participated in the Worthington Field Studies trip out west couldn't say enough about what the experience meant to him. "I learned more in just one month than I could have ever learned in any science class, and I knew some of those people better after spending one day on a bus than I do some of my friends here at home." Junior Nina Jaleeli, another WFS participant added her favorite memories of the trip: "I liked the feeling of getting my once-a-week shower, and I liked learning how to wash clothes."

And what did our Student Council President Scott Schaeffer do over summer break? Just what a student leader should do. He and juniors Mike Cipkala and Amanda Koenigsknecht spent a week in July at the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington D.C. talking to national political leaders about current events in the U.S. government. When asked what the highlight of his trip was, Scott stated, "It was great meeting so many different students from all over the U.S., and I really enjoyed talking with John Kasich's Congressional Aide about the congressman's current role in the U.S. House. It was a wonderful experience."

I also participated in a summer program that proved to be one of the best experiences of my entire life. I was able to spend one week in Santa Barbara, California, at the Economics for Leaders conference with thirty other high school seniors from all over the nation. Spending an entire week in a place as beautiful as Santa Barbara with such amazing people really brought out the best in me.

On the surface, summer educational and leadership conferences seem to conjure up one general feeling of "boredom," but in reality participating in these programs is a fantastic way to end the summer blahs and meet a plethora of new friends outside of Worthington. For some of those students who were "doomed" to spend summer break in Central Ohio, the beginning of school was almost a blessing, an escape from seemingly eternal boredom. Senior Tom Bensen was less than thrilled about how he spent his vacation. "It was so long. I really didn't do much at all except sleep and lift." At least he was relaxed. Isn't that the purpose of summer break after all?

By Amy Calhoon

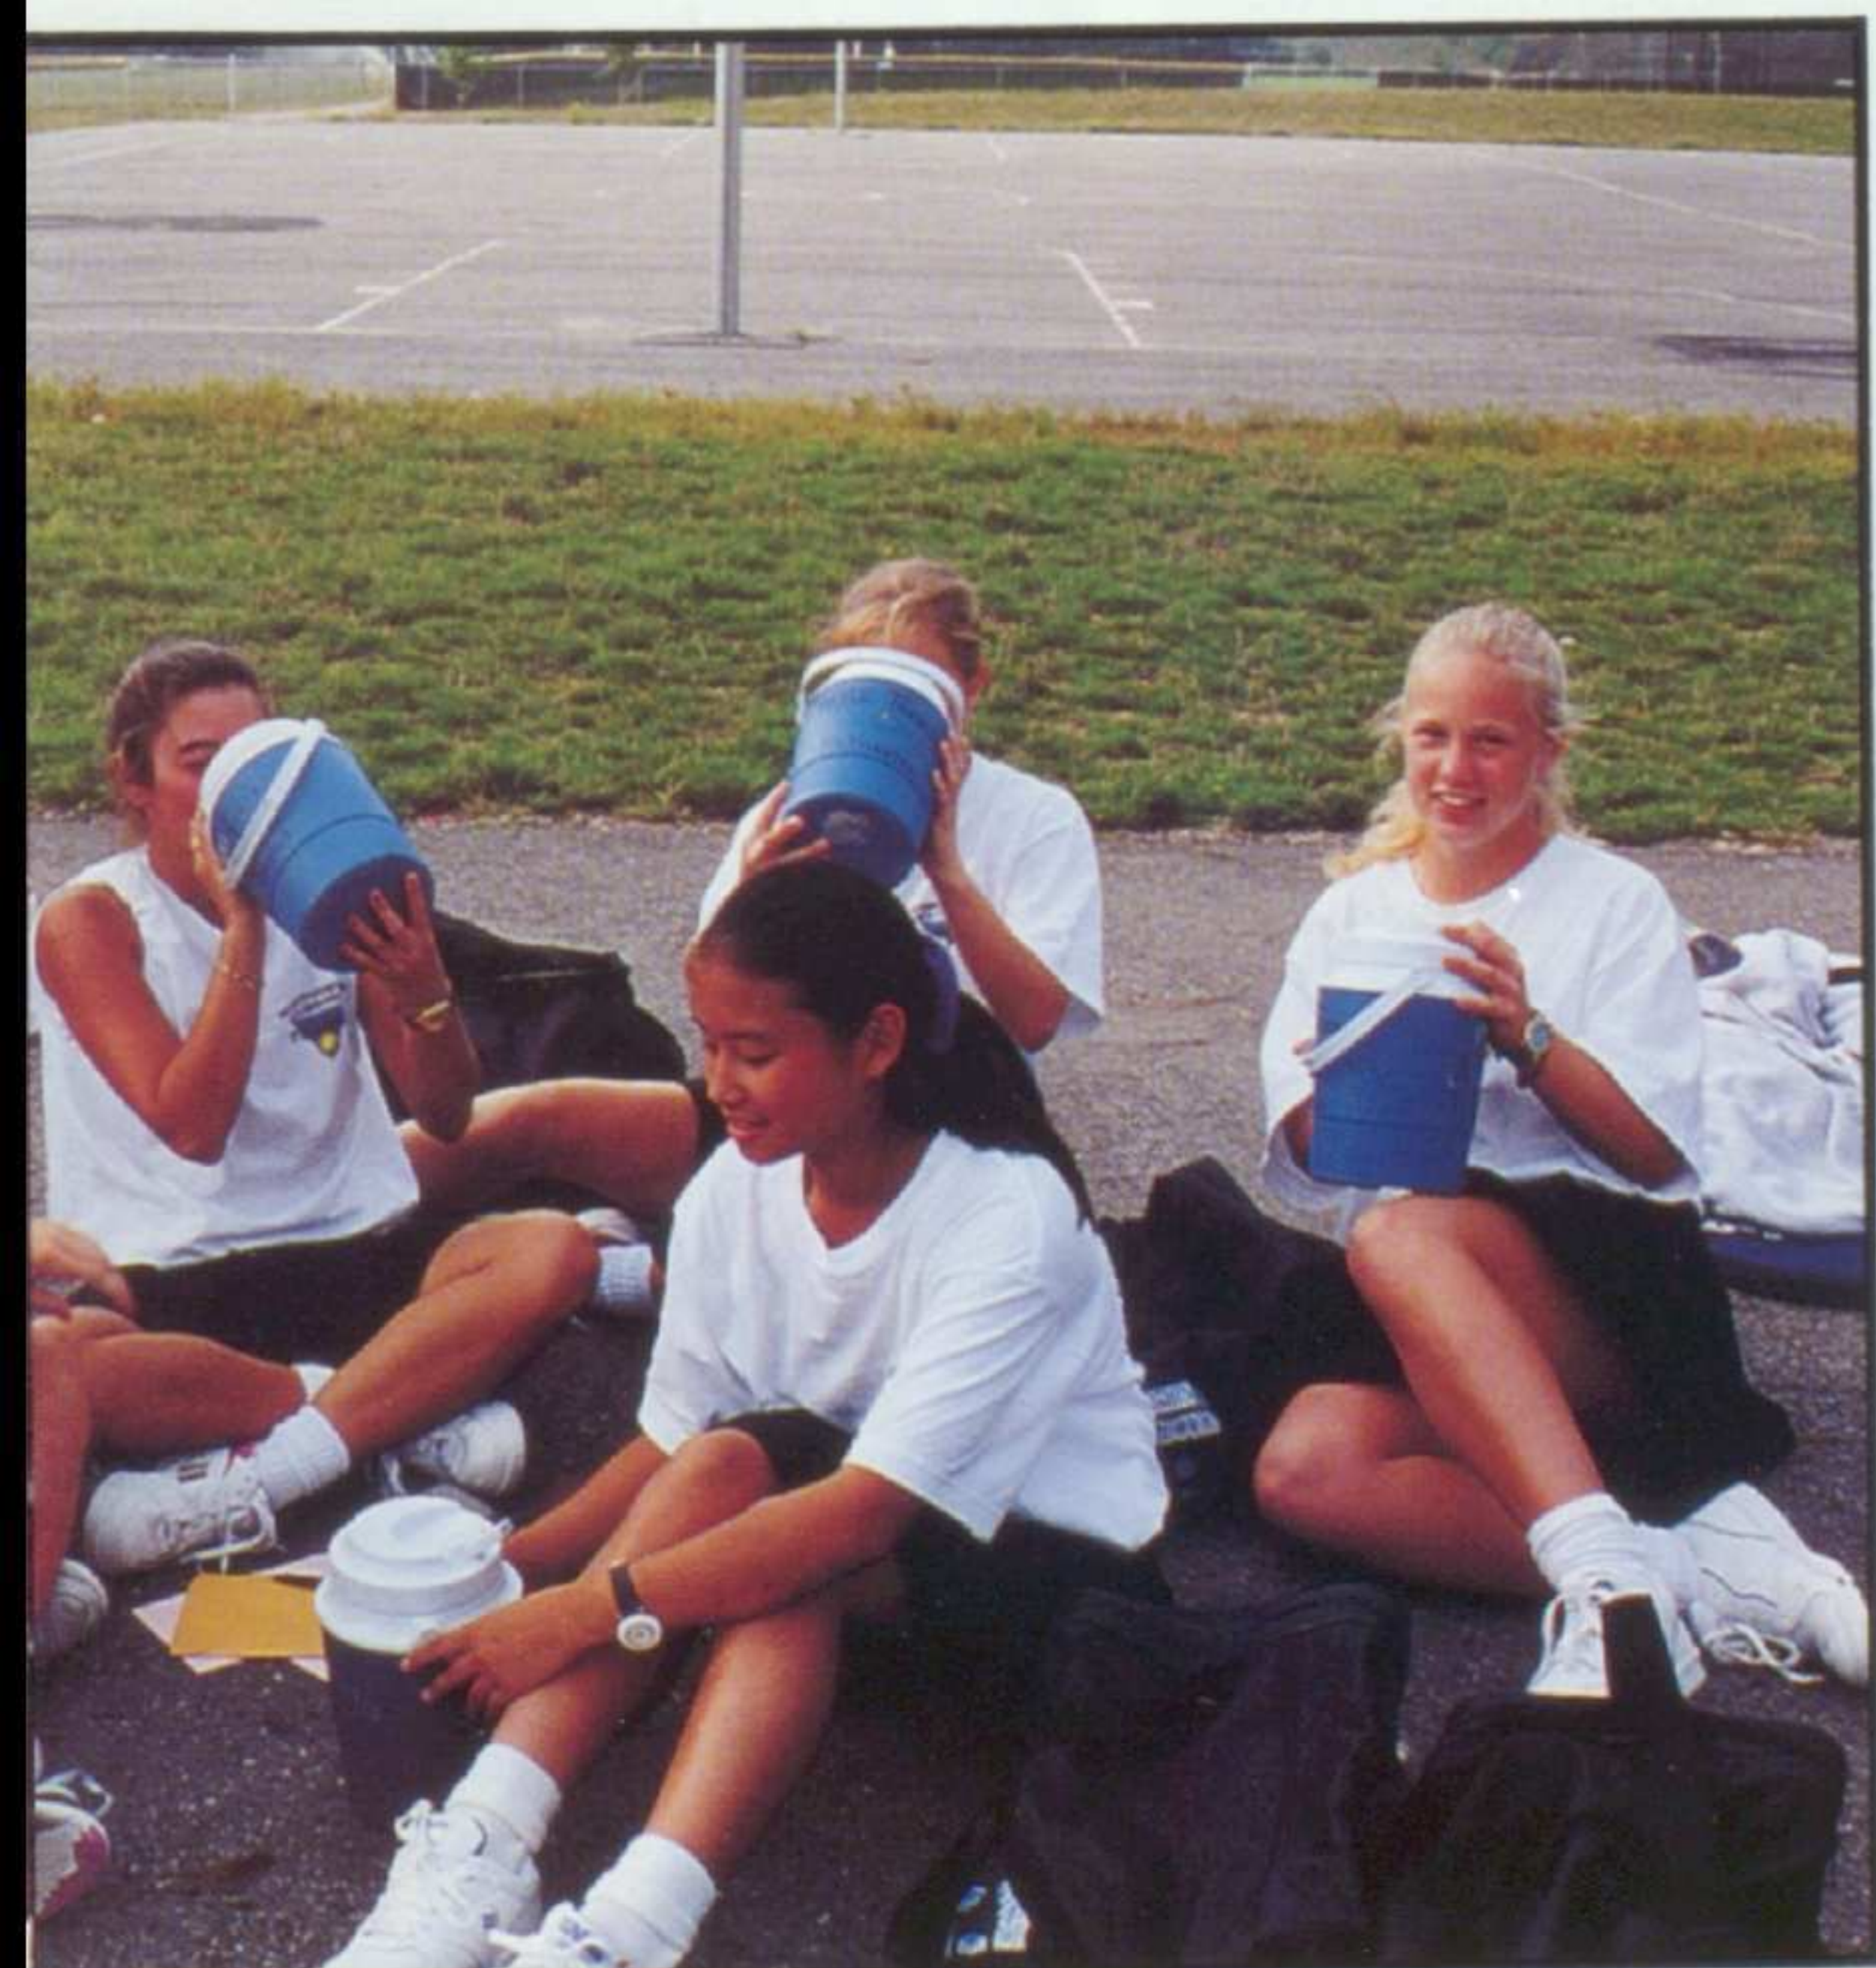

Auditioning for "MTV Sports" wasn't as hard as Chip Franz thought it would be. Even Dan Cortese himself couldn't test his nerve.

Just Chillin' out in the Rockies is senior Martin Lamp with the rest of the Worthington Field Studies group. What's with the gloves? It seems too cold to be summer.

These "Show-Stoppers" aren't afraid to strut their stuff in front of the bumper-to-bumper traffic on Hard Road.

What a way to start the day. These field hockey players must be super dedicated to their sport. What else could have gotten them out of bed at 7:00 a.m. during summer break?

The dog days of summer really take their toll on Wolves tennis players Lynn Markowsky, Sophia Yang, Monica Nemecek, Katherine Joseph, and Teresa Chandler.

"You've got to vote in favor of Issue 43, you've just got to!" pleads senior Kelly Curtis of teacher Niki Smith.

After a hard day's work of convincing voters of what is right for the community, members of Students for the Levy take a break to pose for a group picture.

Unaware of the Republican take-over soon to occur, Angela Bookwalter exercises her right to vote.

Stopping traffic with their lovely curbside manner are Jessica Bair, Meredith Suffron, and Erin Macrae.

She may appear serious, but from the look on her face one can tell senior Megan Harrison derives great pleasure from signing her name in the registrar book.

ISSUE 43

Kilbourne students pitch in to help pass the '94 operating levy.

As election day '94 dawned, an important question faced Worthington voters and their schools: would they pass Issue 43, Worthington School Board's $6.4 million operating levy. The need for this levy arose as the district opened a fourth middle school and stretched the '91 levy for an extra year. Extending money intended for three years to four created large budget problems for the schools. To reduce costs, the Board negotiated a new teacher contract as class sizes grew and academic and co-curricular fees increased. In the fall, the district took an additional step by handing seventy-five teachers Reduction-In-Force notices which reclassified them as permanent substitutes. If the levy passed, the teachers would be re-hired, but if it failed, the teachers' contracts would be terminated as of Oct. 11. Not only were the jobs of these teachers at stake, but also the excellence of our Worthington education. "If it hadn't passed, Kilbourne would have lost the experience of a lot of great teachers," commented sophomore Kathy Sawyer. It is the teachers who make this school district so highly rated, and if they were gone, much of the strength of Worthington would disappear with them.

Many students noticed the problem and decided to help by campaigning for a "yes" vote for Issue 43. Led by Kilbourne's Senior Class President Katherine Joseph and Thomas' Student Council President Mason Tootell, students from both Worthington high schools banded together to help pass the levy. "Everything we did was in hopes of persuading the community to feel as strongly as we did and support the levy," answered Katherine Joseph. "It was important for the levy to be passed so that Worthington could keep up their high standards of a quality education," added fellow organizer Sarah Thompson.

Dressed as pro-levy signs, Students for the Levy made their first great impact on Halloween Night. Instead of collecting candy, the students distributed pamphlets stating the importance of the levy. "We got very good feedback from this project. Most of the people we visited were glad to see students involved in their schools. It showed them how important the passage of the levy is for us," stated senior Anu Chauhan. They continued their support on Nov. 7 when they held a pro-levy rally on the Worthington Green. Holding glow sticks and "VOTE FOR 43" signs in their hands, the students reminded motorists to do their job the next day in order to keep their children's futures bright.

The students' campaign paid off, for the levy was passed by 52.36% of Worthington voters. Though many people minded the tax increase, some felt that it was definitely worth it. Senior Jes Sines said, "I'm glad the levy passed because I was worried about my little brother and sister not getting the education they deserve." Worthington can now effectively continue its tradition of excellence. As the sun set on November 8, 1994, Worthington was once again financially secure, at least until 1998.

JOBS

Kilbourne students learn to balance their lives through work experience.

Money. Everyone needs it, but how do teenagers obtain it? This is a question that faces the majority of high school students. In an attempt to find an answer many Kilbourne students have searched for jobs, something that almost all of us have experienced in our lives at least once, maybe more!

Experimenting with different jobs can help young people decide what we want to do in life. In searching for a future, we gain valued experiences from different jobs. Living in the Worthington/Columbus area provides employment opportunities at places like Kroger, Chuck E. Cheese's, The Hill's Market, Dalt's, Leaps'N'Bounds, and Galyan's, to name just a few. Through working, we learn hands-on what types of jobs we enjoy or don't enjoy. Actually, those of us who work in various jobs throughout the years probably have a better chance finding an enjoyable career. Then again, some of us may have fewer jobs because we found something that we enjoy early in our working experience.

Jobs also teach responsibility. Taking on a job helps students organize priorities. The hectic schedules that result from the combination of work, school, and extra-curricular activities force us to prioritize the events in our lives. Without this organization, we suffer undue stress (as if there wasn't enough on us already!).

Work is also the best, but not necessarily the easiest, way to make money for spending or saving. The easiest way, of course, is to mooch off our parents forever. Unfortunately, they are not willing to fund all of our basic entertainment desires. This is probably the most common reason for students to have jobs, other than being forced into the work force by their parents.

So what do the workers of Kilbourne have to say about all of this? "It's nice to have money, but I don't like to work sometimes," confesses senior Tom Tieu, whereas as Rachel Dick enjoys "meeting great people at work." Amy Calhoon says, "I don't mind working, but sometimes it conflicts with fun. I do get to see some of my friends when they come in though."

Kilbourne Wolves have a variety of jobs and mixed reactions to working, but we gain plenty of experience and experiment enough to learn a little more about survival in the "real world." We can never learn the skills obtained from working within a classroom environment. To fully comprehend the issues that occur in the real world, we must experience them hands-on. Who's to say what Kilbourne students will accomplish in the future? Let's just hope the real world is ready for us!!

By Nikki Brewer

Senior Jessi Tisdale boasts that "Kids'R'Us is the best place to buy Power Ranger clothing." If anyone is interested, I'm sure she can help.

"Say Chuck E. Cheese!" Star Cave, JoAnne Poulton and Biz Ryba prove that this is the perfect place "where a kid can be a kid."

By the look on Wendy Flaig's face, we wonder what is really in those Peanut Buster Parfait's!

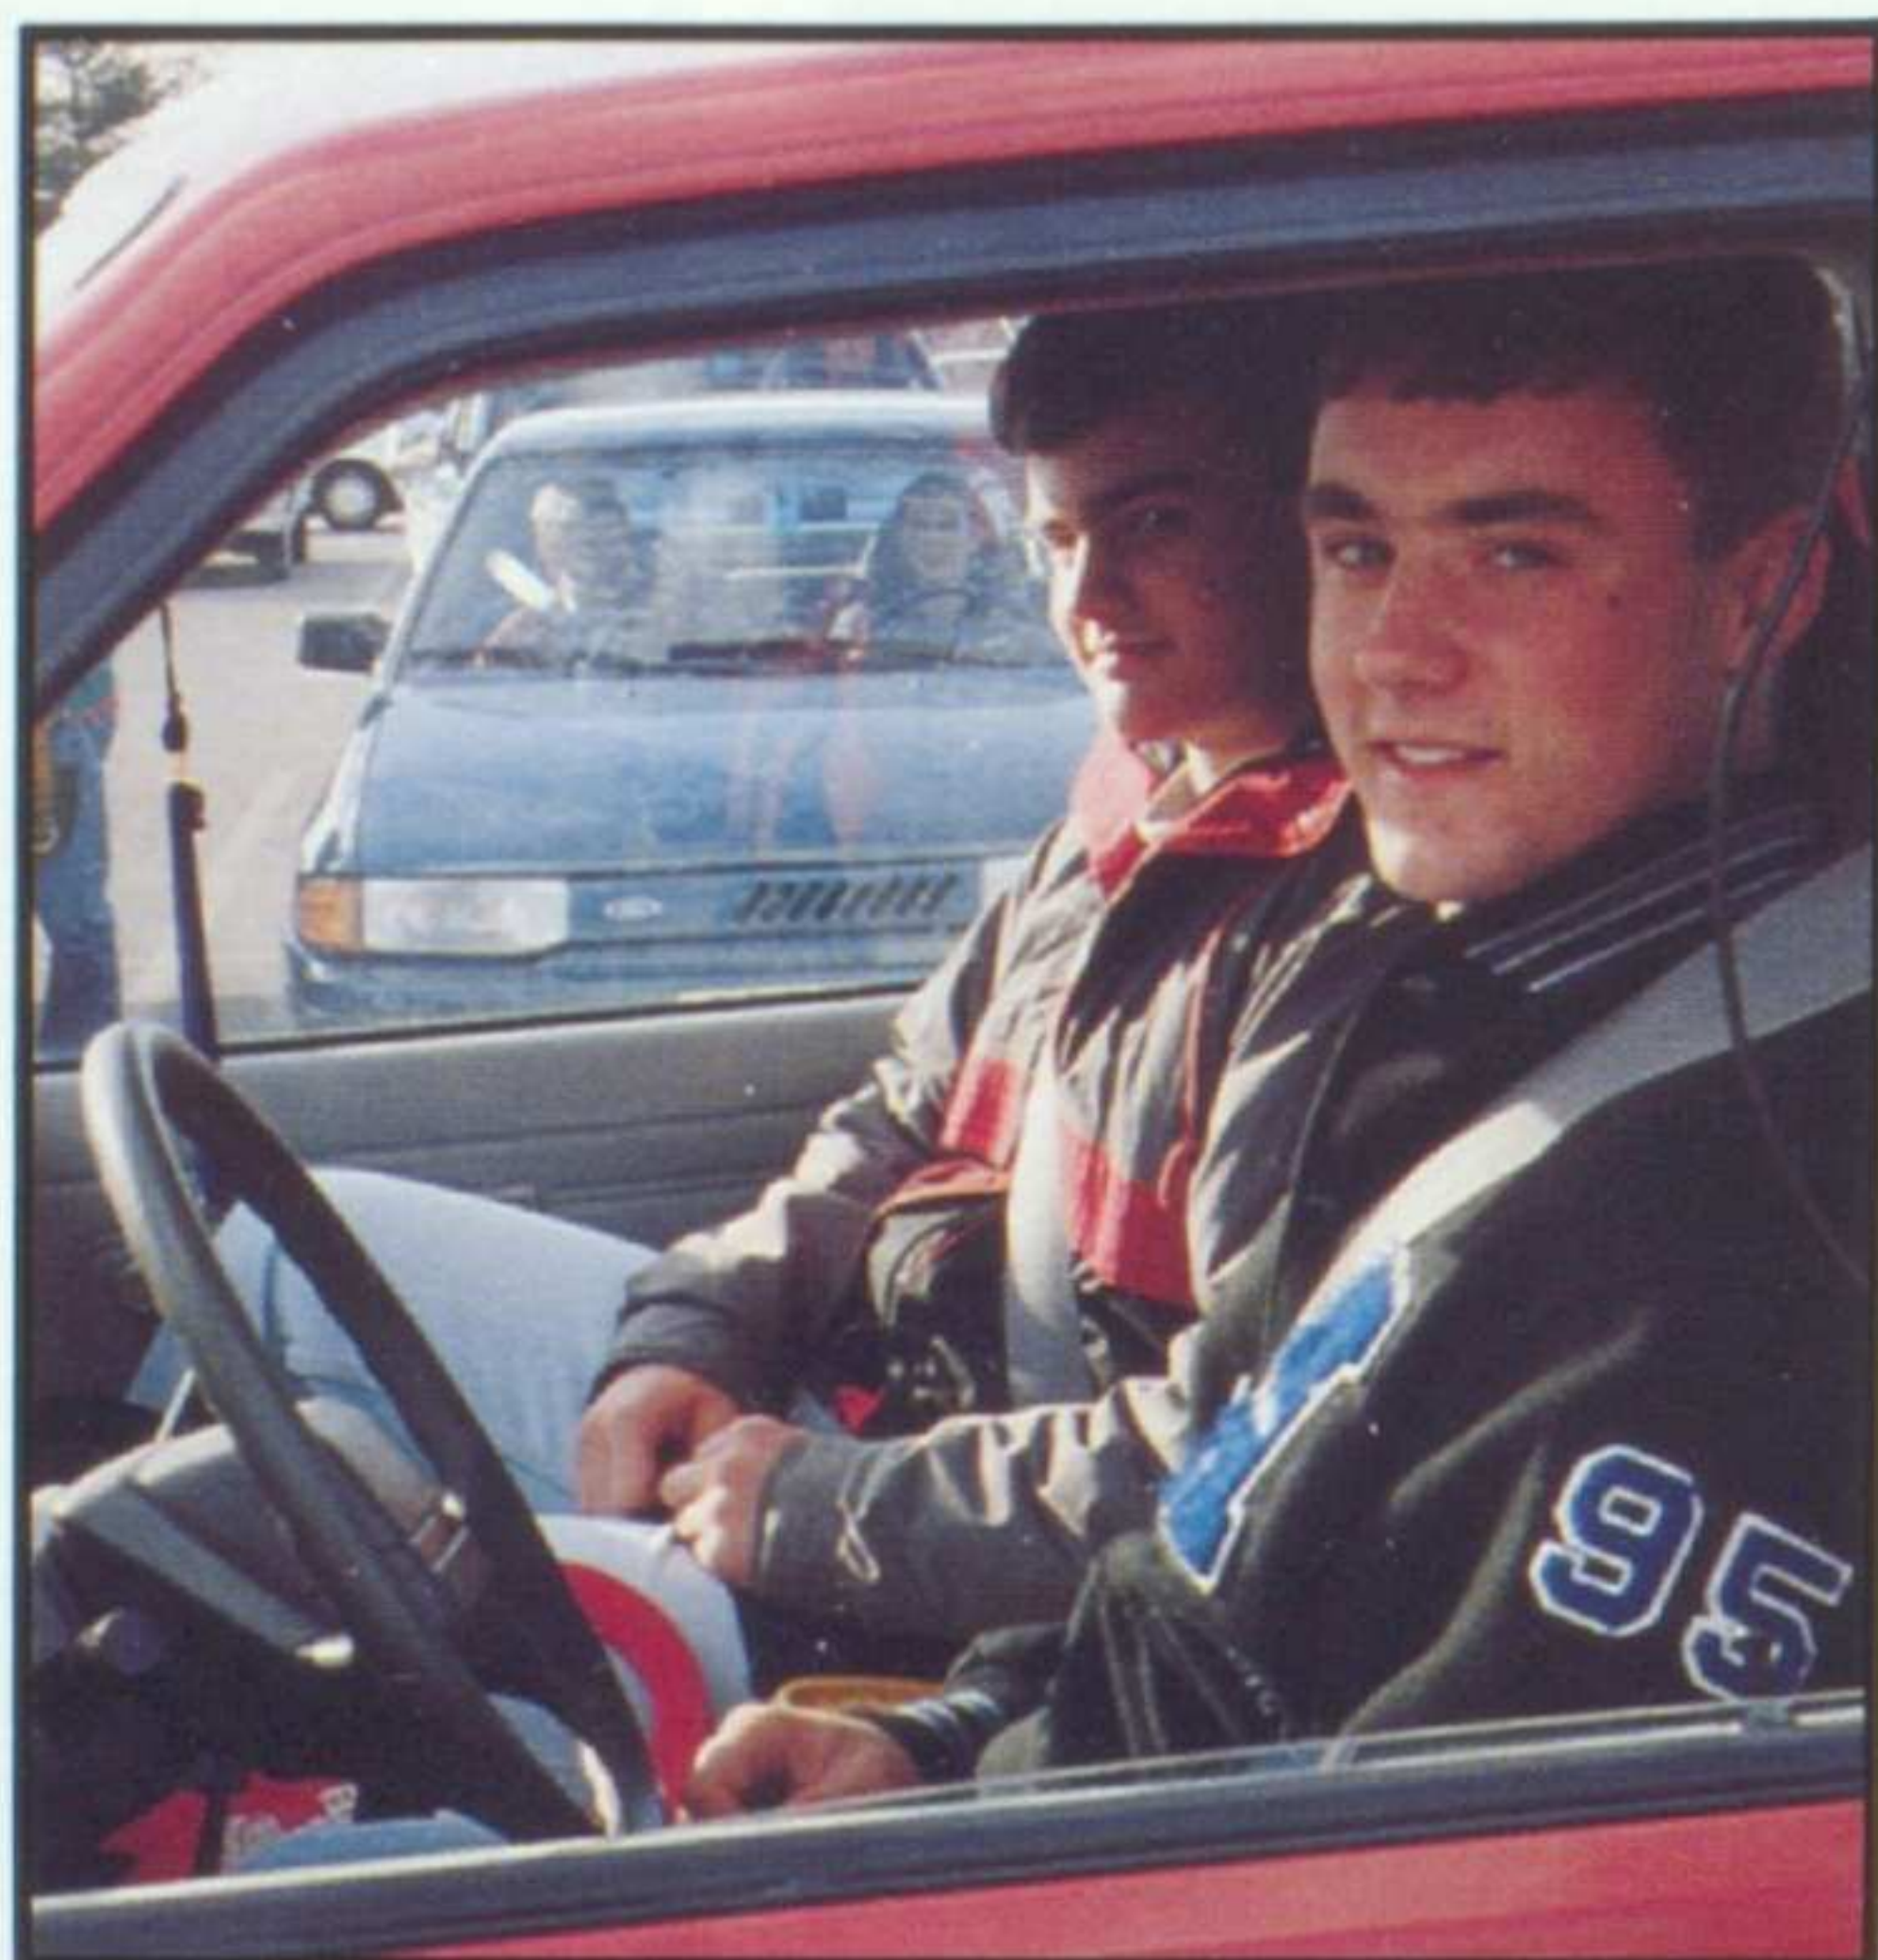

Just For Feet employee Sara Davda loves her job because she can watch the hot guys play basketball.

"Clean-up in theater 7," reports Scott Gabel as Grant Kibbey, Jon Stevens, and Christine McGarvey pretend not to hear.

"I'm the mac," exclaims Don Stickel in his big red truck, but little brother Keith knows better.

"Fixed her up myself," boasts senior Matt Pritchard of his monster truck.

"What are you looking at?" asks Alex Jacobs sporting his gloves which compliment the interior of his car.

"I don't let the sun bother me. My smile shines much brighter," says Michelle Bosak, looking proud of her car.

"It's a little chilly out here," says Peter Wilson who is wondering if it might be warmer in his trunk!

CARS

Kilbourne students show their auto savvy in the school parking lot.

Weekday mornings are the same everywhere: all roads are filled with cars. People rush to various places; more than likely, they are late because they didn't plan ahead for traffic time. And where else would be a more perfect example than Kilbourne's own Hard Road at 7:30 A.M.? Miles of cars, jammed bumper to bumper, line the street sometimes made worse by the occasional train. These cars come from all directions and the majority of them turn into the parking lot of Worthington Kilbourne High School, while the frustrated, working adults are glad to have the students out of their way.

Upon entering our esteemed school parking lot, everyone is waved in by Buzz. The variety of cars parked here is an odd one; anything from a VW Bug to a Dodge Stealth can be found, although Sue Chang notes that "every other car in the parking lot is a jeep". Many people say we're a spoiled bunch of kids, but what's the reality? Some of us are and others are not. The number of older cars compared to newer models is about the same. Outsiders just prefer to focus on the newer cars. The truth is, some of the students are actually paying for those cars that many assume are given to them. Then again, some are lucky to receive nice, new cars obligation-free from their parents. Contrary to popular belief, it's usually hard to tell Kilbourne students' personalities by what kind of cars they drive. Senior Anjali Goel says, "Although my parents gave me my car, it's not a new '95. I'm definitely not spoiled."

So what are the other issues facing Kilbourne drivers? The underclassman are more than likely afraid to enter the parking lot since they've seen the way some of the upperclassman drive, but some do not have to worry about this because they are driven around by their older siblings whose parents have forced them to become chauffeurs. The number of tickets being handed out by Buzz this year seem to be increasing. Maybe it's because of the extreme slowness of the red light marking the exit that everyone is so anxious to go through. Or it could be the heard complaints by the underclass that the senior lot is too large, so they decide to park there anyway even though the seniors can't find a parking space after 7/8 lunch.

All of these facts combined prove for an interesting time here in the parking lot of WKHS. As the bell sounds through the halls of Kilbourne at 3:00 P.M., another crowd forms. Junior Nina Jaleeli agrees that "the worst time to leave the parking lot is at 3:00 when there is a train." Once again traffic becomes jammed in the parking lot, this time in a desperate attempt to escape for the day, while classmates are left behind to practice. This leaves only one piece of advice to those juniors who are already tired of the crowds: opt for early release.

RELATIONS

Kilbourne students experience great hormonal confusion.

"Lean on me when you're not strong, and I'll be your friend, I'll help you carry on."

*- "Lean On Me"

Many experts claim that the teenage years are one of the most confusing times in a human life. What do these so-called experts know anyway? Even though the researchers who conduct studies on human behavior are middle-aged yuppies who have no idea about what is occurring in the lives of adolescents today, they do have one good point. Relationships between members of the opposite sex (or same sex, as is becoming more apparent in today's society), family members, and just plain old friends can make anyone's head spin, but teenagers seem to get the worst of it.

Part of the reason we have such a hard time in our relationships is because our relations are constantly changing, especially with dating. In high school most couples are very short-lived. The majority of teens just aren't ready to make a commitment of any kind. For one thing we aren't mature enough, and for another we're too young to be tied to only one person. However, some people do manage to find that right somebody in high school. Junior Angela Fracasso confesses, "I never thought I'd have a boyfriend while I was in high school. This past year with Anthony has been the best." Though senior Nikki Brewer is involved in a long-distance relationship, she still feels that "Brian is my best friend. We'll be together for a long, long time."

Through our ups-and-downs with boyfriends and girlfriends, we always have our friends to turn to. Right? Well, that's correct in some respects, but not in others. True, our friends should be there for us when we need them (otherwise they aren't truly our friends), but if we look back on our lives up-to-date, we can see that our friends have changed a lot. How many people can actually say their group of friends has remained the same throughout their entire high school careers? That's what I thought. Not very many. People who don't have the same classes or extra-curricular activities tend to lose touch with one another, and new friends step in. As senior Fong Lee philosophizes, "Friends come and friends go. It all depends on who you see the most."

One thing that friends can always sympathize with, though, are parents. There, I said it - the dreaded word - parents. Teens are an enigma to most adults. In their thirties and forties, parents with teenage kids have trouble remembering what their own childhoods were like, and thus, they place many unfair restrictions on their kids. "Parents never know what's going on. It's hilarious," comments junior Jennie Davis. Yet, no matter how much we think we hate our parents, they are always around when we need them. We've got to give them that much. I guess in fifty years, when we all have children of our own, we'll finally understand how difficult it is to be a parent. (Yeah, right!)

Forced to stand outside after the famous toilet paper fire of 1995, Matt Lindsay and Katie Lamp seek warmth in each other's arms.

By the smile on Erik Waltermire's face, we may think something "funny" is going on between him and Sheila Rupp; actually, they are nothing more than good friends.

Unable to part for even one moment, Sarah Van-Tassell shares a loving kiss with Tome Nielsen.

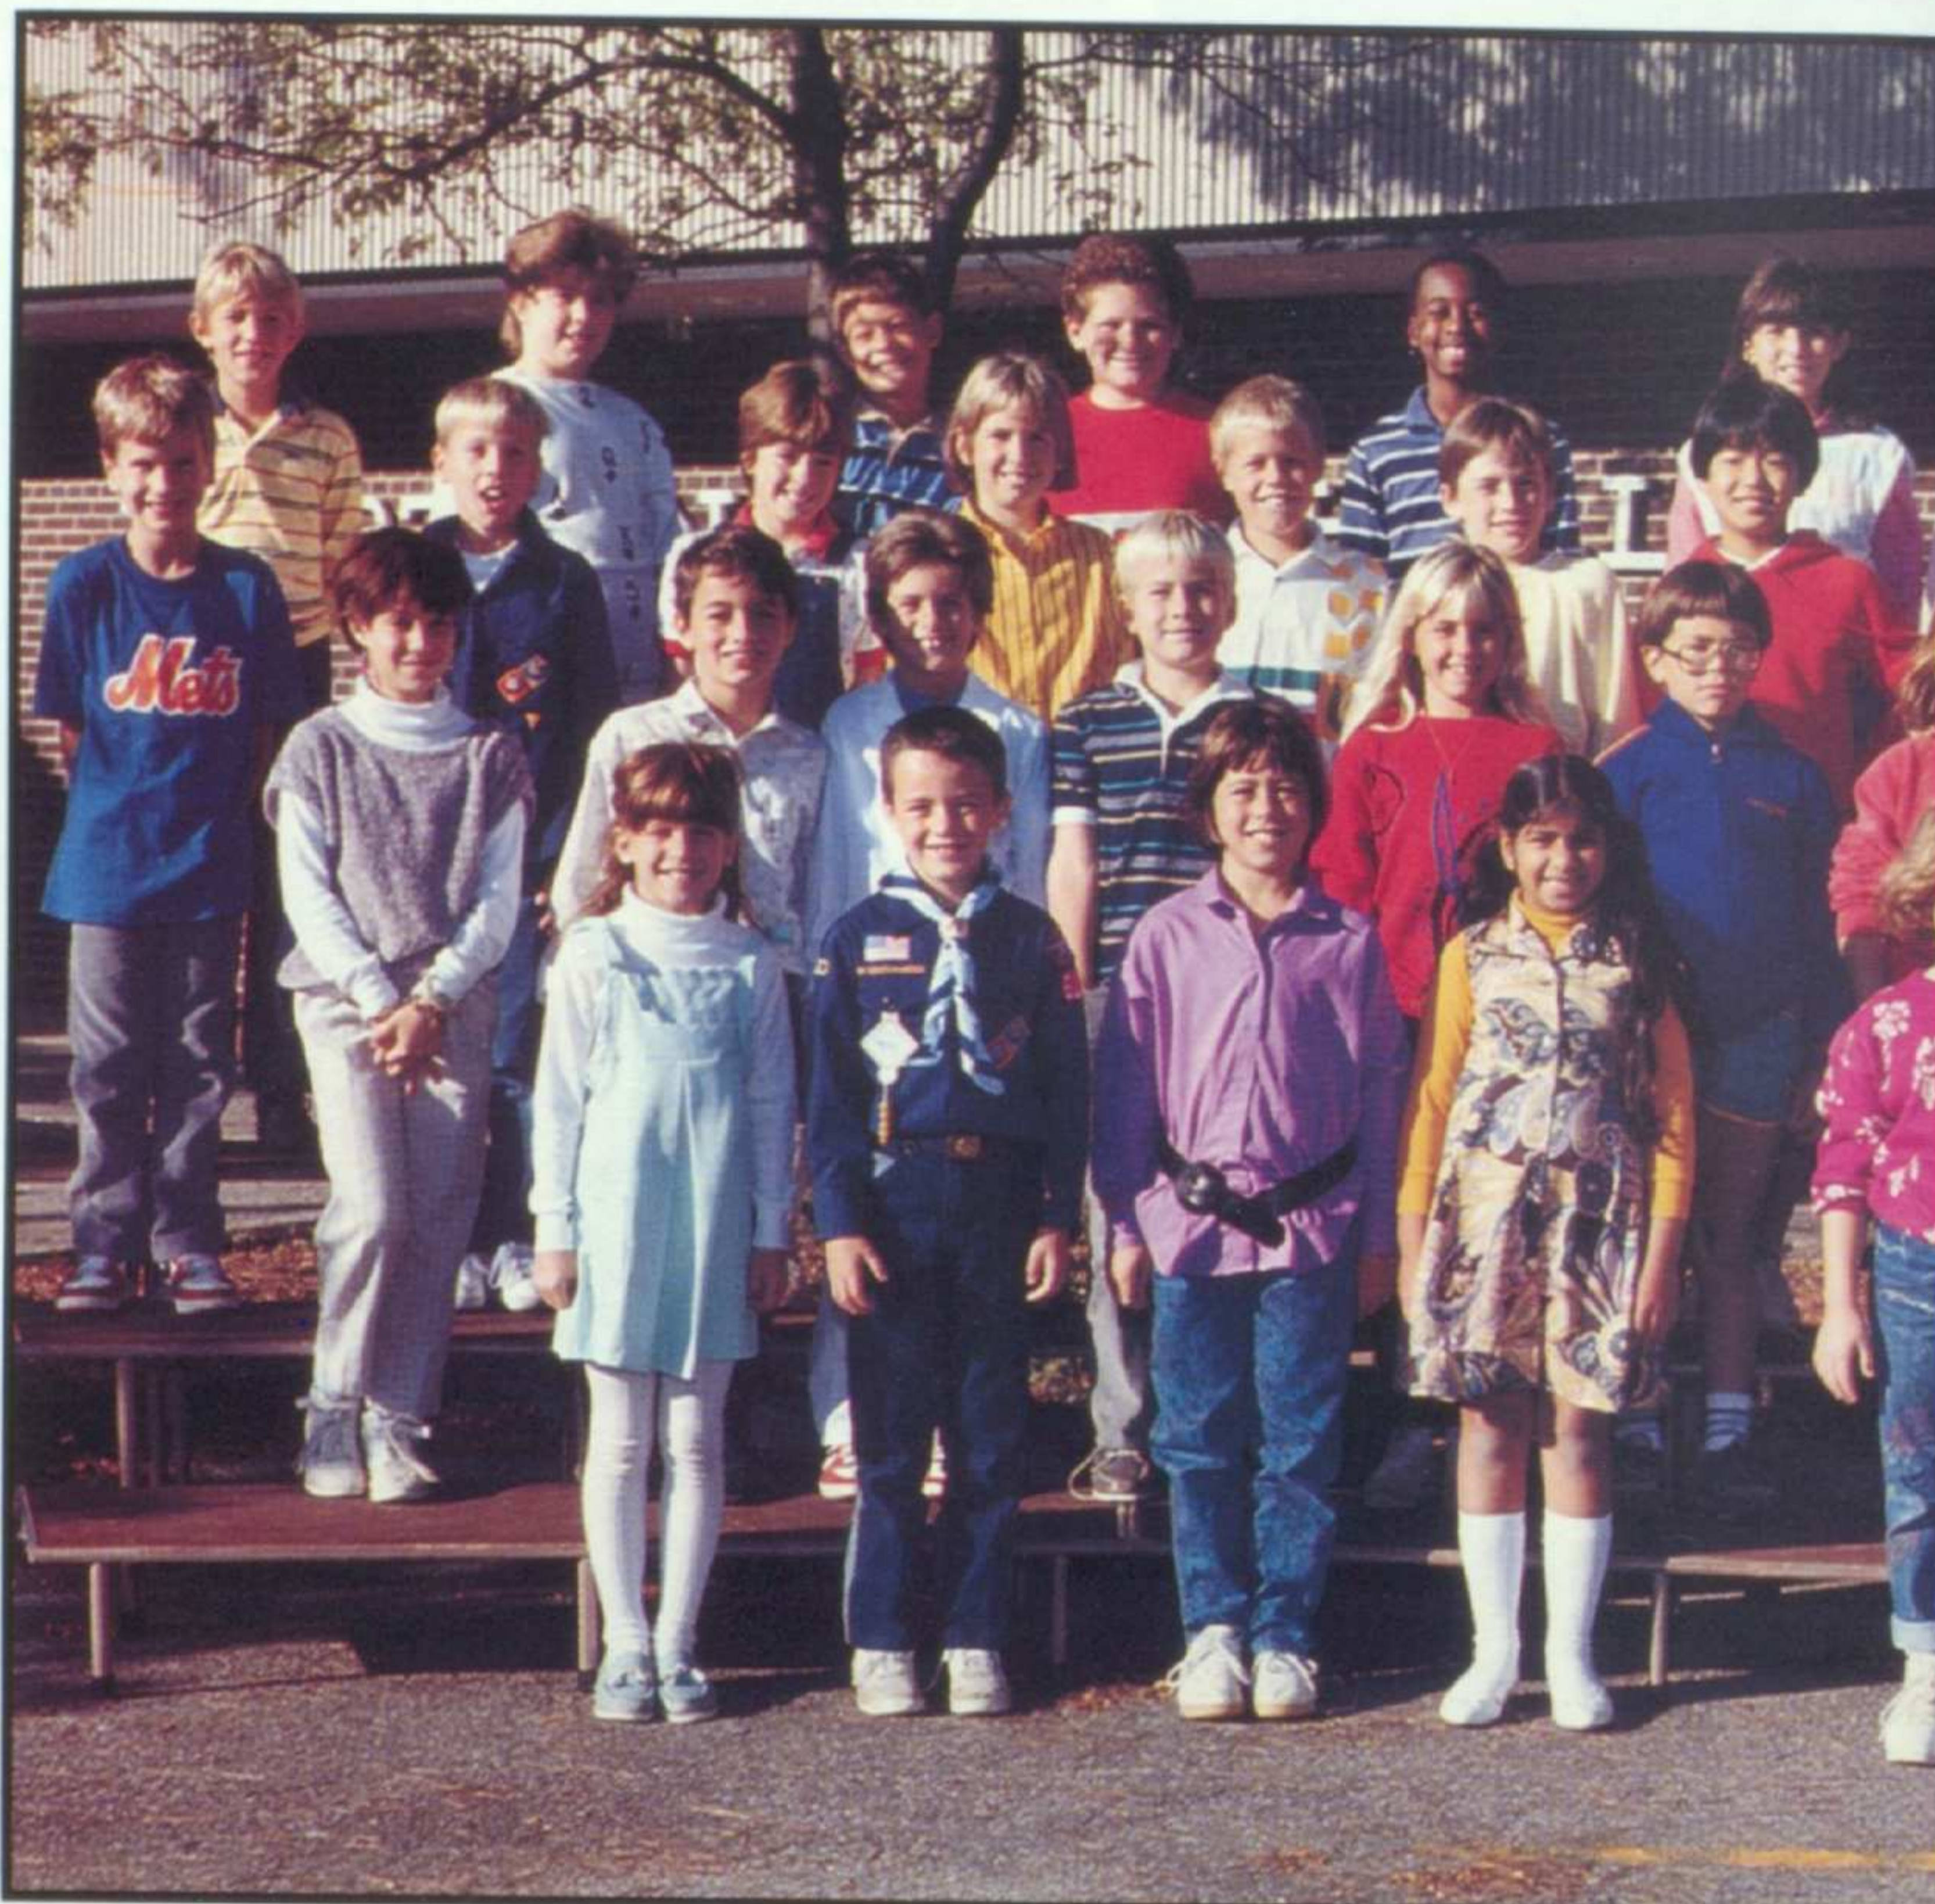

Unable to find a real date, Mike Cipkala enjoys the company of Luv-Luv, his inflatable girlfriend.

I guess that one would classify this as a possessive relationship: Henry Walker handcuffs classmate Allison Walker (obviously of no relation).

What happened to these little fourth graders at Worthington Hills? They USED to be so cute.....

He still has the little kid in him. Freshman Sean Edgell plays a game of football with his brother Danny and his sixth grade buddies.

She's always been a little on the crazy side. Dressed as a "Mad Scientist" for Halloween is Kelly Curtis.

TIMEOUT

Kilbourne students remember the days of recess, packed lunches, and 4-square.

The days have long since passed when homework constituted reading an article in Weekly Reader or writing a report about bugs. We were so small then. Remember how the bathroom stalls were so "our size?" Have you visited your local elementary school lately? It's an entirely new experience to be able to see over the top of the stall while sitting down. Sometime, somewhere, somehow we've managed to grow up so fast. But the memories of our innocent days in elementary school live on.

Things have definitely changed with age. Forget about ISS and after-school detentions. Back then, punishment was being sent to the famed time-out box or worse yet - getting written up in the BLACK BOOK!!! Relationships were so much easier too. When we "liked" someone, we decided the next step was to ask one of our friends to ask him/her to "go" with us, and then of course we'd move on to bigger and better things. . . "He put his ARM around you?!!!" And who could forget the little notes mommy would write on our lunch bags to let us know she cared and how she would smother us in hundreds of layers to protect us from the icy cold of winter. Just think how great it would be to have recess again. We took a lot of things for granted. High school seemed light years away.

And all of the fads that came and went throughout grade school: Forget today's POG? rage - we had Garbage Pail Kid Cards and jelly shoes/bracelets, Cyndi Lauper, The Goonies, punk-rock, leg warmers, Punky Brewster, Pogo-Bal, ZIPS, jams, Trapper Keepers, skate-or-die. It was totally like a rad time, dude. The 80's rocked.

When asked what their favorite memories of elementary school were, WKHS students had no trouble recalling their past. Senior Jes Sines could never forget the "Turf-Wars" she and her friends had over the monkey bars. "This kid back in Circleville still has a vendetta against me for a third grade fight." Senior Scott Schaeffer can't get over the time when he "threw a snowball at Kyle Lucas in second grade and got my name in the Black Book. I went home and cried." And then there were the classroom birthday parties. Sophomore Jay Cash joked, "It was so funny that whenever it was your birthday, you'd have to feed the entire class cupcakes." He may not be Bobby Brady-Safety Monitor, but Ken Coulter felt just as cool in grade school. "I remember thinking I was so rad because I was on Safety Patrol. Those fluorescent orange belts and flags were so fresh." And then there was the time when a certain student in Mr. Freece's fifth grade class surprised everyone when she peed her pants in rebellion at his refusal to grant her a restroom pass. Greg Sofra could never be president, not after the media got word of his days at Liberty Elementary. Michelle Martin recalls the time when "Greg mooned the entire class."

As the days carry on, heading toward the moment when we will all graduate and go our separate ways, we will be able to take with us the memories of what it was like bein' a kid.

GOODBYE

Kilbourne seniors take a nostalgic trip down memory lane.

Saying good-bye to something we've come to enjoy is difficult not only because we are being separated from good friends, but also because we are being forced to start over in a foreign environment. All of us can recall graduating from our safe-haven middle school four years ago, leaving behind the halls filled with pre-pubescent teenagers and entering the newly constructed Worthington Kilbourne. Ahhh, HIGH SCHOOL - so high up on the social ladder, the climax to all of our years in school.

Even though it was four years ago, we all remember how we felt as freshmen. "I was a lot more mature when I was a freshman," stated senior Kelly Curtis. We all seemed to be on time, and not only did we care about our appearances, but we were also concerned with our grades. So much for that. Once senioritis strikes, there is no turning back. Senior Lindsay Hart states it so succinctly: "Senior year: done nothing and proud of it."

Our attitude towards life is not the only thing that has changed though. Now dependent upon cars for transportation, our days of riding the big yellow twinkie are no more. Maybe this is the cause of our excessive tardiness? Well, that and now we are no longer waking up at 5:00 in the morning to try on our new designer outfits. Teachers can't complain of seniors being excessively late though. We do manage to save precious minutes by not using our lockers. For Noah Miller, his book bag is his locker, whereas fellow senior Kate Marsh takes the easy way out and "leaves everything in [her] car."

So how do some seniors think they have changed during their four years here in the "Wolf Den?" Chris Fish's one comment was "I grew." Martin Lamp's memories seemed right in line with Chris'. "I've developed new habits [hmm!], and now I can finally grow a beard." It's nice to see that four years of high school have taught us so much. At least Greg Sofra no longer uses his favorite freshman pick-up line, "My mom can drive us to the movies if your mom can pick us up."

Our high school days are almost over, but what do this year's freshmen expect of their senior year? Elizabeth Riddle thinks her "senior year will be easy," and Dana Dasta confidently assesses, "I'll finally be used to the school, and I'll know what to expect." Only time will tell what will happen to the Class of '98. As for us, we are all on to bigger and better things, but don't worry, we won't forget what this school has given to us (lots of laughs!).

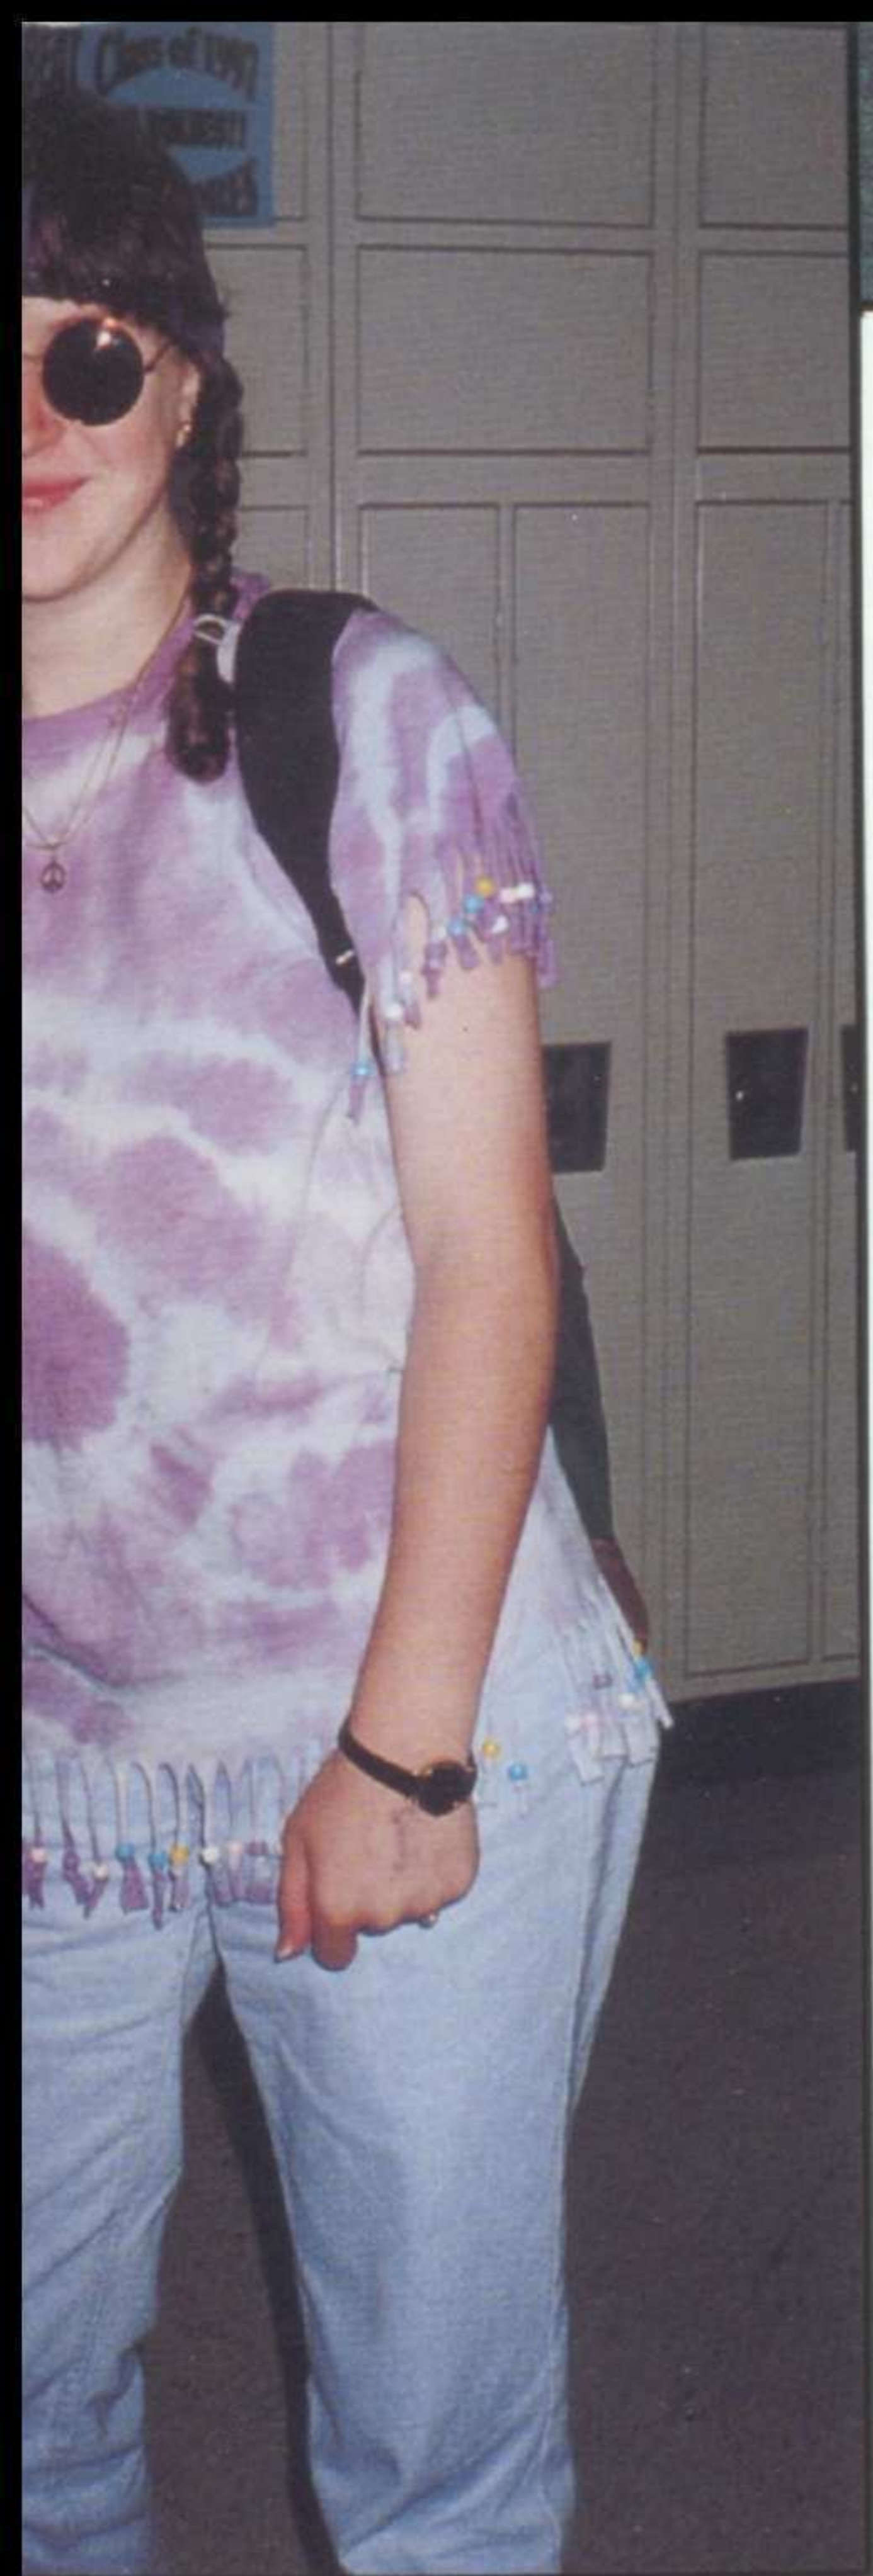

On behalf of the Class of 1995, we would like to wish this year's freshmen and all the freshman classes to follow lots of luck in surviving these next four years. You'll need it! Take care of our mall; we're outta here!

At the bonfire Donnie Stickel, Kelley Harris, Katherine Joseph, and Heather Noel use all of their strength to continue the tradition of seniors winning the tug-of-war.

Spirit Week '94

The Wolf Pack Prowls the Week to "Abuse the Bears"

As the door opened, vivid colors of royal blue and black greeted our eyes. Football jerseys, cheerleaders, and painted faces wandered the halls. This whole week had been eventful. On Monday, students came comfortably in their pajamas, and Tuesday brought teachers and students sporting their favorite hats. Then on Wednesday, everyone had a blast from the past with daisies, love, and peace. Thursday found students ready to "Abuse The Bears."

We all anticipated the bonfire on Wednesday evening for the announcement of the homecoming court. Students and staff enjoyed the festivities including the pumpkin toss, cross dressing, and the tug-of-war. Then President Scott Schaeffer announced the 1994 Homecoming Court.

Friday brought the Homecoming Assembly and the announcement of the Queen, Libby Kirsch. Then, for the second year, Scott awarded Katherine Joseph, Senior Class President, the Spirit Award. Some students have a different perception of the outcome of the class competitions. Junior Val Casteel complained, "We should have won the locker competition."

Homecoming Week was filled with laughter and smiles. For at least one week during the year, our school came together as one.

On Hippie Day, Julie Grey, Lynn Markowsky, and Amy Mawhinney display their daisies, braids, and tie-dyed shirts.

Introduced at halftime of the Upper Arlington Homecoming Game were the attendants, Gretchen Walcott (freshman), Erica Seabloom (sophomore), Erin Daugherty (junior), Queen Libby Kirsch, Kara Battin and Katherine Joseph (seniors).

Wonderful Tonight

Despite the Music Homecoming was a Success

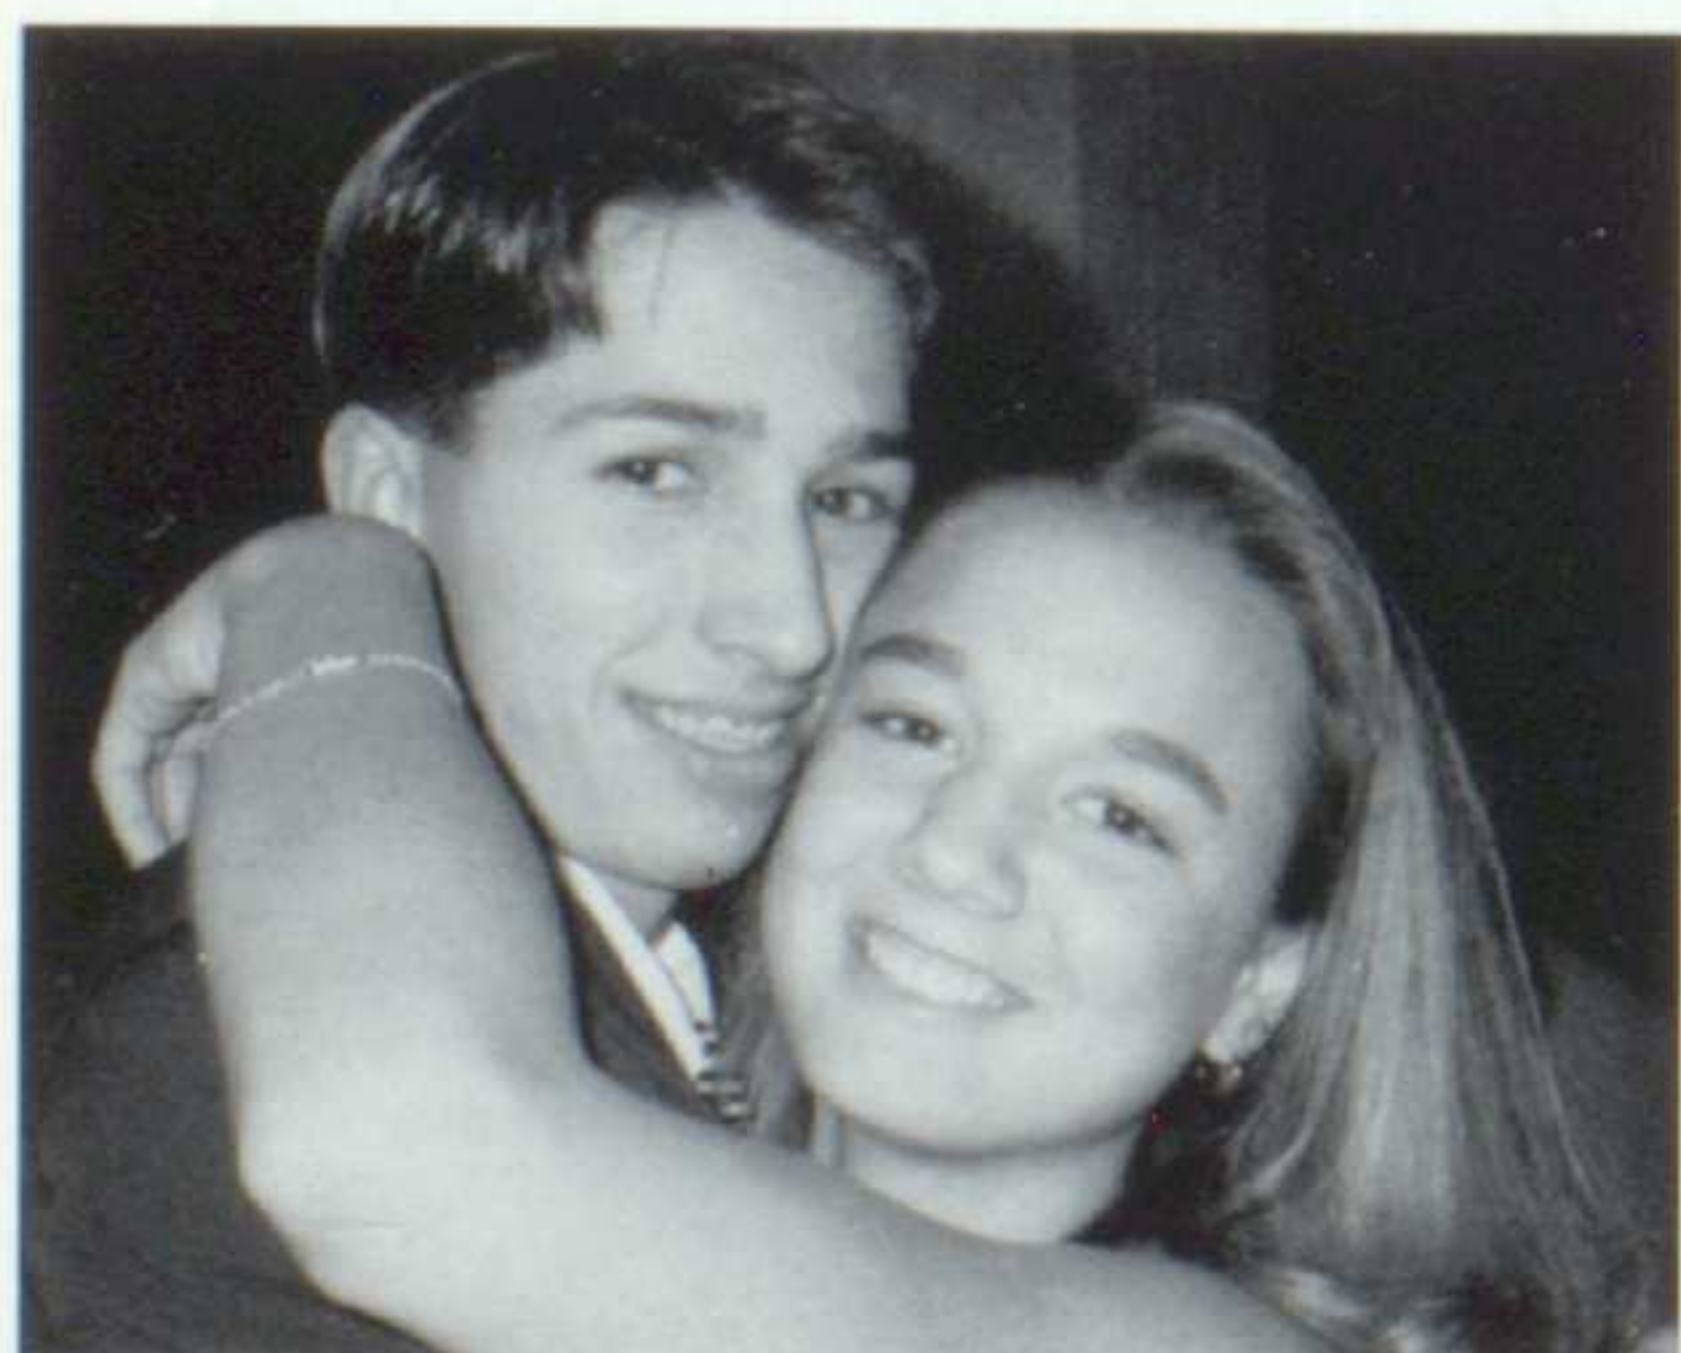

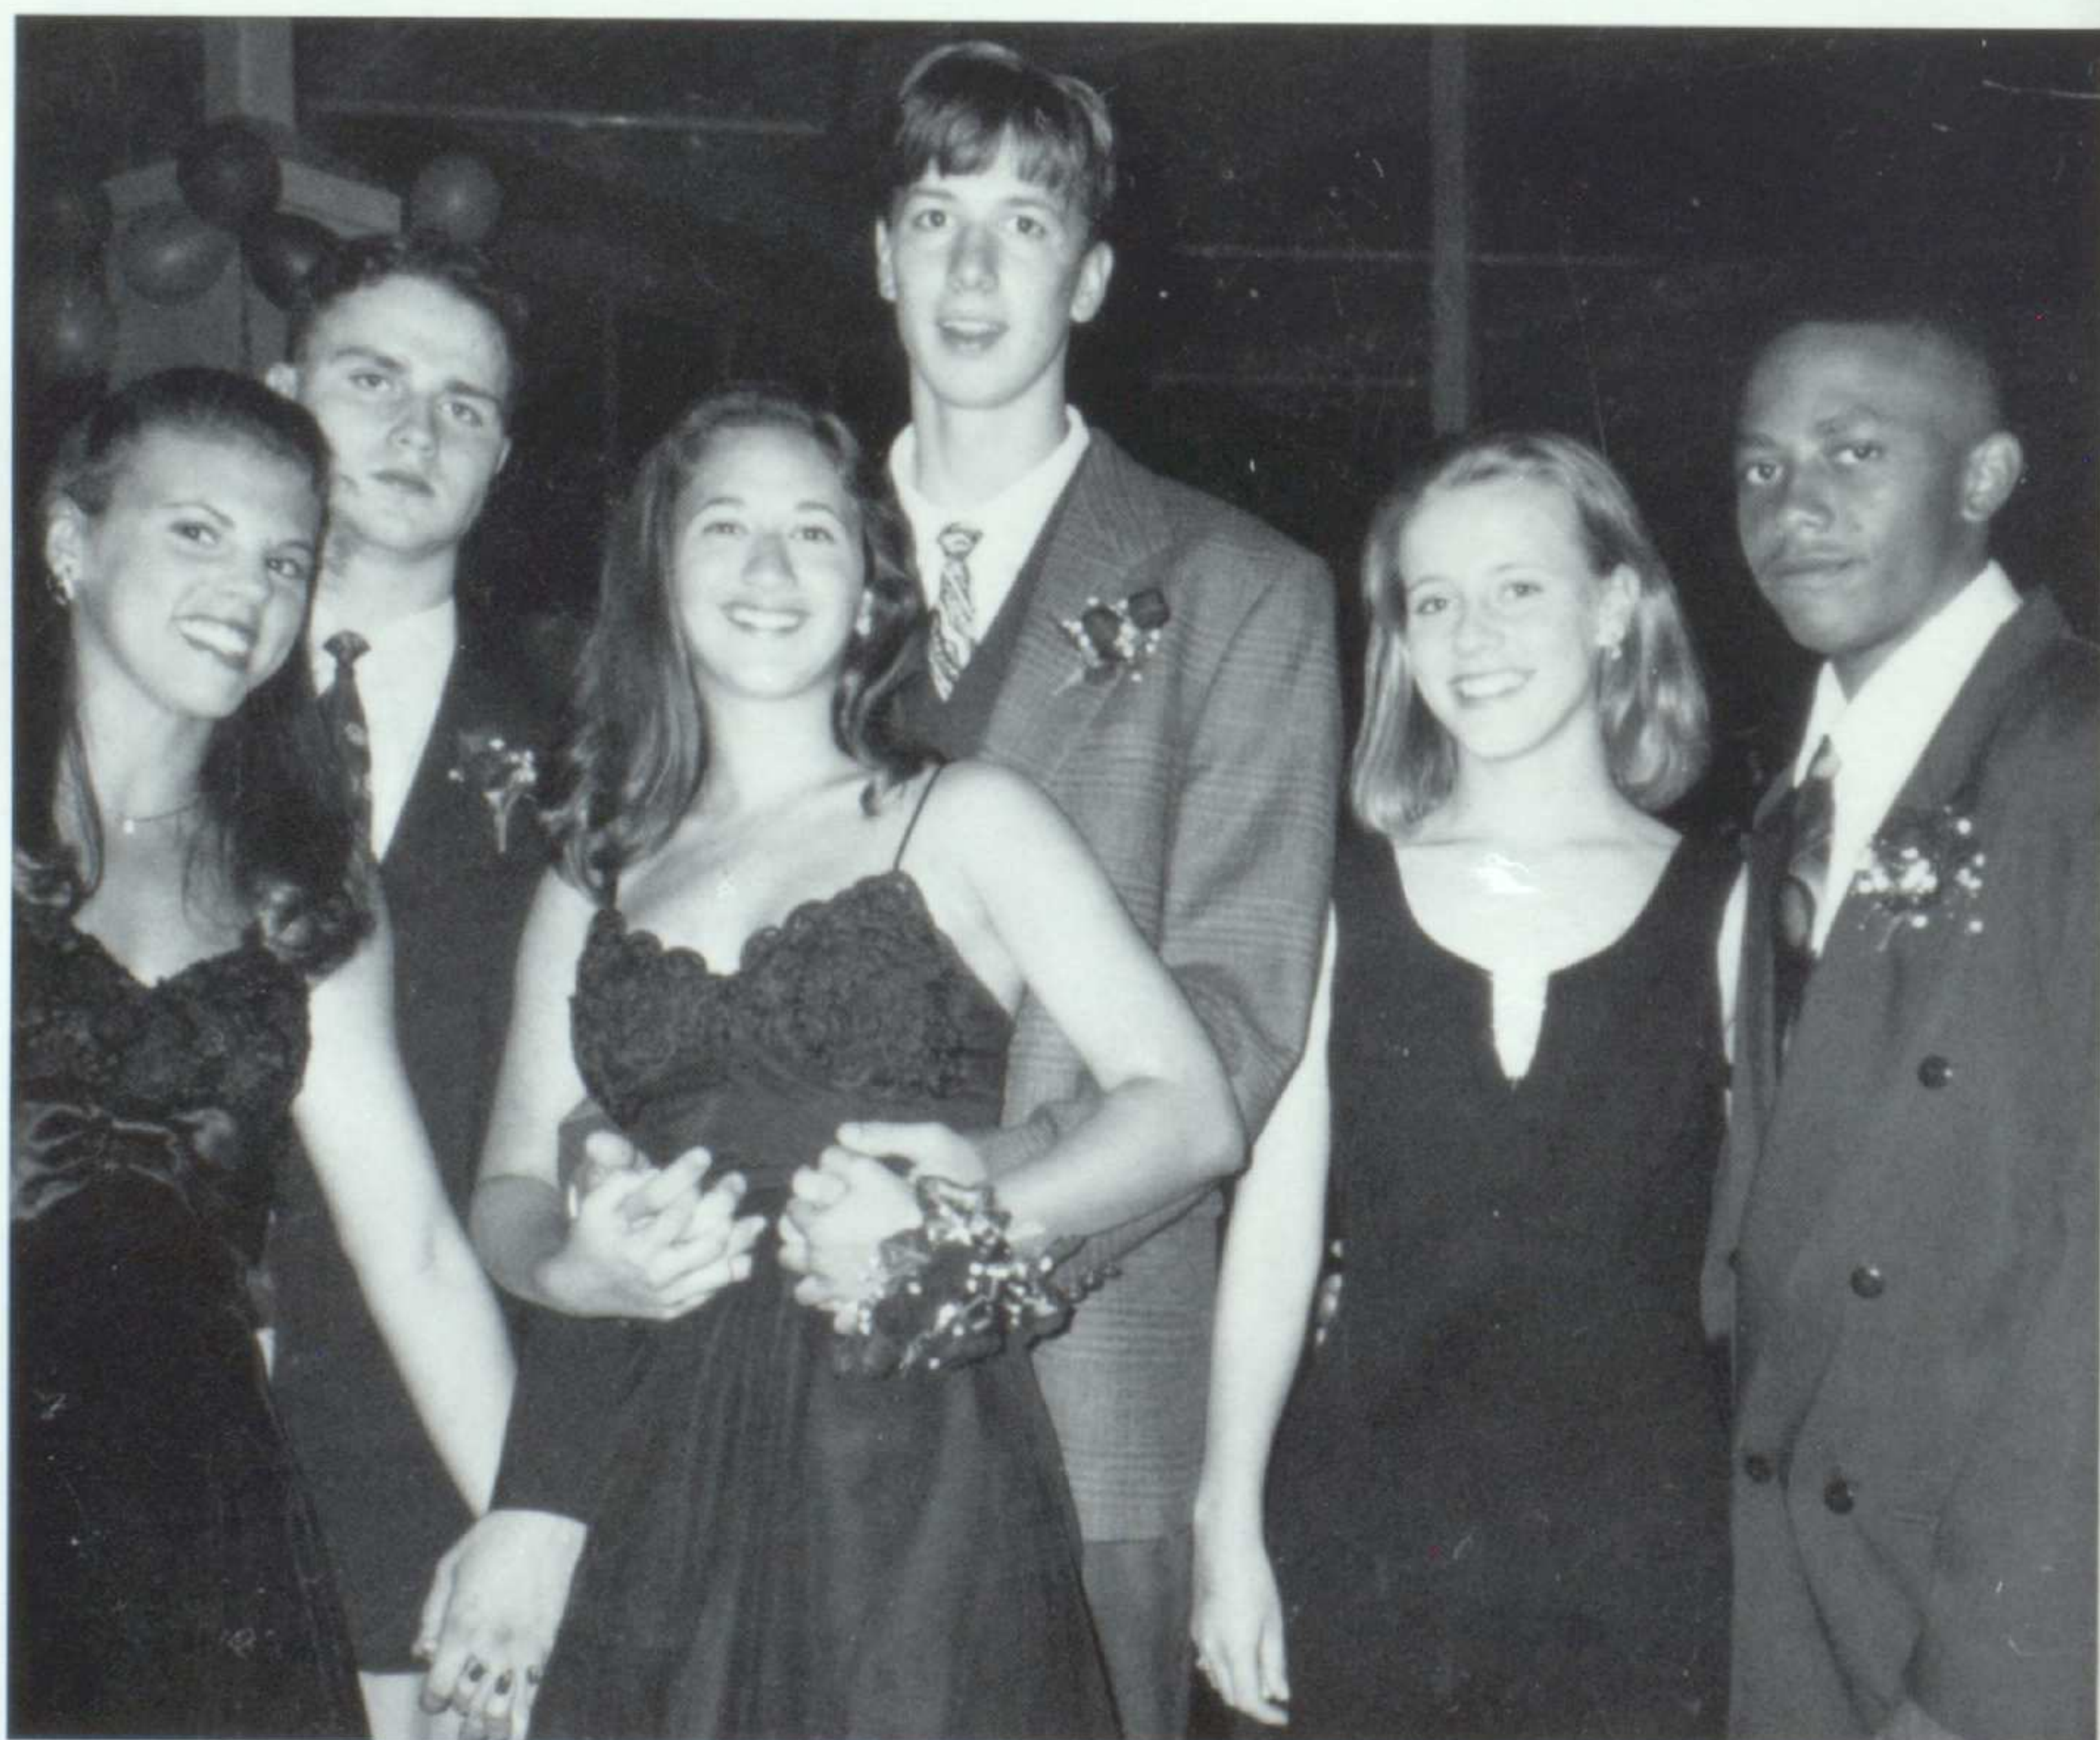

The '94 Homecoming Dance, held in the festive commons, was a great way to celebrate the success of spirit week. Eric Clapton's "Wonderful Tonight" fit perfectly as the theme for what was to be a great night.

Student Council did a terrific job of decorating for a night that students will never forget. Everyone who attended noticed the hard work and lengthy planning. The class-painted windows, balloons and confetti dressed up the commons for the special evening. Matt Capsel of MC Productions provided the music for the dance, but many students agreed that he could have chosen better songs to play. Sophomore Malana LeBlanc commented, "Homecoming was great! The music wasn't that good, but we had a lot of fun anyway."

Near the end of the night, Student Body President Scott Schaeffer introduced Queen Libby Kirsch along with the attendants, Katherine Joseph, Kara Battin, Erin Daugherty, Erica Seabloom and Gretchen Walcott.

All of the celebrating students at the dance seemed to have an excellent time. "It was the best dance I have ever been to!" exclaimed junior Karrie Donahue. This year's homecoming definitely turned out to be successful.

Jingle Jam Brings Out the Holiday Spirit

Music echoed throughout the commons for this year's dance, better known as the Kissing Fest. Dancing people, red and green balloons, and furry Santa hats greeted our eyes while kisses covered our red lips. Walking closer to the dance floor, we felt the mood the decorations had set. Of course, it was a fun-filled night.

Students enjoyed the slam dancing, but the faculty wasn't too fond of it. Jim Steinbeck commented, "Besides the lights that kept coming on because of slam dancing, it was a great way to bring in the holidays." Even though the weather outside didn't display any signs of Christmas, the Jingle Jam signaled it was right around the corner. Junior Amanda Koenigsknecht explained, "I always look forward to the dance because the break is on the way." As usual, the dance put everyone in a festive spirit. What a great way to close out the year!

By Alicia Kirk and Angela Fracasso

Blowing all the girls holiday kisses are Ryan Gutmore, John Mazurek and Tim Milligan.

The lipstick on Chad Sprecher's face is a sign that he has already enjoyed a holiday kiss. Dan Brooks smooches Kimar Morris while Brian Anderson looks on jealously.

As the holidays grow near, Jill Baker, Jami Smith, Lauren Jones, Jenny Hanwell, Julie Grey, Amy Mawhinney and Bethen Turano wonder if Santa Claus will be making a visit to their houses.

Enjoying their last Jingle Jam, Scott Schaeffer and Kate Marsh share a holiday hug.

"Who should we kiss next?" asks Danielle McCray of her friend Amy Cleland as they scan the crowd for potential recipients.

Nominees think of those less fortunate

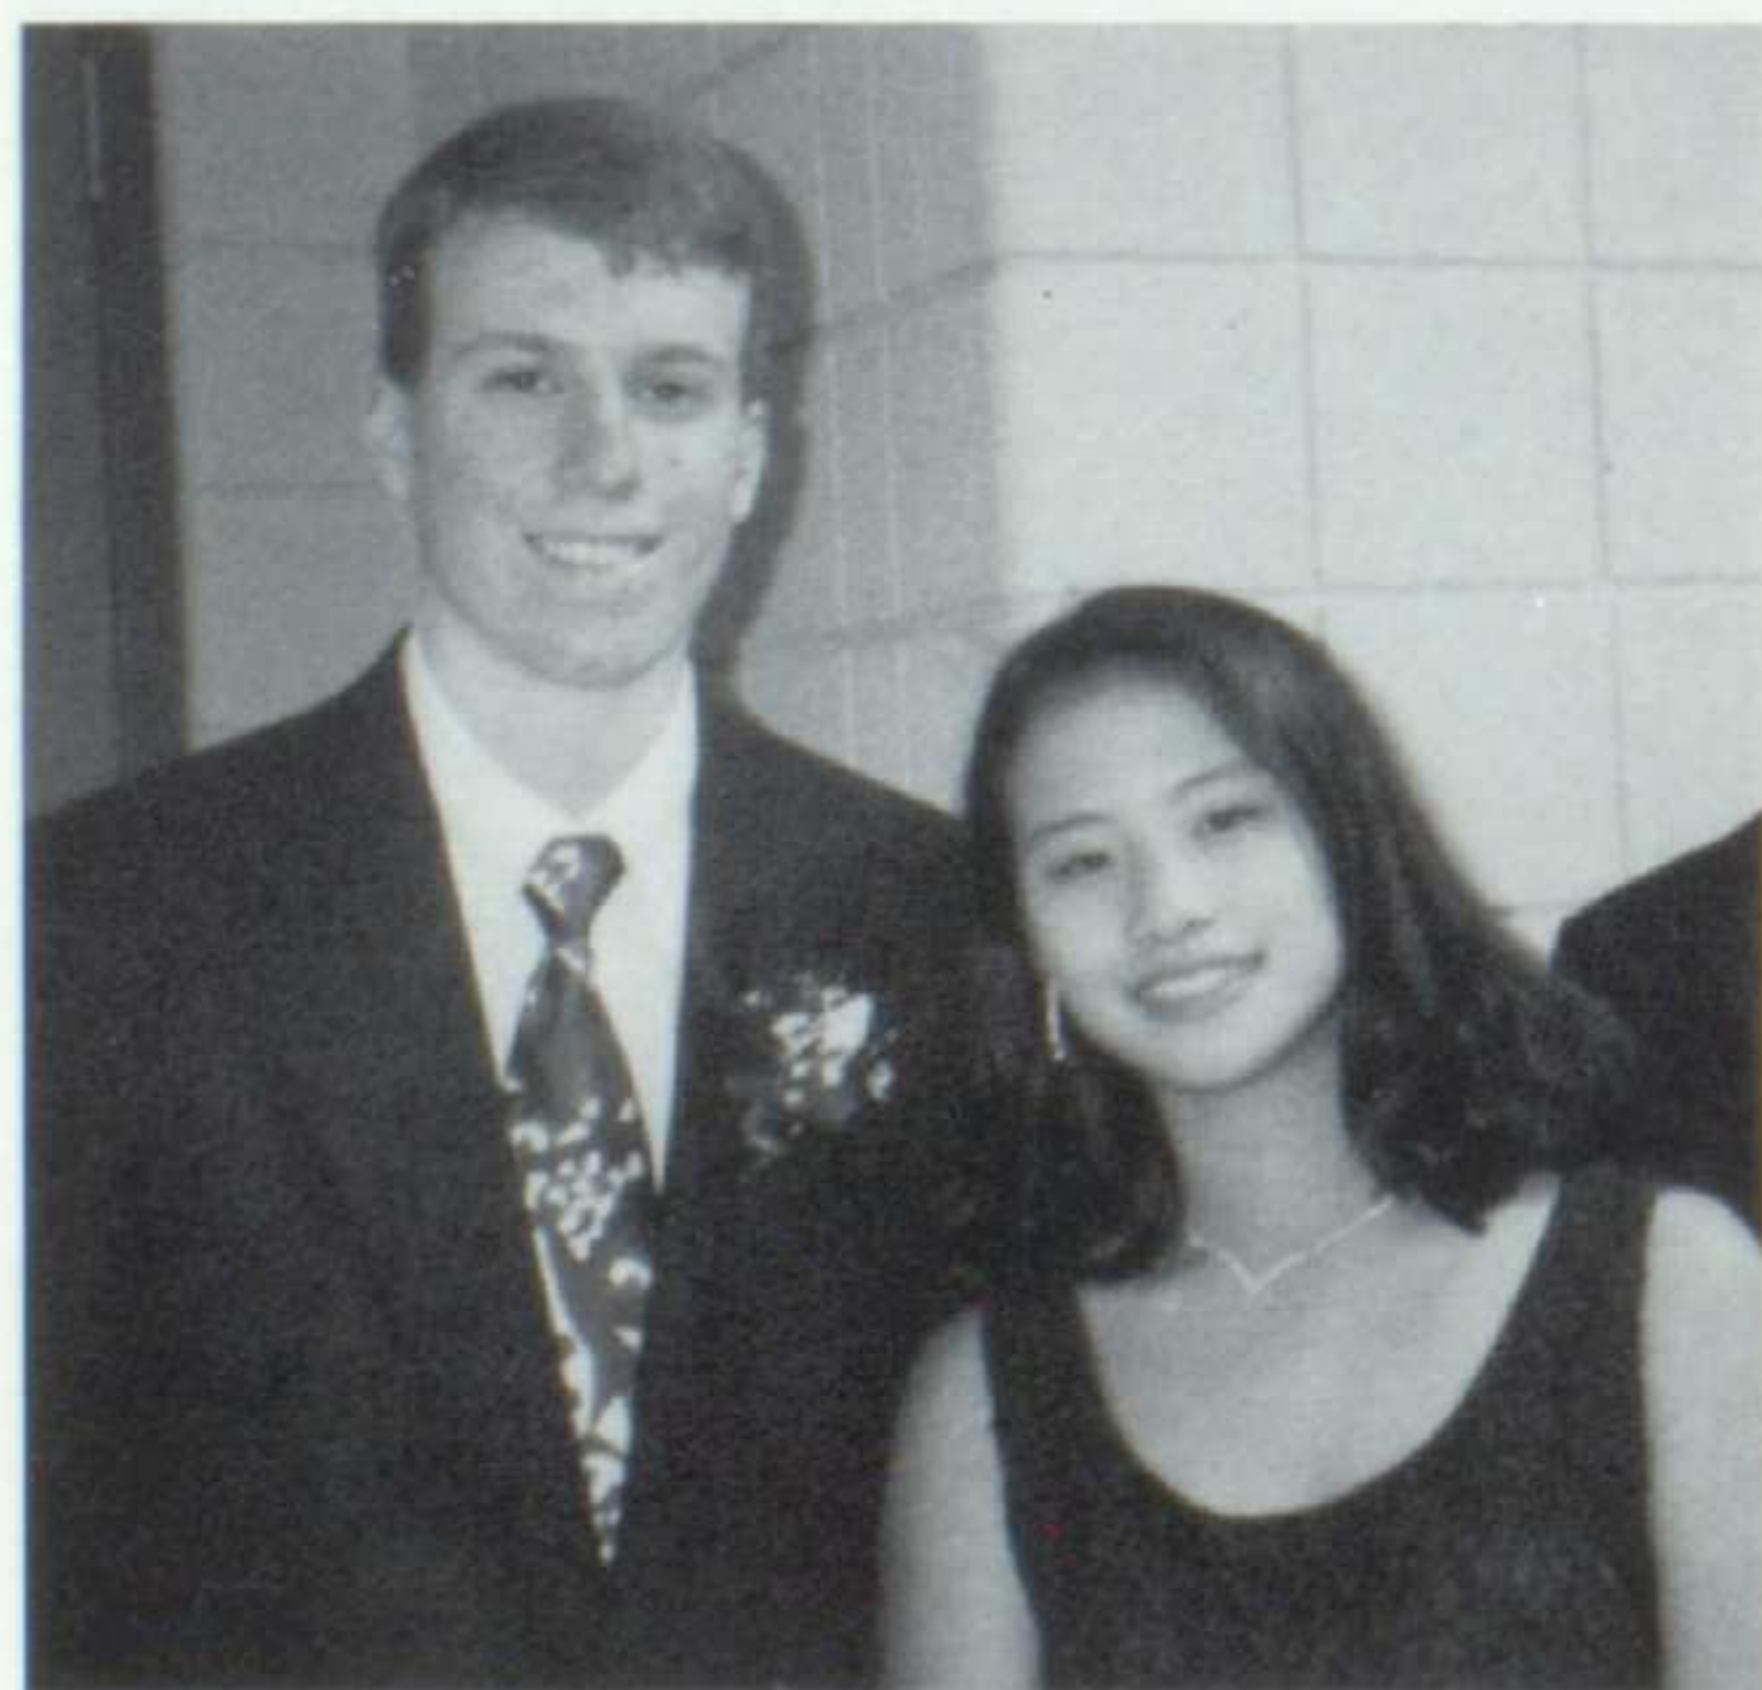

Traditionally, Valentine's Day means flowers, candy and balloons, but the King of Hearts nominees thought less of themselves and more of those in need. The five seniors nominated by their classmates, spent the week before the dance raising money for the American Heart Association. In all, they raised $1000 for the charity. The King of Hearts, Dickson Lao commented, "It is good to know that high school students are willing to raise money for a good cause without thinking of themselves. It was upsetting that someone stole Martin Lamp's money which was never recovered."

The sophomore class did an exceptional job decorating for the dance. Red, gold and black balloons and crepe paper enhanced the theme of the dance, Berlin's "Take My Breath Away." To close out the evening, Sophomore Class Officer Jessica Walter crowned Dickson Lao King of Hearts.

Holly Bell summed up the evening when she said, "Dances are always enjoyable because everyone looks wonderful and has a great time dancing."

By Alicia Kirk and Angela Fracasso

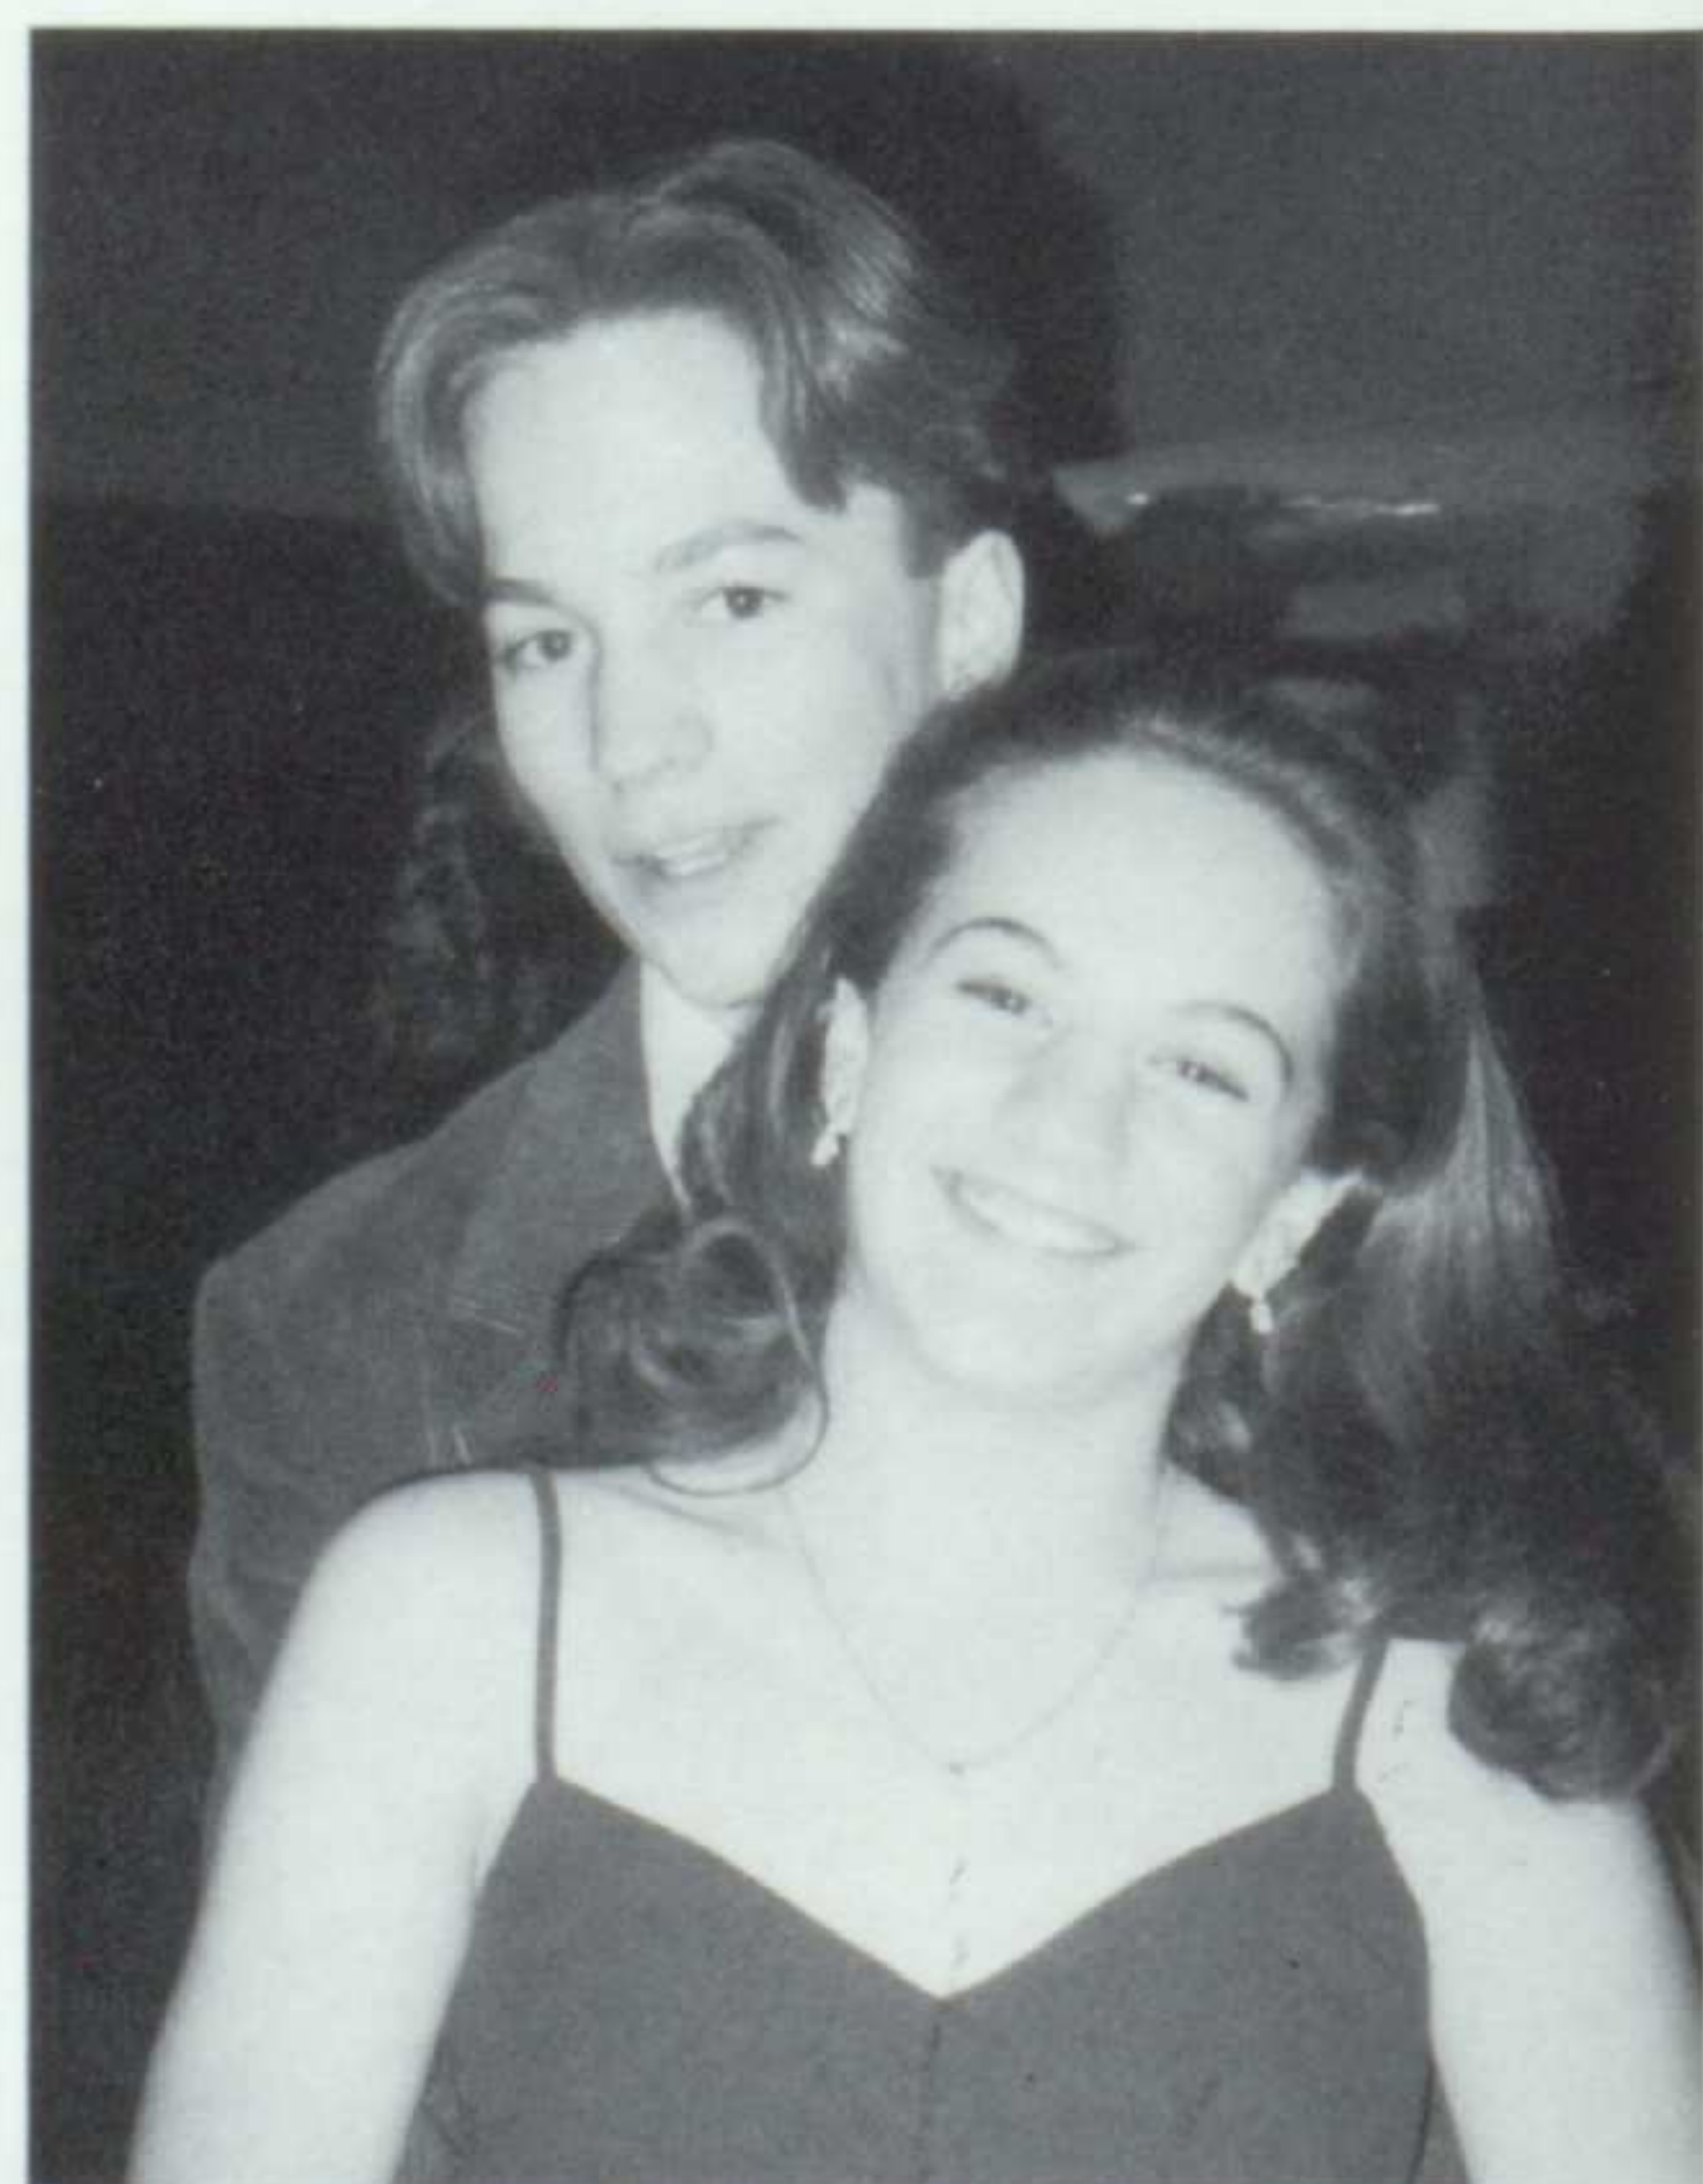

Finally escaping from their dates for a couple of minutes are Tara Feeney, Robin Sandell, Karli Allen and Jen Casey.

Behind their innocent smiles, Mike McCarthy and Sophia Yang are dying to break loose on the dance floor.

Being crowned King of Hearts by Jessica Walter is Dickson Lao with his escort Meghan Sweeney.

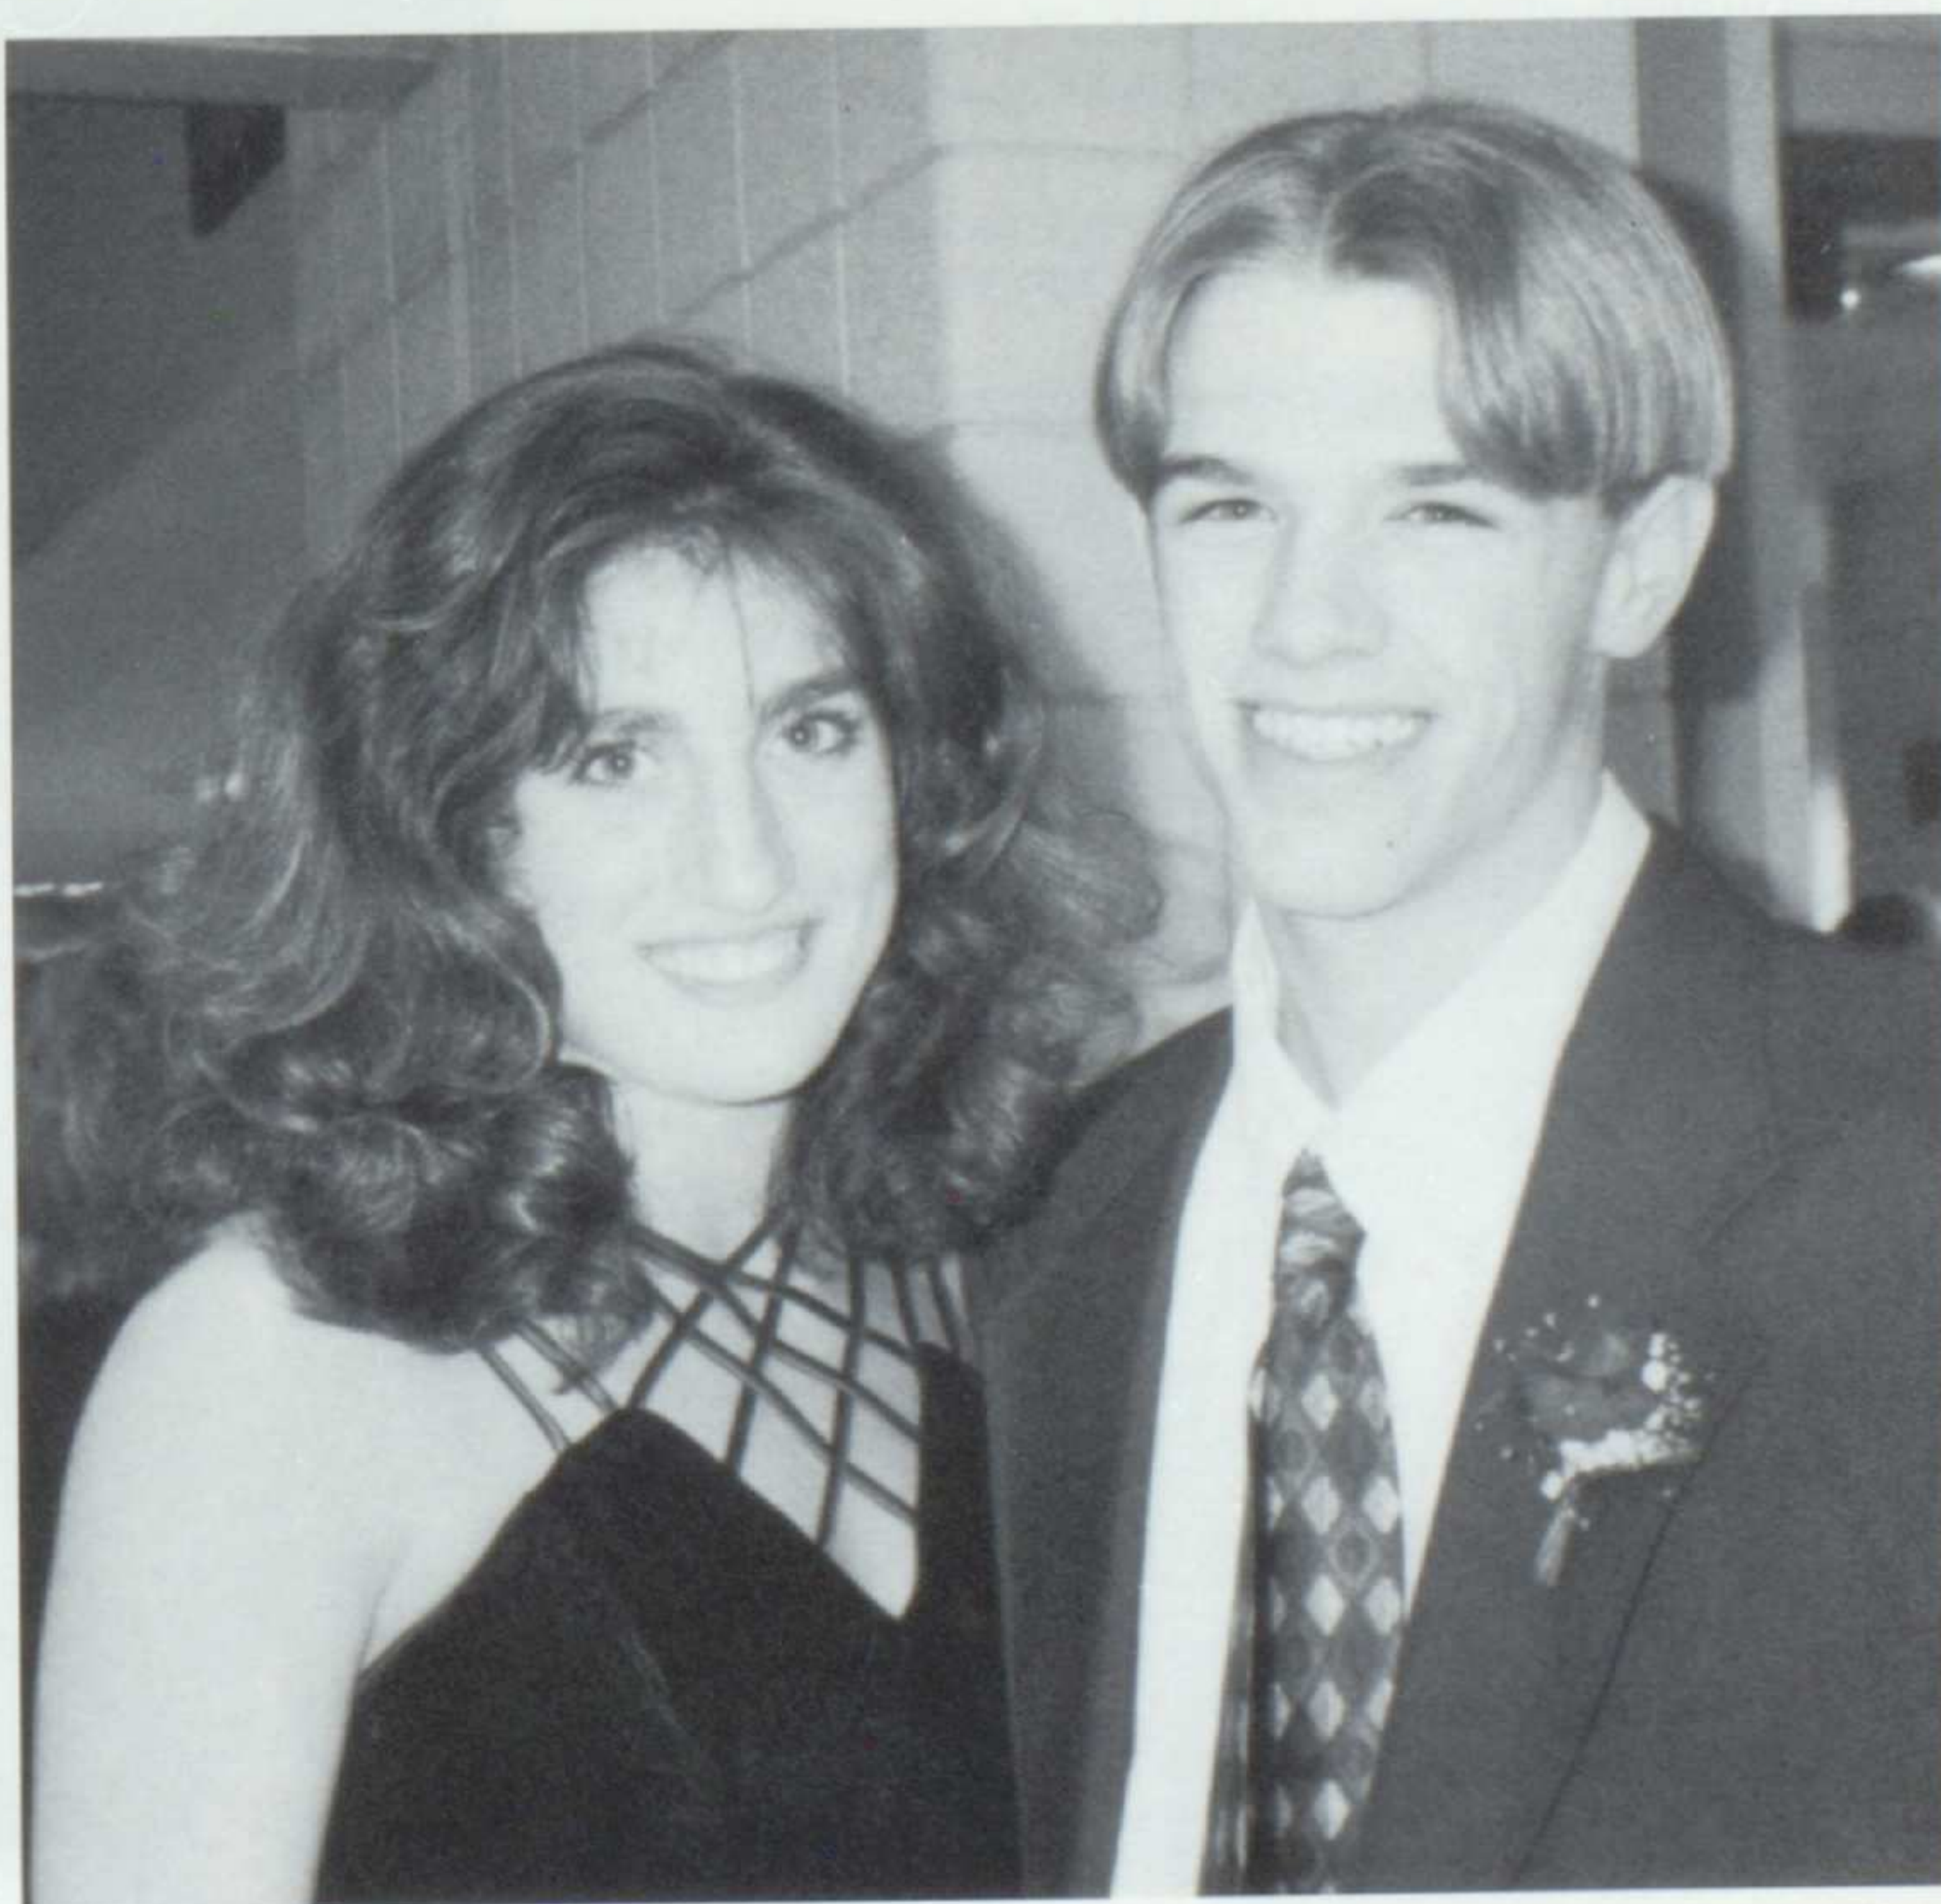

Showing freshman Ayla Kirk how to have a great time at the Valentine's Dance is sophomore Jack Prehm.

"Look, we are trying to find our dates. Has anyone seen them?" asks Eric Fudge, Brian Kuhl and Eric Williamson.

Heading for the dance floor, Amanda Koenigsnecht and Brian Buchholtz are ready to dance the night away.

Nominee Matt Daniel and his date Kristy Irwin await the outcome of King of Hearts while enjoying each other's company at their last Valentine's Dance.

In Your Eyes

Prom is a Success Once Again

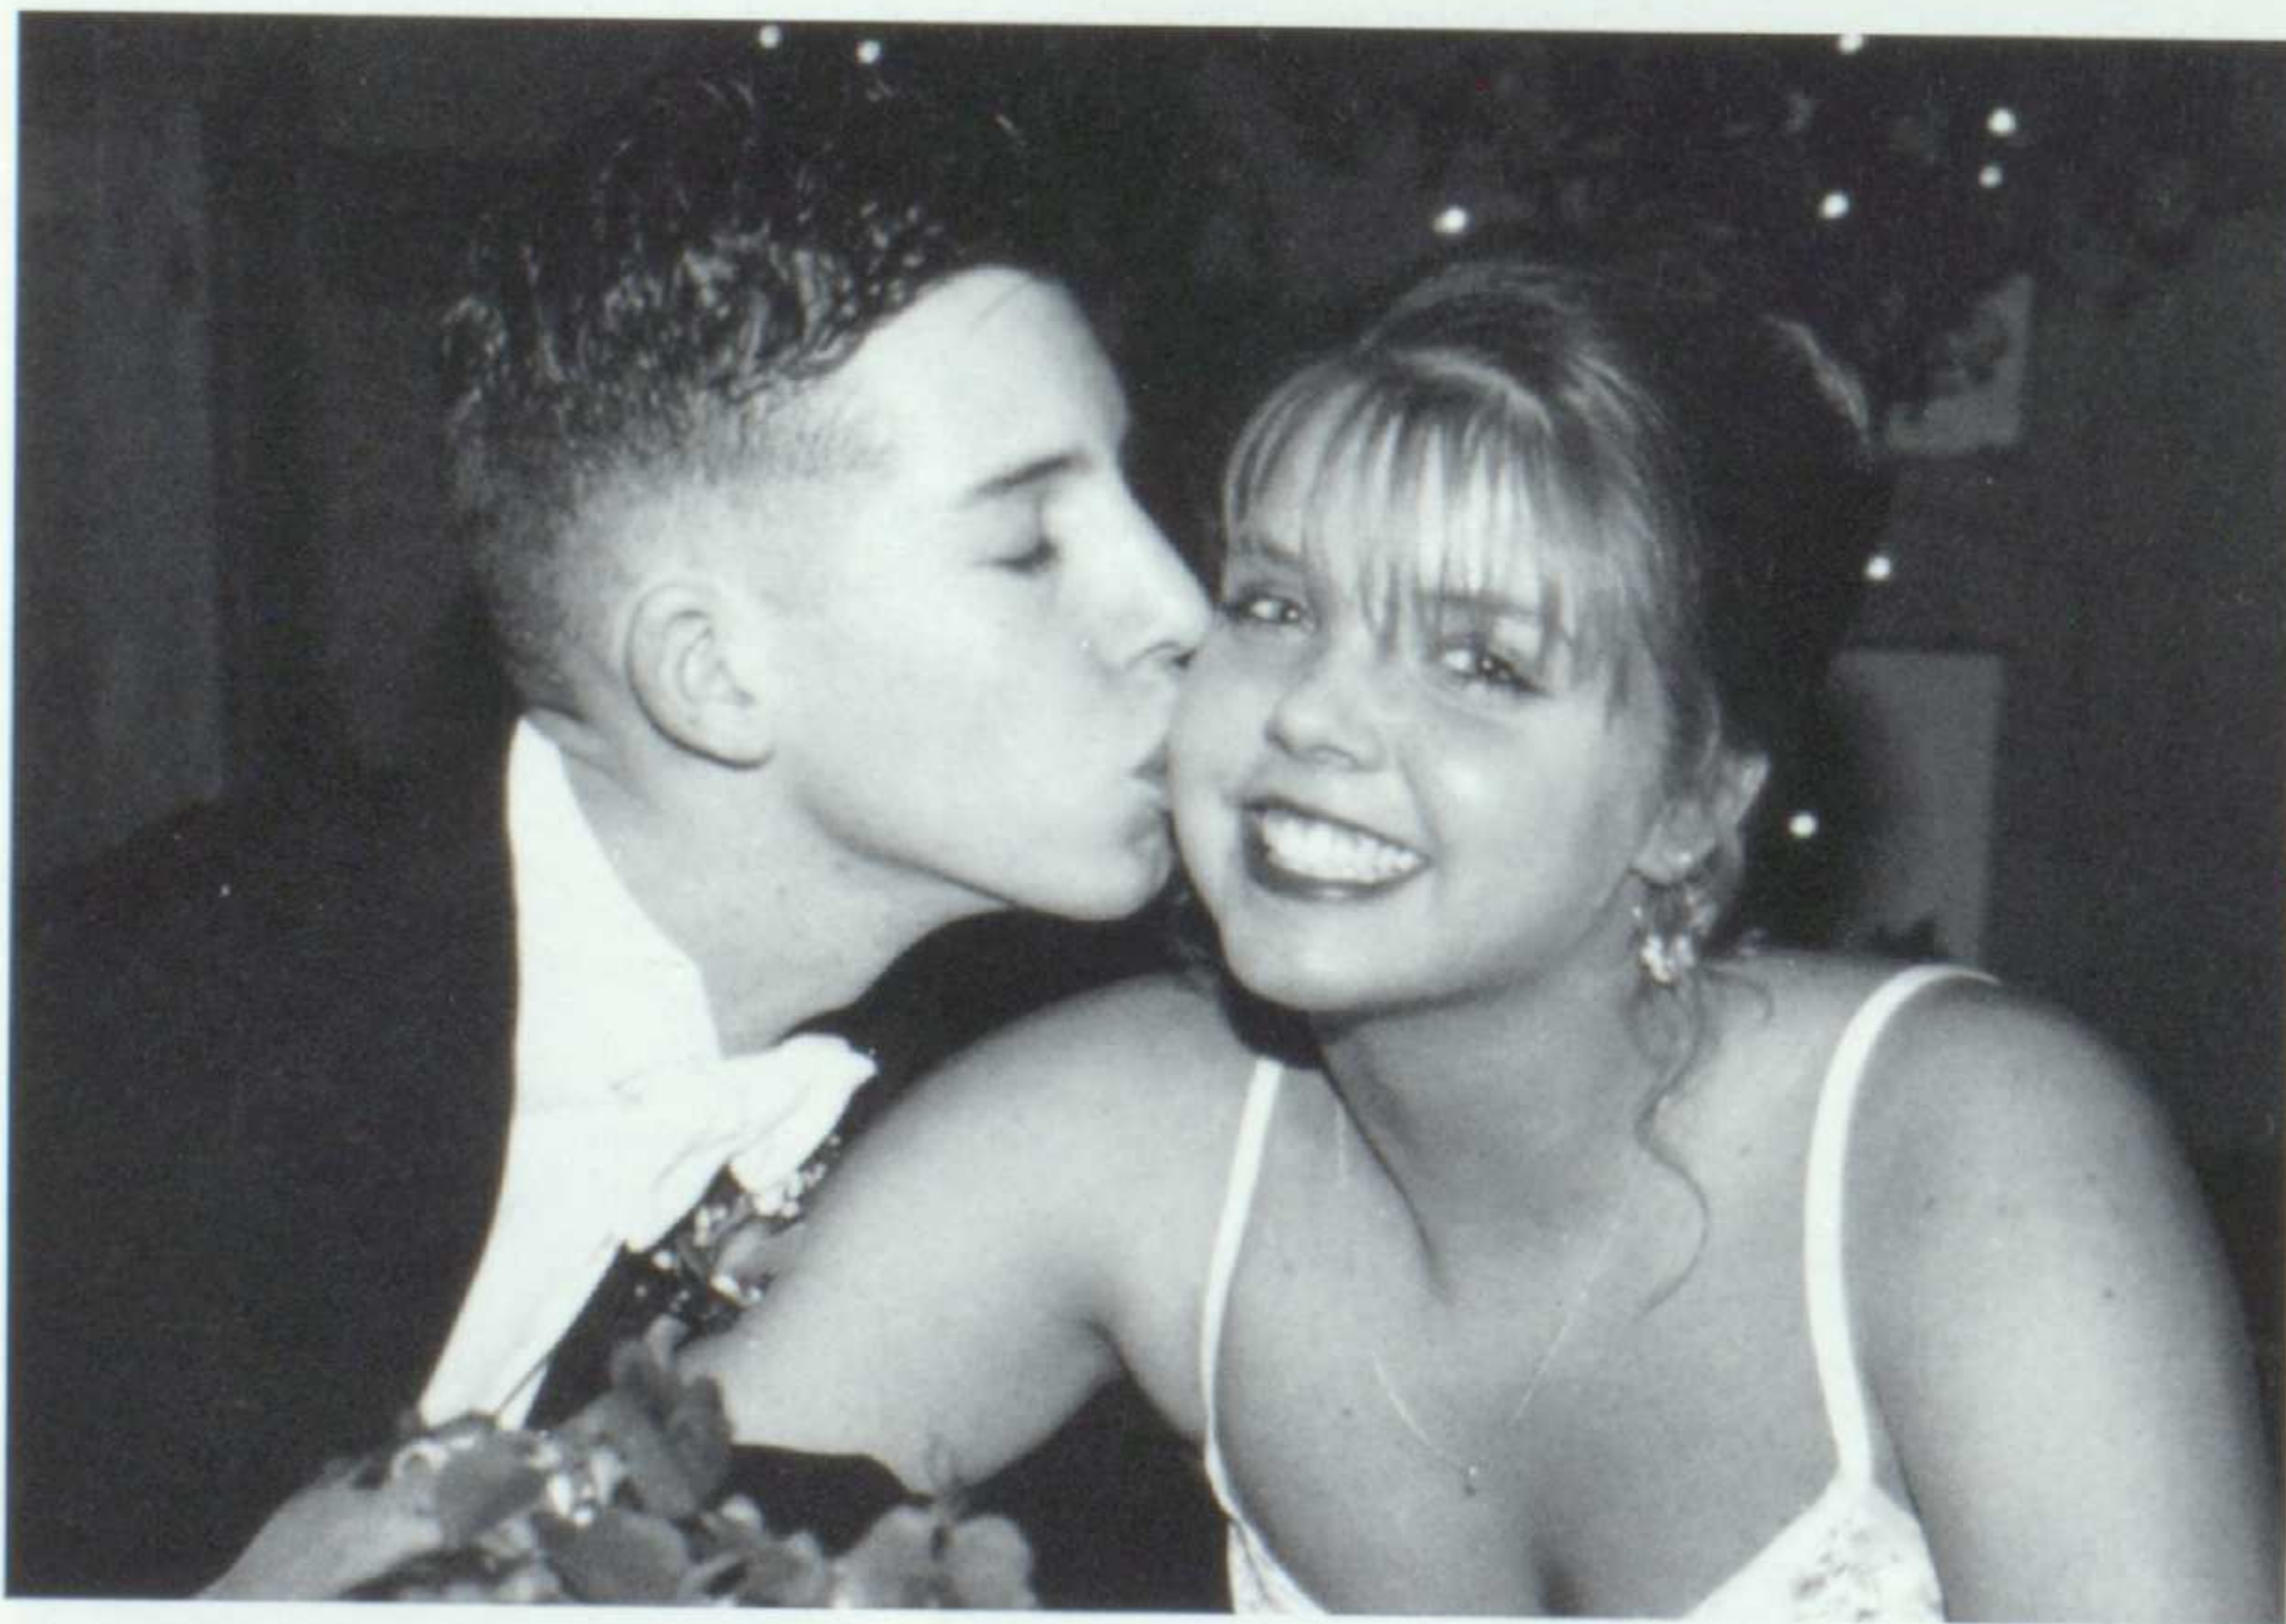

Organized by the junior class, the prom was held downtown at the Hyatt Regency next to the Convention Center. A prom committee decorated the room with a fountain, flowers, an ice sculpture and trees sparkling with lights. Erin McGill exclaimed, "The fountains and lighted trees made the atmosphere more romantic." A new addition to the prom were hors d'oeuvres catered by the Hyatt Regency. Music for the event was provided by the band Second Nature. Senior Kate Marsh commented, "The band was a good choice because they played great songs that everyone knew so it was easier to dance and have a wonderful time."

Near the end of the night the President of the Junior Class, Julie Ucker, crowned Kevin Blackburn, King of Prom and Erin Lyons, Queen of Prom. The couple then danced to the theme, "In Your Eyes," by Peter Gabriel.

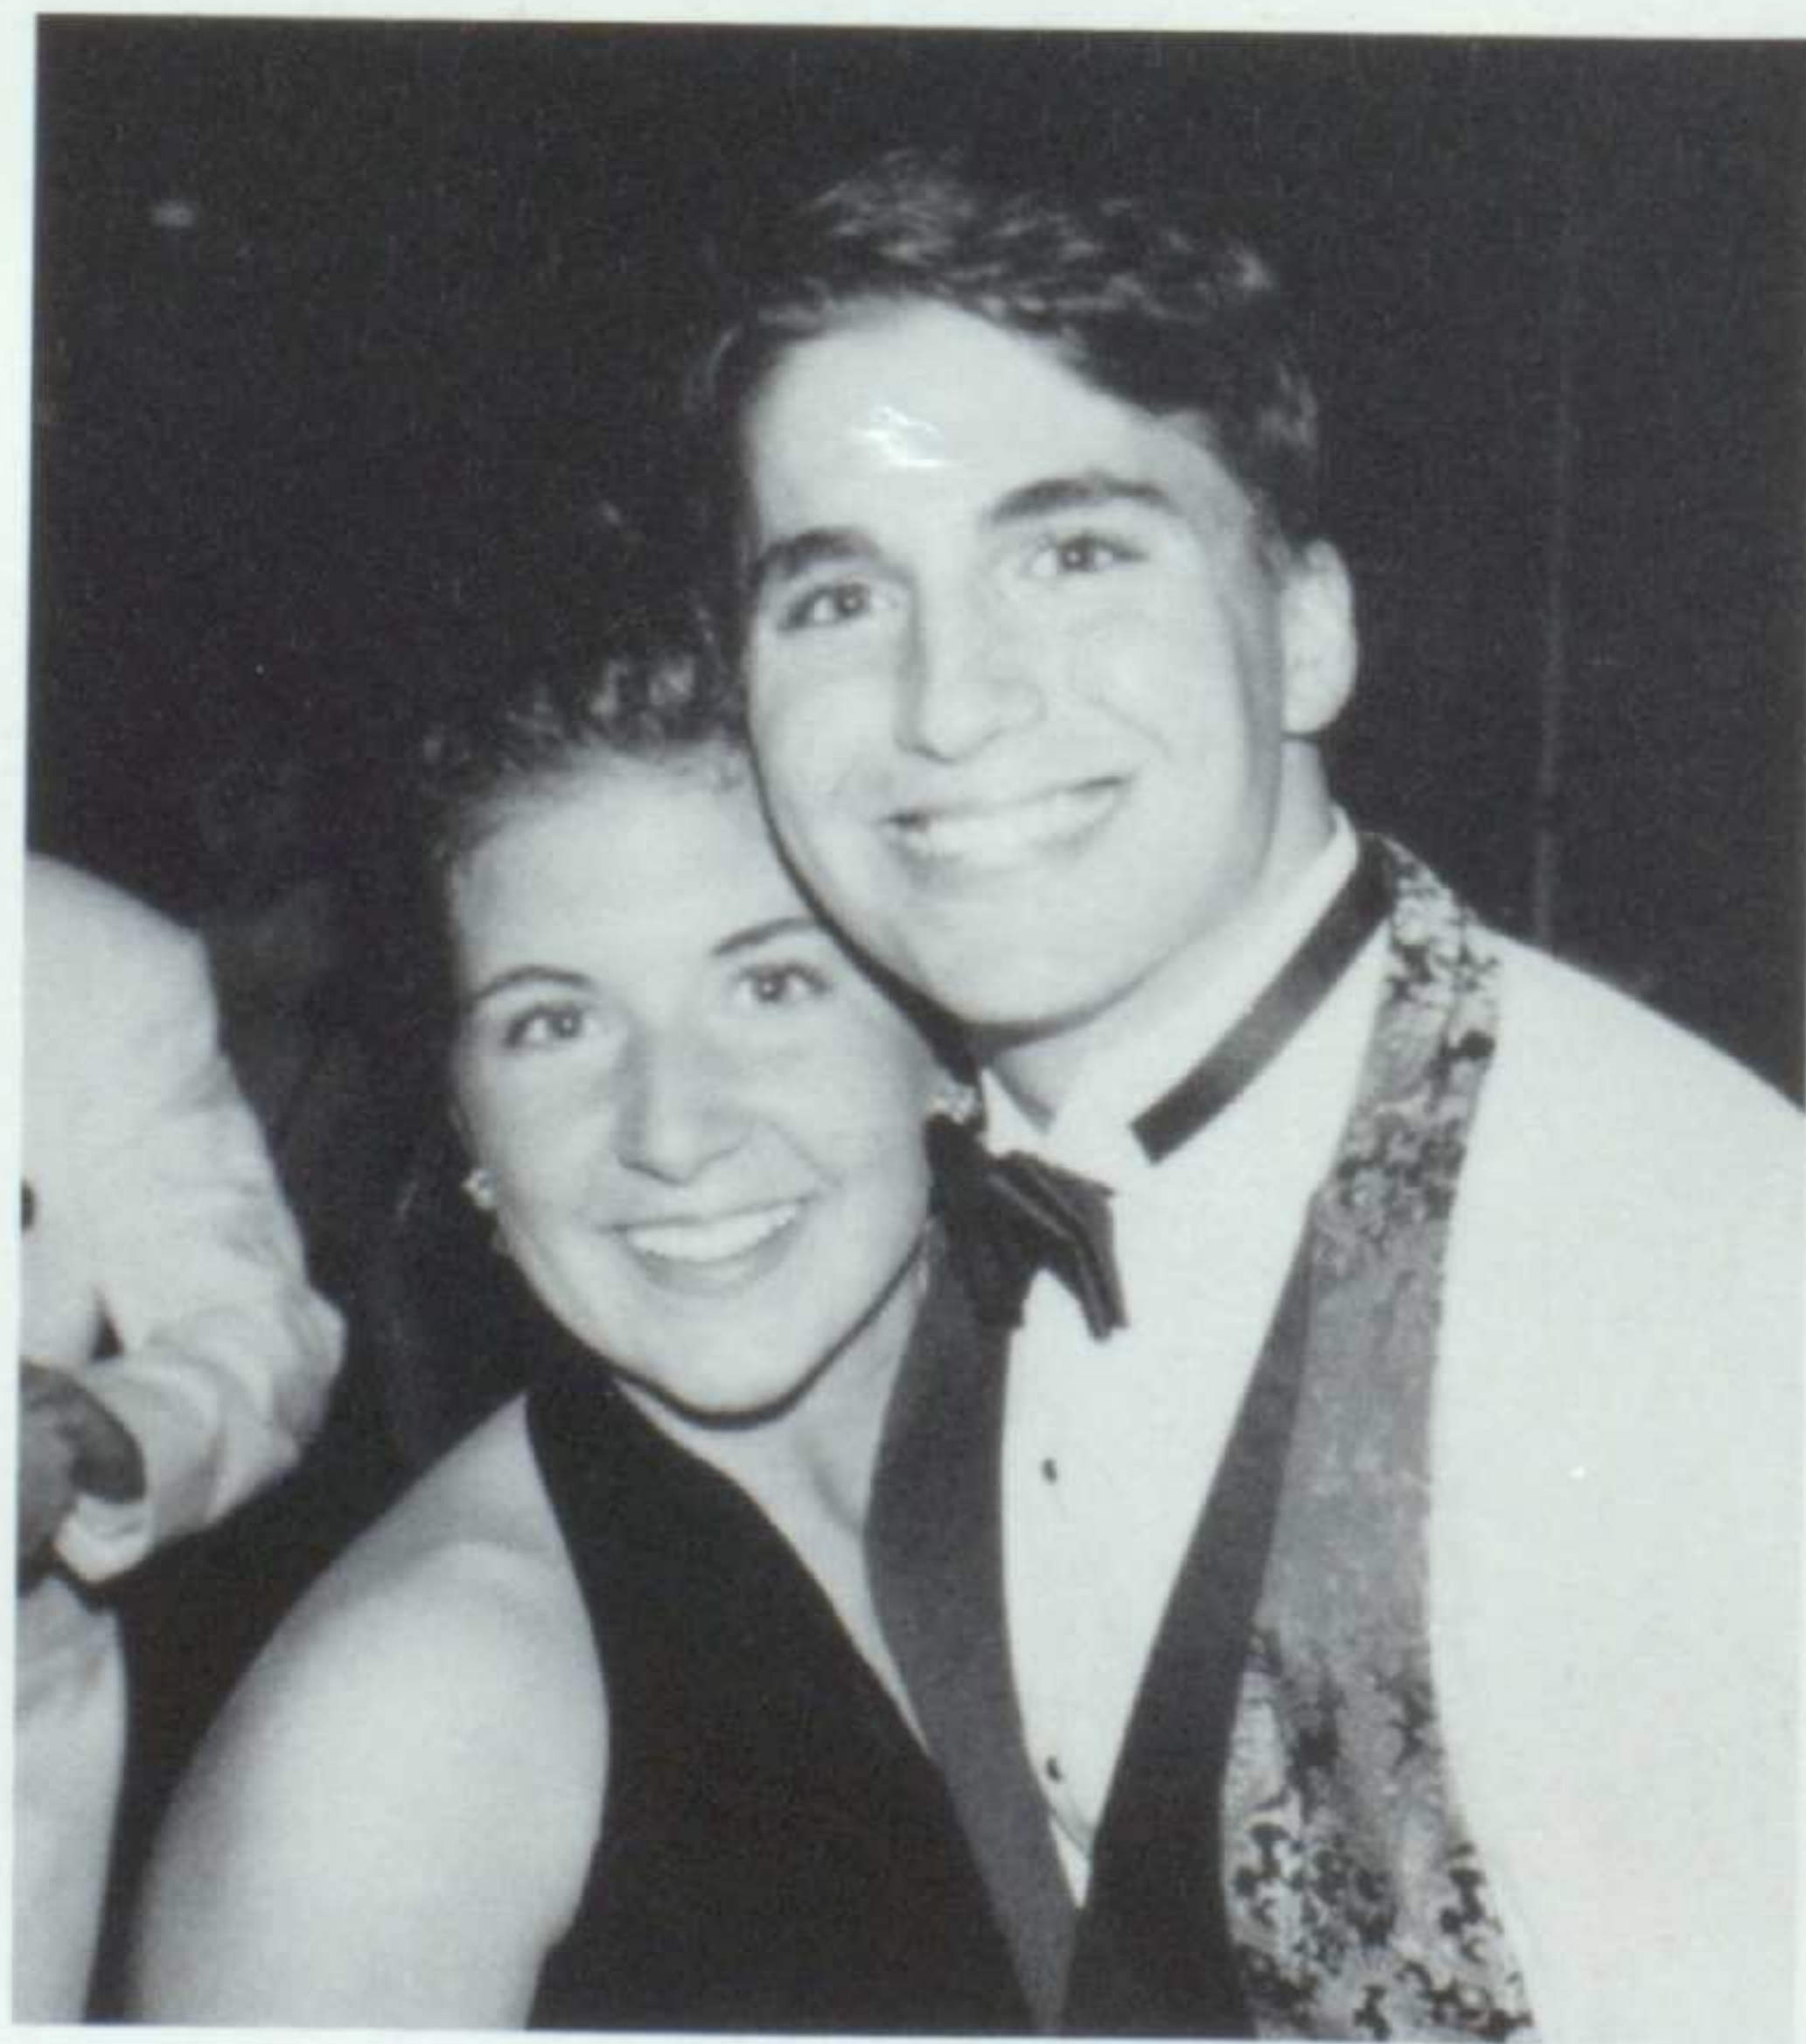

Sawmill Athletic Club hosted After Hours from midnight to 4 A.M. The party was open to all juniors and seniors regardless of whether they attended prom. "The best part of Afterhours was the karaoke machine. There were so many things to do," stated junior Tim Milligan.

By Alicia Kirk

After being crowned Queen and King of Prom, Erin Lyons and Kevin Blackburn dance to the theme of Prom, "In Your Eyes."

Caught in the act is Lori Reed as her boyfriend Jeff Arnold gives her a kiss on the cheek.

From the smiles on Sheila Rupp and Fred Koury's faces, it is easy to tell they are having a great time at their last prom.

Having a great time at prom are Nicole Kotys, Jeremy Fink, Amy Scheetz, Shaun Servick, Meghan Sweeney, Dickson Lao, Stephanie Jacobs, Cham Bell, Dan Brooks, Erin McGill, Matt Luckino, Melanie Hendershot, Lisa Neylan and Jeromy Paintin. The men's volleyball team looks as good on the dance floor as they do on the volleyball court.

Escaping from their dates for a minute, juniors Brandon Gustafson and Garret McNally break loose on the dance floor.

Proud to be at prom with senior Kelli Daniels is '94 graduate Cliff Banks.

Just arriving at the dance from dinner are Alex Triplet, Gina Hoffman, Joe Pope, Erin Prosser, Patrick Donlon, Julie Ucker, Chris Merrick and April Tang.

"Come dance with us!" exclaim juniors Nicole Tumbry, Cindy Panaligan, Tina Reasbeck and Gherima Woldemariam.

PROM EVENTS

Showing '94 graduate Eric Bailey a great time at prom is senior Becca Siano.

"We're looking good in our tuxes at our first prom," exclaim Brian Kane, Thad Turano, and Sean Salmon. Handsome guys!

Not able to keep her eyes off her boyfriend Chris Clifton while they are slow dancing is Angela Laws.

Dancing to the great band, juniors Carrie Newman and Kellie Key show everyone how good of a time prom is with friends.

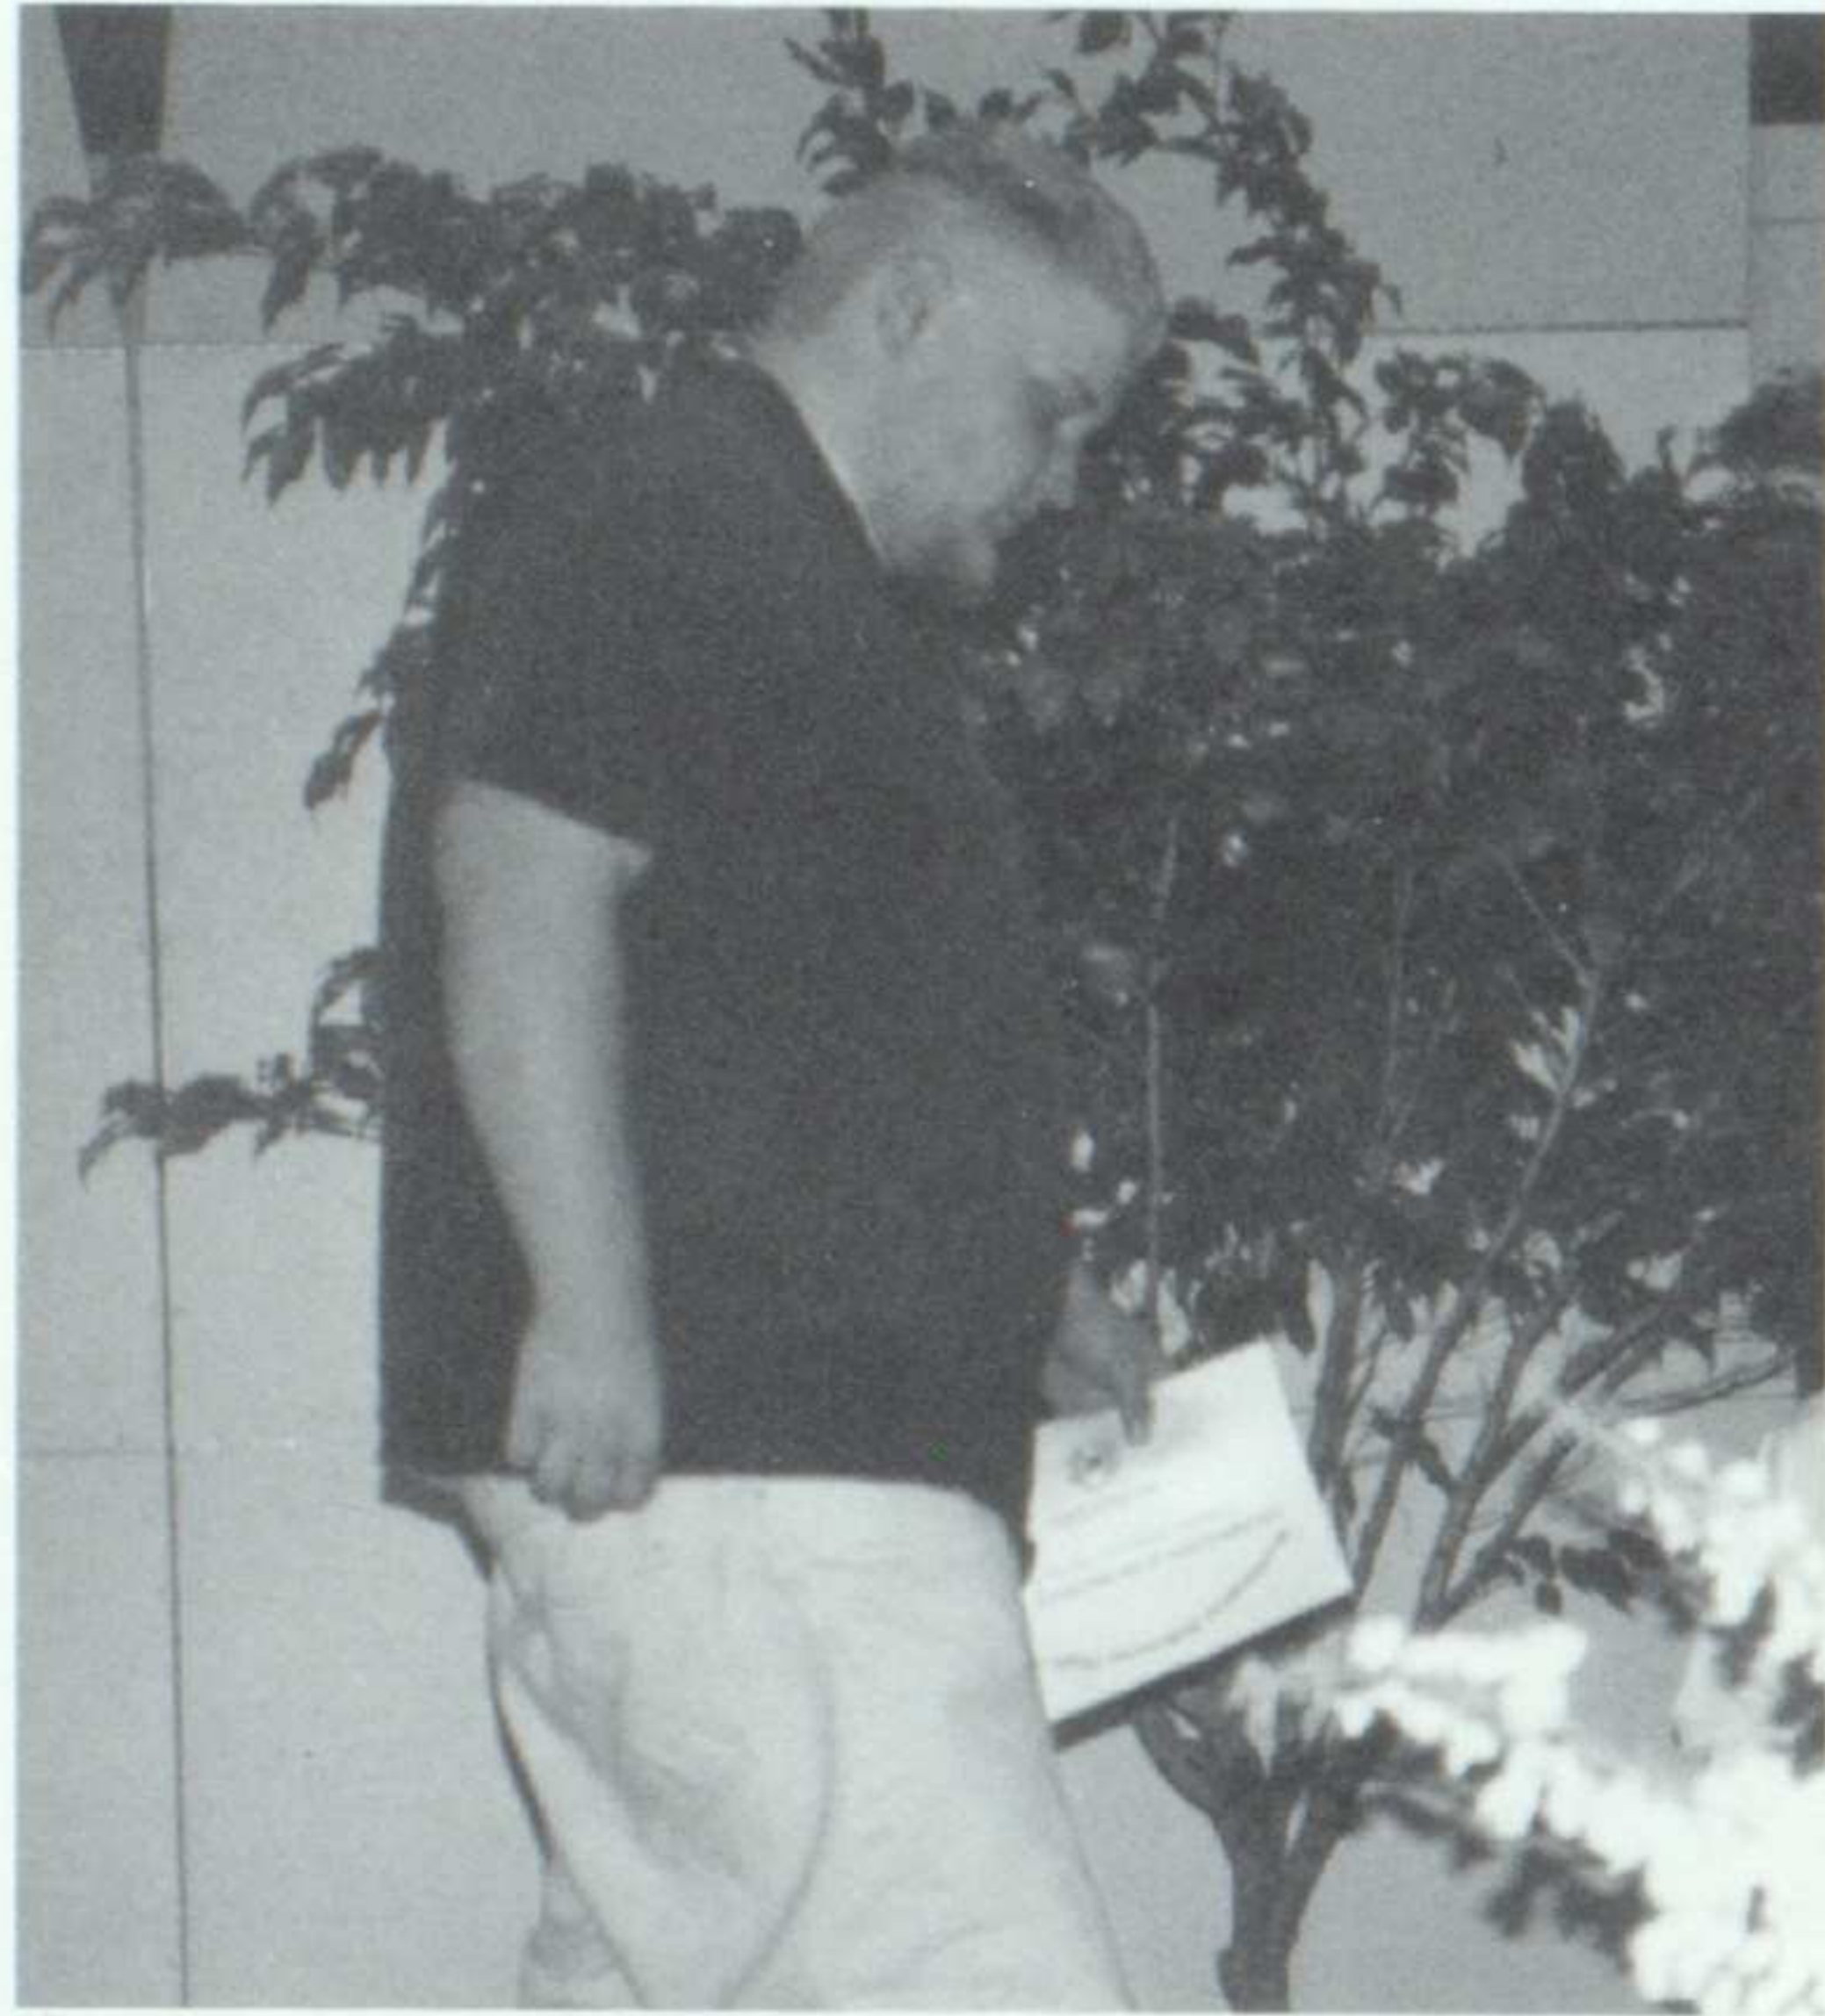

Waiting for their food at Morton's of Chicago are Aimee Lyons and Ahmet Alasyali.

Celebration of Excellence

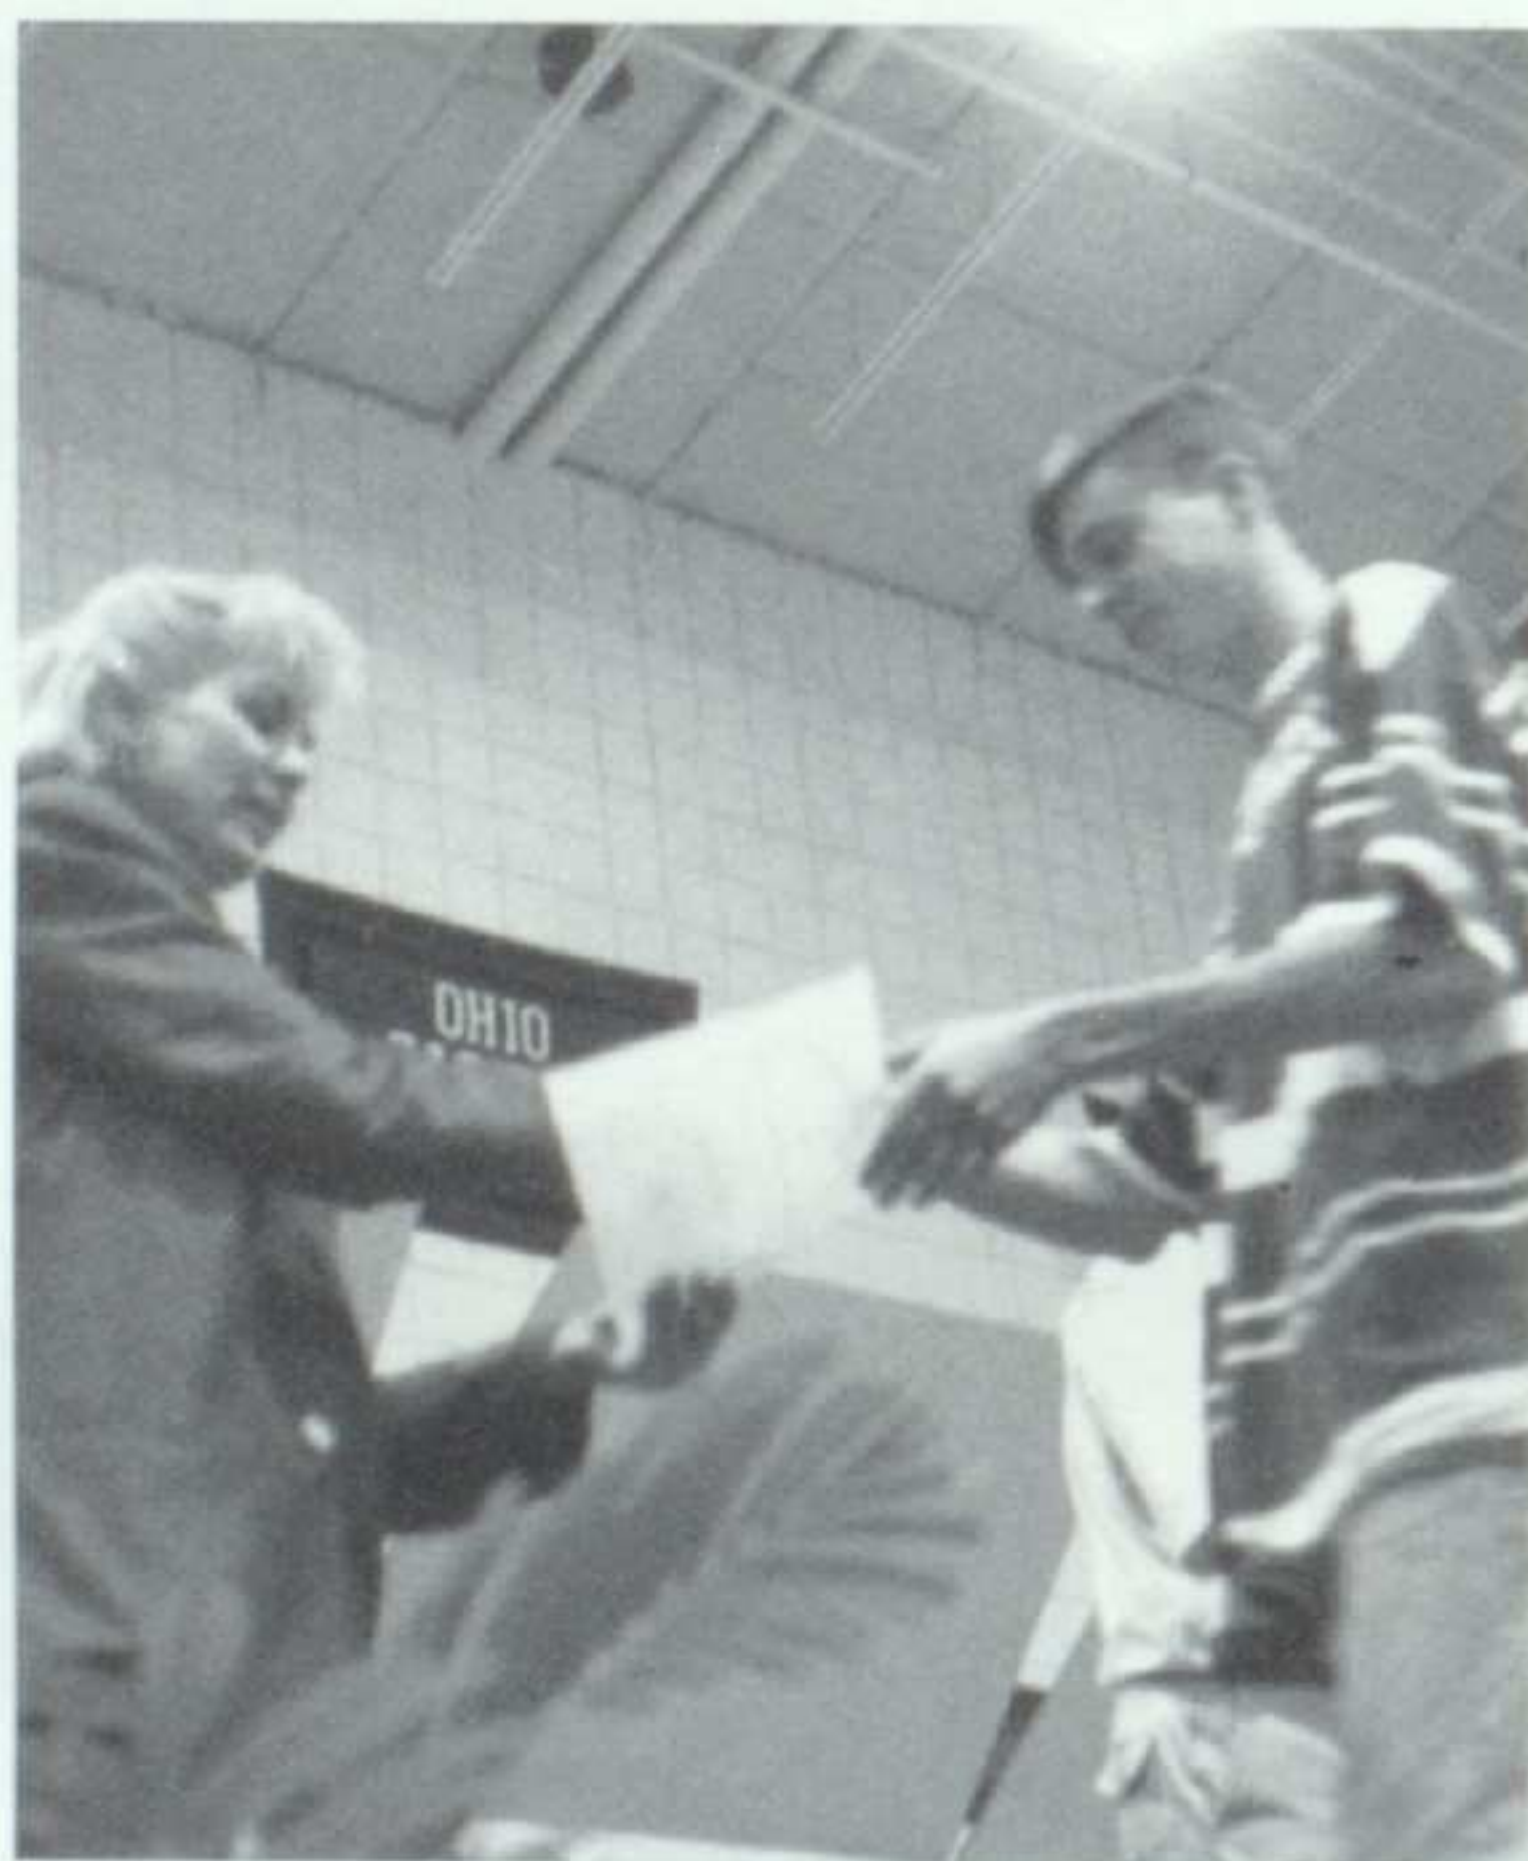

1995 inductees into the Hall of Fame are (clockwise) Angela Bookwalter, Mrs. Palmer, and Jonathan Lie.

"One more day, just one more day left!" mutters Joel White to himself as he heads off the stage.

(Right) Give me my certificate, Mrs. Seils!!" cries out Sean McCoy, "I'm getting out of here whether you like it or not!"

"You done good, Kristina; you done good!" comments Mrs. McLain to Kristina Kaszowski on her many accomplishments.

"Yes!! I'm finally graduating!" exclaims Atsushi Suzuki as he receives his medal. Medals are given to those seniors who earn recognition outside of the school district for co-curricular participation.

Commencement

You'll Never Walk Alone

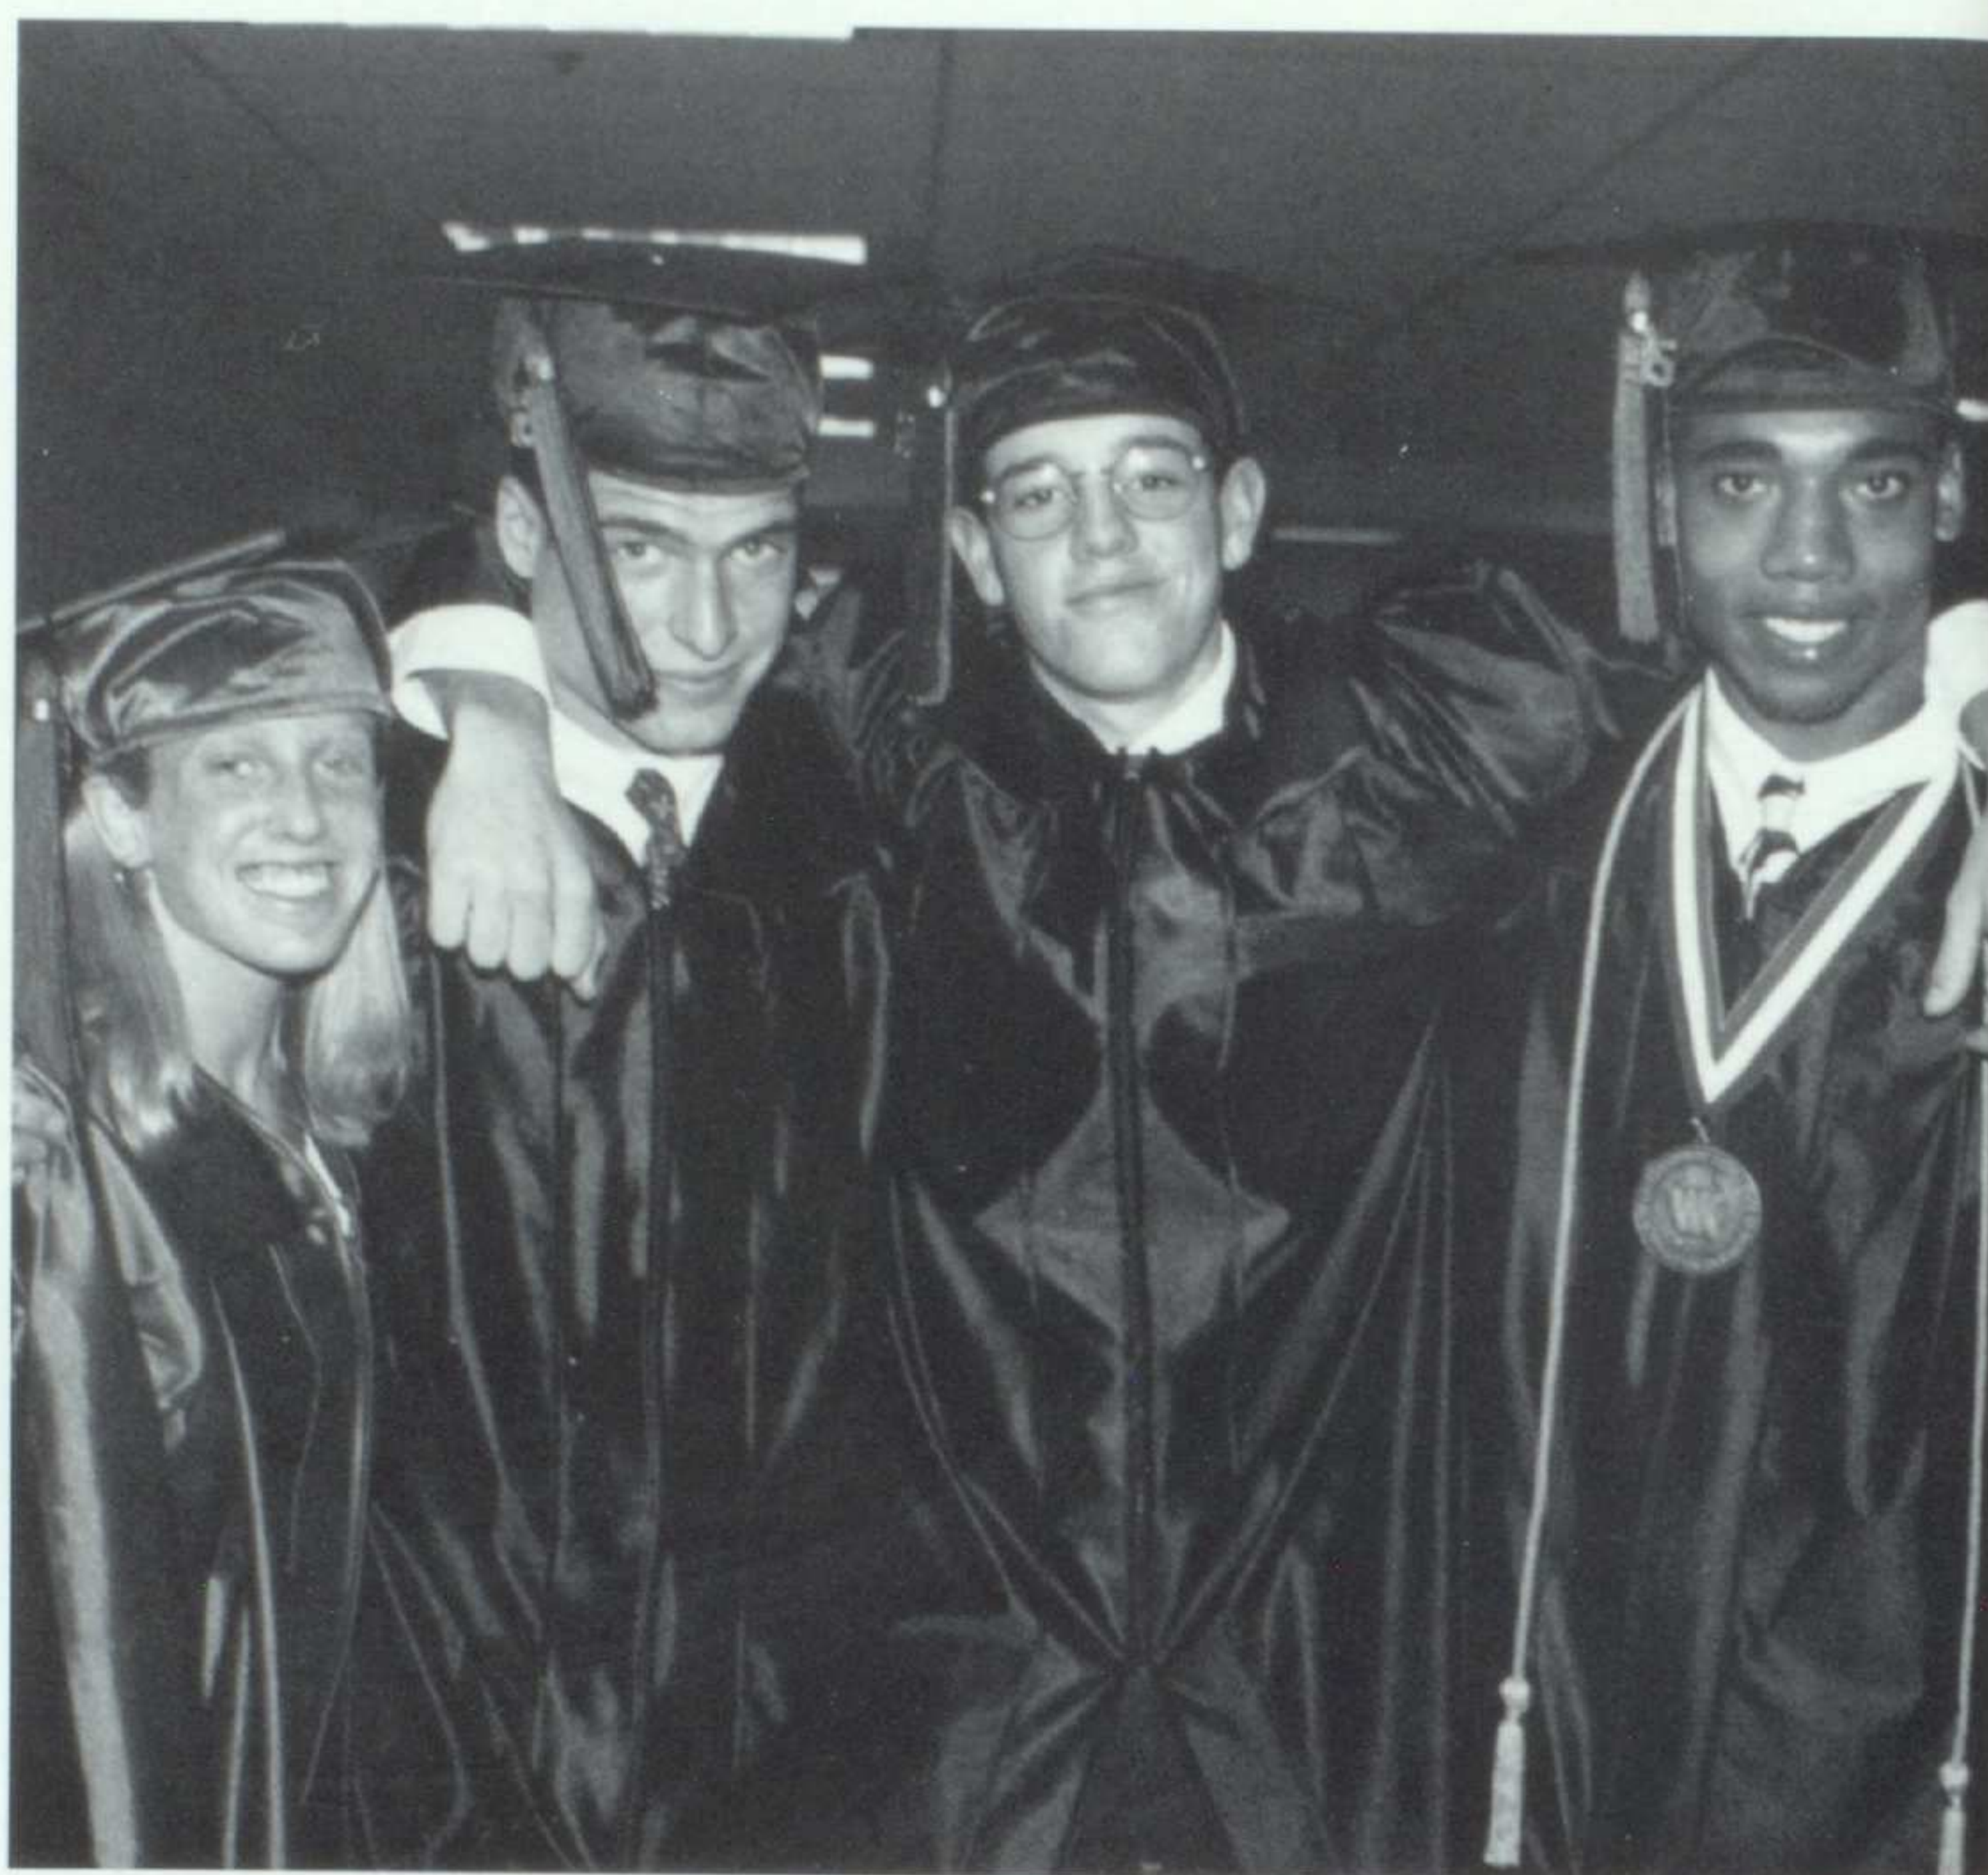

On Saturday, June 3, 1995, at 4:00 P.M., the first class to spend all four years at Worthington Kilbourne filed into the gymnasium to begin the fourth annual commencement ceremony. Senior Class Vice President Donald Stickel led the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by the singing of the Alma Mater by the WKHS Symphonic Choir and then Senior Class President Katherine Joseph welcomed the class with a short speech. Superintendent Damon Asbury also said a few words before the class valedictorians gave their presentation.

The twenty valedictorians, Angela Bookwalter, Bethany Broadfoot, Anupama Chauhan, Kathryn Chen, Geoff Gear, Peter Georgiton, Anjali Goel, Maureen Hackett, Kelley Harris, John Hedge, Sarah Horstmann, Brandon Kennedy, Martin Klco, Elif Konuk, Jonathan Lie, Nobuyoshi Ozawa, Christine Schwartz, Ari Sinharoy, Allison Walker, and Sarah Wilson prepared an enjoyable skit presenting Port-Awards on various categories.

After congratulating the Class of 1995 and wishing them the best in the future, principal Ron Porta presented the class to Mrs. Sue McNaghten, President of the Board of Education. Diplomas were then awarded to the 305 graduating seniors by the staff member of their choice. The ceremony was concluded by a recessional of the graduates out of the gymnasium.

Graduation this year is one that will always be remembered because not only is this the first class that spent all four years at WKHS, but it also the year in which the first Principal of Kilbourne, Mr. Ron Porta, has decided to retire from his position. Inducted into the Worthington Kilbourne Hall of Fame were students Angela Bookwalter and Jonathan Lie and teacher Mrs. Frauke Palmer.

EVENTS

Sharing a joyous moment after graduation are Amy Vandervort and Amanda Lauzau.

"Hey Baby!! We're graduates now!!" exclaim Brian Kramer and Tommy Carey attempting to pick up more "mature women." Fellow graduates Kim Kerschner and Justin Hutchings seem to be happy just to have graduated.

"Aren't you proud of us?" ask Beth Rich and Jessi Tisdale as they show off their diplomas.

Ready to head into the gymnasium to begin commencement are Tony Noble, Dennis Sonner, Jason Norrod, Ambarish Mhaskar, Ryan Jarret, Nate Reid, Jesse Pelligrini, and Nathan Lewis. They seem sad to be leaving WKHS!?

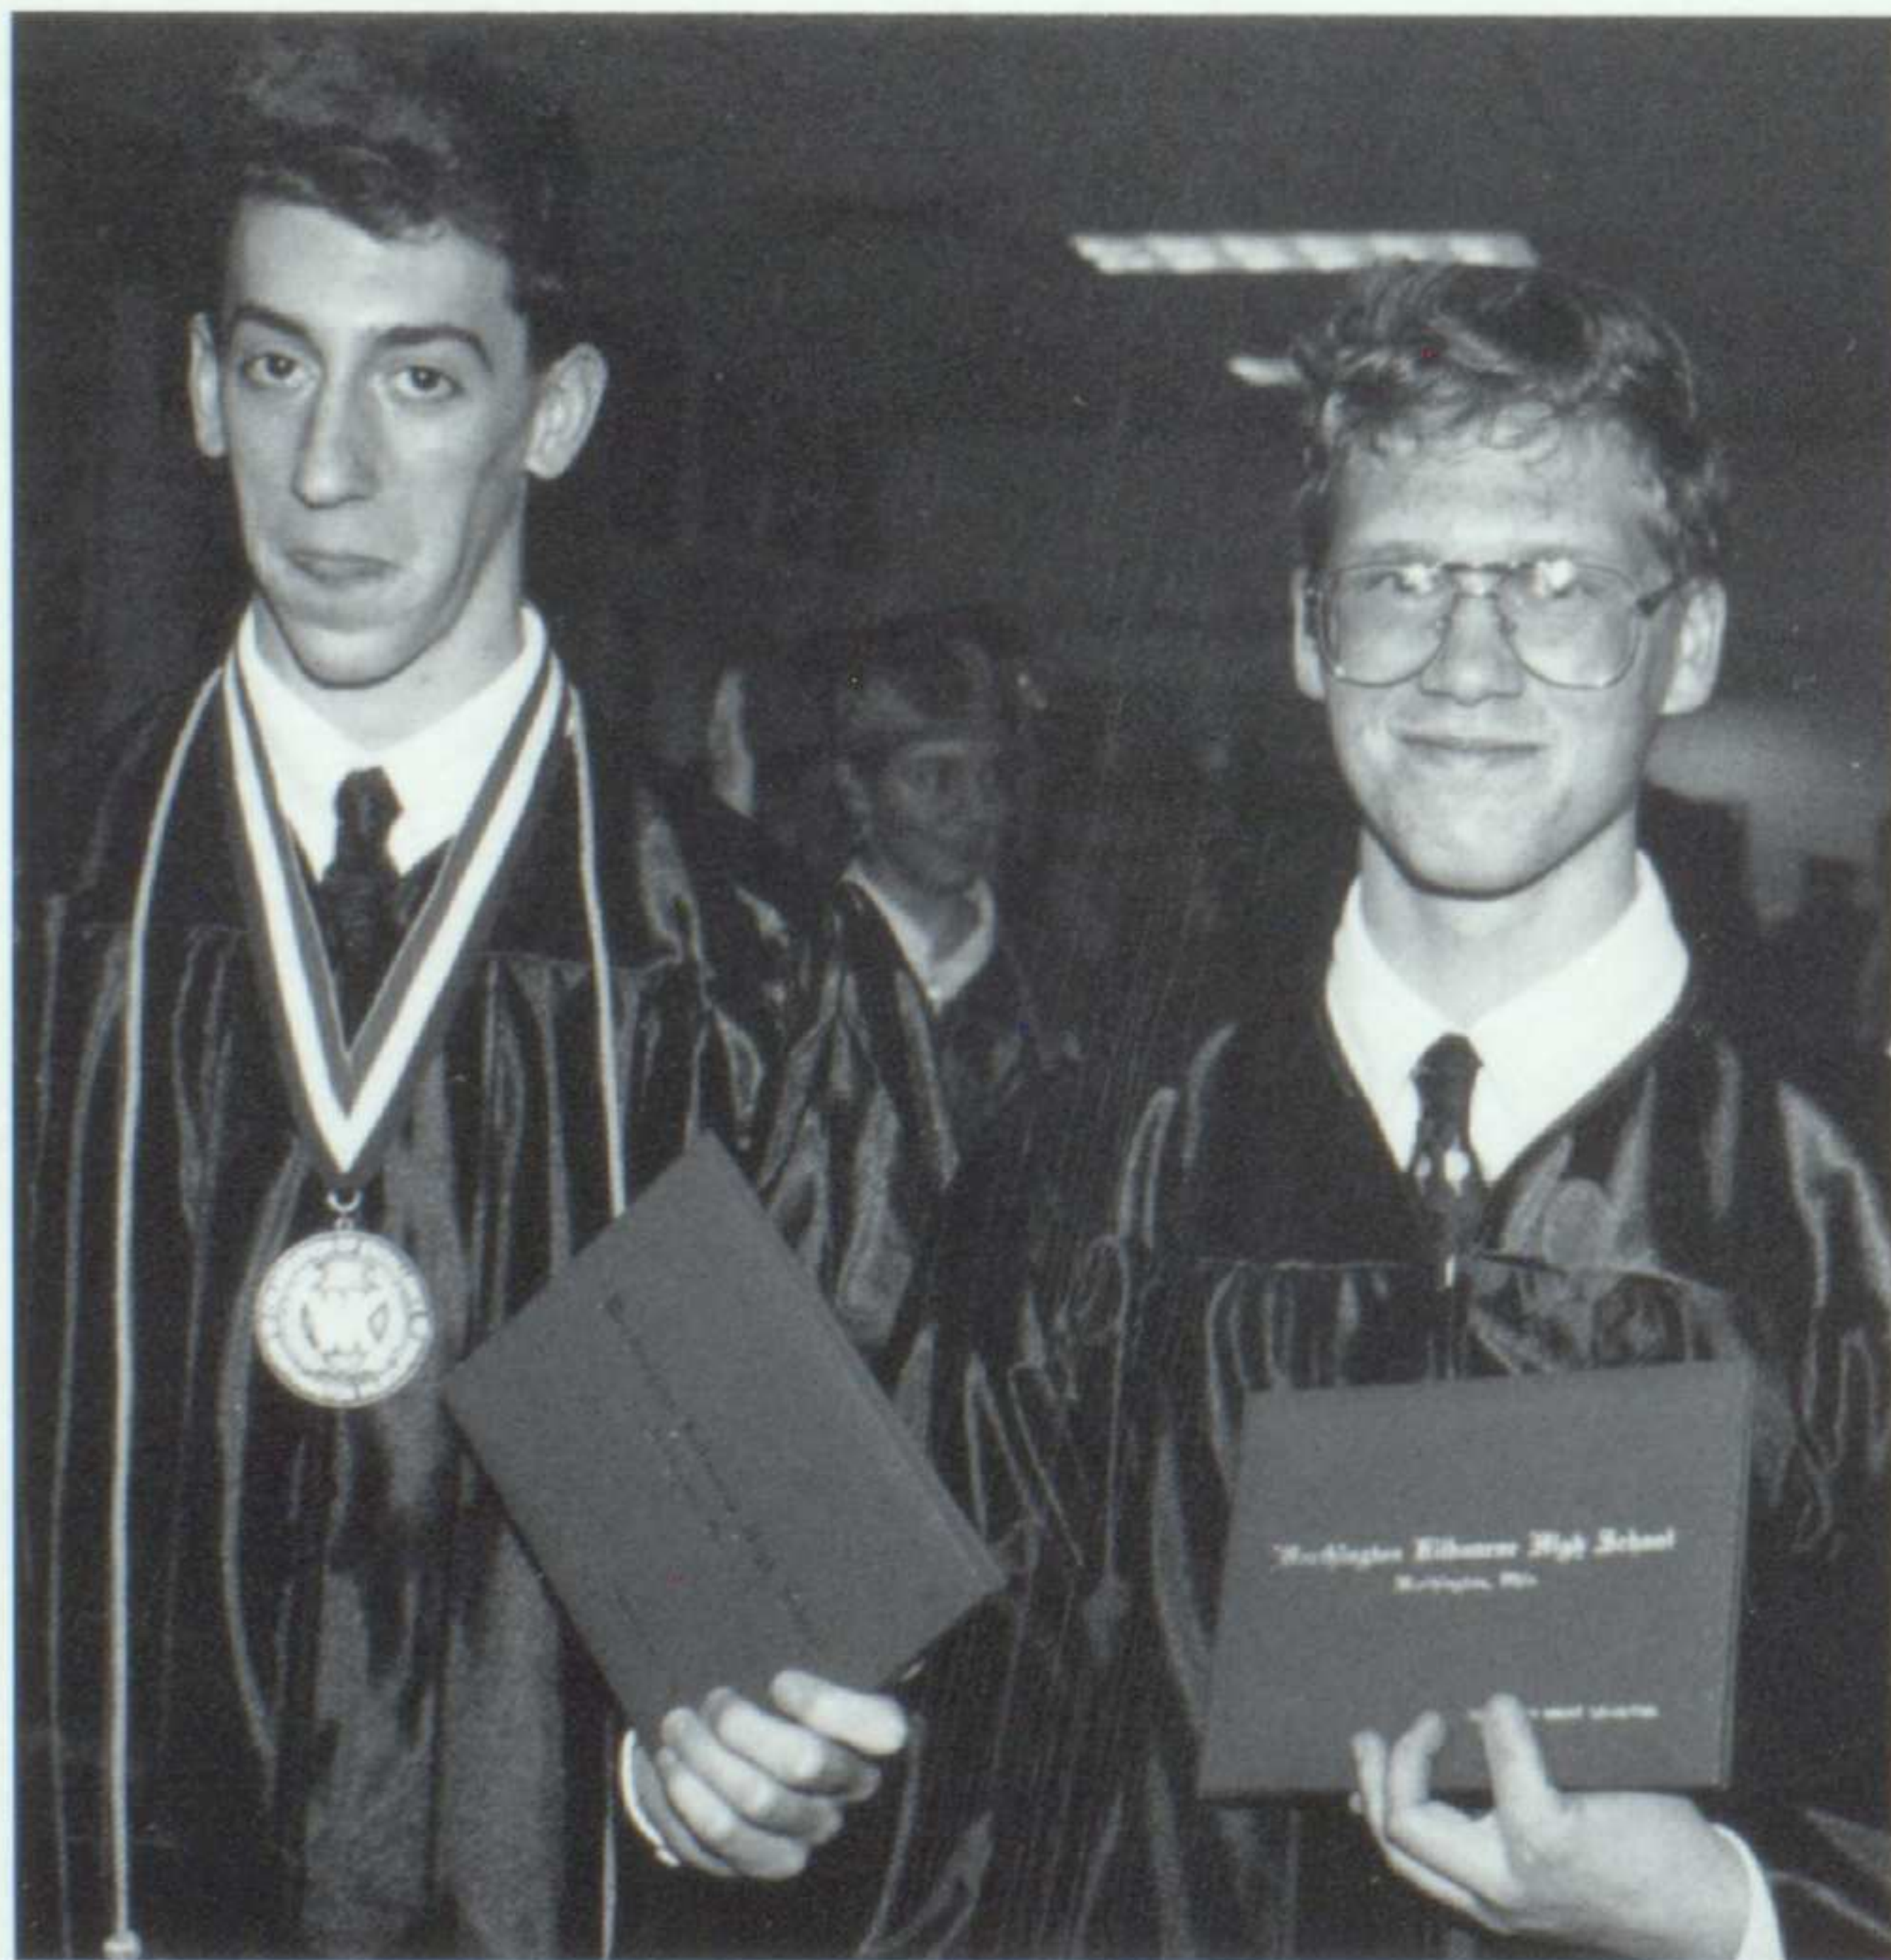

Introducing the nominees for the next Port-Award are Sarah Wilson and Christine Schwartz.

Happy graduation day has finally come for Andrea Cooper, Courtney George, Lisa Blumenstiel, and Kristen Lusky.

During the valedictorian skit Matthew Graves, son of Mrs. Graves, plays the role of a freshman trying to sneak by the librarians with a book that hasn't been checked out. Meanwhile, Elif Konuk hides behind the podium waiting to catch him.

"You can't have it, it's mine!" cries Andy Rohal. Nick Sahayda, however, is happy to share his diploma.

Super-Buz Martin Klco arrests Alli Walker for her many traffic violations.

Imitating history teacher Jeff Vincent "pulling taffy" to the tune of Saturday Night Fever is valedictorian Jonathan Lie .

Not able to hide her excitement after receiving her diploma is Nicole Karras while her mom, a teacher at Worthingway, escorts her down the stage.

PIZZA, PIZZA!! Choir members Katie Queen, Sara Foley, Becca Siano, Julie Ucker, and Tina Reasbeck relax with upside-down pizza after a tiring day of visiting the sights of Chicago during this year's choir trip. Hey, Katie, are those curlers the latest fashion item in Chicago, or are you just trying to impress the guys??

WE LOVE YOU, MRS. HANNIGAN!! This year's thespian initiation wasn't as humiliating as past years, but Julie Carvey did do a wonderful job of portraying the drunken Mrs. Hannigan from everybody's favorite movie Annie!! Yes, Daddy Warbucks, the sun WILL come out tomorrow.

Vanities

A Comedy about Relationships

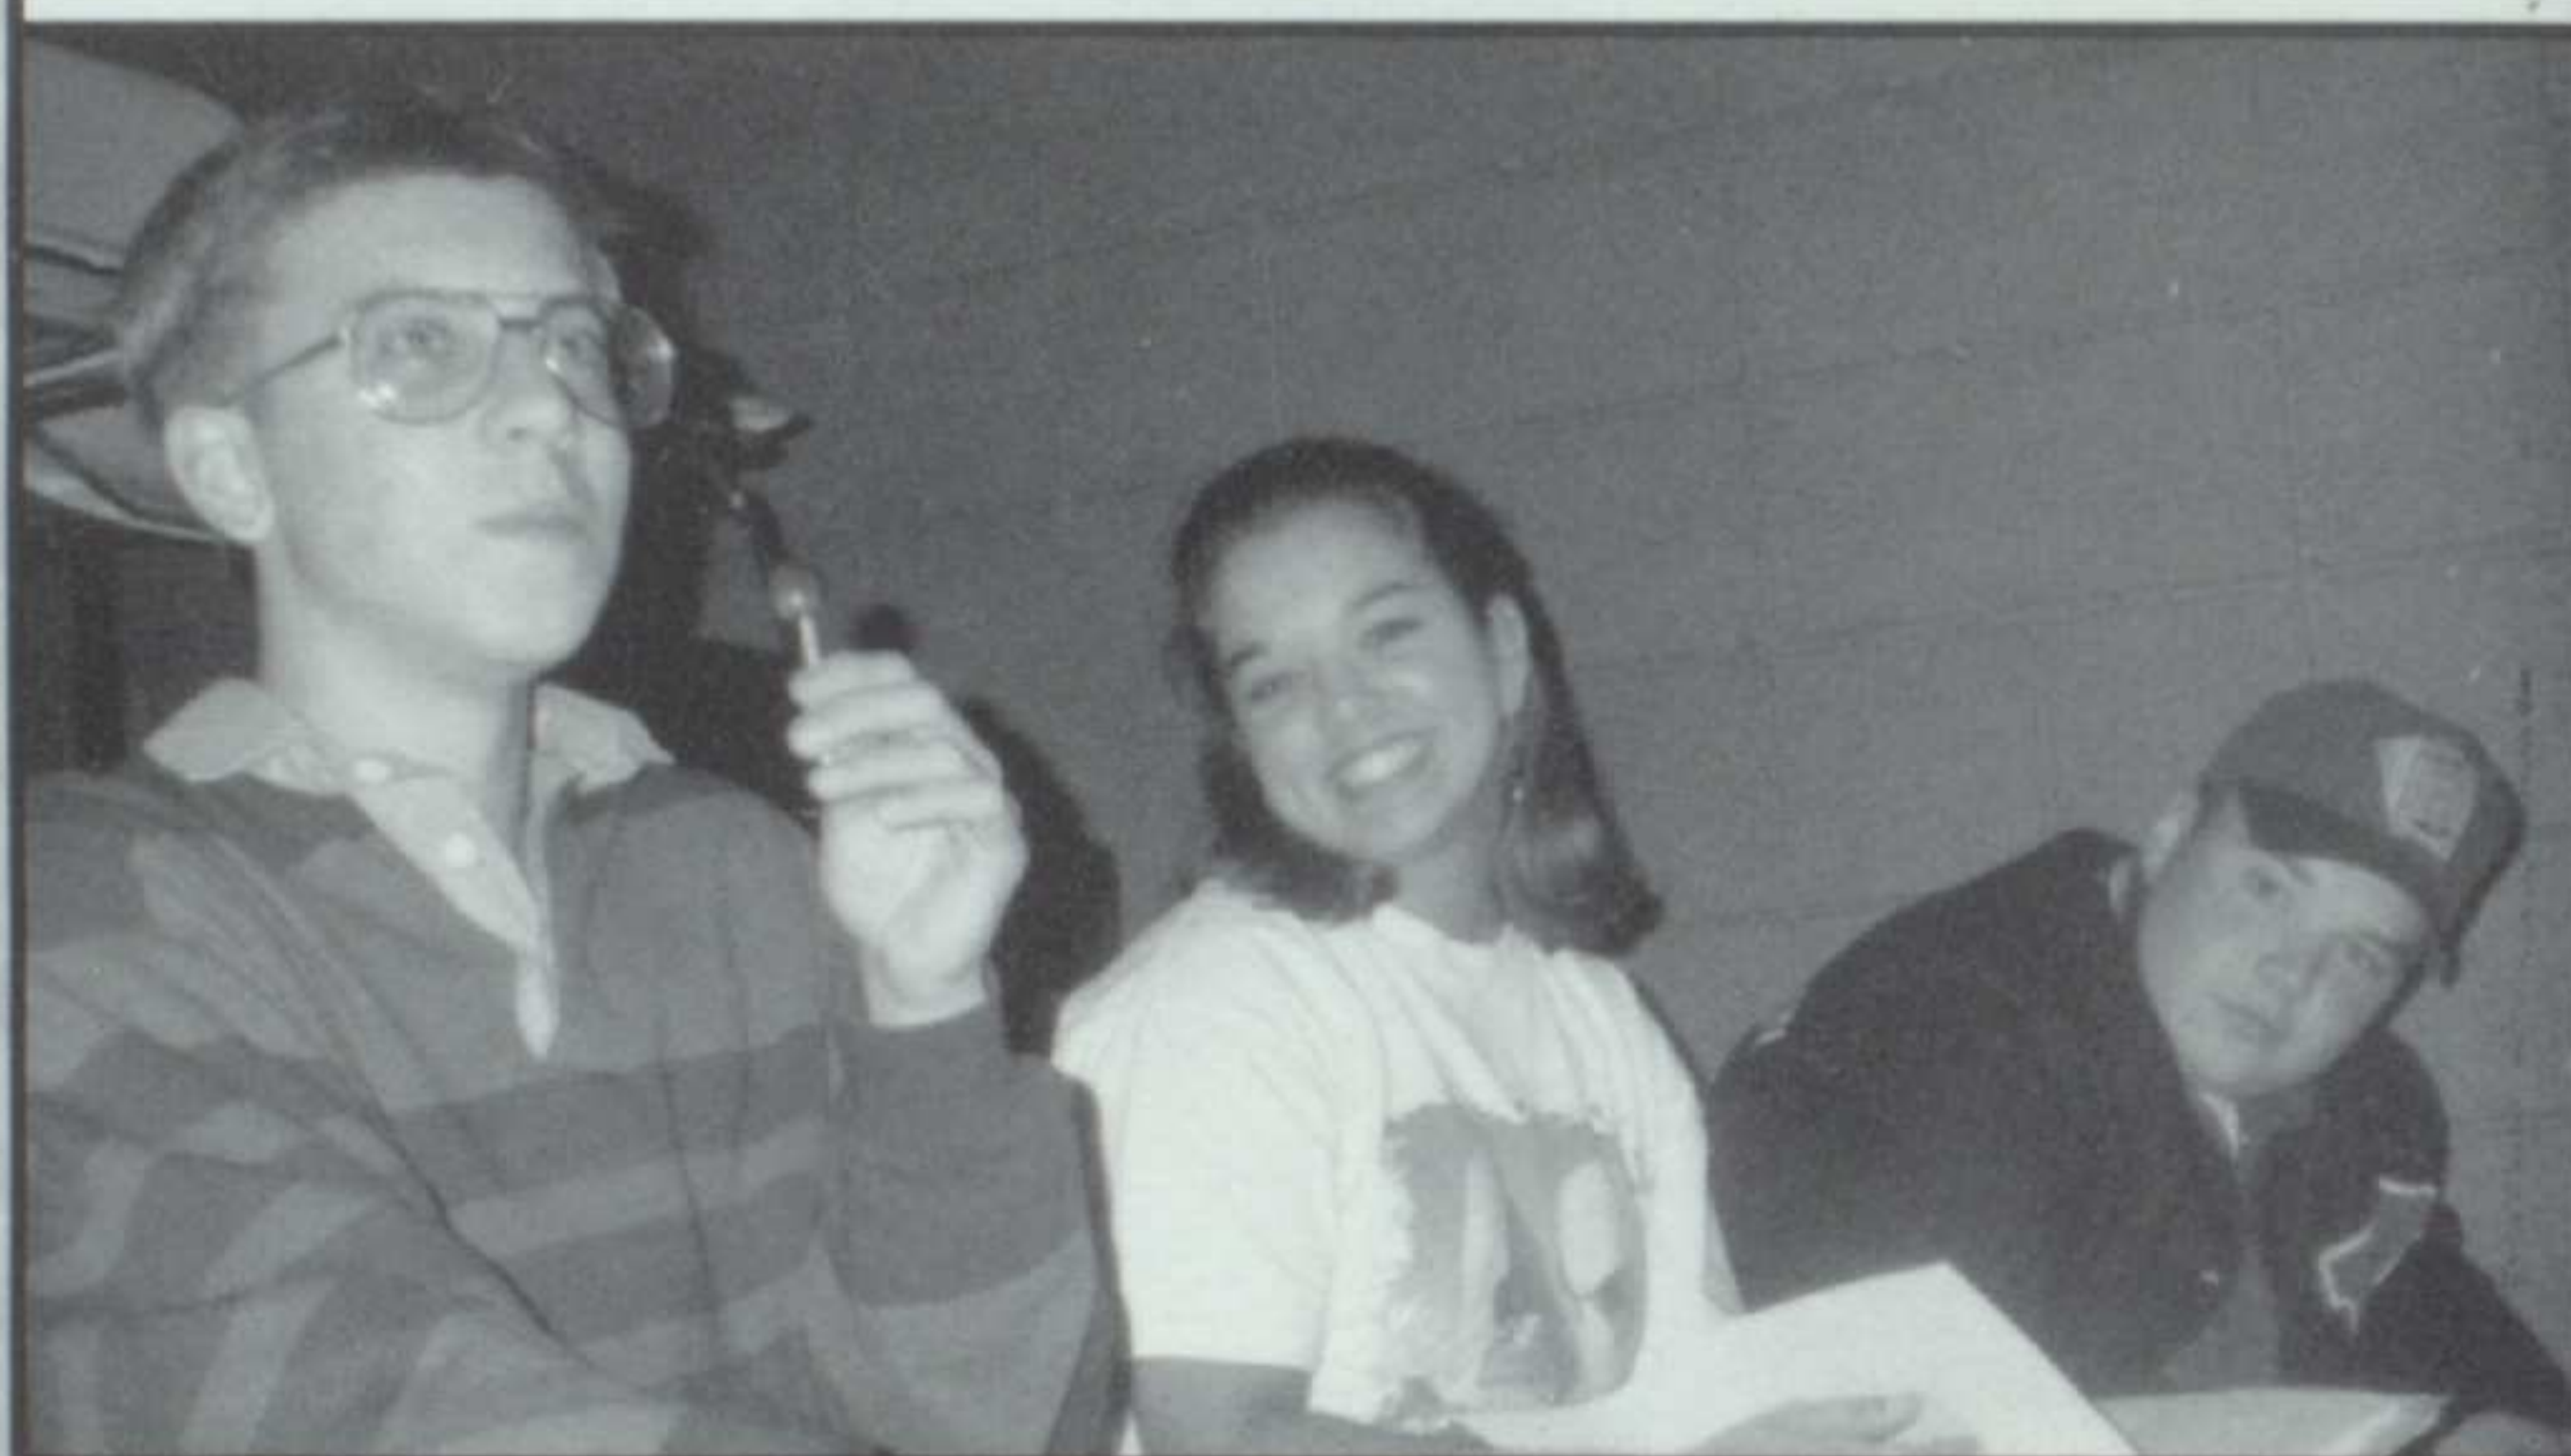

The first production of the Worthington Kilbourne Theater Repertory Department was a humorous comedy titled Vanities. The story, set in Texas, focuses on three women, Kathy, JoAnne, and Mary, who are close friends in high school. During the span of eleven years, the group of friends reunite three times, revealing a change in each of them. At every meeting they grow further apart while each character focuses on what's important in her life. Although the change is very sad, the actresses who portray the women, Gray Sutherland-Rice, Samantha Turner, and Erin Prosser, did a wonderful job at making it humorous.

"Mmm, this lollypop tastes sooo good," says Cory Schnelle. Sheri Schneider agrees with a smile as Jon Yount wonders what they are talking about.

Monologues

Talking With & Daughters Face Issues

"I am the most beautiful girl in the world," smiles Alicia Rosko as she performs her skit about "Beauty."

Selections from Talking With by Jane Martin and Daughters by Maya Levy marked the second presentation by the Worthington Kilbourne Theatre Repertory Department. This play consists of a collection of monologues by different women. Covering the course of their lives these women uncover truth about some very difficult subjects. From a girl dealing with her mother's death to an actress' anticipation before going on stage, this play takes the audience on an emotional rollercoaster.

A Midsummer Night's Dream

A Shakespearean Classic

The Shakespearean classic, A Midsummer Night's Dream, allowed the theatre department to adapt Shakespeare's Elizabethan style to a modernized version with a Native American motif. Senior Martin Lamp, playing Lysander, said, "The lines were really hard, but I was glad to be a part of it." The story looks at one of our most powerful emotions, love. It explains the difference between love and lust and why people feel both. William Shakespeare sums up the whole story by saying, "Love looks not with the eye but with the mind."

Antigone

Antigone marked the fourth production by the theatre department. This version of the Greek legend comes from a Paris that suffered under the threat of Hitler. In the story, the two sons of Oedipus, late King of the city Thebes, start a civil war, and both are killed. The new King, Creon, blames one of the brothers for provoking the war; therefore, he does not deserve the proper burial. After Antigone, an individualist, covers the body of her brother with earth, Creon has her buried alive as punishment for her action. This eventually brings upon the destruction of his son, his wife, and his country. The thespians displayed, once again their fine acting abilities.

By Beth Rich

Creon, played by Dan Milnor, reads his book for inspiration.

The three guards, Adam Vary, Matt Hollern, and Tome Nielsen, pass the time by playing cards. Great acting job guys!!

Blue Horses

A Story About Friendship

As children blossom into young adults, they begin to question themselves. In Blue Horses by Katherine Schultz Miller self awareness is the main theme of this tale of four friends and their struggles. The story takes place late at night as the group develops a game of "Wish Upon A Star" where they go around the circle telling each other their deepest secrets. These secrets bring them closer as they learn to understand the ups and downs of growing up, developing self confidence, and making friends.

A Murder Mystery

The production of Nine Girls combined the elements of suspense, humor, and fear to a story that is rather disturbing. Nine sorority sisters plan a wonderful weekend getaway to their mountain getaway to their mountain. The purpose is to induct two new girls into the sorority. Their weekend turns ugly when one of the sisters winds up dead. Little do they know that the murderer is amongst them. The personalities of the girls and how they deal with each other during this crisis make the play humorous. This murder mystery proves the old adage that when we do something wrong it will always come back to haunt us no matter how obsessed we become with saving ourselves.

By Beth Rich

A scared Sharon, played by Lauren Strasser, has just heard the news of her friend's death.

The youngsters, Jennifer Gilbert and Christine McGarvey who play Shirley and Betty, try to get initiated into the sorority, but unusual circumstances delay the event.

Guys and Dolls

A Broadway Musical

"When you see a guy reach for stars in the sky, you can bet he's doing it for some doll." This quotation captures the theme of Guys and Dolls which is based on the story and characters of Damon Runyon. This musical has a history of Broadway performances that adapt well to the high school stage. Combining their acting and singing skills, Bethany Broadfoot, Kevin Blackburn, Erin Lyons, Jeff Poziviak and a large ensemble cast created a memorable production. The Pit Orchestra, composed of Kilbourne's finest musicians, provided the musical accompaniment for the play. The costumes proved to be spectacular: from the Hot Box Dancers to the wedding reception, it was easy to see the hard work that went in to each outfit.

Both performance nights found a large audience of students who enjoyed the musical. Erin Tunis commented, "Very entertaining. It was nice to see all the recognizable faces on stage. Everyone did such a good job." Guys and Dolls was the highlight for both the musical and theatre departments.

A Voice Of My Own

Expressing Your Voice

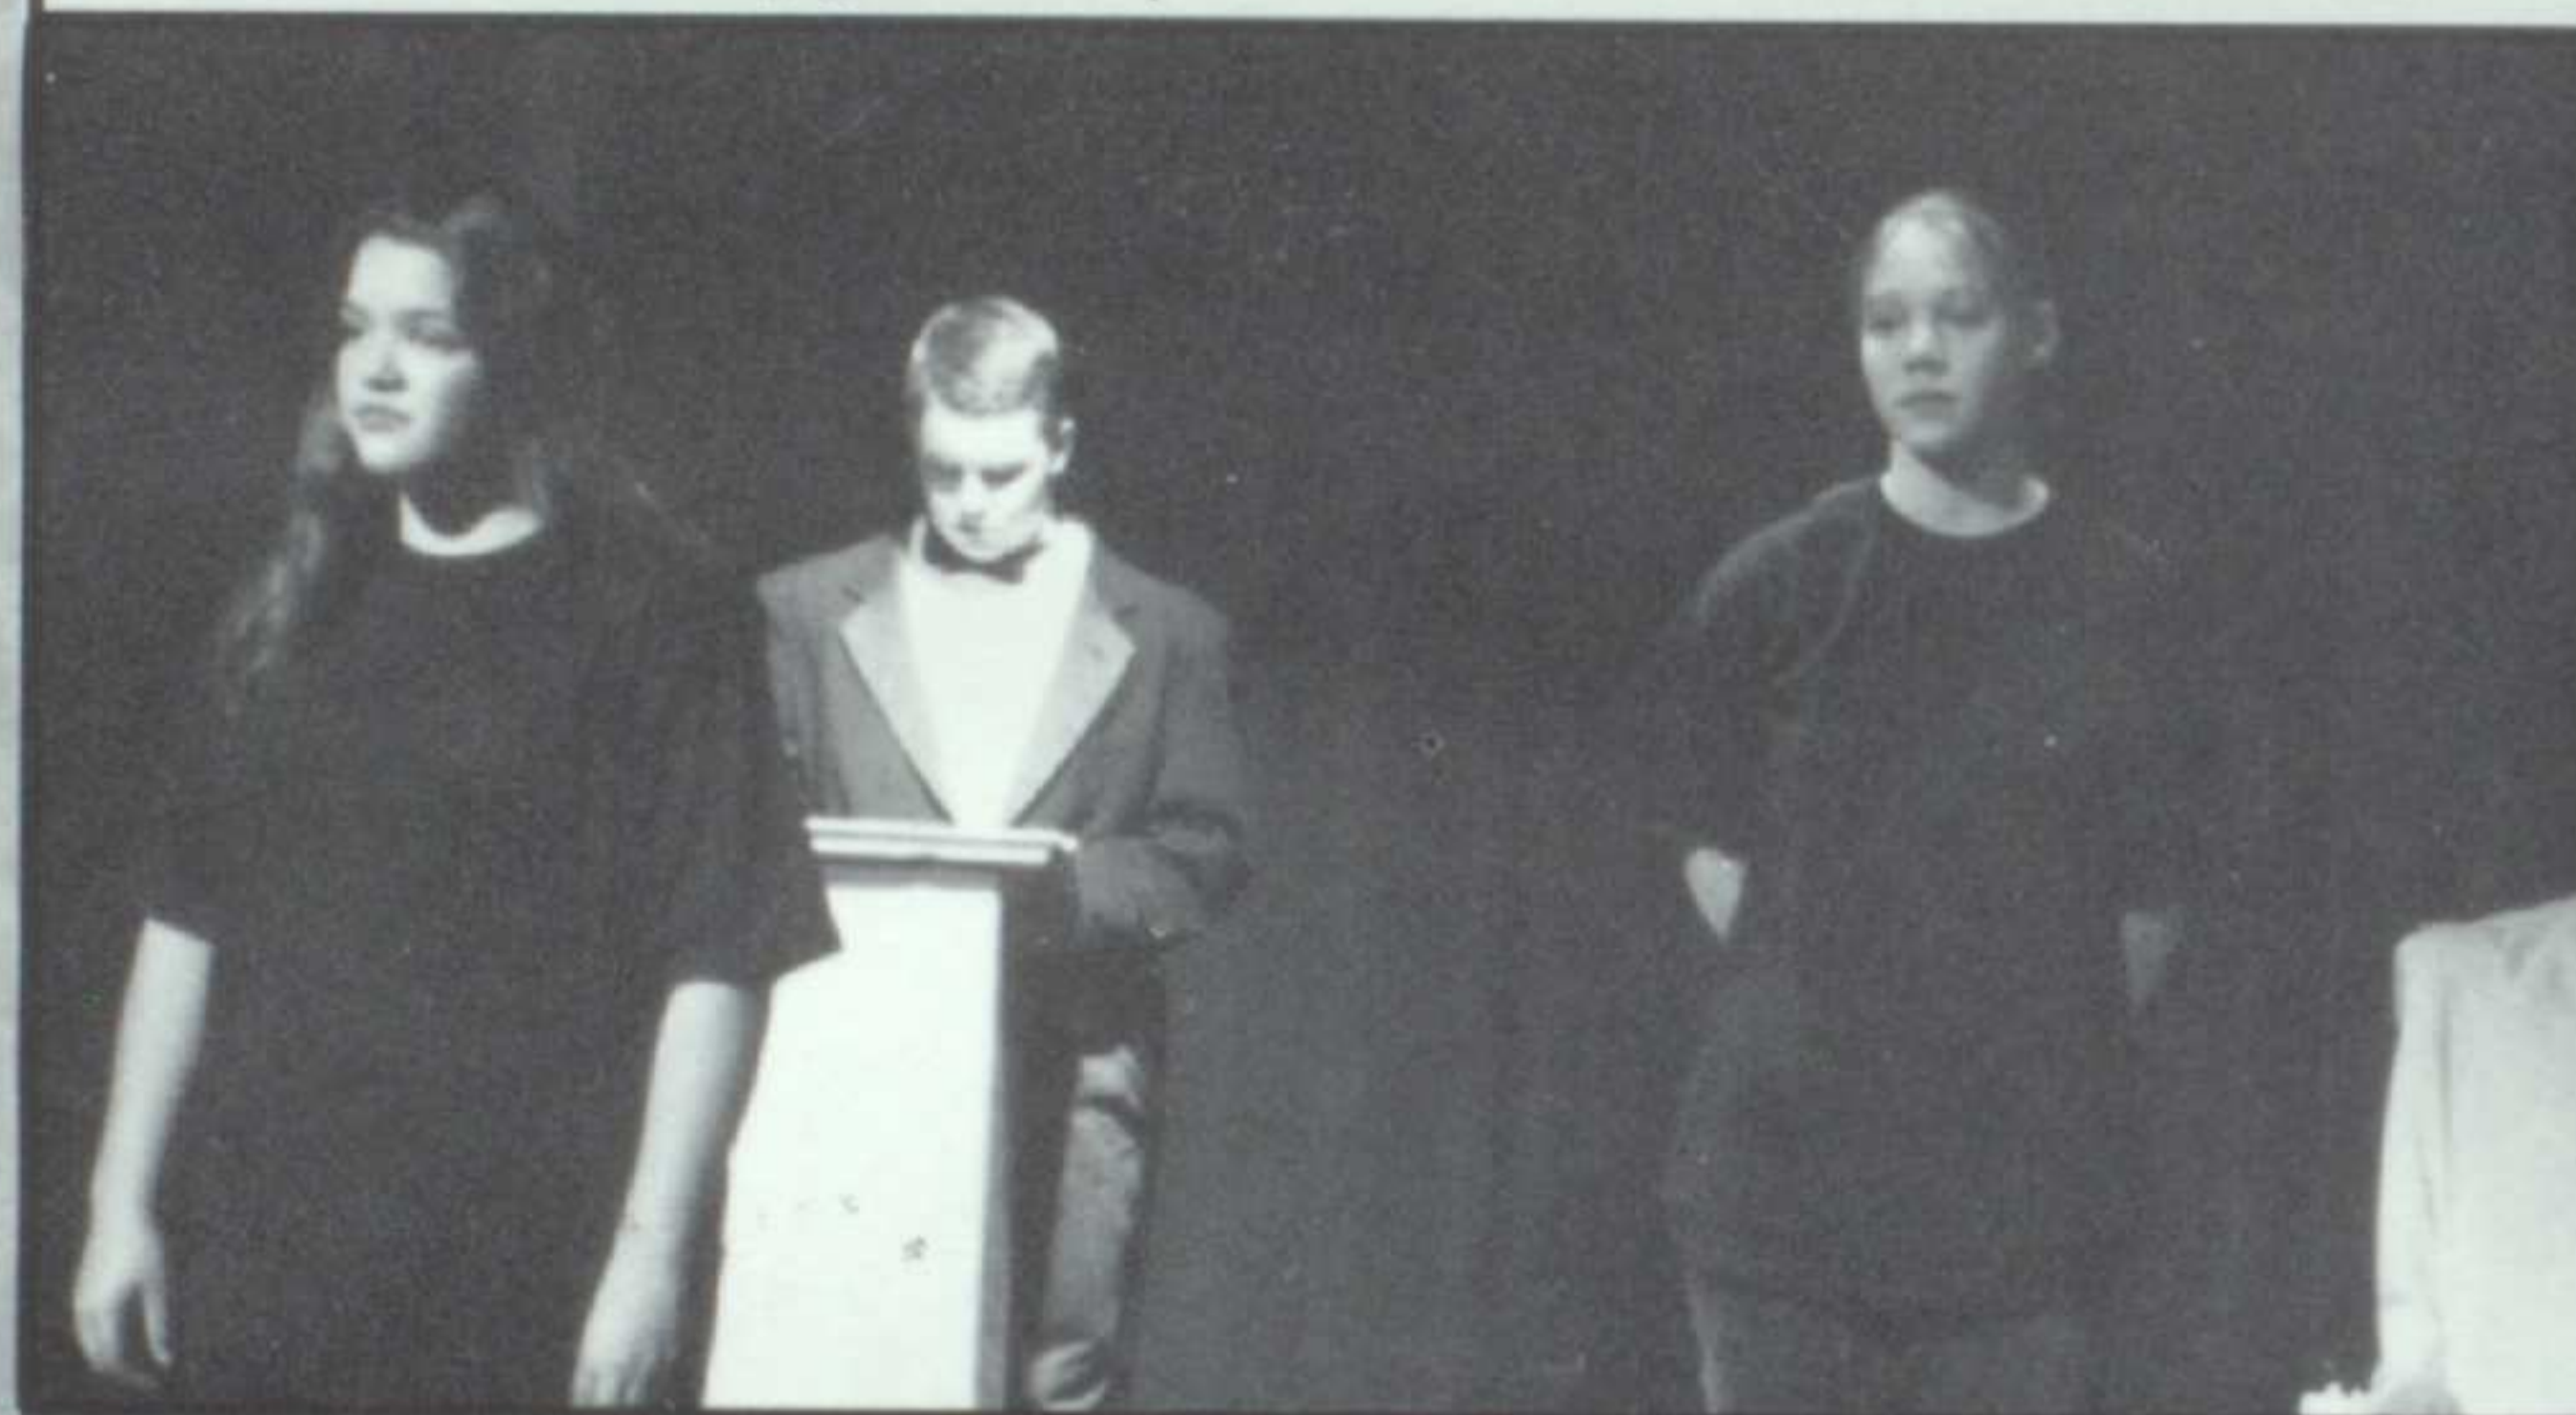

A Voice Of My Own by Elinor Jones tells the story of a group of women who learn to speak their opinions during a time when society didn't really allow them to. In the past women have surpassed incredible odds to speak their minds. The author was asked by a dance instructor to write a play based on the women in her class. It tells of how women who aren't supposed to speak their minds obtain this right. Today we sometimes take for granted our ability to say anything we want. It was women like the ones in this play who fought for our rights to do this.

Greater Tuna

Welcome to Tuna, Texas

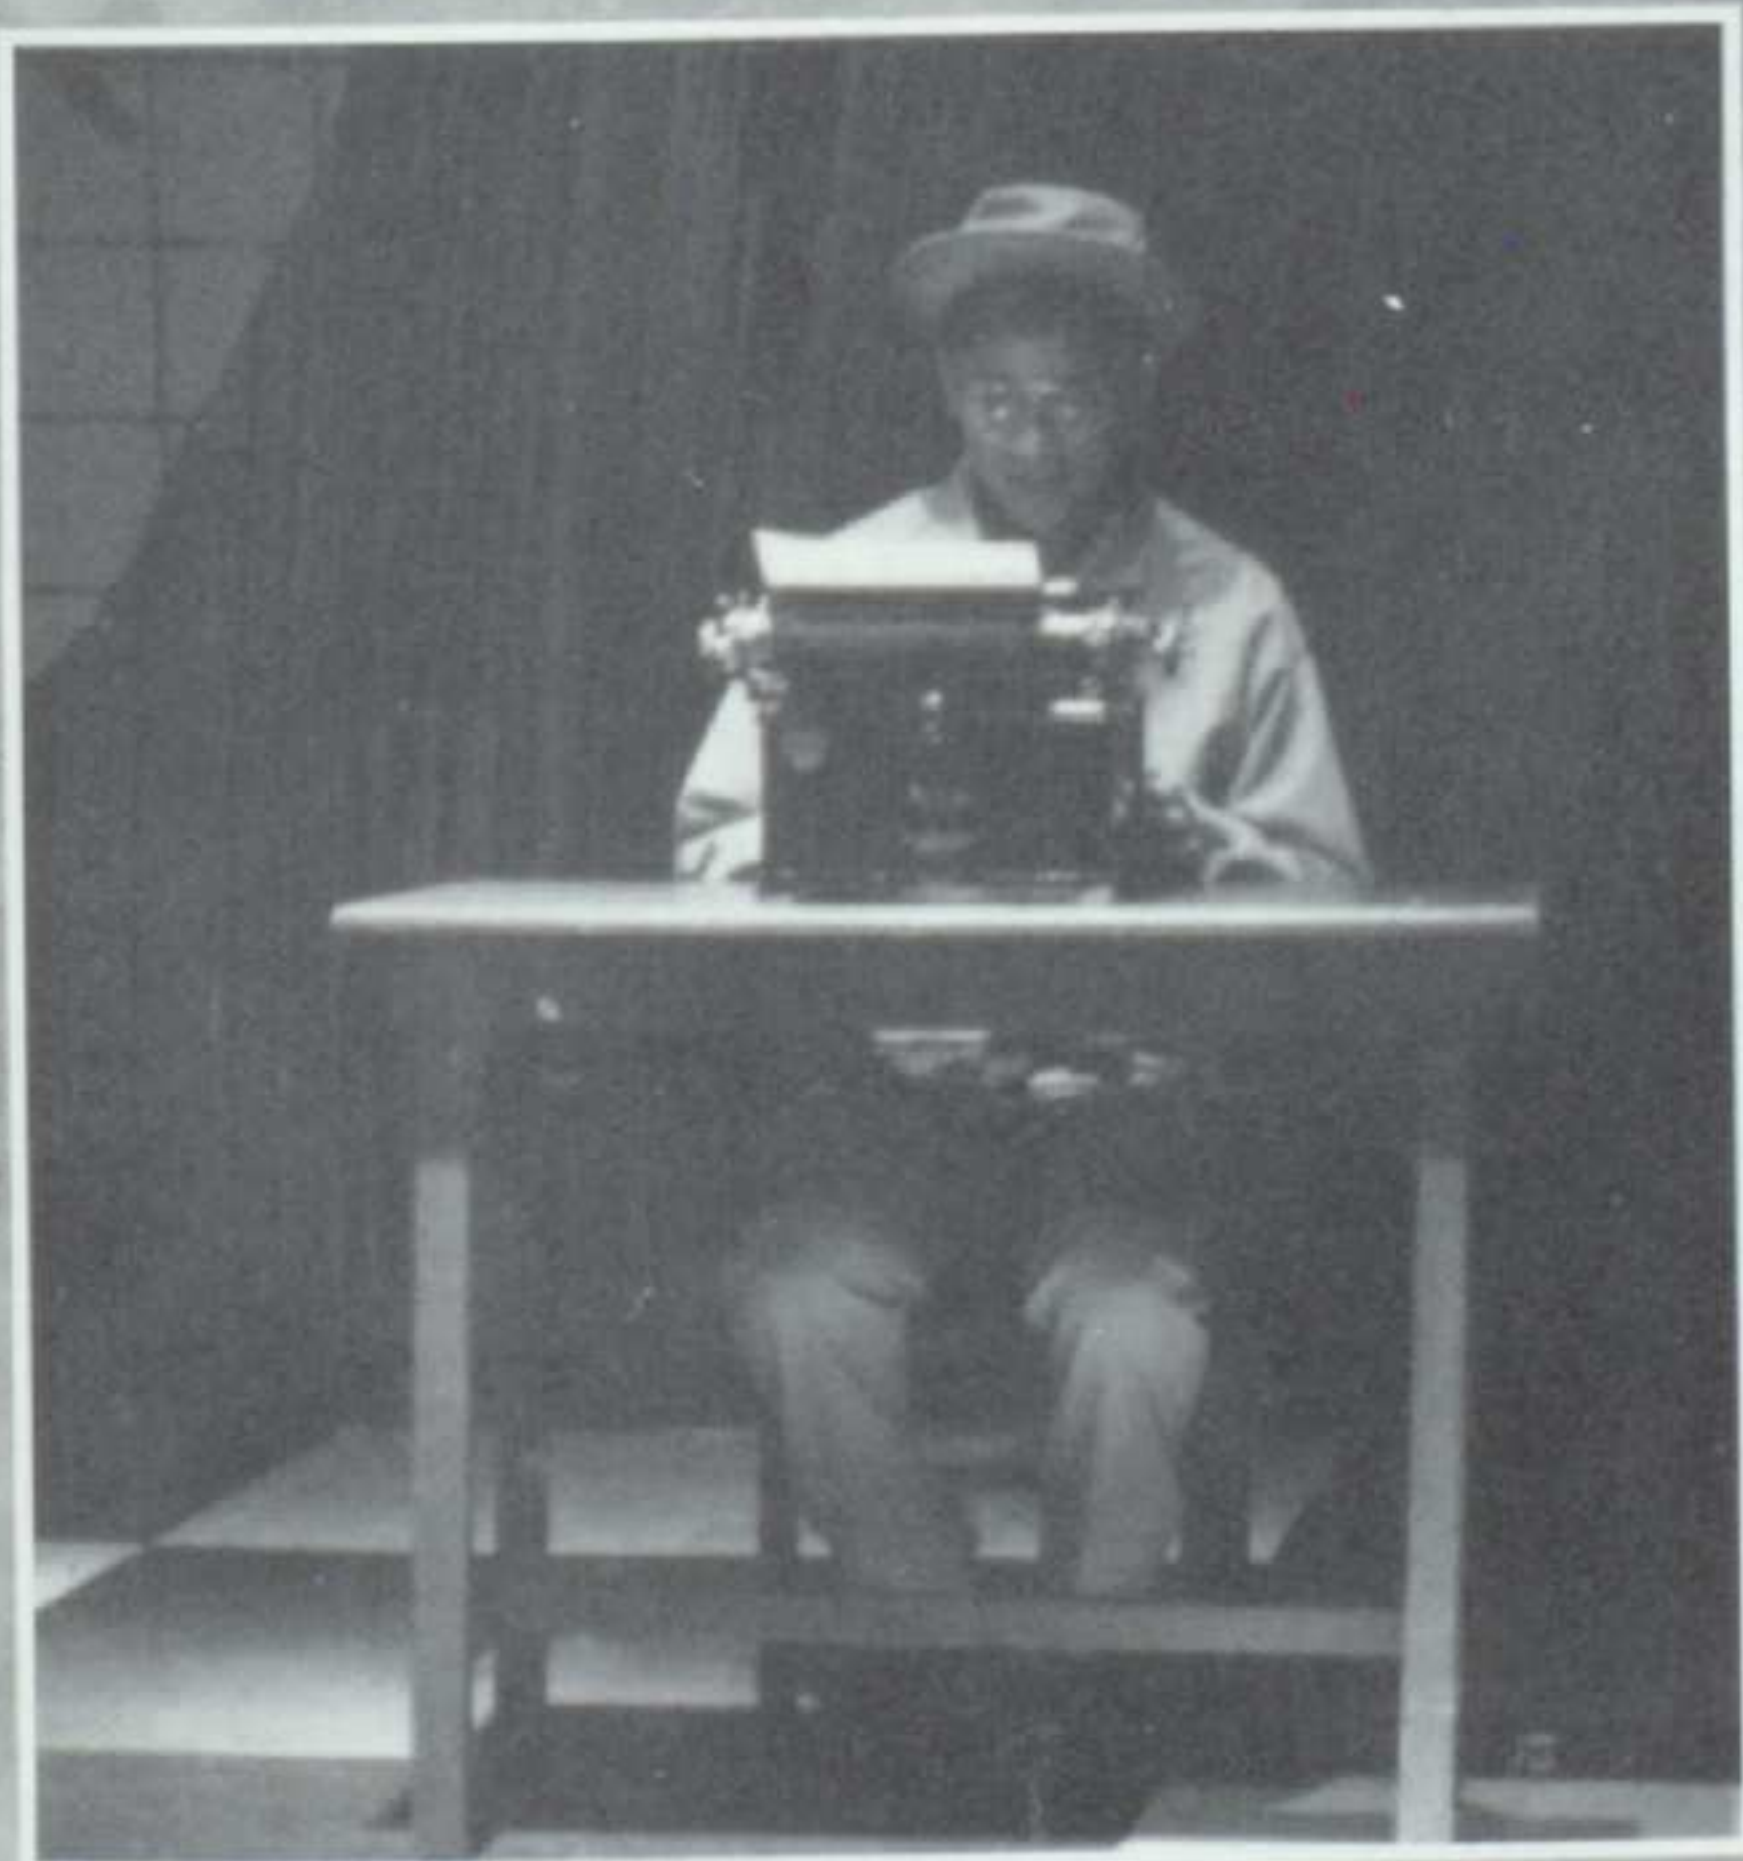

Thurston, played by Brandon Kennedy, and Arles, played by Jon Yount, read the morning news to the town of Tuna, Texas, except they forgot to turn on the microphone.

Arles Struvie, Thurston Wheelis, and Petey Fisk are just a few of the upstanding citizens of Tuna, Texas-third smallest town in Texas. The play Greater Tuna called for three clever actors Jon Yount, Brandon Kennedy and Matt Cherubino to use their talent to portray a total of twenty-one different characters. They played women, children, a sheriff, a coach, a hippie, and a drunk. Their voices and costumes changed to enhance each character. The audience responded to the humor each character possessed. The play was a huge success as it proved the talent of the three actors.

BAND OFFICERS

ACTIVITIES

The Steppin' Wolves entertain the crowd with a half-time show at both home and away games. They participate in pep rallies, fundraisers, and parades. The musicians provide music for our ears while the drill team, colorguard, two majorettes and a feature twirler provide entertainment for our eyes.

MAJORETTES

Maria Gabel, Jackie Weber (feature twirler) and Jessica Carvey.

Field Commanders Grant Kibbey and Kate Blanchard are excited to be the first team to direct the band. Kate is an ex-cadette and Grant is a former trombone player.

Freshman Jackie Weber is Worthington Kilbourne's first "feature twirler." Even though it's only her first year, she always puts on a spectacular show, dazzling the audience with her difficult routines. In this shot she proves that practice makes perfect. Way to go, Jackie!!!

"Since when did playing Shane Kibbey's trumpet for him become a requirement of being a band officer?" Mark Bloomberg wonders as he plays two instruments. Sorry, Mark, being a band officer is a tough job, but somebody has to do it.

MOVING TO THE BEAT

COLORGUARD

ACTIVITIES

The Colorguard and the Drill Team are visual auxiliaries to complement the marching band. Both teams work extremely hard on routines that showcase the music the band plays. The Colorguard is in its second year of existence here at W.K.H.S while the drill team originated with the opening of the school in 1991. Both teams attend band camp during the last two weeks in August.

FALL DRILL TEAM

Megan Anderson and Hallie Cramer hit their ending position sharply with big smiles. Shake it, ladies!!!

Preparing to march on the field, seniors Holly Spence, Julie Harmon, Emily Waggoner, and Amy Bancroft relish their last moments as Kilbourne Cadettes with their advisor/mentor, Andi Van Sickle.

Row 1: Holly Spence, Adrienne Earnest, Angela Laws, Julie Harmon, Megan Anderson, Becky Belknap, Amy Bancroft. Row 2: Emily Waggoner, Sarah Schregardus, Hallie Cramer, Lauren Strasser, Beth DeLucia, Jackie Weber, Megan Reineke. Row 3: Lindsey Brannick, April Parr, Amy Creamer, Jennifer Mosel, Stephanie Fitz, Christa McKnight, Lana Roebke.

At the Port Columbus Airport, the Worthington Dance Team prepares to fly off for four days of fun, excitement and a load of hard work in Orlando, Florida, where they will dance at nationals. This is the team's second year competing in Florida. They are hoping to make it a tradition. Way to go, girls!!!

ACTIVITIES

The team dances at select boys' basketball games and at competitions around Ohio. They dance four line routines, each about 2 - 3 minutes long. They traveled to Orlando, Florida, in February for nationals and placed sixth in prop and 13th in pom. At states in Zanesville, they placed first in all four routines.

Putting their best feet forward, the Worthington Dance Team shows off their moves in the pom routine at one of the boys home basketball games.

With their curls bouncing, the Worthington Dance Team anxiously awaits their performance in Florida.

MAKING MUSIC

Symphonic Band, Jazz Band, Concert Band, Freshman Band and Orchestra

SYMPHONIC BAND

ACTIVITIES

Students may be in one or more of the four bands here at Kilbourne. The first level which is freshman band is the training ground. Students learn the basics of performing and gain experience. The next level is concert band or symphonic band. The main focus of the concert band is concert performances. In symphonic band, students play at school concerts and compete in both state and national contests. Jazz band is a group of auditioned members. They play at school as well as at festivals and other events. This year the bands have put together a CD called Wolf Tracks with songs from each of the groups.

The symphonic band performs at most high school band concerts and both state and national contests. In this picture they are playing at a school concert. Everyone watches as Fujino Hirai performs her flute solo.

Row 1: Greg Elshoff, Christian Toms, Mark Stempel, Brian Stempel, Kozue Yoshimiya. Row 2: Nate Reid, Brian Cooper, Aaron Lewis, Mark Bloomberg, J.D. Wylie, Shane Kibbey, Brian Sperl, Amy Asmus, Ben Webster, Grant Kibbey, Doug Hartman, Bethany Reid. Not pictured: Charlie Langstaff, Douglas Olson, Christian Penrod, Emily Weingartner, Adam Hersh.

The Jazz Band plays at the holiday assembly. Instruments played include trumpets, trombones and saxophones. A guitarist and a keyboard player are also in the band. They provide exciting, wonderful music for us all to enjoy at concerts here at school as well as at other events.

Trumpet players Emily Weingartner, Doug Hartman, Amy Asmus, Shane Kibbey, and Mark Bloomberg concentrate on their music and blow the audience away at the holiday assembly. Ben Webster and Charlie Langstaff wait to perform their solos.

CONCERT BAND

THE WOLFMEN

Joel Shireman, Jeff Poziviak, Frank Shortt, Kevin Blackburn, Fred Koury.

Two of the five Wolfmen, Joel Shireman and Fred Koury, clown around backstage before they delight the student body with the song, "I'm Getting Nuttin' For Christmas."

UPPERCLASS

Samantha Turner, Julie Roewer, Lisa Gildea, Libby Kirsch.

"On the fifth day after Christmas, those golden rings turned green. What a cheapskate!" sings Upperclass member Samantha Turner during the holiday assembly, as fellow members Libby Kirsch, Lisa Gildea, and Julie Roewer sympathize with her plight.

Members of Encore, Heather Rebele, Alicia Rosko, Amy Shough, Lisa Weidner, Ilina Sukul, Julie Carvey, Kati DiMarco, Elizabeth Urban and Kate Blanchard, dazzle the audience with their rendition of "O Holy Night."

Don't be late, Julie Roewer, because Upperclass can't perform at the assembly without you!

"ROSES ARE RED, VIOLETS ARE BLUE, CARNATIONS ARE A $1.50, AND TROLLS ARE TOO!!" After a long day of selling carnations, DECA students Schellé Nooks, Kelli Daniels, Kim Brown, and Amber Mahoney party with their advisor, Mr. Sanders.

PUT BOTH HANDS IN, PUT BOTH HANDS OUT, PUT BOTH HANDS IN, AND SHAKE THEM ALL ABOUT!! Coach Jim Callahan teaches his water-polo team that winning is harder than just playing the Hokey Pokey.

STUSSY CLOTHES ROCK!! Looks like Dave has added Mandy Yaktin, Sabrina Tyus, and Chris Klemann to his list of gullible conquests. Could it be that sunflower seeds and the hot Arizona air are frying their brain cells, or it it just the fact that they haven't showered in a week??

SURFS UP, DUDE!!! Looks like junior Carrie Newman can't tell the difference between a real surfboard and a plank of wood. I guess what they say is true. If you believe hard enough, it just might come true. Seems as if Carrie's dreams did come true at the first annual Wolfapalooza.

SMOKE IS NO JOKE!! "This piece of paper is worth more than just a tootsie roll," declares Nathan Filia. "It's worth your life." Scott Bricker and Dana Maurer seem to be in agreement for they also missed their lunch in order to work for the "Save A Sweetheart" campaign.

STUDENT COUNCIL AND CABINET ACTIVITIES

Student Council is composed of freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior representatives. The cabinet meets once a week and the council meets once every two weeks. The council is divided into three committees: Publicity, Service, Projects, and Elections. The cabinet members act as the chairmen of the committees. Some of the monthly service projects this year included the Red Cross Blood Mobile as well as the Adopt-A-Kid holiday project. Student Council planned a wide variety of activities for the students including Homecoming, Spirit Week, a rally for the levy, and Wolfapalooza. Student Council serves as a connection between students and the administration. Without them, the student body would not have a voice at WKHS.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

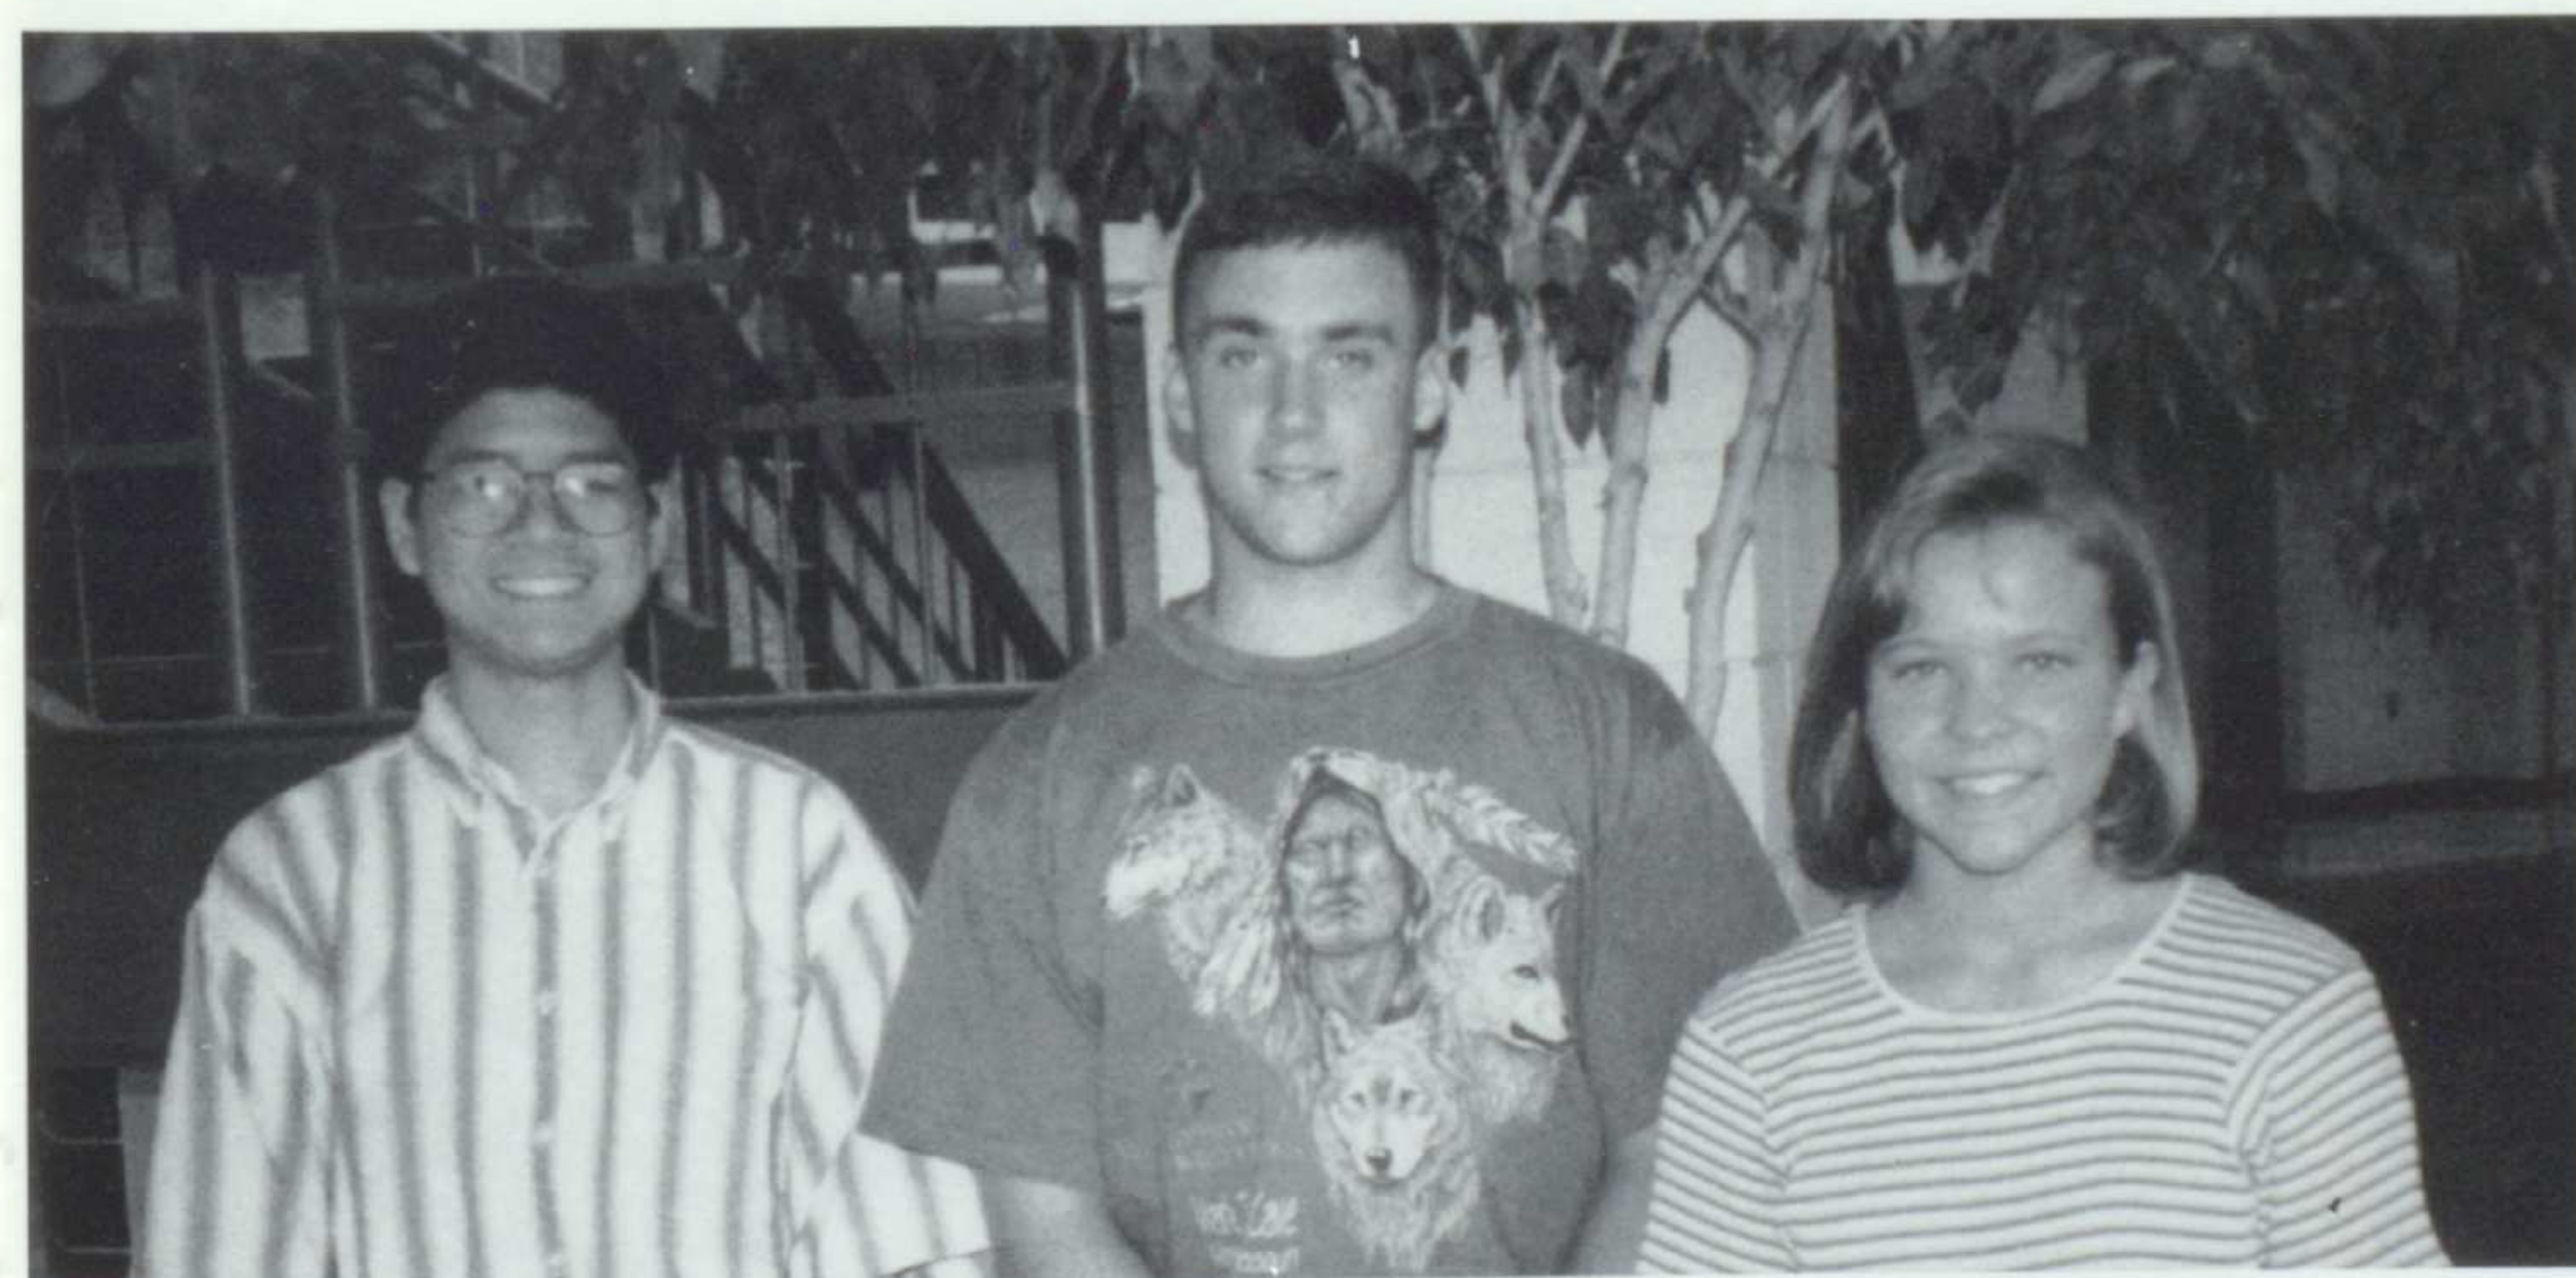

Tommy Weiser, Vice-President; Mindy Cahill, Secretary; Lori Schaeffer, Treasurer; Jake Wilson, President.

Dale Williams and Kristi Chitwood work dilligently to paint a banner for spirit week.

Tom McFarland and Erin Macrae serve snow cones at the food stand. They were just a few of the student council members who organized and worked for Wolfapalooza.

ACTIVITIES

The fall cheerleaders try out in the spring of the previous year. In the summer, the squads hold clinics for girls in grades K through 8. The squads help with the patron drive to raise money for the football team. They cheer at all football games, both home and away.

FALL J. V. CHEERLEADERS

Showing off their school spirit by cheering on the Wolves football team before a big game are Angela Bompiani, Christine Gossett, Tiffany Groves, Kristie Beck, and Diane Valine. Go Wolves!!!

Proud to show their Wolves spirit, the cheerleaders come together for a big group hug and show us all who is #1.

WINTER VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

ACTIVITIES

The cheerleaders promote school spirit for the winter teams. The squads cheer at all boy's basketball games, both home and away. They hold try-outs in the fall of the same year. They cheer and perform a routine to dance music at a pep rally for the winter sports.

WINTER J.V. CHEERLEADERS

Getting help from junior Diane Valine is the lone senior on the squad, Heather Jacobson who is urging the senior class to cheer during a pep rally.

WORKING OUT AND WINNING

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

ACTIVITIES

Members of the intramural basketball club form teams with eight players who compete weekly.

WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB

ACTIVITIES

The Weightlifting Club trains with Coach John Dill. Practicing at least three times a week pays off when the club attends competitions all over the country. Keith and Don Stickel proved that practice makes perfect at Jr. Nationals. Both received medals!

BOYS WATERPOLO

GIRLS WATERPOLO

WATERPOLO ACTIVITIES

Guys and girls involved in waterpolo start training for their matches in August. The athletes practice two times a day until November when they open their season. Both teams compete in tournaments and games in Ohio, Michigan, Maryland, and Georgia. Waterpolo ends with the state competition when the guys go to OSU and the girls go to Cincinnati. This year the guys placed third in the State. Way to go, fellas!

Sarah Foley, Heather Ogilvie, Amy Wojciechowski, Katie Murray, and Justin Tyack take turns filling up water bottles for the football players. It looks like they provide service with a smile!

STUDENT TRAINERS

ACTIVITIES

The student trainers support the athletes here at WKHS. They work with them to prevent injuries from happening and to treat injuries that have already occurred. They encourage good nutritional habits and keep the athletes well hydrated during games. In addition to medical treatment, trainers give moral support and encouragement to the players who need an extra pat on the back. Just as the athletes work together to accomplish a common goal, the trainers do the very same.

ACTIVITIES

SSAPP assists student, staff and adults regarding substance abuse prevention, education and referral. Members progress through three "phases" in which they learn to resist social and peer pressure to drink.

Climbing high above the trees is Misha Leybmen who remarked, "The trip was so fun. I really think it helped SSAPP members build trust in one another. It made us become closer as club members and as friends."

Going up?! Mr. King was glad to accompany the SSAPP members on the excursion to Camp Mary Orton. Hang on tight, Mr. King!!!

INSIGHTS

Insights is a group dealing with drug and alcohol issues. Members remain anonymous. They meet once a week with Nurse Beegle and a counselor in a group setting to discuss these issues.

LIFESKILLS CLUB

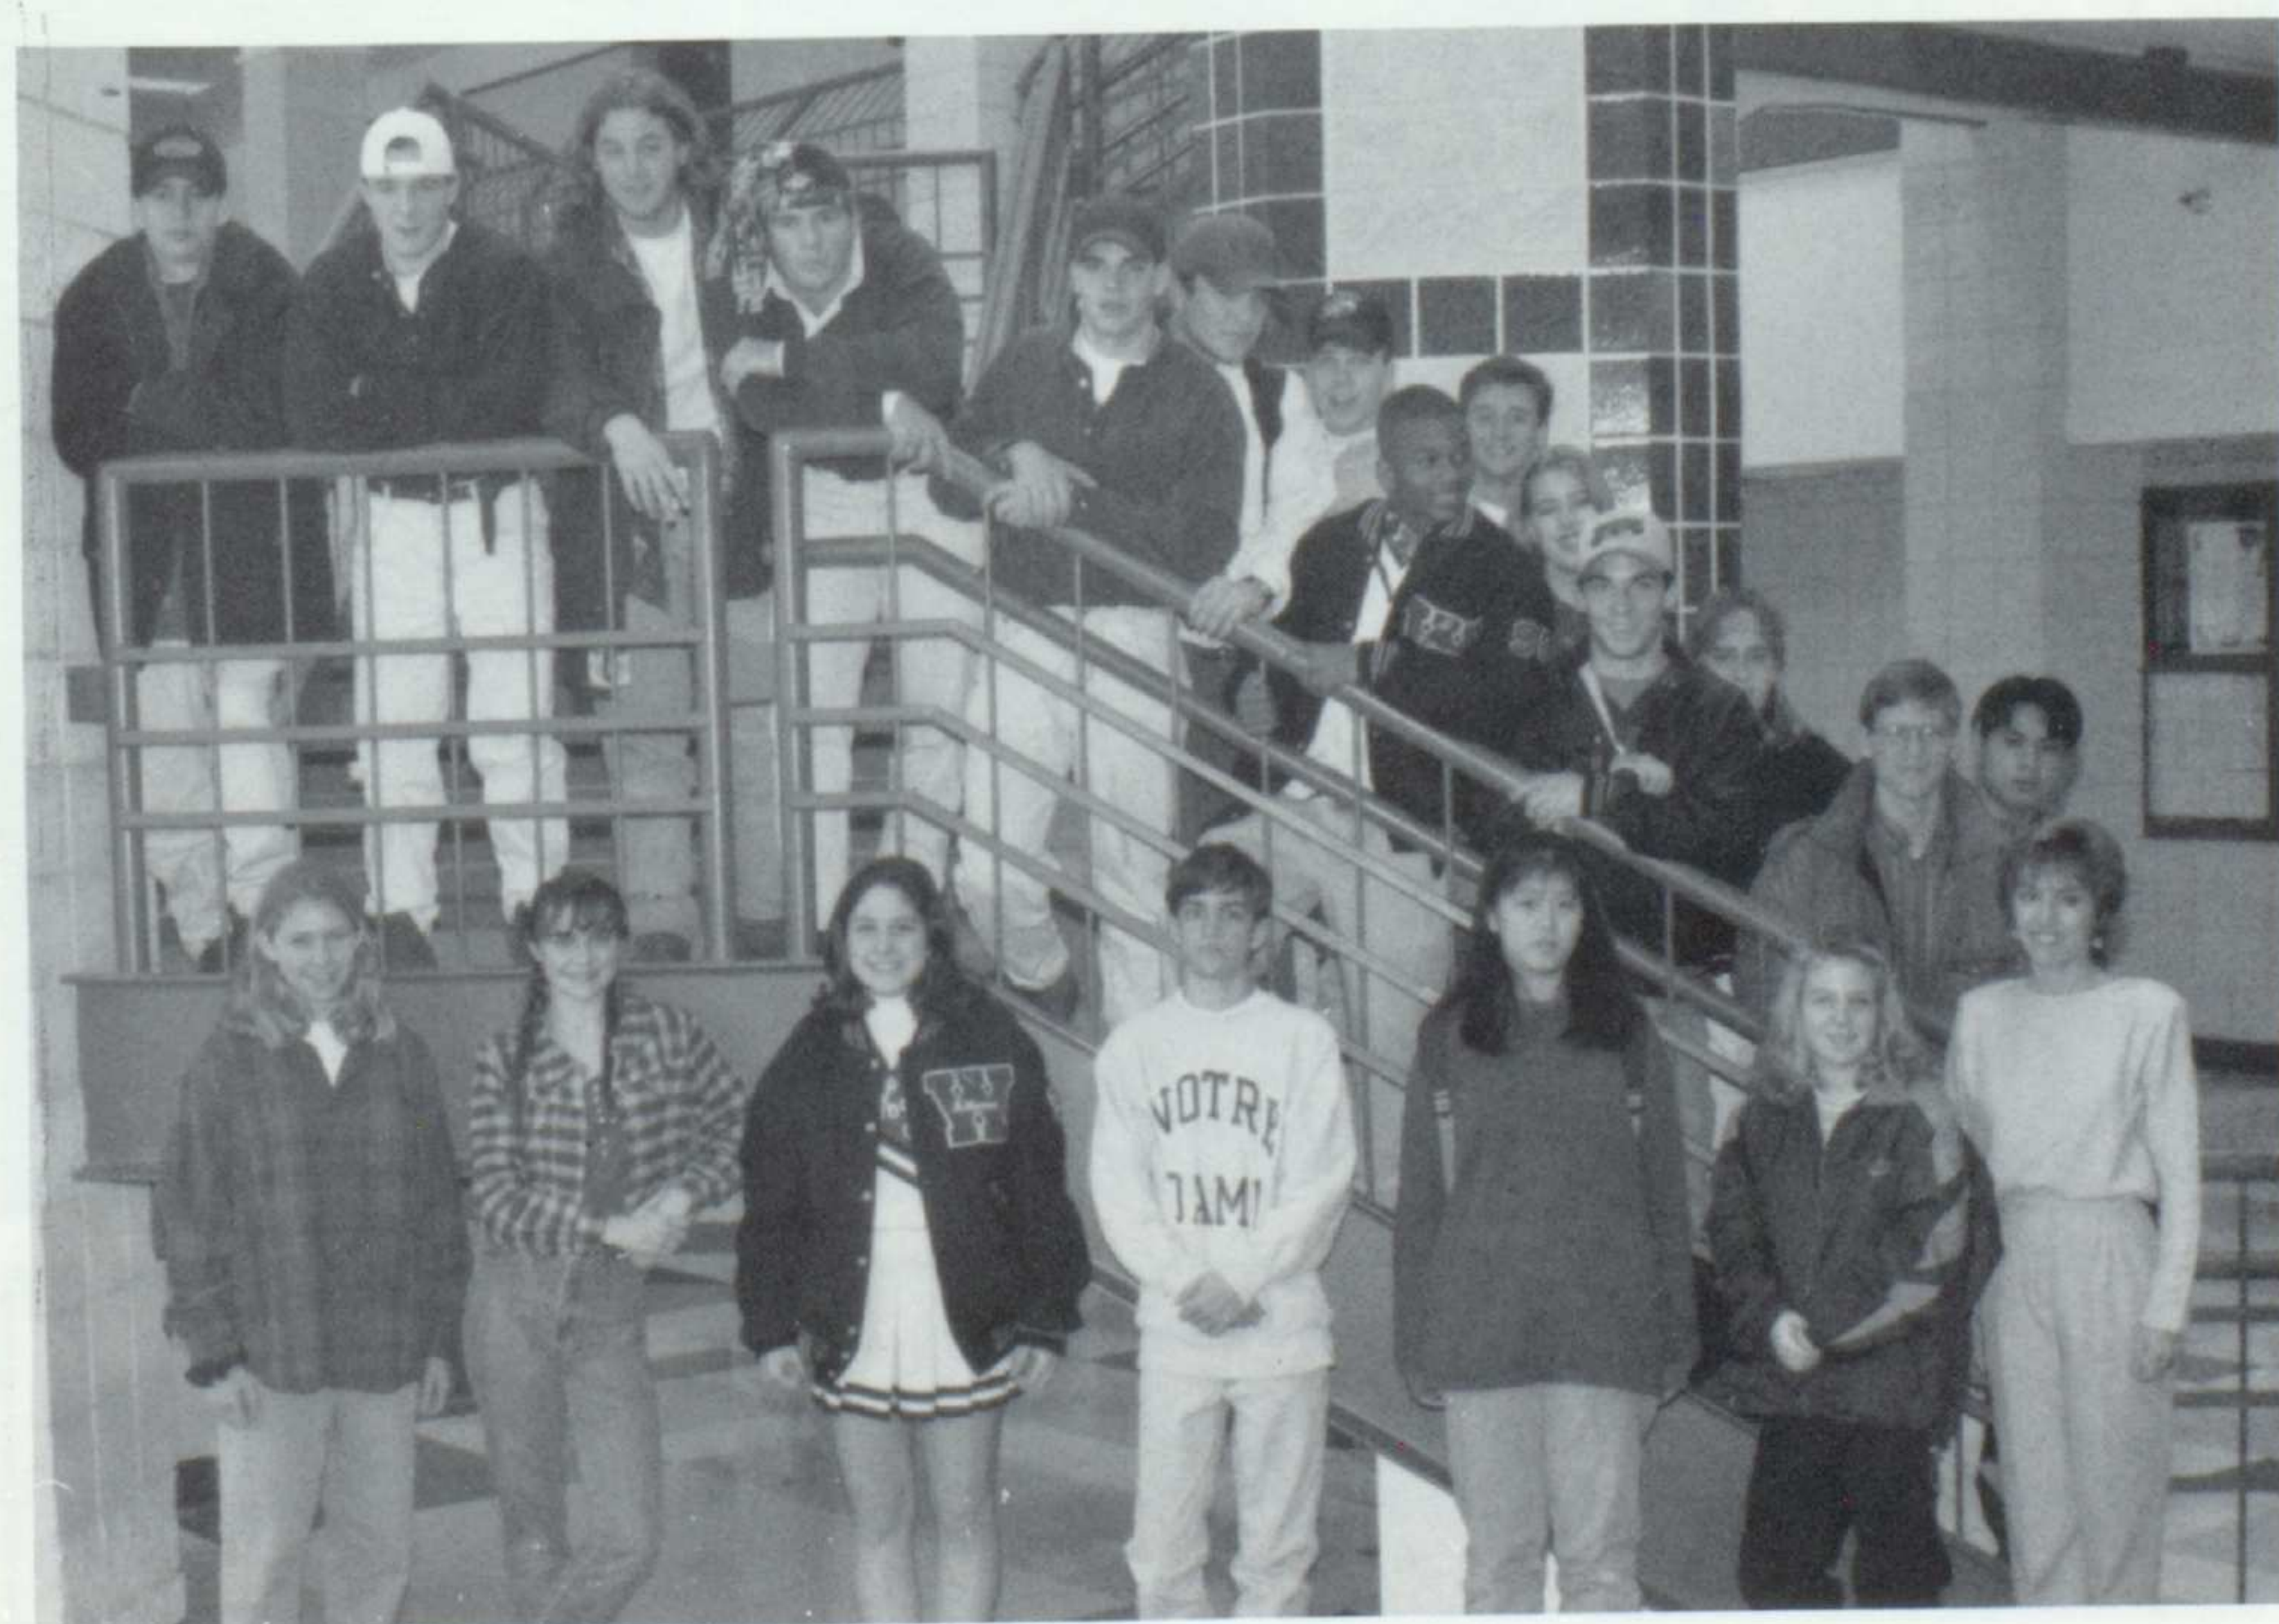

The club is an inter-curricular Service Organization of Lifeskills students. It's purpose is to promote leadership and good citizenship through service. All students enrolled in the classes are in the club. This year some of the service projects included preparing and serving meals for the homeless at Faith Mission and The Men's Shelter, Save A Sweetheart campaign, screening eye-sight for preschoolers, and helping prepare kits at COSI for educational programs.

Tom Bensen and Jason Trott were glad to help the less fortunate, by passing out clothes to those in need. The guys worked at the Faith Mission Donation Center as part of their service project.

Bruce Wimbish and Jamie Swords dig into a hearty meal of chicken, potatoes, and bread. Students planned and cooked their own meals. Just looking at it makes our mouths water!!!

Row 2: Jenny Bassinger, Amber Mahoney(President), Becky Klailee(Treasurer), Angie Brown(Secretary). Row 3: Marc Ullmann, Eric Strickland(Vice-President), Ismail Alshahal.

ACTIVITIES

The members of DECA are students in the marketing class. They work in the school store, participate in contests, and organize special events like the Prom Fashion Show.

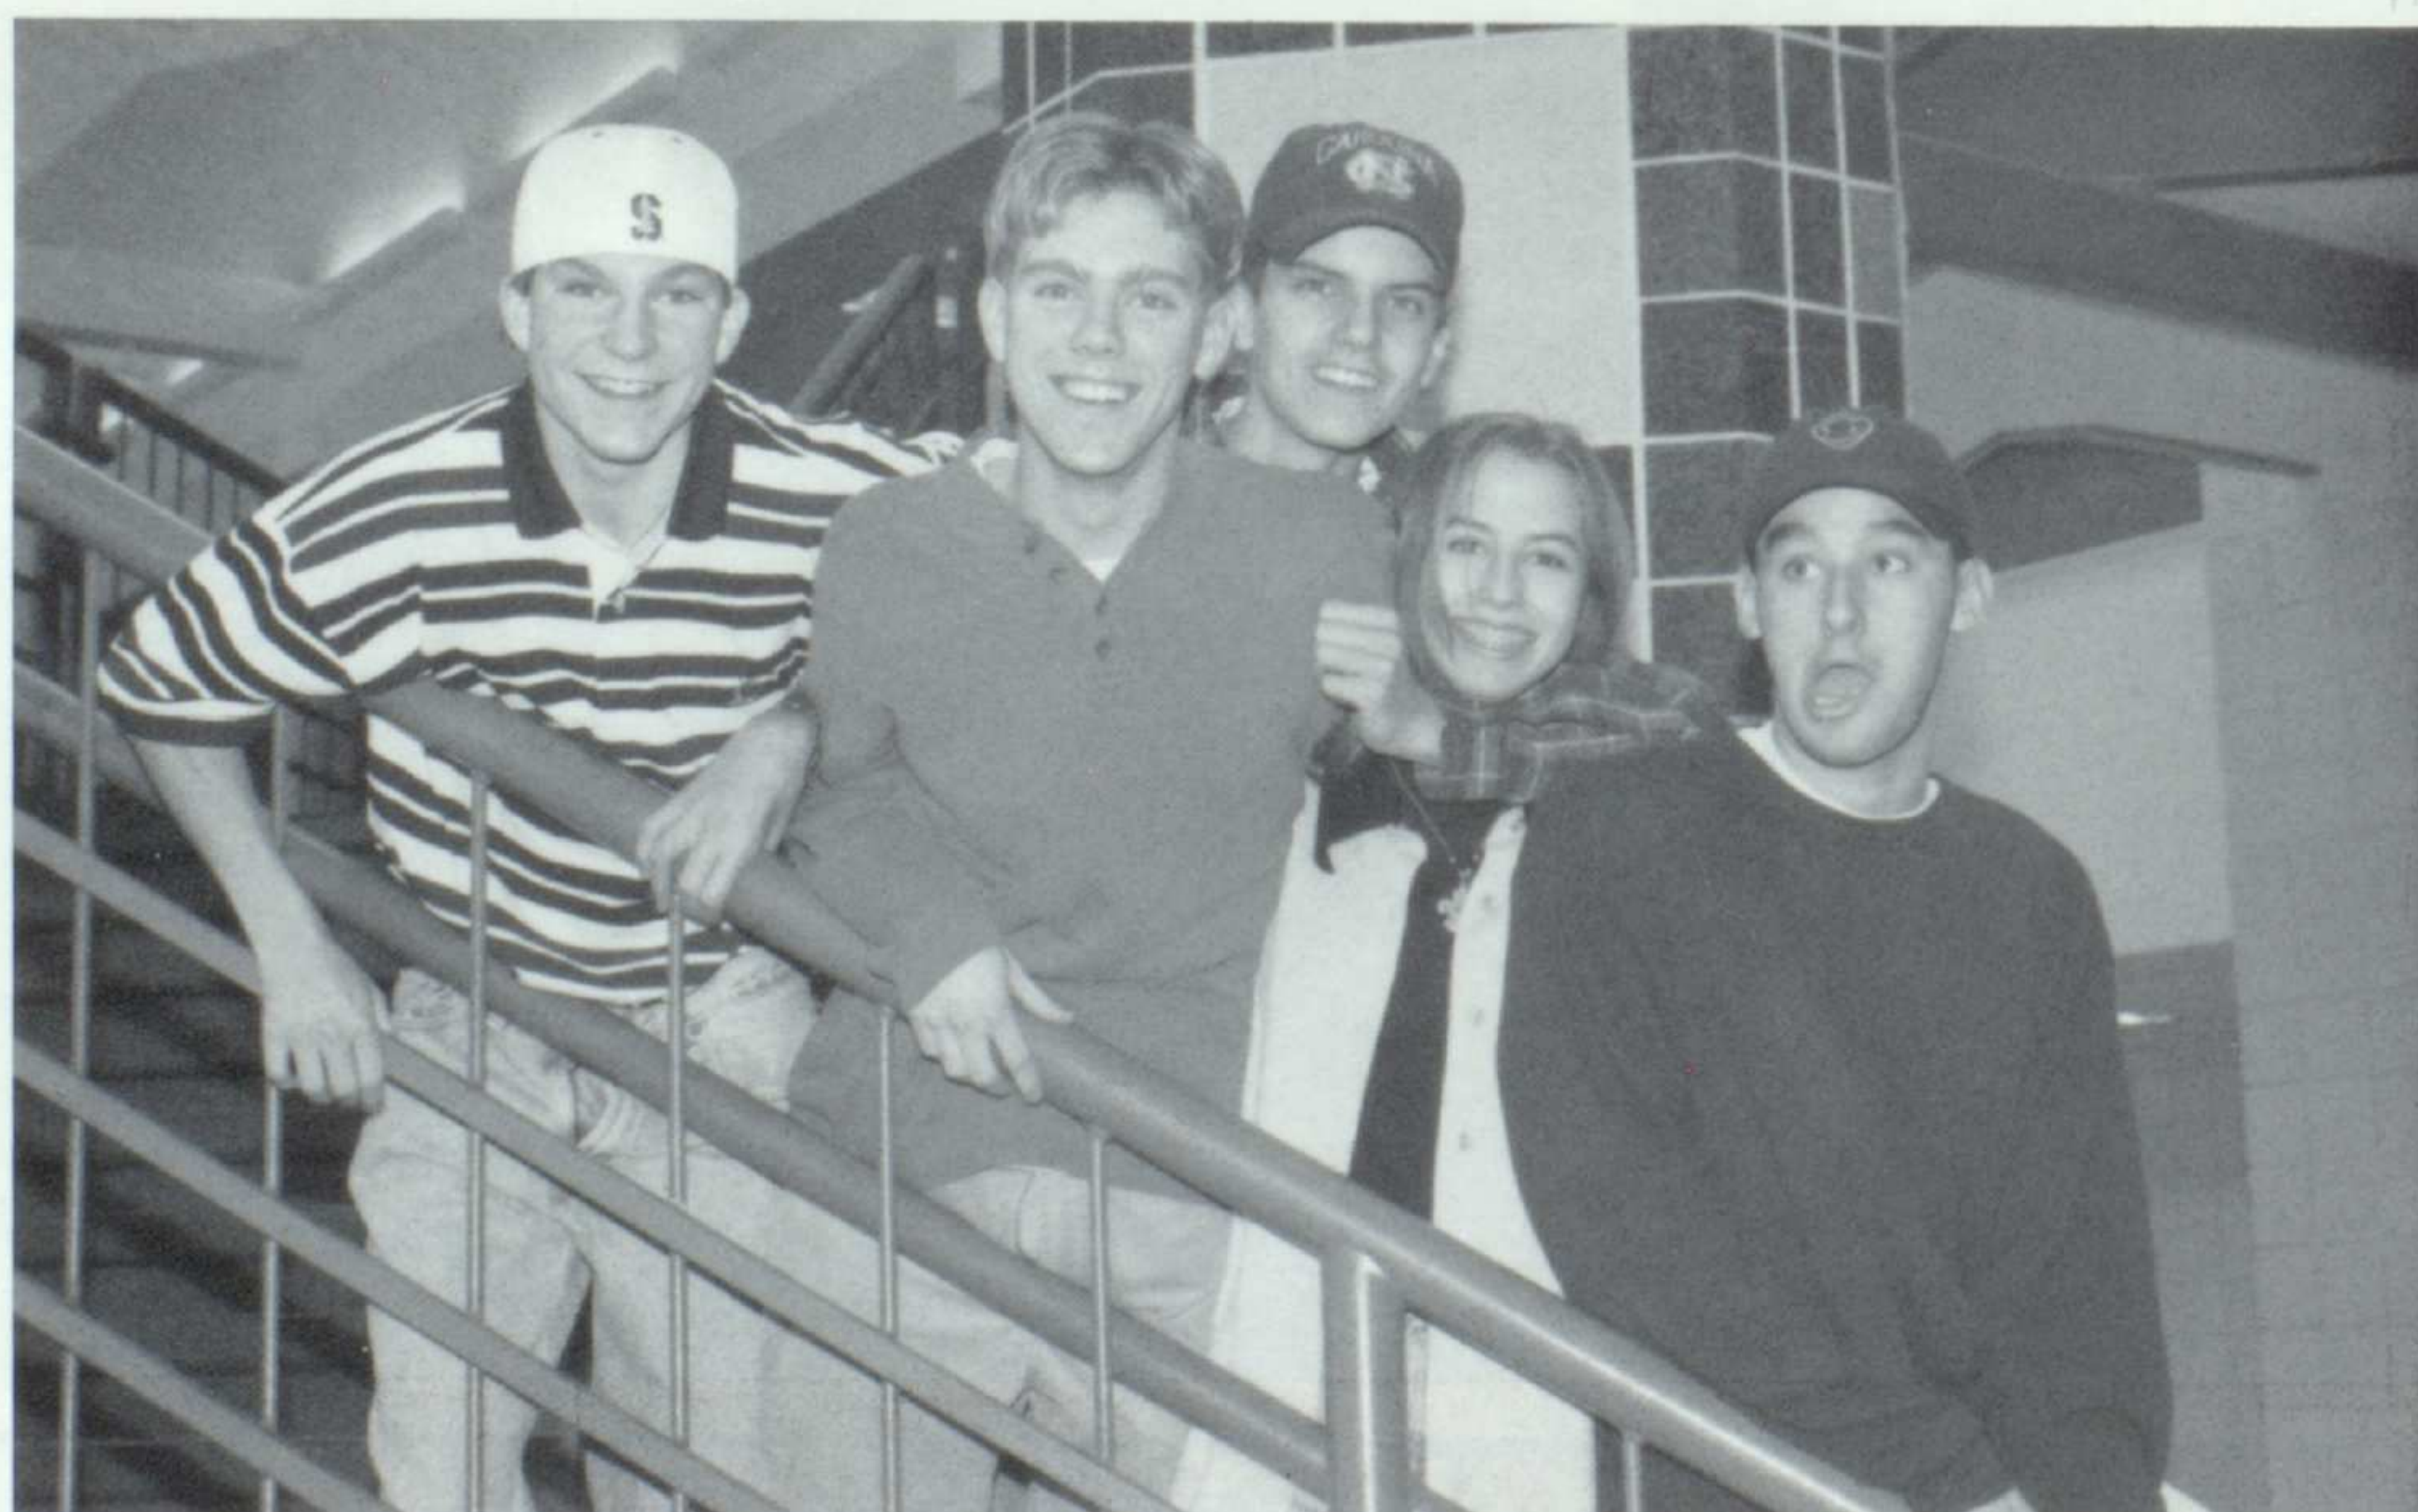

DECA students Angel Patterson, Schelle Nooks, Kim Brown, Marc Ullmann and Becky Klailee hound passers-by to make a sale at a Friday night football game with Stephanie Bowman's help.

ACTIVITIES

KNN is the Kilbourne News Network. For the past few years here at Kilbourne, they have entertained us over the Dynacom. The topics of the shows range from dances to sports, often highlighted with short, humorous skits. KNN used to program once a month, but in 1995 the frequency has dwindled. Hopefully, it won't become too sporadic because it's one of the only reasons that students actually go to homeroom.

HA! I WAS ONLY ACTING!

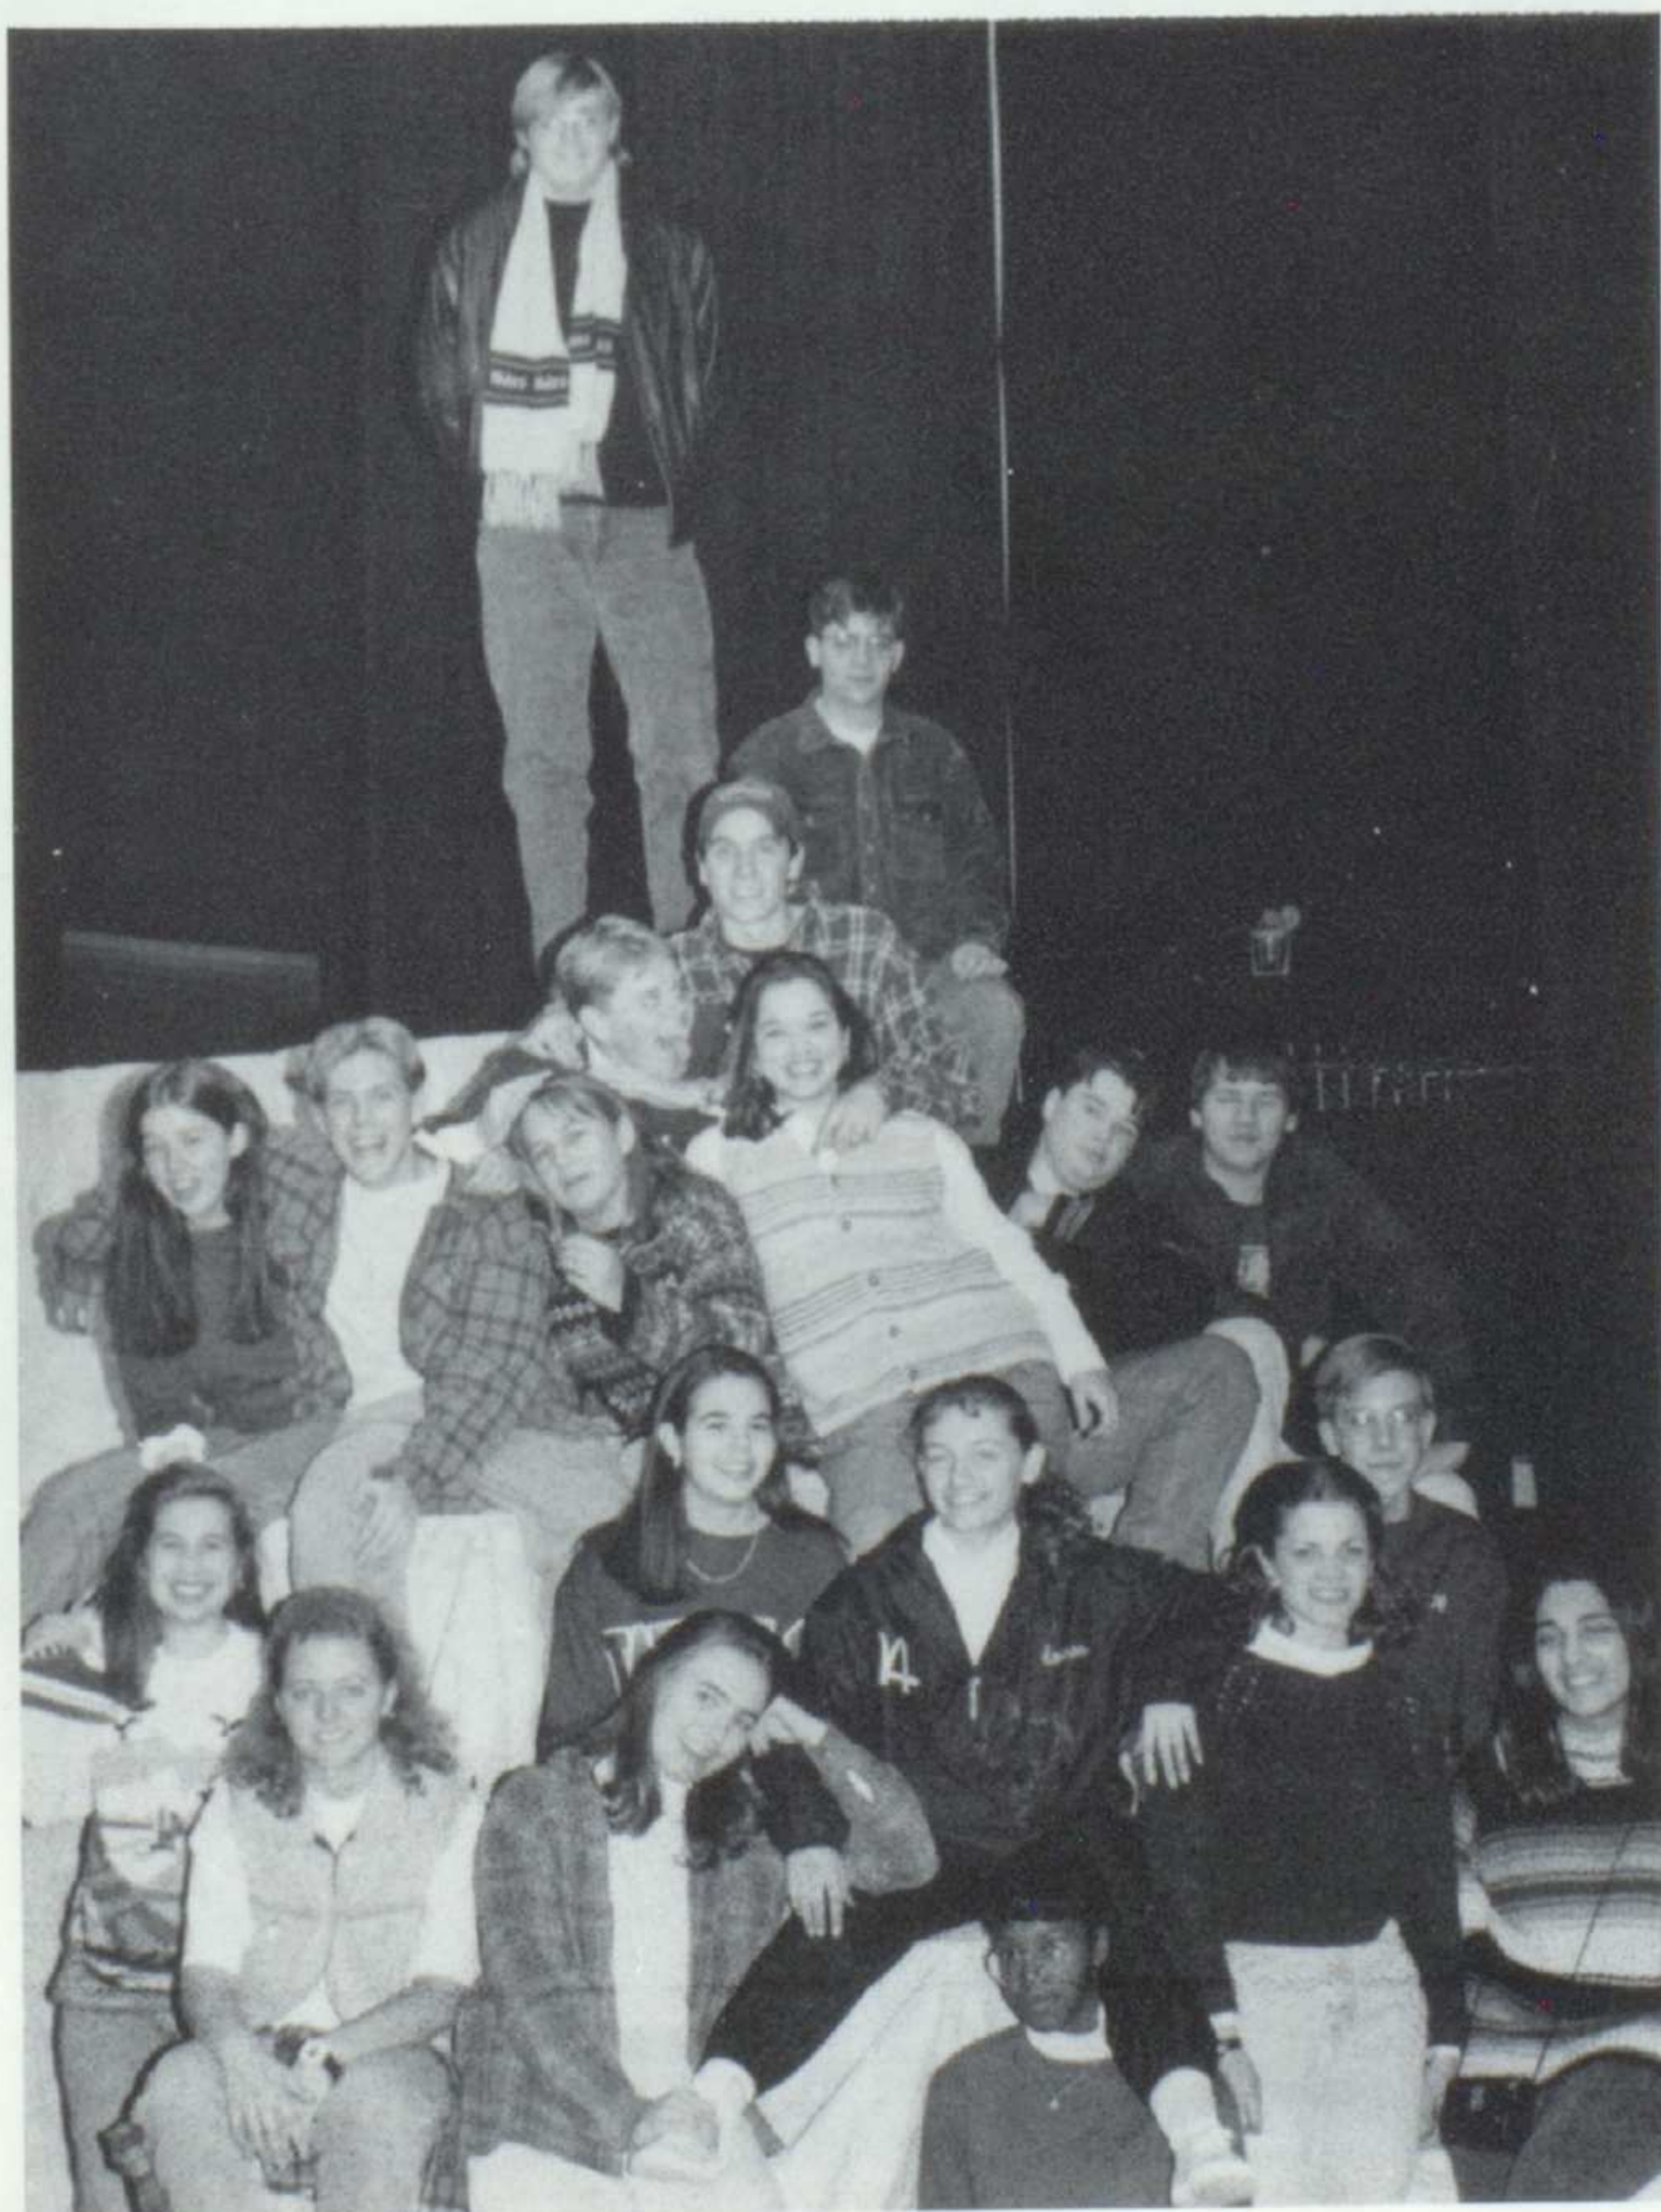

ACTIVITIES

The thespians are members from both the theatre program and stagecraft. Once a year they have initiations. The current thespians make the new members perform a song, dance or other embarrassing act over and over again throughout the school day. After being initiated into the group, they earn points towards a thespian award by acting in plays and running different crews.

YOU MAY HAVE JUST WON A MILLION DOLLARS!! Teammates Libby Kirsch, Angela Fracasso, Mica Luedeke, Amanda Koenigsnecht, and Jackie Piero congratulate Kristi Stevens on her game-winning spike.

COME ON IN, THE WATER IS FINE!! Ultra-swimmer Todd Macaulay tries to convince us that the water is not as cold as one would think it would be at 5:00 A.M. Nice try, Todd, but you can't fool us.

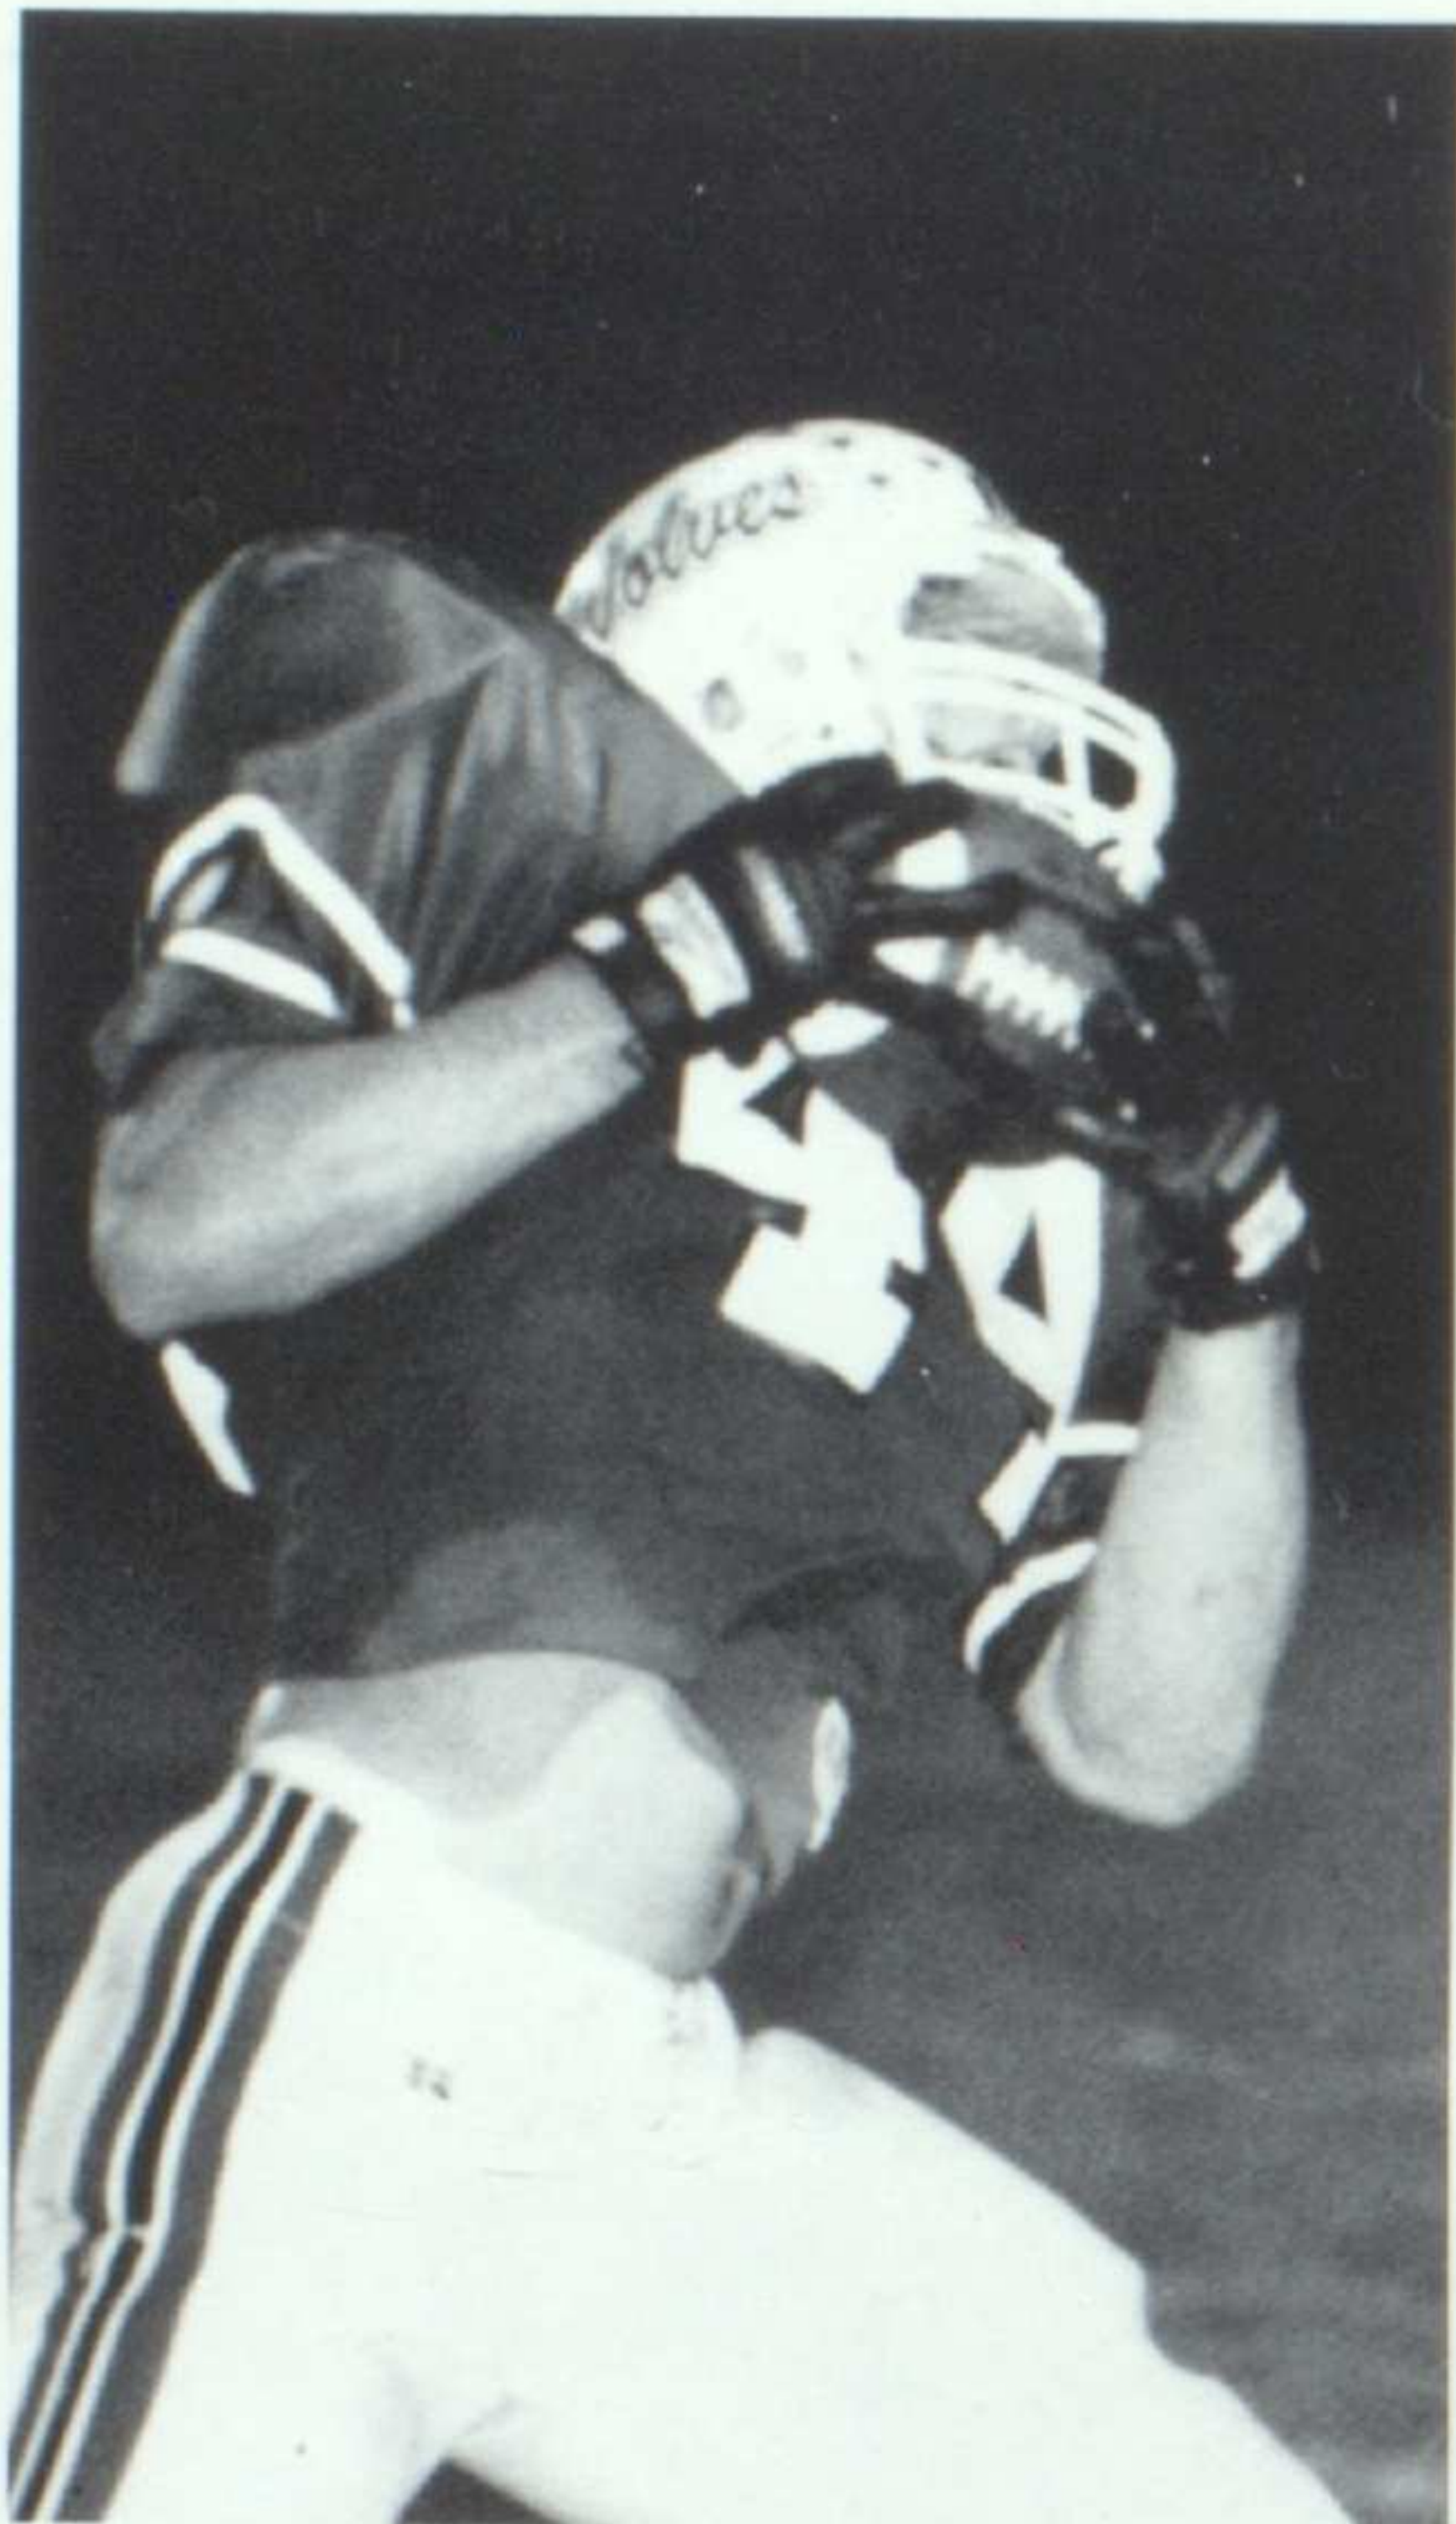

PITY THE FOOL WHO DARES TO MESS WITH ME!! Attempting to impersonate the legendary Mr. T, senior John Robichaud tries to psyche out the opposing team during a crucial moment in the game.

THAT HAD TO HURT!! Freshman Joel Miller isn't used to the intensity that comes with high school wrestling. After years of experience both Coach Bukky and returning Kilbourne wrestler Eric Windzogl have become immune to the pain.

"WE ARE SIAMESE, IF YOU PLEASE!!" Field hockey players Tara Mackin and Katie Sprague prove that "Friendships born on the field are the real gold of competition" (Jesse Owens).

Catching the ball for a first down, Jason Trott runs for even more yardage.

HARD WORK

A positive attitude and teamwork reap rewards

The Wolves ended their season 4-6, and some might say the team couldn't cut it, but their record doesn't illustrate their true talent. Though they had the ability, they had trouble pulling it together. "We had a lot of talented players on the team this year so our record was disappointing," explained Number 82, Jason Poetker. Still, Kilbourne had nine athletes receiving OCC recognition: First Team Defense, John Robichaud, Jason Trott, and Brian Kane; Second Team Defense, Gregg Reynolds and Aaron Falvo; First Team Offense, Greg Sofra, with Tom Bensen and Andy Williams awarded Second Team honors. Sean Salmon earned Honorable Mention.

This year's schedule was not an easy one. The Wolves were up against three teams ranked in the top 10 in the state: Hilliard, Dublin, and Westerville South, who eventually played for the state title. The Wolves held Dublin to only 11 points, one of the highlights of the season. Although the results weren't what the Wolves expected, the games were close, like the 14-7 loss to Homecoming rival Upper Arlington. A few key plays decided most of the games. Kilbourne defeated long-time rival Grove City in a decisive 24-14 victory, certainly an accomplishment for the seniors.

Senior standouts - Jason Trott, middle line backer; Aaron Falvo, defensive line backer; Greg Sofra, center; Eric Strickland, running back; Antjuan Savage, strong safety; Tom Bensen, defensive end; and John Robichaud, nose guard - had a great season. Captains Tom Bensen and John Robichaud provided strong leadership on and off the field. All the seniors gave the underclassmen good traditions to follow and someone to look up to. In the upcoming years, Kilbourne will be looking to the strong sophomore and junior classes to lead the way and keep the tradition strong.

HIGHER GOALS

Capture first OCC championship

Succeeding beyond their imagination, the Lady Wolves earned respect and recognition with their winning season. With four players Holly Bell, Dana Maurer, Heather Niess and Sarah Thompson placing on the All-OCC Central Division 1st Team, winning the OCC Central Division champions for the first time, and rewarding Head Coach Ted Christman as OCC Coach of the Year, they certainly made a name for themselves.

Through all the hard work, "We all had a great time," says Captain Sarah Thompson. Although the team lost some close matches early, they beat Westerville South 3-2 and built a winning record from then on, even defeating rival Westerville North 2-1 for the first time. Much of their success can be attributed to their unity not only on the field, but off the field as well.

Says Coach Christman, "Our team received the respect from other area teams by winning the championship. The attitude will help us in years to come." Even though the Lady Wolves will be losing five senior players, they have a winning outlook on the future.

SUCCESS CONTINUES

Wolves finish with another excellent season

The winning streak continued for the W.K.H.S. boys soccer team this year with the Wolves OCC and District Runner Up titles, along with a 14-4-1 season. The Wolves also advanced to the 3rd round in the playoffs to lose a heartbreaking 3-4 overtime match to St. Charles.

The seniors built the tradition from the very start. "This team will be greatly missed," Coach Vincent stated. "We graduated eleven fine young men. They worked hard the past season and made their impact on the program." That impact is an impressive 58-12-5 four year record.

Individual players also gained recognition this year. First team All-OCC, Adam Fairchild, Justin Sharpe, and Matt Daniel; Second Team All-OCC, Kazu Suzuki, Chris

Fish, and Mike Fairchild; Honorable Mention, Jeff Derryberry, Scholar Athlete, Dickson Lao. First Team All-District Honorable Mention, Adam Fairchild; and First Team All-District, Matt Daniel. Other phenomenal honors earned by Daniel this year were OCC Player of the Year, District Player of the Year, All-State Player of the Year, and All-American.

Even with the loss of such exceptional players, the team will still be strong. "I am looking forward to next year with a new young bunch. I feel we have great potential to continue successful program with many new faces," remarks Coach Vincent. Those new faces will continue the winning tradition associated with Kilbourne soccer.

FORGING THE WAY

Wolves improve to third place finish in the OCC

The 1994 Girls Tennis team made great improvements from its 1993 season. The Wolves won only three games in the previous year but finished this season with eleven wins. The dramatic change came from a hard working group of players that gave nothing less than 110 percent.

"I'm very proud of the team, especially of our four year letter winners, Sarah Horstmann, Monica Nemecek and LeeAnn Mattes," said Coach Bobbie Davis. "For the past four years, the integrity, honesty and leadership they have spread throughout the entire team has contributed to the success we had." Horstmann, Nemecek, and Mattes were also the team's tri-captains for the past two seasons. They helped to create the positive and supportive mood among their teammates. The close-knit, family-like relationships created really helped the team emotionally off the court and competitively on the court.

Though the team is losing five senior letter winners, a strong foundation was created to carry over leadership and talent to help the team remain strong next year. Sophomore Lynn Markowsky was named Most Valuable Player and also honored with Second Team OCC award. Her talent and dedication will play a major role in next season's team. Vanessa Taglia, also a sophomore, was selected as one of the Most Improved Players. She and junior Alicia Kirk will represent the Wolves' varsity team next year as captains. Letter winners Sophia Yang and Gina Federico will also return.

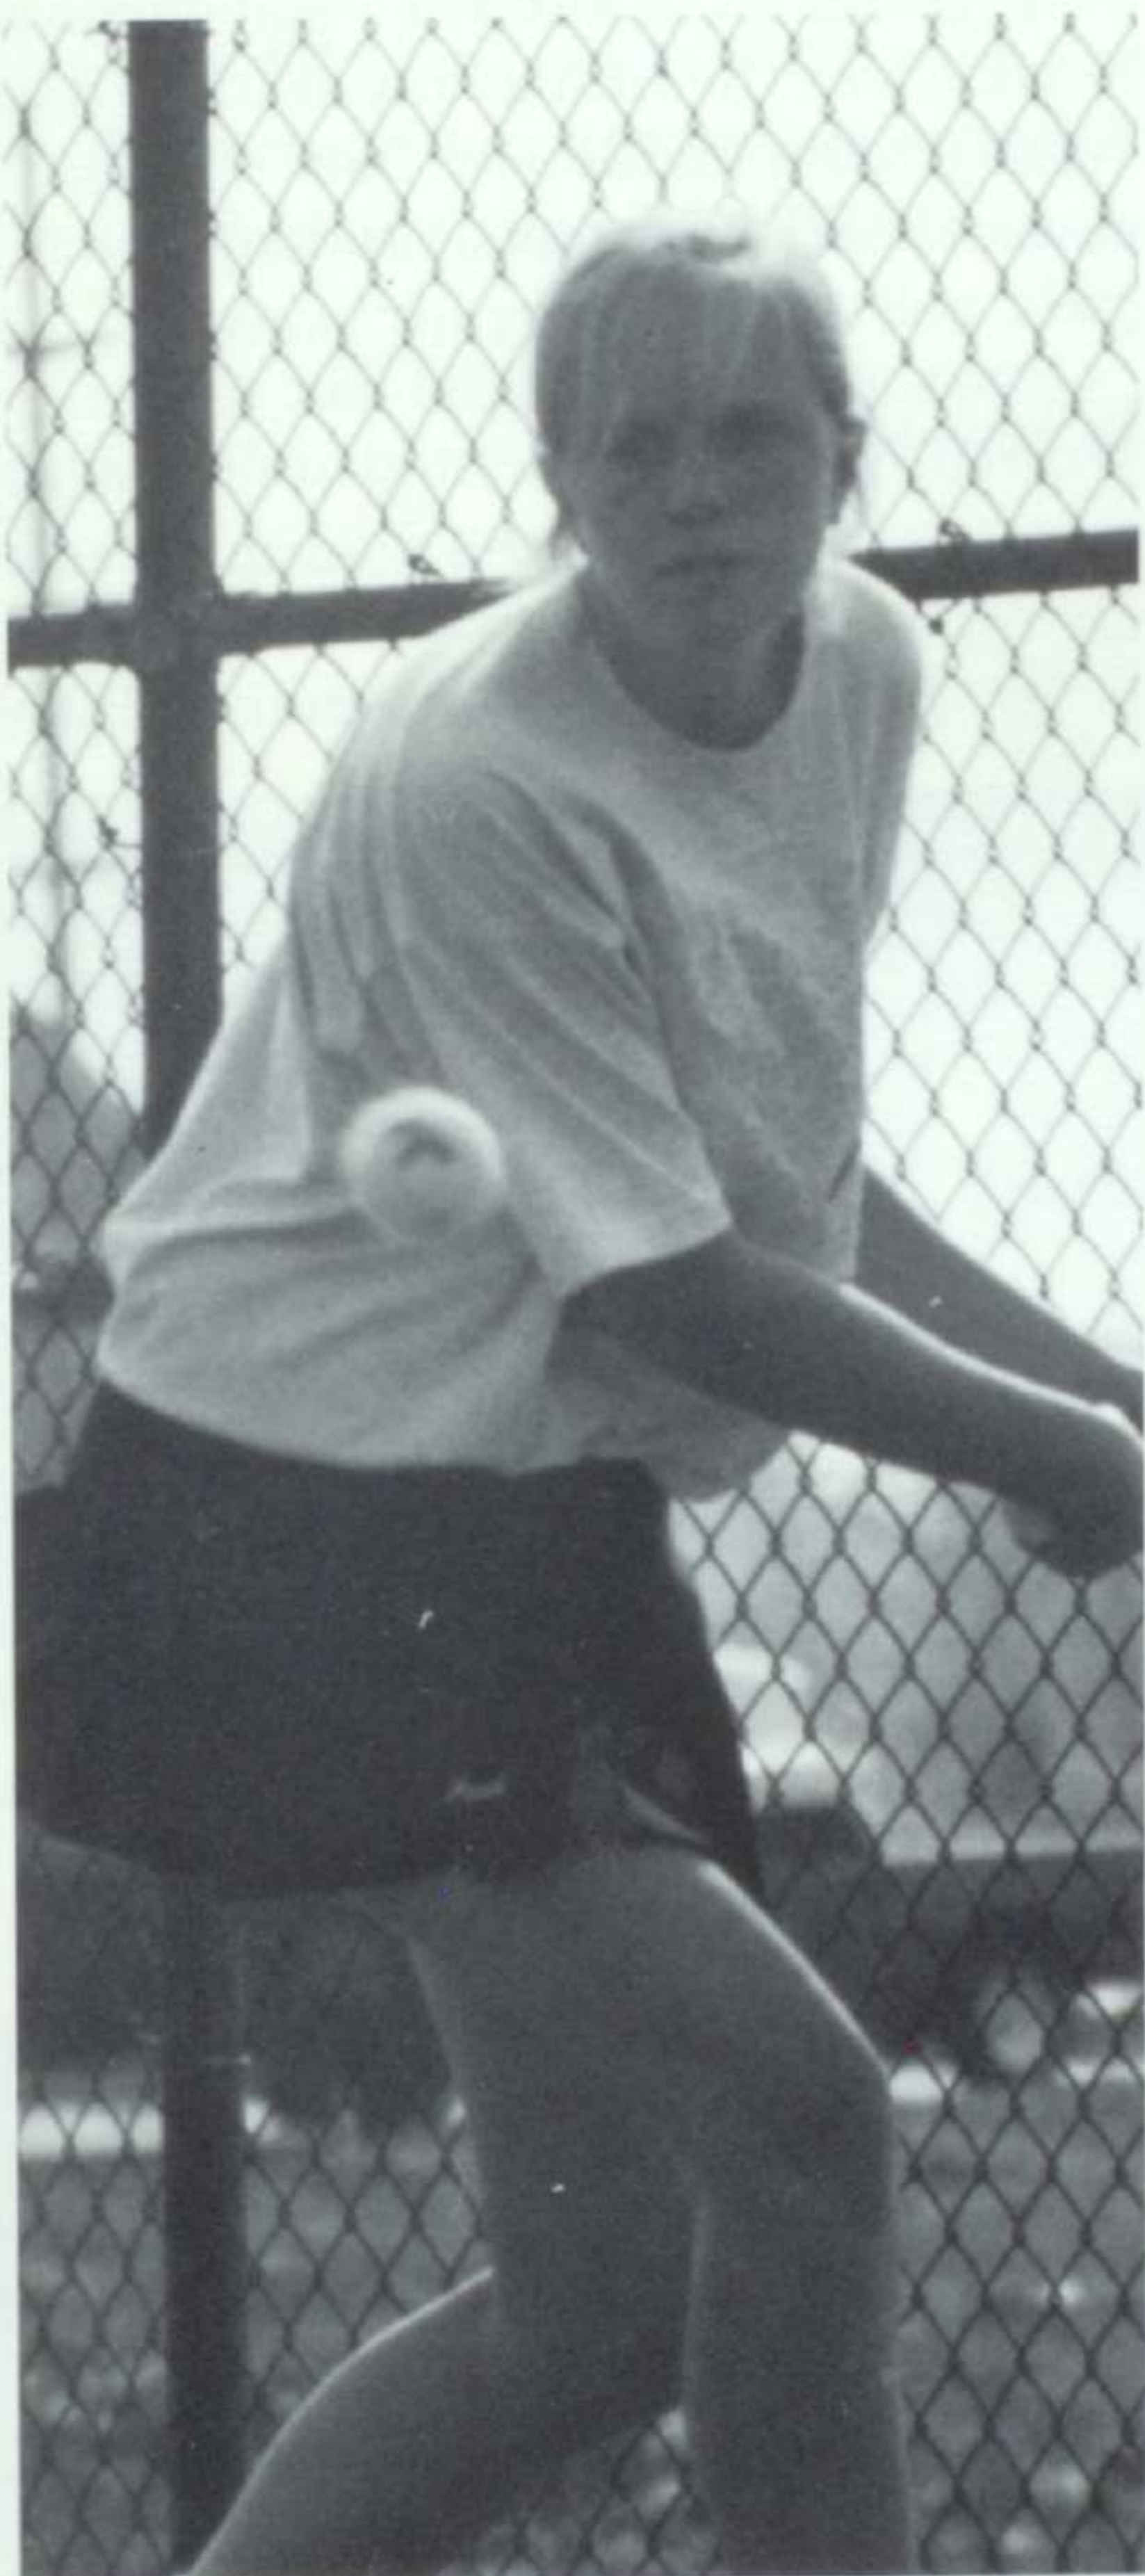

"With our singles players returning next year, we should be competitive," Coach Davis said about the future. "We're looking forward to the challenge." With the momentum the Lady Wolves are gaining, other teams in the OCC should be wary of the competition from our side of the net.

DIFFERENT STROKES

Underclassmen get in the swing of things

The 1994 golf season was a very successful one. Lead by six strong seniors, the Wolves drove into third place in the OCC with a 14-6 record behind Westerville North and Upper Arlington. Receiving OCC honors were Matt Zeiger, First Team All-OCC and Bobby Carlson, Second Team All-OCC. Other strong seniors that improved the team were Geoff Cipkala, Josh Seabloom, Chip Franz, and Derrick Kazanjian.

Not only did the Wolves have strong upper classmen, but three young recruits,

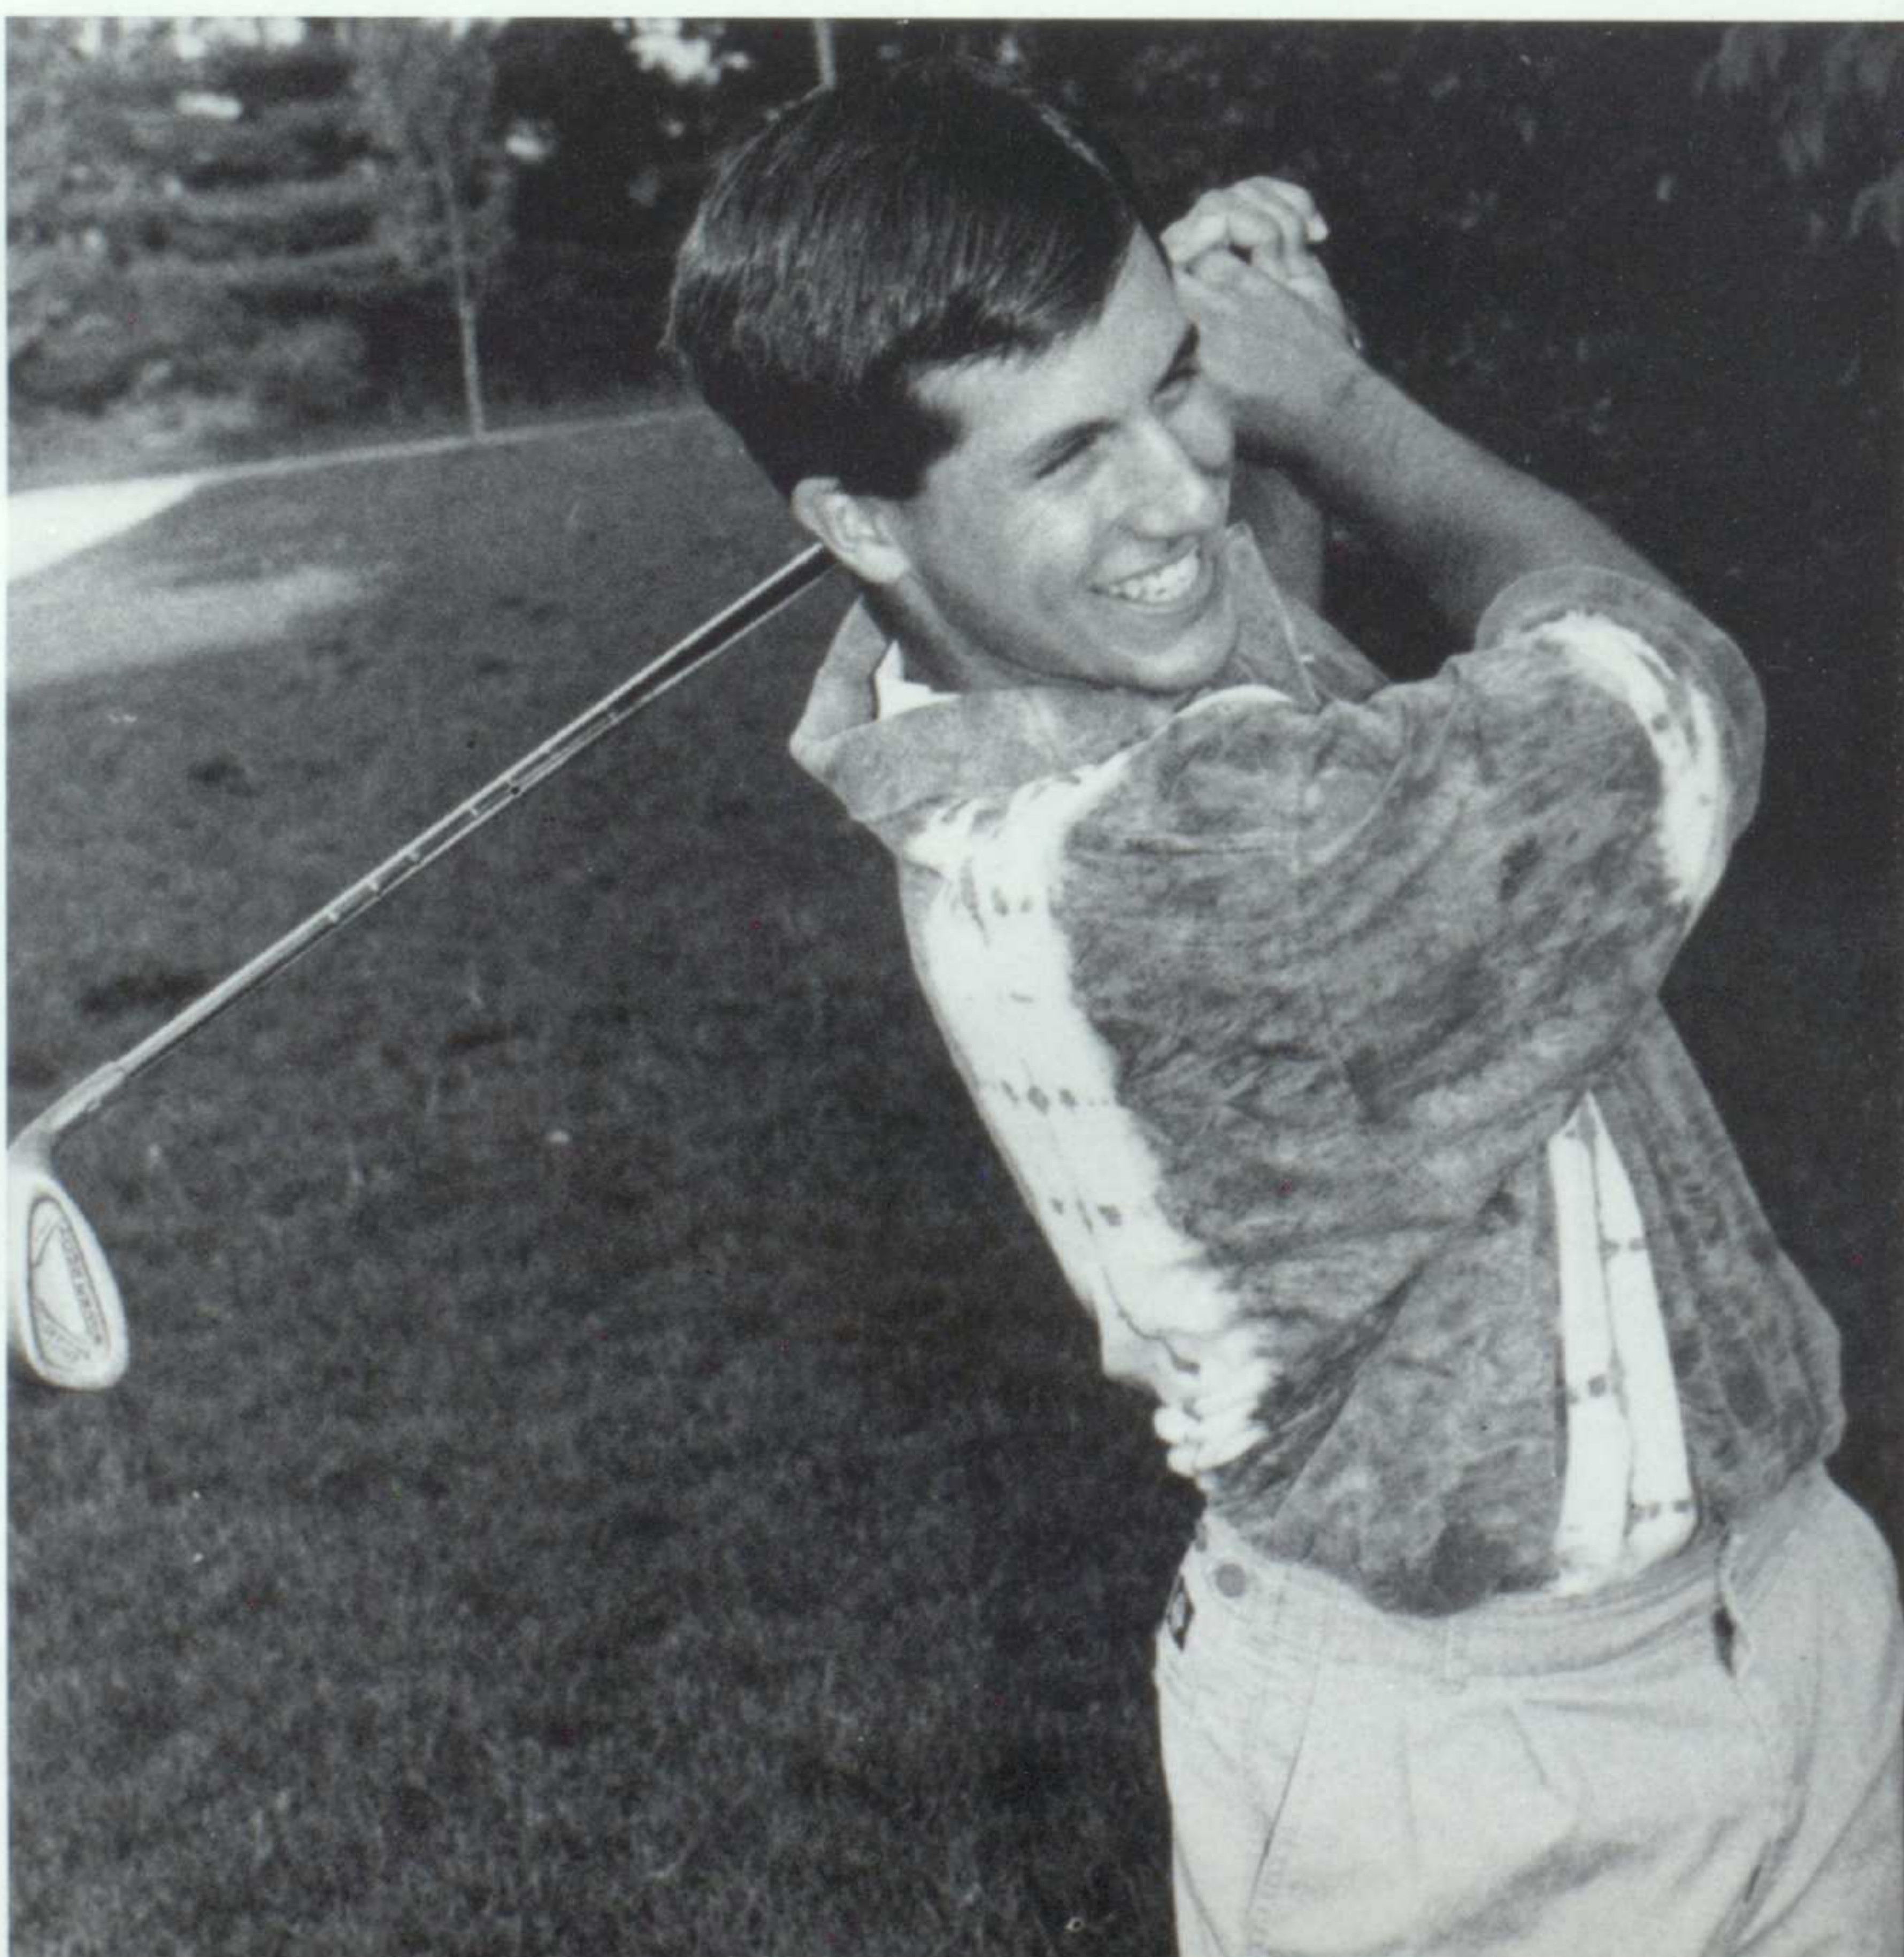

Noah Lucas, Mike McCarthy and Jessica Belskis, helped the team. Lucas was awarded Honorable Mention All-OCC as was McCarthy. Lucas was also the first ever freshman to letter for Kilbourne golf. Belskis was the first girl to start on a boys' varsity team and letter. She was also the state Co-Ed Champion and medalist for girls' golf.

Even with the loss of six seniors, the Wolves have many talented underclassmen to step up and keep the winning tradition alive.

TEAM UNITY

Lady Wolves complete a successful season

The 1994 Cross Country season for the Wolves was a chance for the girls to display their talent on a team of athletes with great skills. Coached by Mel Justice in her fourth season as the driving force behind the girls, the team was also led by three seniors. Maureen Hackett, Michelle Martin, and Megan Harrison provided a strong backbone for the team. In their final season as Wolves, the strong trio earned distinction around the OCC and the district. The leadership they provided on and off the course will be greatly missed.

Several runners earned post season recognition in the OCC.

Maureen Hackett and Megan Harrison were named to the First Team All-OCC. Freshman Betsy Beymer and junior Jeni Moore earned Second Team OCC recognition, and Michelle Martin earned Honorable Mention OCC.

Although the team is losing some key members, the future looks bright for the girls' cross country team. Next year the Lady Wolves will try to once again become a "wolfpack" and threaten its opponents for first place in the OCC.

BOYS DOMINATE OCC

Wolf Pack Cross Country continues success

The cross country team completed another successful season under the direction of Coach Roger Johnson. With depth and talent, the Wolves managed to capture the OCC Central and District Championships. "We have known since the beginning of the year that we were going to be good because of how we were last year," Johnson said. "It was nice to get the trophy this year."

Leading the team on and off the course was Captain Matt Dykes. Dykes demonstrated great leadership in his senior year as a top long distance runner for the Wolves. One of his best performances of the season came at the OCC meet. Dykes finished third, followed closely by four other Wolves who all finished in the top sixteen. "We really stuck together as a team," Matt commented.

The Wolves earned a large number of post-season honors. Matt Dykes and junior Chris Kirchhoff were named to the First Team OCC, and juniors Scott Deubner and Mark Silba to the Second Team OCC. Teammates, junior Brian Sieberth and freshman Jake Kocher, earned OCC Honorable Mention. Achieving the '94 All District team were Dykes, Silba, Kirchhoff, Deubner, Sieberth, and junior Ryan Wilcox.

Coach Roger Johnson was also honored in the post-season. He was named the 1994 OCC Central Coach of the Year.

GOAL ACCOMPLISHED

Spirits boost after Thomas game

Improving their record this year to 3-10-1, the Wolves Field Hockey team finished 6th in the OCC. In the playoffs, they advanced to the semi-finals, losing to state champ, Columbus Academy. "In the first two years, we never won a game, so it was exciting to get that far in the tourney," states senior Ellie Ryan. To add to their tough schedule, Kilbourne was up against the both the #1 and #2 teams in the state. A goal or two decided many games which made the season frustrating. But it was all worth while after the win against Thomas.

Two years ago, the young Wolves team lost in a double overtime shoot out against Thomas Worthington. After that, the Wolves were determined to beat Thomas. This year the seniors painted TWHS's rock and trash cans, resulting in charges which were later dropped against some girls. It was all done in fun to boost team spirit, and it worked. The Wolves accomplished their goal and beat Thomas 1-0 with a last minute shot by Amy Calhoon. "I just hit it," simply said Amy. That was a game we will remember for a long time.

SPIKERS IMPROVE

Girls volleyball completes best season yet

The Worthington Kilbourne girls volleyball team completed its 1994 season with the most wins yet. Under the direction of Cindy Papp in her fourth year as the spikers' coach, the team improved from the previous season. Also returning for the Wolves were senior captains Libby Kirsch and Kristi Stevens. Stevens reflected on her final season by saying, "It was a great way to end my high school career. We had a great season as a team."

Though the team did not finish with an outstanding league record, they have important wins that should make them proud. For instance, the team lost a close game to Hilliard late in the season by a score of 6-15, 16-14, 13-15. After a loss to Westerville North, the team replayed Hilliard whom they beat for the first time. The Wolves won the first match 15-12, lost the second 10-15, and won the final match 15-7 for another notch in the win column.

"We're getting better," Coach Papp said. "We saw improvement in general in our play and effort." Hopefully, the team will continue to improve into next season when many strong players will be returning.

DEDICATION PAYS OFF

Wolves tumblers show much improvement

Preparing for her next move, junior Ragon Brown concentrates on pointed toes and straight legs.

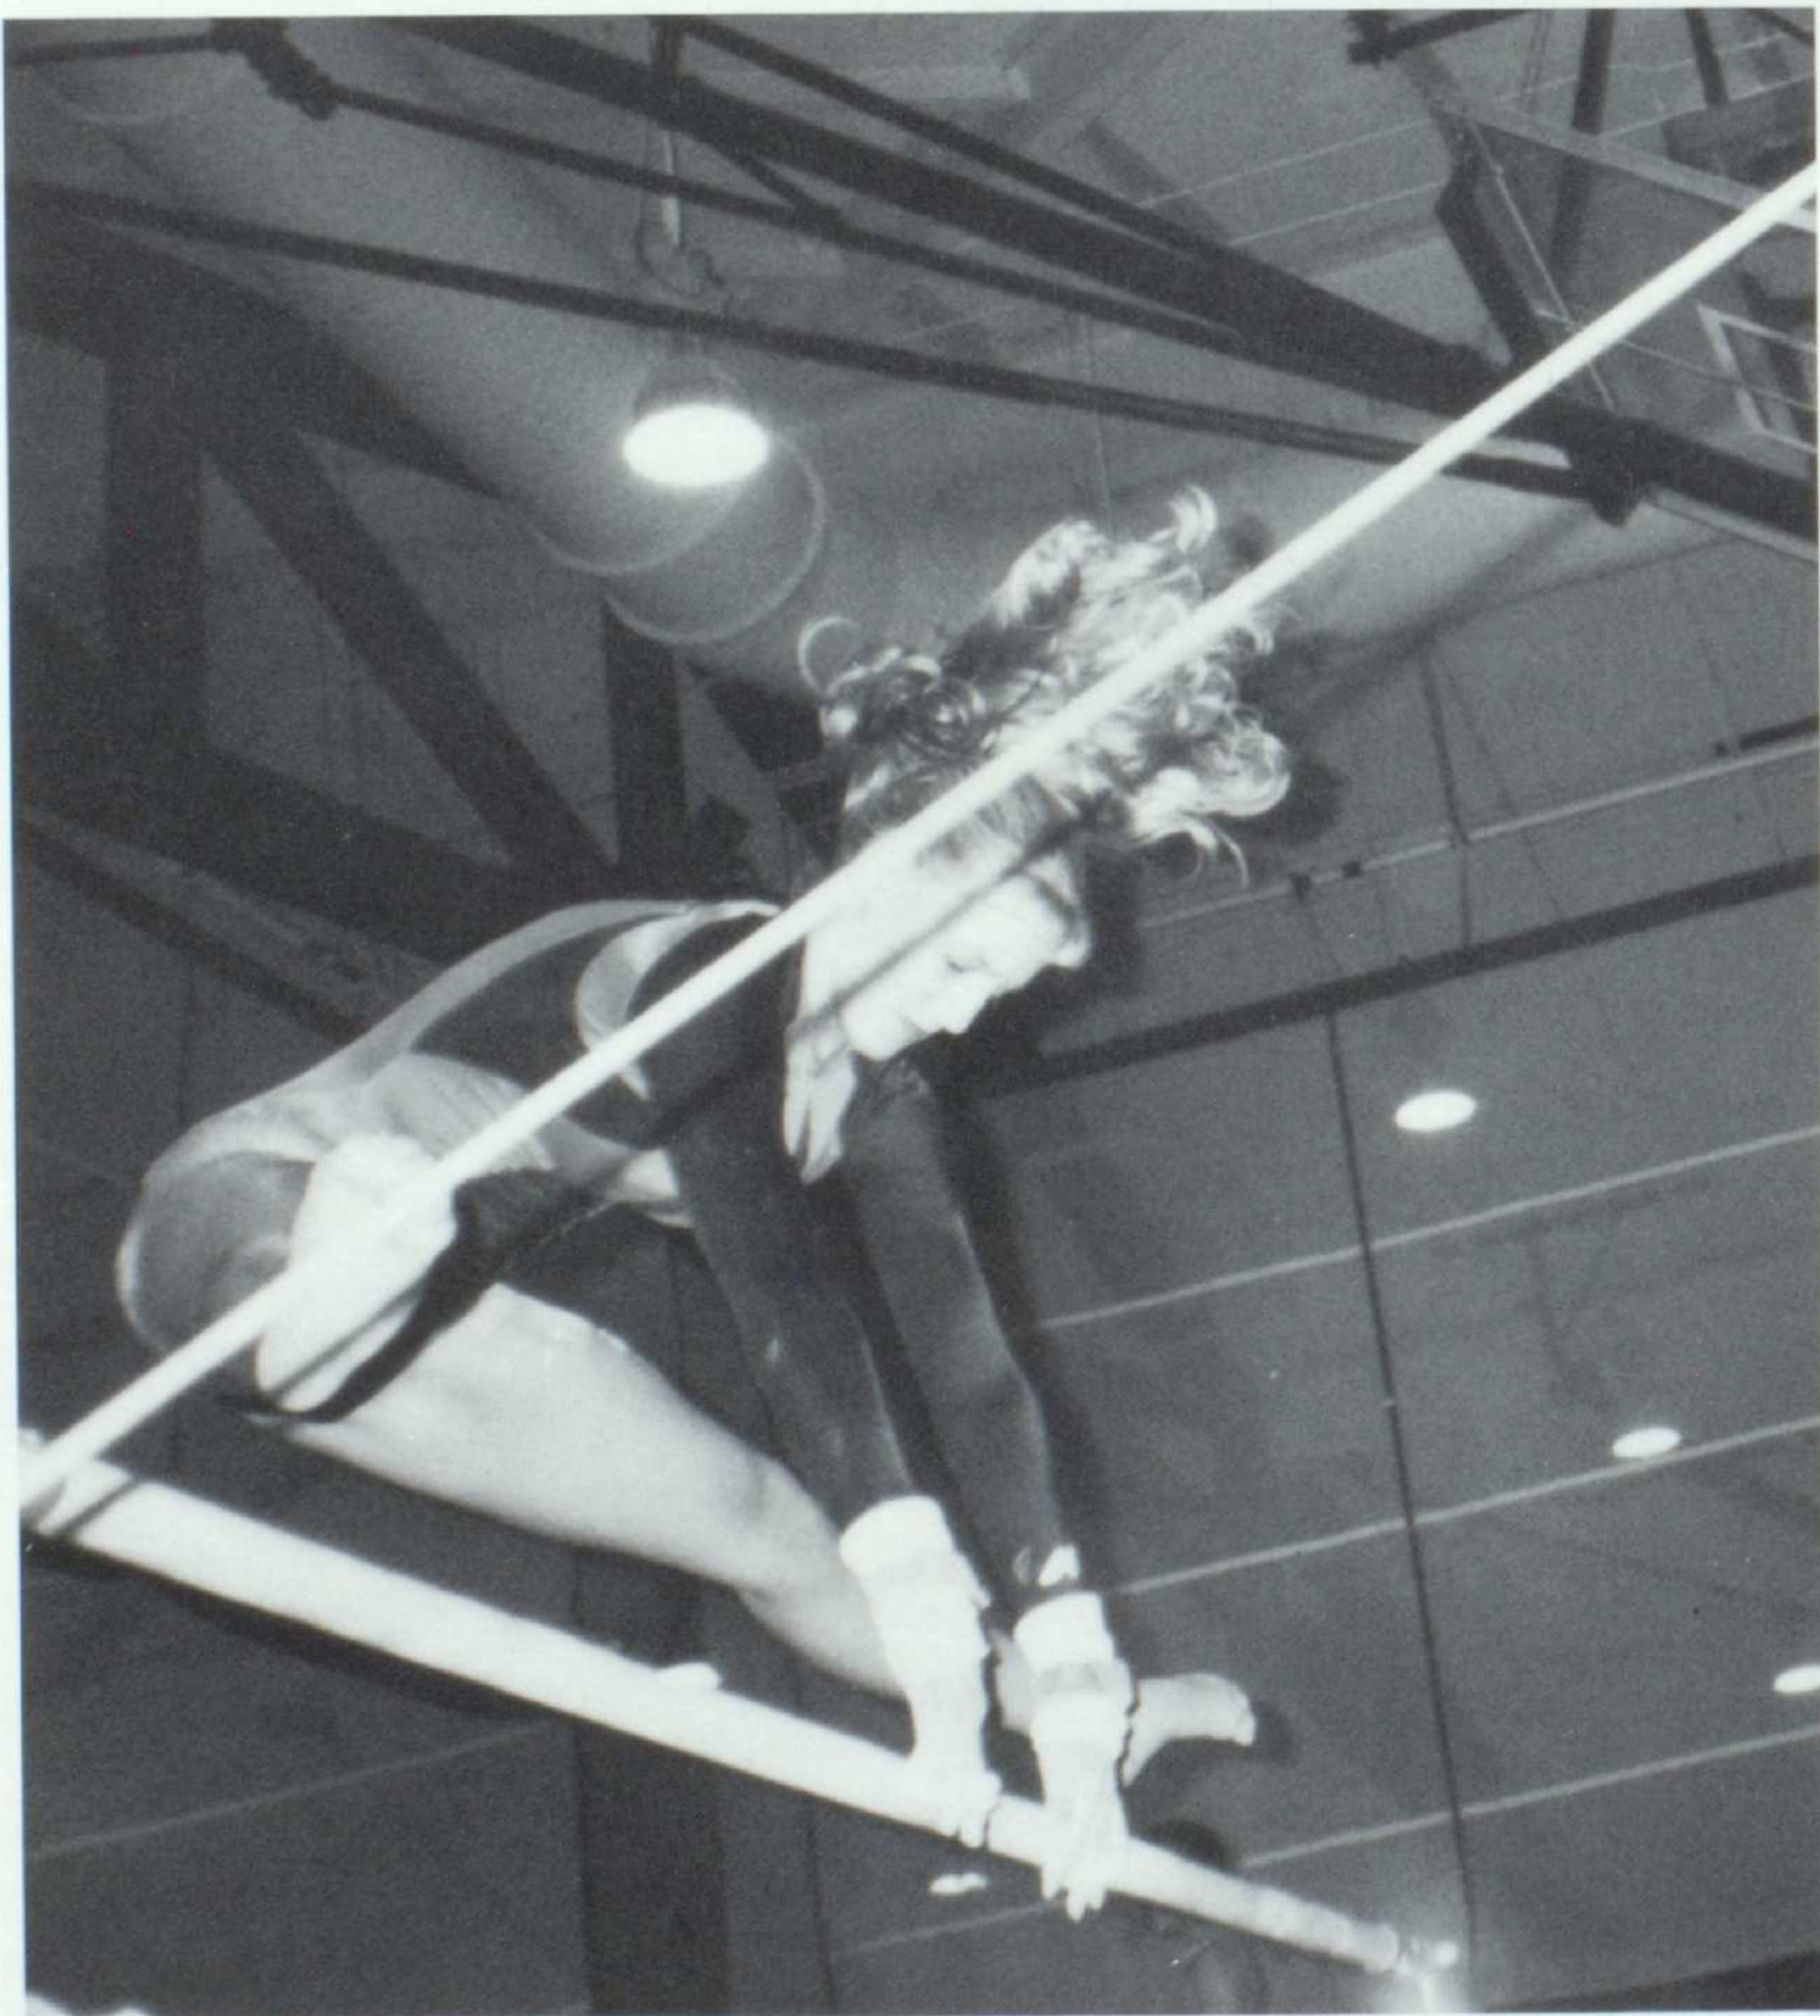

For the first time in Kilbourne's short history, the girls' gymnastics team had a record sixteen gymnasts. Many were skeptical about how the team would do with such large numbers and only one coach. "I had a hard time deciding if I should make cuts or not because we lost our assistant coach due to cutbacks. But it was the best decision for the team," remarked Coach Cindy Fushimi. The choice to keep all sixteen gymnasts was a good one. The Wolves placed 4th in the OCC behind the three powerhouses, Upper Arlington, Thomas Worthington, and Dublin.

A combination hard work and dedication went into the 94-95 season. The team practiced every day with very few days off and competed most weekends. They even traveled to Sharidan and Cincinnati for Saturday meets. The hard work paid off with only four teams beating the Wolves as our ladies racked up many first and second place marks.

The numbers weren't quite even with seven freshmen, four sophomores, four juniors, and one senior, but it didn't bother the team. "We all got along very well and enjoyed being together. That's very important in this sport because we spend at least four hours a day together in the gym. We couldn't let little arguments get in the way of practice," stated senior Amanda Bishop. The Wolves benefitted from so much diversity with strong freshmen Meredith Sawyers and Jennifer Lloyd, sophomore Lisa Clark and juniors Erin McGill and Karrie Donahue; these underclassmen provided high scores and a strong base for the future. This team definitely will be a contender in the years to come.

A year of firsts means success for the Wolves

The 1994 Boys Basketball team made history in the record books. The team opened with a victory against Watkins Memorial, 70-58, the first varsity group to win an opening game. They ended with ten wins, the most ever compiled in a season for the boys. One of the most rewarding games was the 81-77 victory over Upper Arlington, another first for Kilbourne and a great accomplishment for the program. The team made a name for itself and was recognized as a "Team of the Week." Also going into the record books is the season's point total of 1,383 points, the team's highest ever.

Leading the Wolves, Bob Lee returned for his fourth season as head coach. Also returning for a fourth season in the boys basketball program were senior co-captains Mike Lockwood and Adam Leachman. Other seniors providing leadership were Thomas-transfer Kyle Whisler and returning letterman Brian Yeo. Yeo earned the highest field goal percentage on the team with fifty nine percent; Whisler led the team in rebounds with 131; Leachman had the most 3-point field goals, 21, for the team; and Lockwood grabbed the most steals for the Wolves with 44. Even with all the senior leadership and strength, junior Chad Sprecher was able to leave his mark in the list of season leaders. Sprecher led the team with total points, 324, total assists, 111, and field goals, 119. Kyle Whisler was also named to the Senior All Star Team.

This year's team made great strides for the Kilbourne basketball program. With continued improvement and a strong group of returning players, the team has a shot at more firsts for next season.

HOOP DREAMS

New coach shoots for high goals

Jim Lower, the new girls' head basketball coach, had big shoes to fill. "In the beginning of the season, it took us a while to adjust to him, but as time passed, we got it together," comments Captain Sarah Thompson. The team had a rough start with six losses, but they were able to pull it together in the end to split the season 10-10. Injuries to Sarah Dressler and Michelle Greek also hindered the squad. The Wolves played in the Delaware Christmas Tournament, placing third, which seemed to turn the team around.

Several Wolves received OCC honors: First Team All-OCC Amanda Koenigsknecht, Honorable Mention Sarah Dressler, and Scholar Athlete Sarah Thompson. Dressler also played in the Senior All-Star Game.

The Wolves had five seniors, six juniors, and one sophomore to round out the twelve member squad. Luckily, they will have five returning seniors to provide the strong basis for a program next year that Lower has helped build.

Wolves roll to another victorious season

This winter has been, undeniably, one of the best for the wrestling team. Winning the Wolf Pack Invitational, ranking second in the league and having twelve out of fourteen wrestlers winning varsity records has done nothing but strengthen and boost the morale of the team. Senior Justin Bach and freshman Joel Miller kept the excitement and energy high throughout the season with their excellent contributions. Also keeping the spirit alive were First Team

OCC athletes, Steve Bukky at weight 125, Sean Salmon at 160; gaining Honorable Mention was Brad Todd.

Predictions for next year are high. "Solid leadership provided by a strong junior class will create one of the best seasons ever for Kilbourne," says Coach Bukky. Twelve starters will return, many of them sophomores and freshmen. Together, they will create a team that is strong and willing to fight.

WATER BABIES

Young swimmers get their feet wet

Returning only one senior this year, Kilbourne had a young team with mostly freshmen and sophomores. Ironically, they were the athletes who racked up most of the points. Freshman Tracy Macaulay set the 100 M breast and 100 M fly record, while sophomore Katie Sprague beat the 500 M free and 200 M individual medley record. Sprague also set the 200 M free relay record with teammates Macaulay, Jackie Popa, and Candace Bookwalter, all returning next year to defend their title.

Time sacrifices and complete commitment from the morning practices to the weekend long meets hours away filled the Wolves season which had ups and downs but ended with a winning 6-4 record. But their hard work paid off because the Wolves sent two swimmers, Katie Sprague and Tracy Macaulay, to states. Macaulay scored 13th in the 100 M breast and Sprague placed 23rd in the 200M individual medley.

Obviously, hopes are high for next year. "We are very confident we can pick up where we left off," commented Coach Jim Callahan. Kilbourne's only losing one senior, Erin Cygan, whose leadership will be missed. The strong dedicated underclassmen are ready to lead the way for the future.

FLIP TURN

After four years, Kilbourne ends up on top

In Kilbourne's short history, the boys swimming team has gone from a record of 1-13 to this year's of 6-2. Four years ago, freshmen and sophomores who had little, if any, varsity experience primarily composed the team. This season, their frustrations and hard work paid off. The Wolves set ten new school records with the performances of senior Geoff Gear, junior Todd Macaulay, and sophomores Jason Hollback, Robby Braun, Brandon Gustafson, Yoshi Sekiguchi, and Ryan Allinder. Gear also was awarded All-American for the 100M fly and 500M free.

The Wolves opened their season with a disappointing loss to Upper Arlington, 38 - 64, but turned it around to win most of their meets and placed first in the Worthington and Orange Invitationals. They placed third in Districts behind St. Charles and Upper Arlington. For the third year in a row, Geoff Gear won the 500M free which adds to four district championships of his career. In States, Gustafson took 17th, and Gear placed 3rd, 5th and 8th in the 100M fly, 50M free, and 200 free relay with Macaulay, Sekiguchi, and Allinder.

Kilbourne had an excellent season and will especially miss the spirit and accomplishments of Henry Walker and Gear. Next year's captains, Macaulay, Allinder, Tim Milligan, and Brian Fowler, will lead the way for this young, yet promising squad.

STRENGTH IN THE PACK

Kilbourne comes together as a team

Last year when Coach Doug Troutner noticed a weakness in the midfield, he revamped the positions and added two midfield lines to sub in for each other every two minutes this season. "I think the new system is rad; we always had a full force in midfield," said midfielder Amy Calhoon. Not only did the Wolves change their positions, but they also changed their wardrobe. Kilbourne went against all tradition and wore shorts instead of kilts this year.

The season was out-of-the-ordinary also. "We tied or lost by one to four of the top five teams in Columbus who later placed at the top of the Midwest," remarked Coach Troutner. Most of their games were decided in the last seconds; therefore Kilbourne could have easily been 11-2. But their 6-6-2 record ties for the best girls lacrosse record in Kilbourne's history. Most of the success of the team was because the team played as friends. "Because everyone got along so well, we easily worked together as a team on the field," commented

Alicia Kirk.

Entering the tournament facing Columbus Academy in the first round sixth seeded Kilbourne's hopes were high. "We only lost by one last time we played them, so we knew we had a good shot at winning and moving on the Midwest tournament," rationalized senior Sarah Horstmann. Unfortunately, the Wolves lost by one in overtime and Academy went on to be third in the Midwest. "The worst part is that we'll never all play together again," cried Katie Sprague after the loss. But Kilbourne tore apart Wellington, 15-4, in round 2 and went on to beat Hilliard, 14-4 for the first time in Kilbourne's history.

The Wolves lose five seniors including All-Midwest Sheila Rupp and second place all-time leading scorer Libby Kirsch. Though many will miss the seniors, Troutner is hopeful for the future, "There are some good JV players coming back," not to mention twelve outstanding underclassmen.

HIGH EXPECTATIONS

Kilbourne pushes to be the best

Kilbourne has proven itself as a team that can handle the "tough teams" well. Coming off an 11 - 6 season the Wolves defeated many competitive teams but still had mixed feelings about the year. "There were a couple of close games that we just shouldn't have lost," stated senior attack Erik Waltermire. "We started out ahead and then we lost it. We just got frustrated." Perhaps the Wolves weren't happy with the turn out because they pushed themselves so hard to be the best. Losing, even if it was only six games, doesn't cut it in their eyes.

Kilbourne had many talented players on the roster including offensive team MVP's, junior Brian Anderson and senior Andres Castrillon; defensive MVP, senior Tom Bensen; and Galipault Award winner for outstanding academic and playing achievement, senior Fred Koury. The Wolves also had four players receiving league honors: First Team All-Midwest Andres Castrillon; and Second Team All-Midwest Tom Bensen, Brian Anderson, and Matt Knott.

While the Wolves will be losing seven strong seniors who brought leadership and talent to the team, they had a large team with 52 players, much larger than most Ohio teams, which gives them much depth and a strong base for the future.

Lady Wolves come out on top

Hurdling through the air with her arms spread and legs extended, sophomore Sara Waite is careful not to fall.

Eagerly listening for the gun to sound, senior Michelle Martin waits in her "Let's go, I'm ready" stance as she pictures the race she is about to run.

Some say that running will get you nowhere, but the ladies track team will tell you something different. In fact, they will tell you that running will take you anywhere you want to go, including regionals. This year two runners advanced to regionals: Lisa Clark placing third in the 400, and Jen Watson earning third place for discus.

Many individuals on the team also earned honors in the O.C.C. Stacy Stevens earned second team all O.C.C., and gaining Honorable Mention were Lisa Clark, Maureen Hackett, Megan Harrison, Michelle Martin, Jackie Piero, Key Shakoor, and Jill Zink.

With hard work and endurance the team did very well this year and looks forward to an even better season next year. They will however be missing the strong leadership of their four "M" captains: Michelle Greek, Maureen Hackett, Megan Harrison, and Michelle Martin. Reflecting on the season Megan Harrison stated, "I had a really good time running this year, and I will really miss the team when I'm gone." As for next year, Coach Mel Justice says "We have a very positive attitude and strong leaders!" The team can't wait to see how far their legs will take them!

HUFFIN' AND PUFFIN'

Boys track has winning season

The 1995 boys track and field team faced many obstacles from bad weather and quitters to late buses and sickness. However, it was the adversity which brought the team together and proved successful in the end. "Our seniors modeled such characteristics as teamwork, commitment, and hard work, which significantly influenced our underclassmen," says Coach Chrispin.

And indeed the seniors did their best with many of them breaking past personal records. Seniors Justin Hutchings and Matt Dykes along with juniors Chris Kirchhoff and Brian Sieberth won the 3200M relay at the District II - Division 1 meet, and at the same meet Matt Dykes alone won the 800M and 1600M run. Also taking home the gold was senior Greg Sofra who placed first in shot put at the Newark Invitational and Greg, along with senior Matt Cowgill, also took first place in the shot put relay at the Paul Krause relays. But it was not just the seniors who stole the spotlight. An elite group of sophomores referred to as the "super sophs" also helped bring home success in the 3200M relay.

Earning All-League & All-OCC recognition from the wolfpack were Matt Cowgill, Matt Dykes, Justin Hutchings, Chris Kirchhoff, Brian Sieberth.

Undoubtedly, the 1995 season turned out for the best. What about next year? "We will be a very young team, but the underclassmen have committed themselves to each other and winning a league championship."

SLIDING INTO HOME

Lady Wolves coming on strong to close season

For the first time in Kilbourne's history, the Lady Wolves opened their season with a 10-2 victory and couldn't have been happier. "We really played as a team and pulled everything together for that game," remarked senior Jen Sedlak. Unfortunately, the Lady Wolves had trouble "pulling it together" after that game. They had a series of disappointing losses that didn't reflect their talent. When asked about his players in the early weeks, Coach Rob Strohl explained, "The girls just haven't jelled yet as a team. That takes some time. When they play like they know they can, they do great things."

The Wolves did "jell" towards mid-season and made huge strides with victories over rivals Dublin and Chilicothe, 7-2 and 8-4, respectively. "These games were definitely highlights for the team," stated senior Amanda Bishop. "We made few if any errors in the field and hit very well." A strong finish made a tough season a little easier and gave the Lady Wolves something to brag about. Kilbourne also had three girls selected for OCC honors including Jen Sedlak, First Team all OCC; Amy Ricketts, Second Team all OCC; and Kristin Lusky, Honorable Mention.

Another positive for the Wolves is the freshman team. This year they surpassed all previous softball teams in Kilbourne's history with a strong winning record, 11-5. They had many exciting wins including both games in a double header against DeSales. These athletes will pave the way for Kilbourne in a tough district in the future.

The Wolves will be losing nine seniors next year, leaving many openings that need to be filled. The strong upcoming classes will do a great job stepping up into their shoes.

BRINGING IT HOME

Wolves enjoy a record breaking season

This season for the baseball team has been the best in the last four years. With the help of eleven experienced seniors, the Wolves brought home the Sectional Championship when they played against rival Thomas Worthington, and for the first time won the District semi-final game against Pickerington 1-0 in thirteen innings. The strong support of three of the seniors held the team together: Chris Klemann who was named to the 2nd Team O.C.C., Mike Lockwood who earned the honors of 1st team O.C.C., 1st Team All-District, and All Ohio, and Jason Trott who was named to 1st team O.C.C.,

1st team All-District, Player of the Year, and the highest honor a high school player can earn, All Ohio.

Coach Roman has high expectations for next year although "It will again be competitive and a challenge for the league title." However, with three experienced varsity players returning and many improving J.V., the Wolves will have no problem maintaining their record of 62 wins and 25 losses, or upgrading their titles of District runner-up, two League titles, three Sectional titles, and two League/District Players of the Year and All Ohio.

SUCCESS

Boys volleyball continues to dominate central Ohio

The 1995 Boys Volleyball team had a lot to overcome after losing ten players from last year's successful 24-4 team, but they lived up to the challenge and finished the season with an awesome 21-4 record. Coached by Glynda Rice, the Wolves learned quickly what it would take to be powerful in central Ohio.

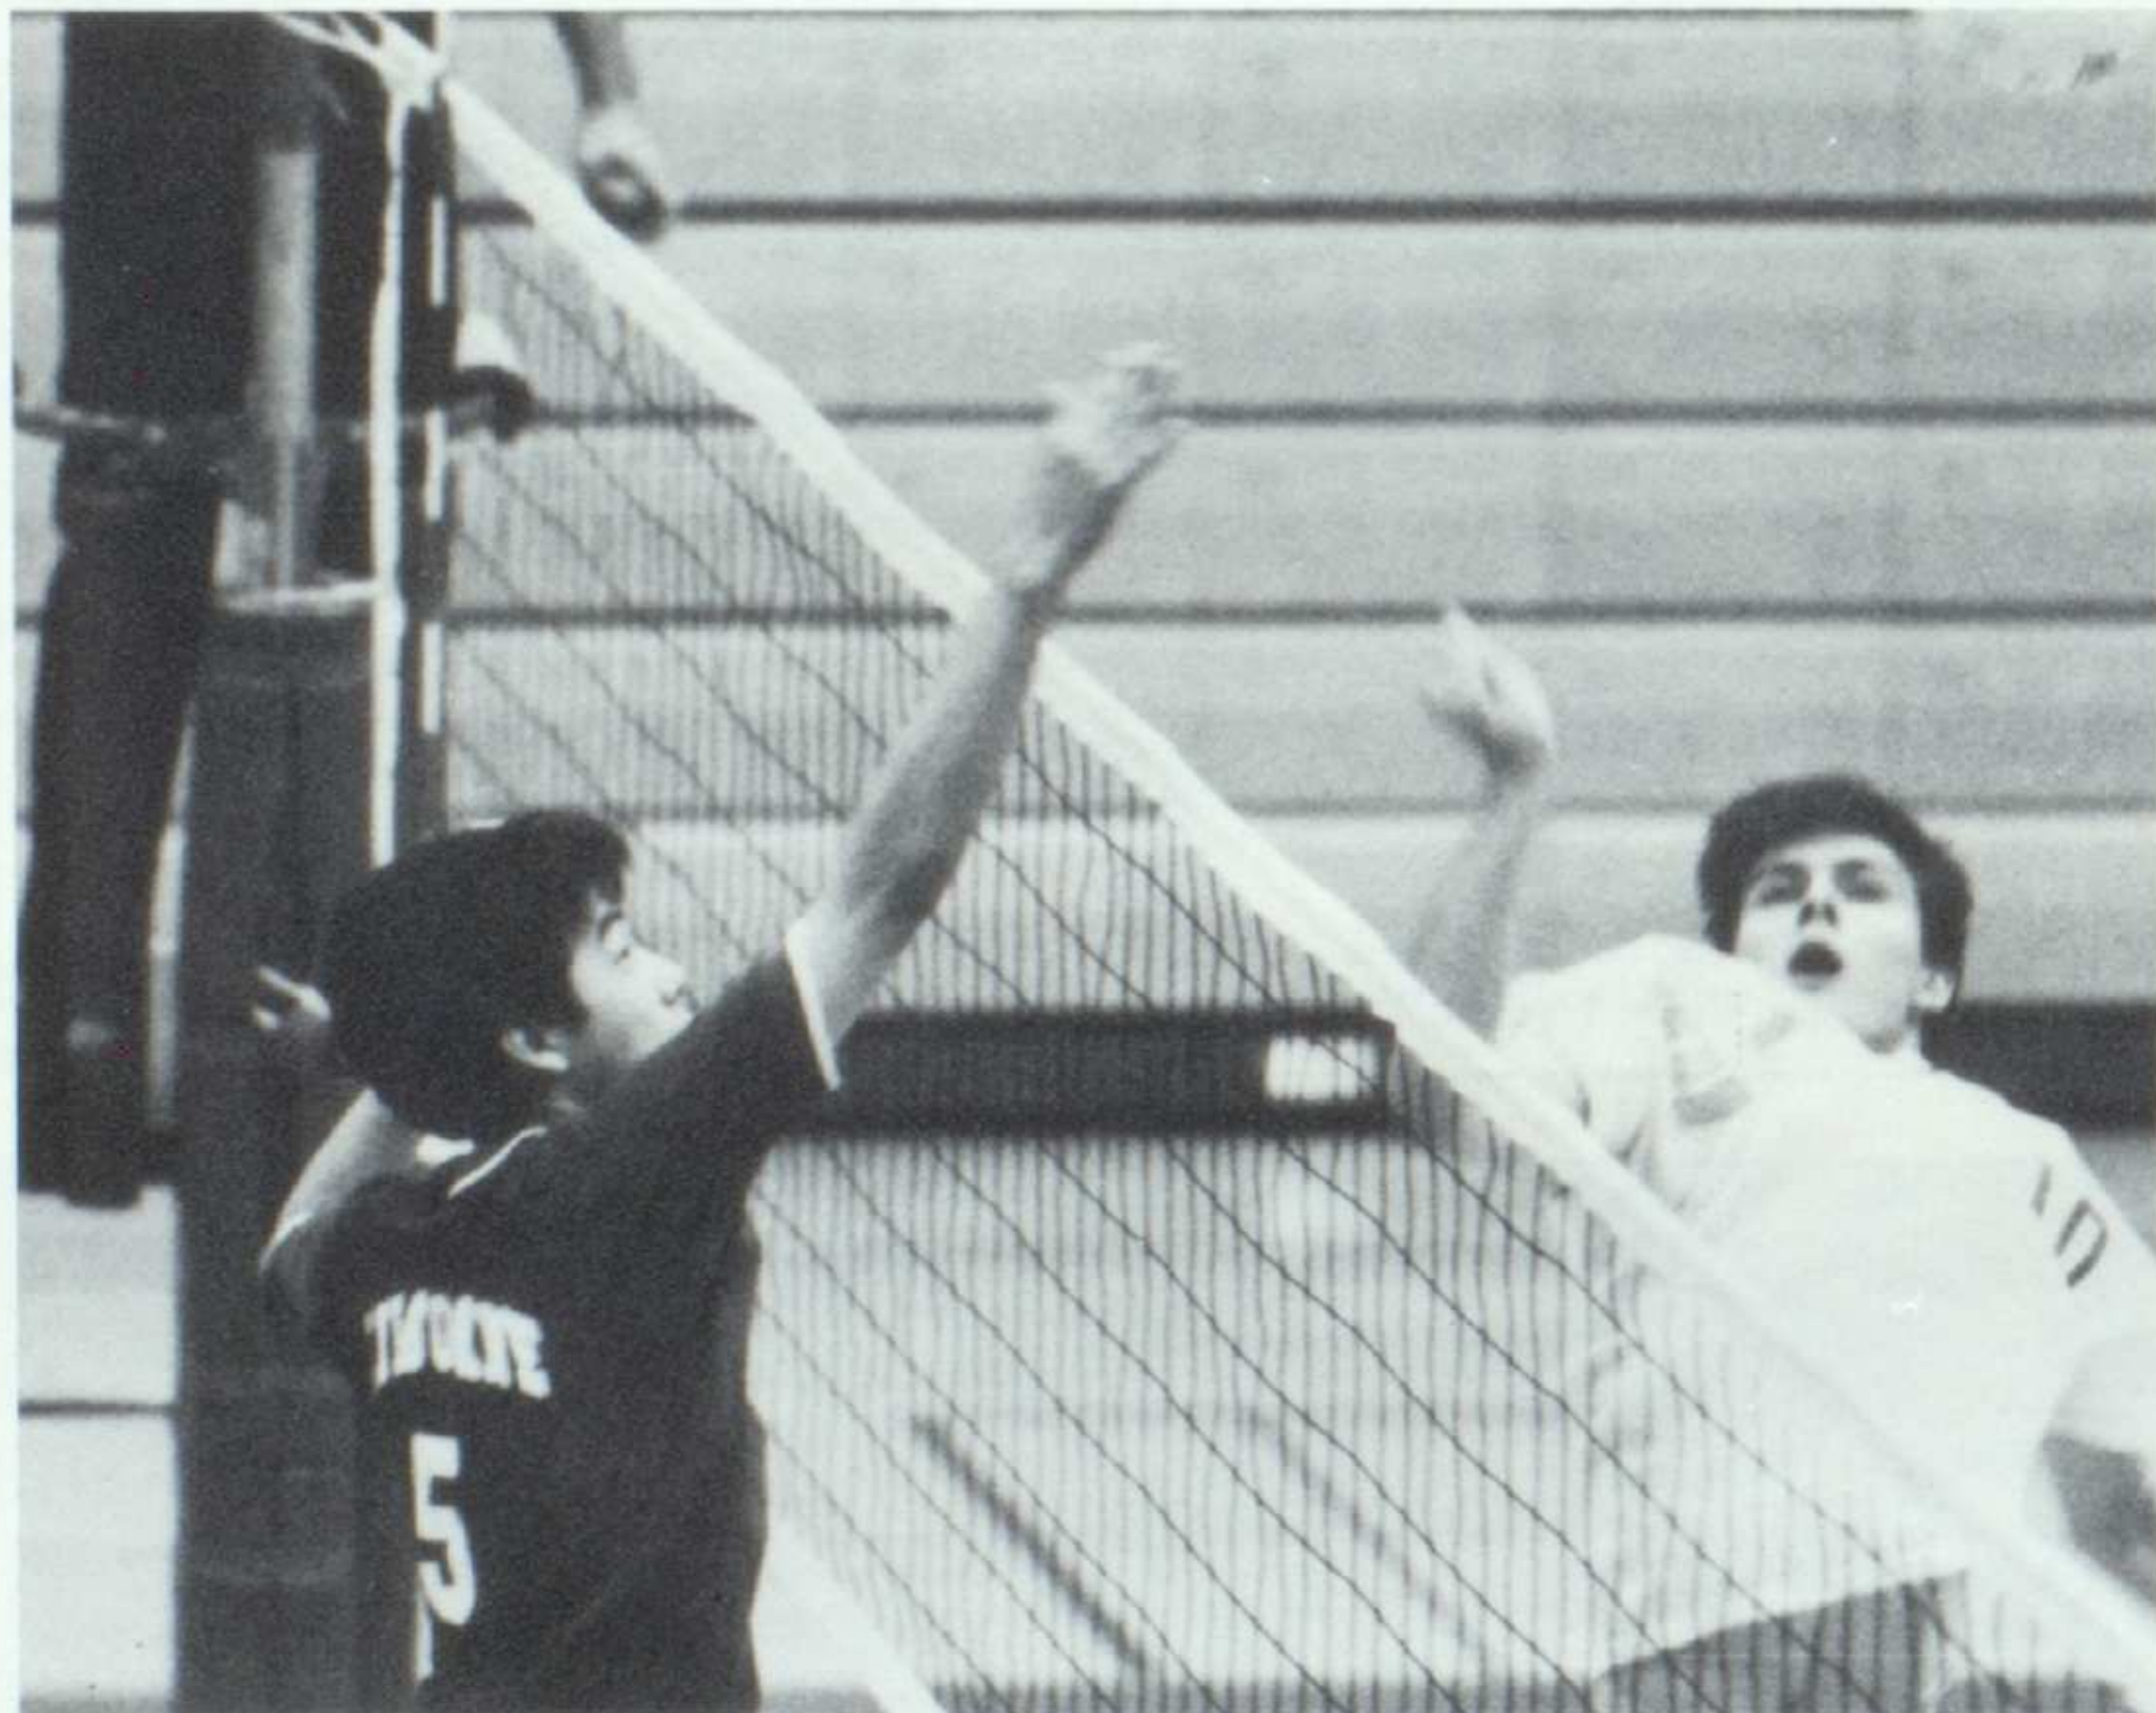

The team was led by three-time, All-Ohio senior captain Dickson Lao. He set high goals for the team and would not be satisfied unless the team walked away with a State Championship. Buckeye Trail, though, stood in the way of that goal and defeated the Wolves in the quarterfinals of the state championship, 15-12, 13-15, and 15-7.

Atsushi Suzuki and Bryan Yeo also proved to be significant members of the squad. "They, and some new players filled a big void," said Coach Rice of three first-time volleyball seniors, Jeremy Fink, Dale Williams and Andy Rohal. Other prominent members on the team were senior Scott Gabel, junior Captain Shaun Servick, junior Cham Bell, junior Captain Jackson Lao, and junior Makato Asaga.

Coach Rice admits that sometimes the inexperience of the Wolves has shown through. However, as a team the Wolves grew together and accomplished many of its goals. No one should be disappointed with the success of this year's group.

SWINGING SUCCESS

Boys tennis brings in the awards

The 1995 Boys Tennis Team has gone above and beyond anything they could have ever dreamed of. With Captain Lee Hays taking control, the team broke all records they previously held. The boys were ranked in the top ten Coaches Poll in the state throughout the season. Although this was a big honor, the boys did not stop there. As a team, they were named Regional finalists in the Ohio Tennis Coaches Association Team Tournament and placed 2nd in the Worthington Cup. They also achieved the runners-up position in the O.C.C.

As a doubles team, seniors Lee Hays and Pete Tabernik made All-State, won the Worthington Cup, and were Sectional, District and State champions. Also placing 3rd in the doubles championship and district qualifiers were junior Mike McCarthy and senior John Kozich.

Earning 2nd team all O.C.C. were Lee Hays, Pete Tabernik, Ari Sinharoy, John Kozich, Shane Kerr, Nathan Krantz, and Jayan Rammohan. Gaining Honorable Mention all O.C.C. was Mike McCarthy and achieving Scholar Athlete was Ari Sinharoy.

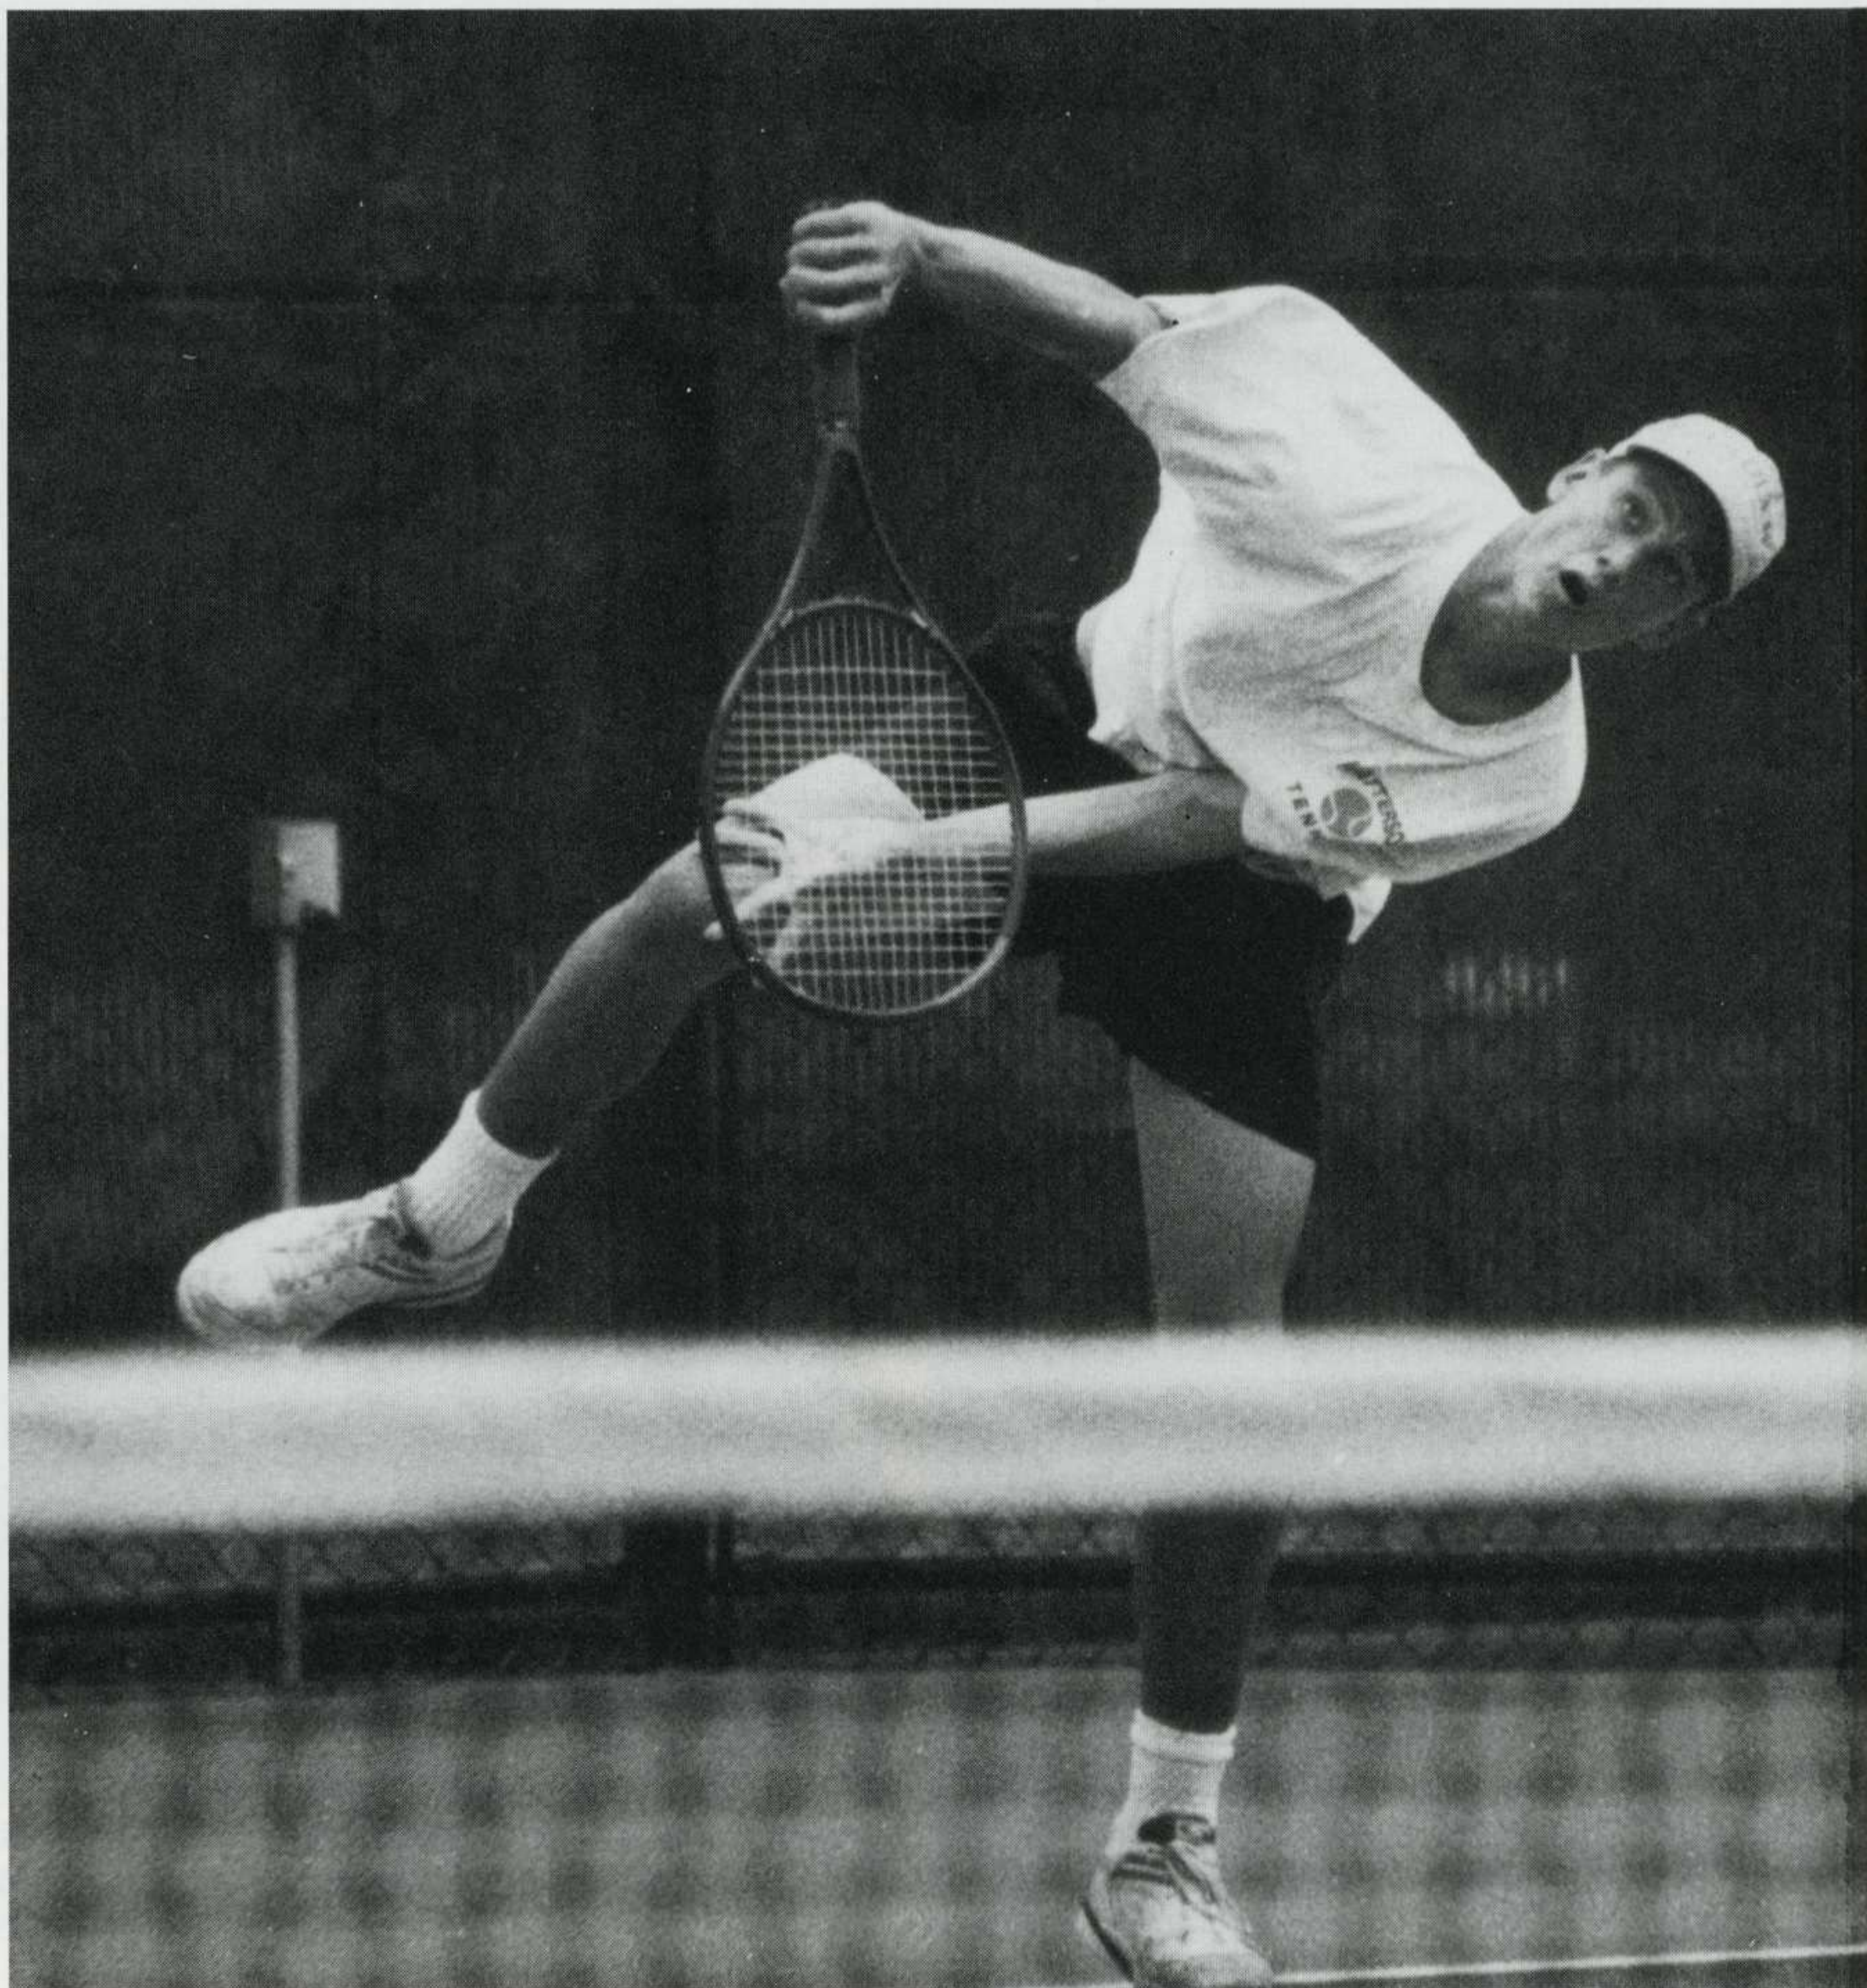

With such a great year, one may think that the boys have done all that they can do, but not so says Coach Morris. "Next year we will try to improve our records. We have a lot of great kids coming back, and I'm sure they will get the job done."

By Heather Jacobson

Waiting patiently to pulverize the ball, freshman Shane Kerr sets up.

Nearly losing his balance as he serves the ball, senior Pete Tabernik's awkwardness apparently doesn't reflect his success on the court as part of the state champ doubles team with Lee Hays.

Focusing on the ball, senior Ari Sinharoy attempts to score against his opponent.

Getting tangled up in himself, senior John Kozich serves a screamer to his opponent.

Trying to find the ball somewhere in the air, senior Lee Hays starts the match with an ace.

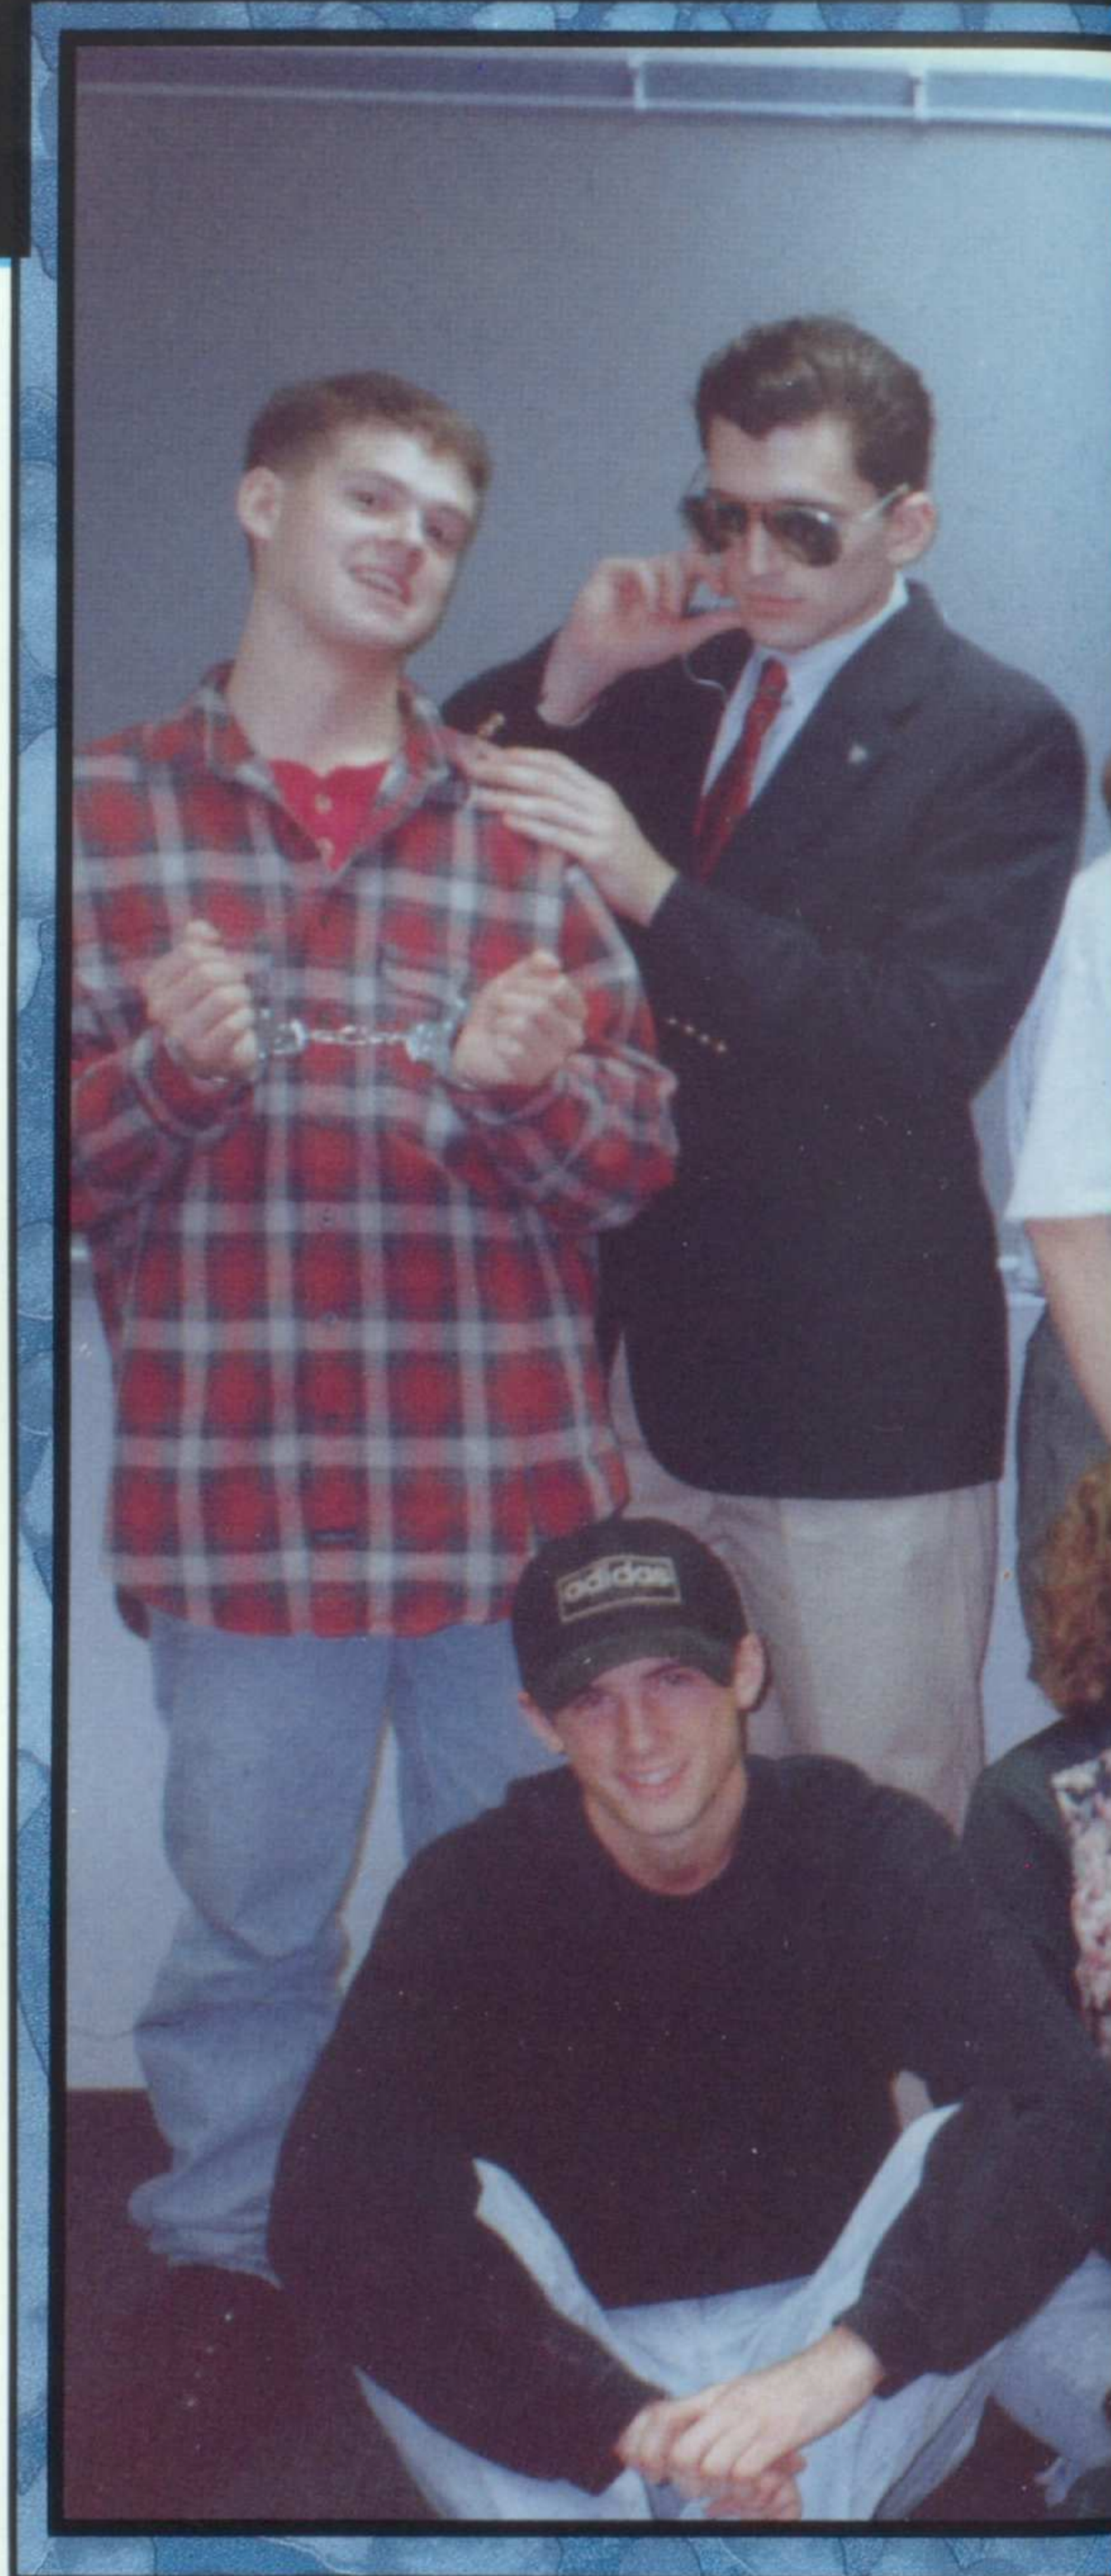

SCHOENHOFF ROCKS! He could have been the next John Wilkes Booth, but luckily Secret Service Agent Henry Walker managed to apprehend suspect Jared Kulka before he could assassinate English Department Chair, Cyndee Schoenhoff. Her 9th period Lit. class looks very thankful.

CHARLIE AND THE HARDHAT FACTORY! Maybe we'll see Charlie Langstaff on the next "Ricki Lake" - Hunks in Hardhats. He makes building a house inside WKHS sooo appealing! What a Hottie!

SICK! One must wonder the cause of such a terrible grimace upon Russ Greene's face. Bus Driver John Lennon must be swabbing the deck with the famed "Bodily Fluid Clean-up Kit."

THE MUSIC STOPPED WHEN THEY STARTED TO MOSH! Looking at the innocent faces of Erin Lyons, Amy Bancroft, and Teresa Chandler, one would never guess that deep inside they all are Nine Inch Nails groupies.

YOU CAN'T EAT JUST ONE! The Irate Spuds, Jeremy Fink, Saleel Muzamdar, Nate Potter, John Hedge, Pete Rothermel, Tom Tieu, and Matt Garrett, show their "manly" school spirit. They don't seem too "conservative" here!

Big smiles from Sarah Horstmann and Kate Marsh brighten an otherwise dull English class.

"Yummy look at all the good stuff we get to make in Mrs. Hegerty's Healthy Cuisine class," exclaim Alisha Colyer and Mark Bloomburg.

Auditioning for a spot on Richard Simmon's next workout video are Greg Sofra, Tom Tieu, Jeremy Fink, and Kristen Curry.

Cross-dresser "Misti" (Or is it Isti Islam ?) and Chris Fish spend some quality time together in the Counseling Center.

Exchange student Hana Pasmikova feels at home in America with friends like Sarah Wilson.

A myriad of shirts: Hana Pasmikova, Michelle Bosak, Kelley Harris, Kristi Stevens, Ellie Ryan, Chip Franz, April Allen, Sara Davda, Angela Bookwalter, Sheri Schneider, Amanda Bishop, Jen Sedlak, Laura Woodling, and Elizabeth Ryba.

Shirts filled with symbols capture high school memories for Sarah Thompson, Dana Maurer, Kelley Harris, Erin Otten, and Courtney Hayworth.

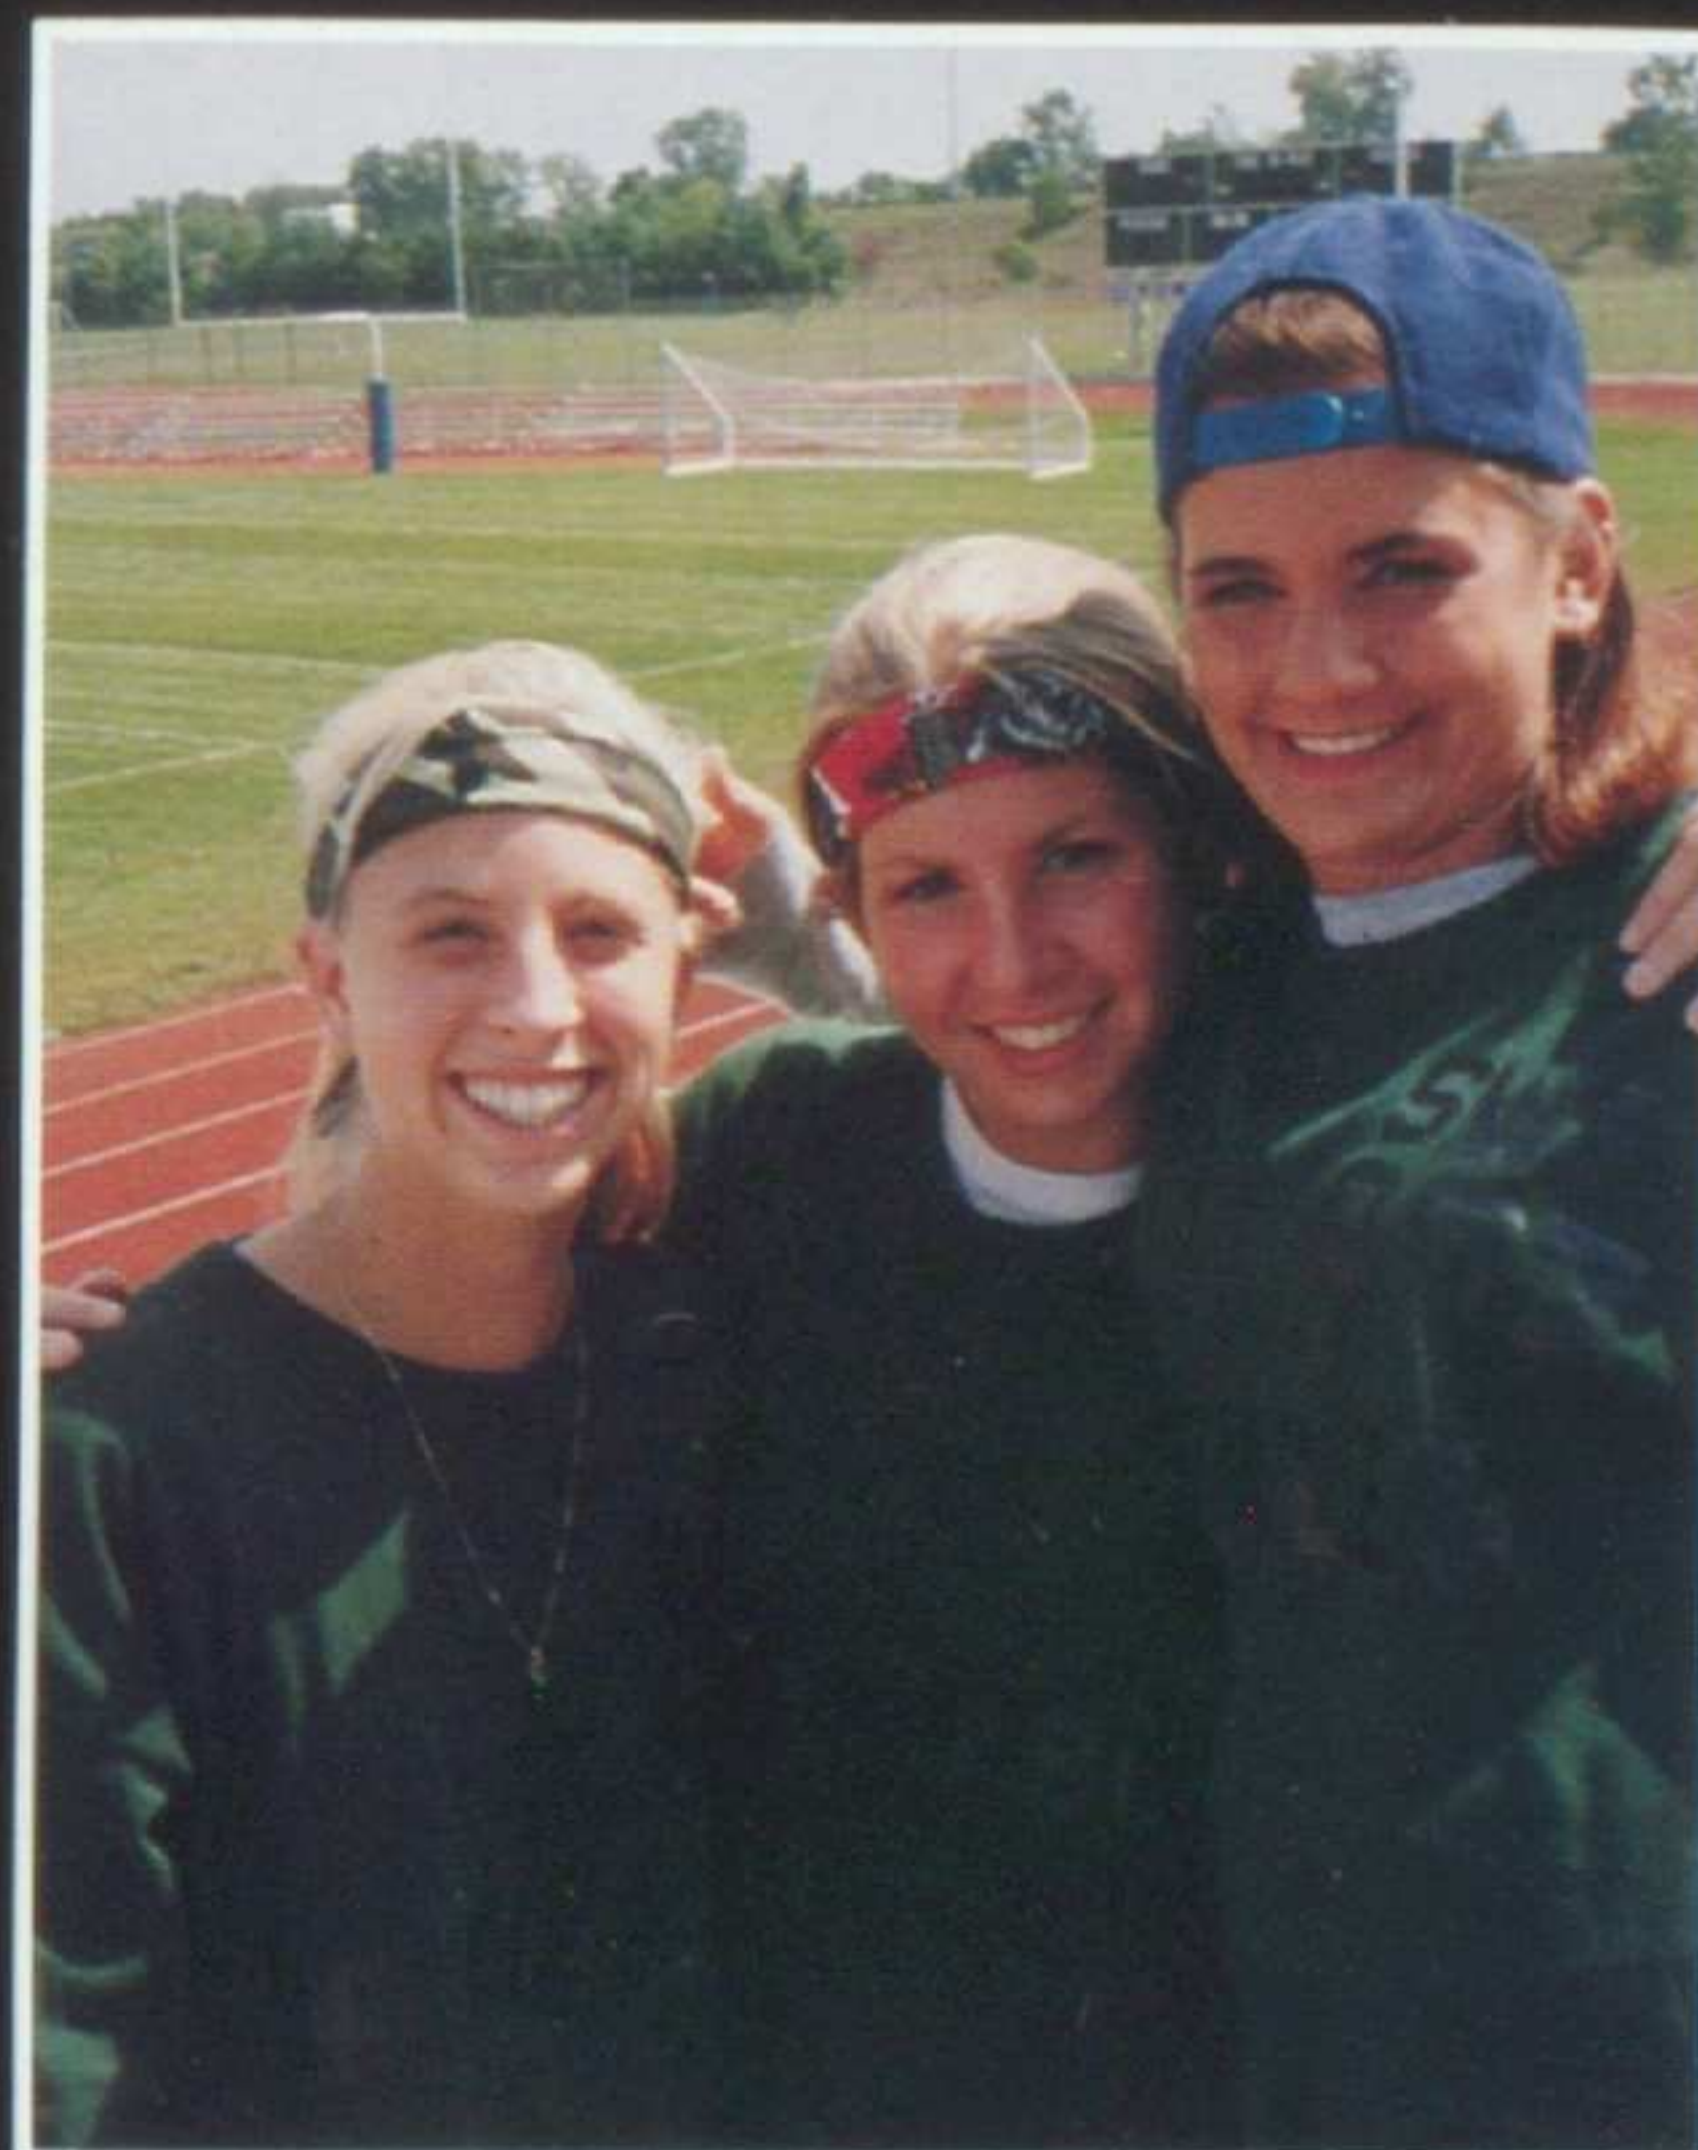

Bringing new meaning to senior shirts are trend setters Geoff Gear and Matt Clausen.

Swarming Kris Moore and Alan Longstreth are Fred Koury, Will Madia, Chris Petty, Erik Waltermire, Andres Castrillon, Dustin Butler, John Kozich, and Colin Wise.

"Where's your bandana, Jen Russelo," ask Stephanie Chadwell and Marissa Mertz.

"Smile," exclaim Sarah Wilson, Angela Bookwalter, Michelle Martin, Allison Evans, Eri Wantanabe, and Anjali Goel.

Displaying their sign are Scott Schaeffer, Matt Halpin, Chip Franz, and Kyle Baker.

Looking macho, as always, are Joe Igoe, Danny Temple, Trey Anstine, Bobby Carlson, Robbie Dalton, Kyle Whisler, Josh Sherrell, and Nick Wehe.

As we score another touchdown, Ryan Bertram, Allison Walker, Kyle Baker, Nina Jaleeli, and Helga Serrano go wild.

The field hockey team gets psyched for their game by painting the school rock.

Showing their enthusiasm during a football game are Chip Franz and Matt Halpin. Do you suppose Chip secretly wants to be a woman?

"Ninety-five, Ninety-five, Ninety, Ninety, Ninety, NINETY-FIVE," chants Don Stickel as he leaps in the air showing off a lot more than just school spirit!

Cuddling with a puppy is Tiffany Groves.

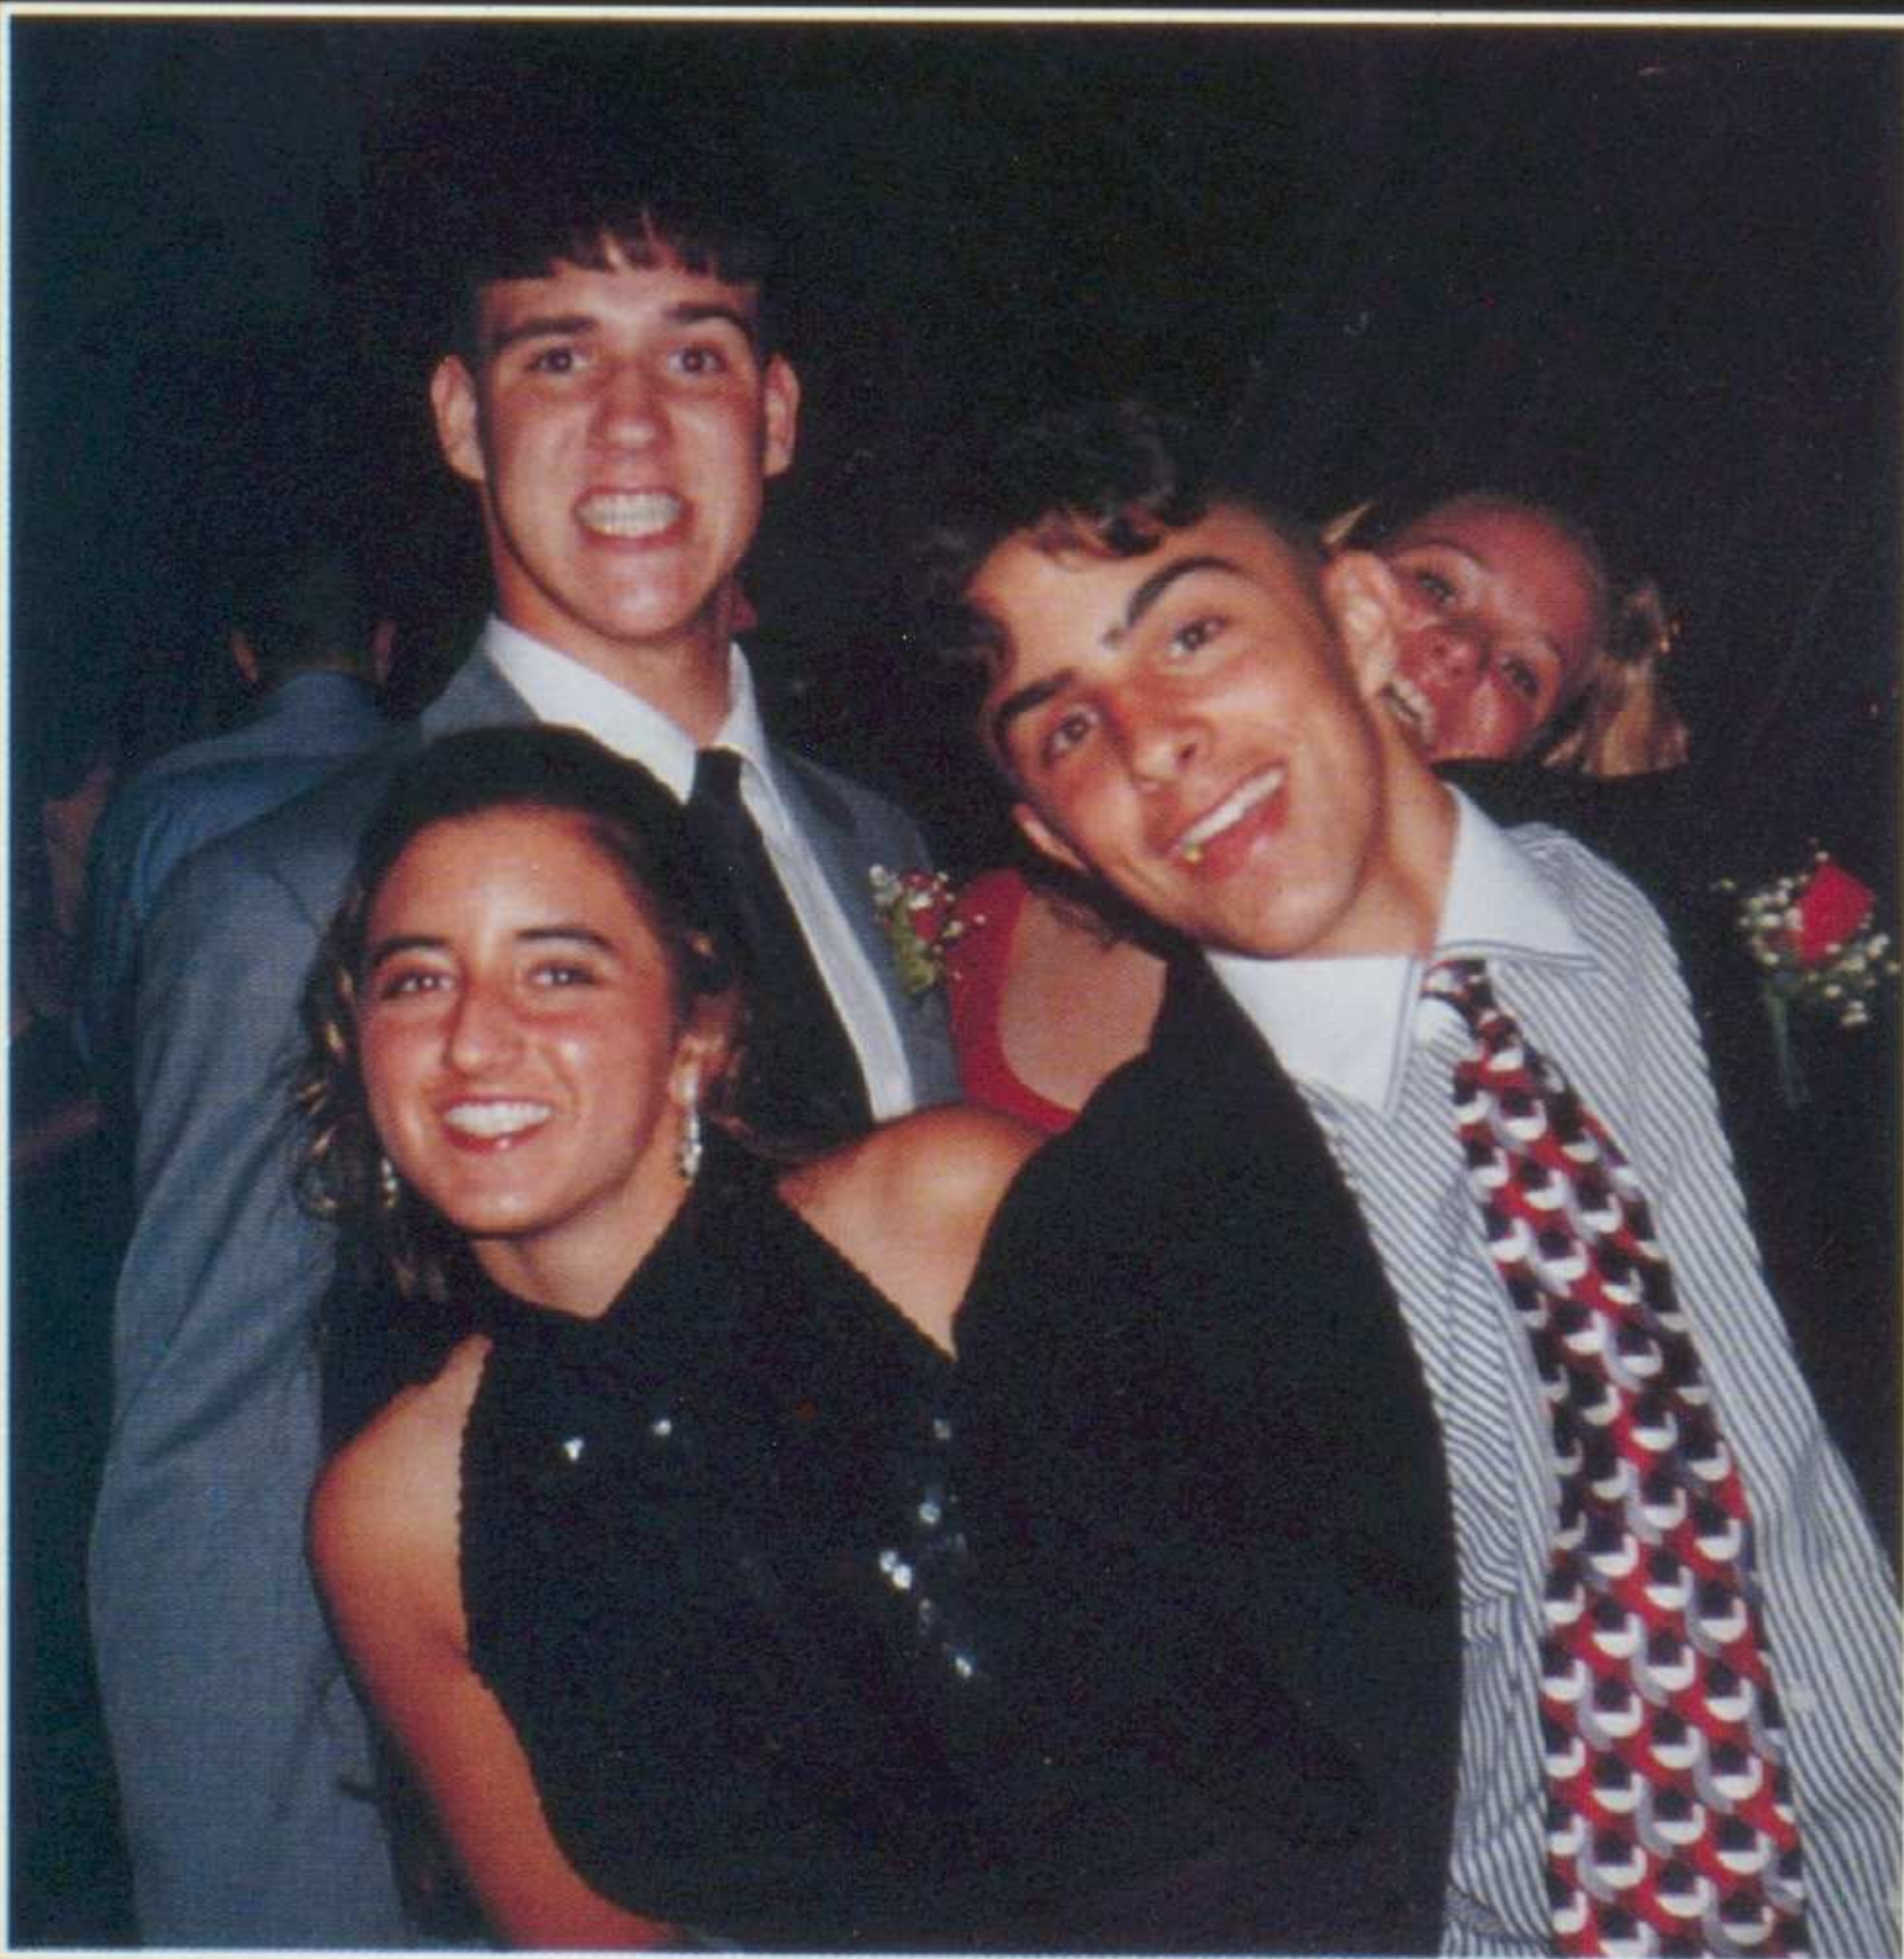

Smothering Lobo with love are Andrea Rousey, Sarah Dressler, Sheila Rupp, Michelle Greek, and Jessica Brown.

Gathering together at a pep assembly is this happy group of seniors: Teresa Chandler, Anu Chauhan, Fong Lee, Lindsay Hart, Michelle Bosak, Erin Kemple, Sara Davda, Elizabeth Ryba, JoAnne Poulton, Star Cave, and Brielle Gazzara.

Smiling mischievously are Amanda Dhir, Kay Chen, and Chrissie Siroskey after they sabotaged the school's computers.

Do Monica Nemecek and Andy Williams realize they're being stalked by Matt Cowgill?

Showing that shirt groups don't always separate friends is this close group of Heather Noel, Kelley Harris, Courtney Hayworth, Schelle Nooks, and Kristin Lusk.

Looking wonderful tonight are Kara Battin and Michael Shane.

"Why go to class if recruiters are knocking on your door," say Eric Strickland and Antjuan Savage.

"Who says Seniors don't take hard classes?" asks Will Madia as he attempts to use the potters wheel.

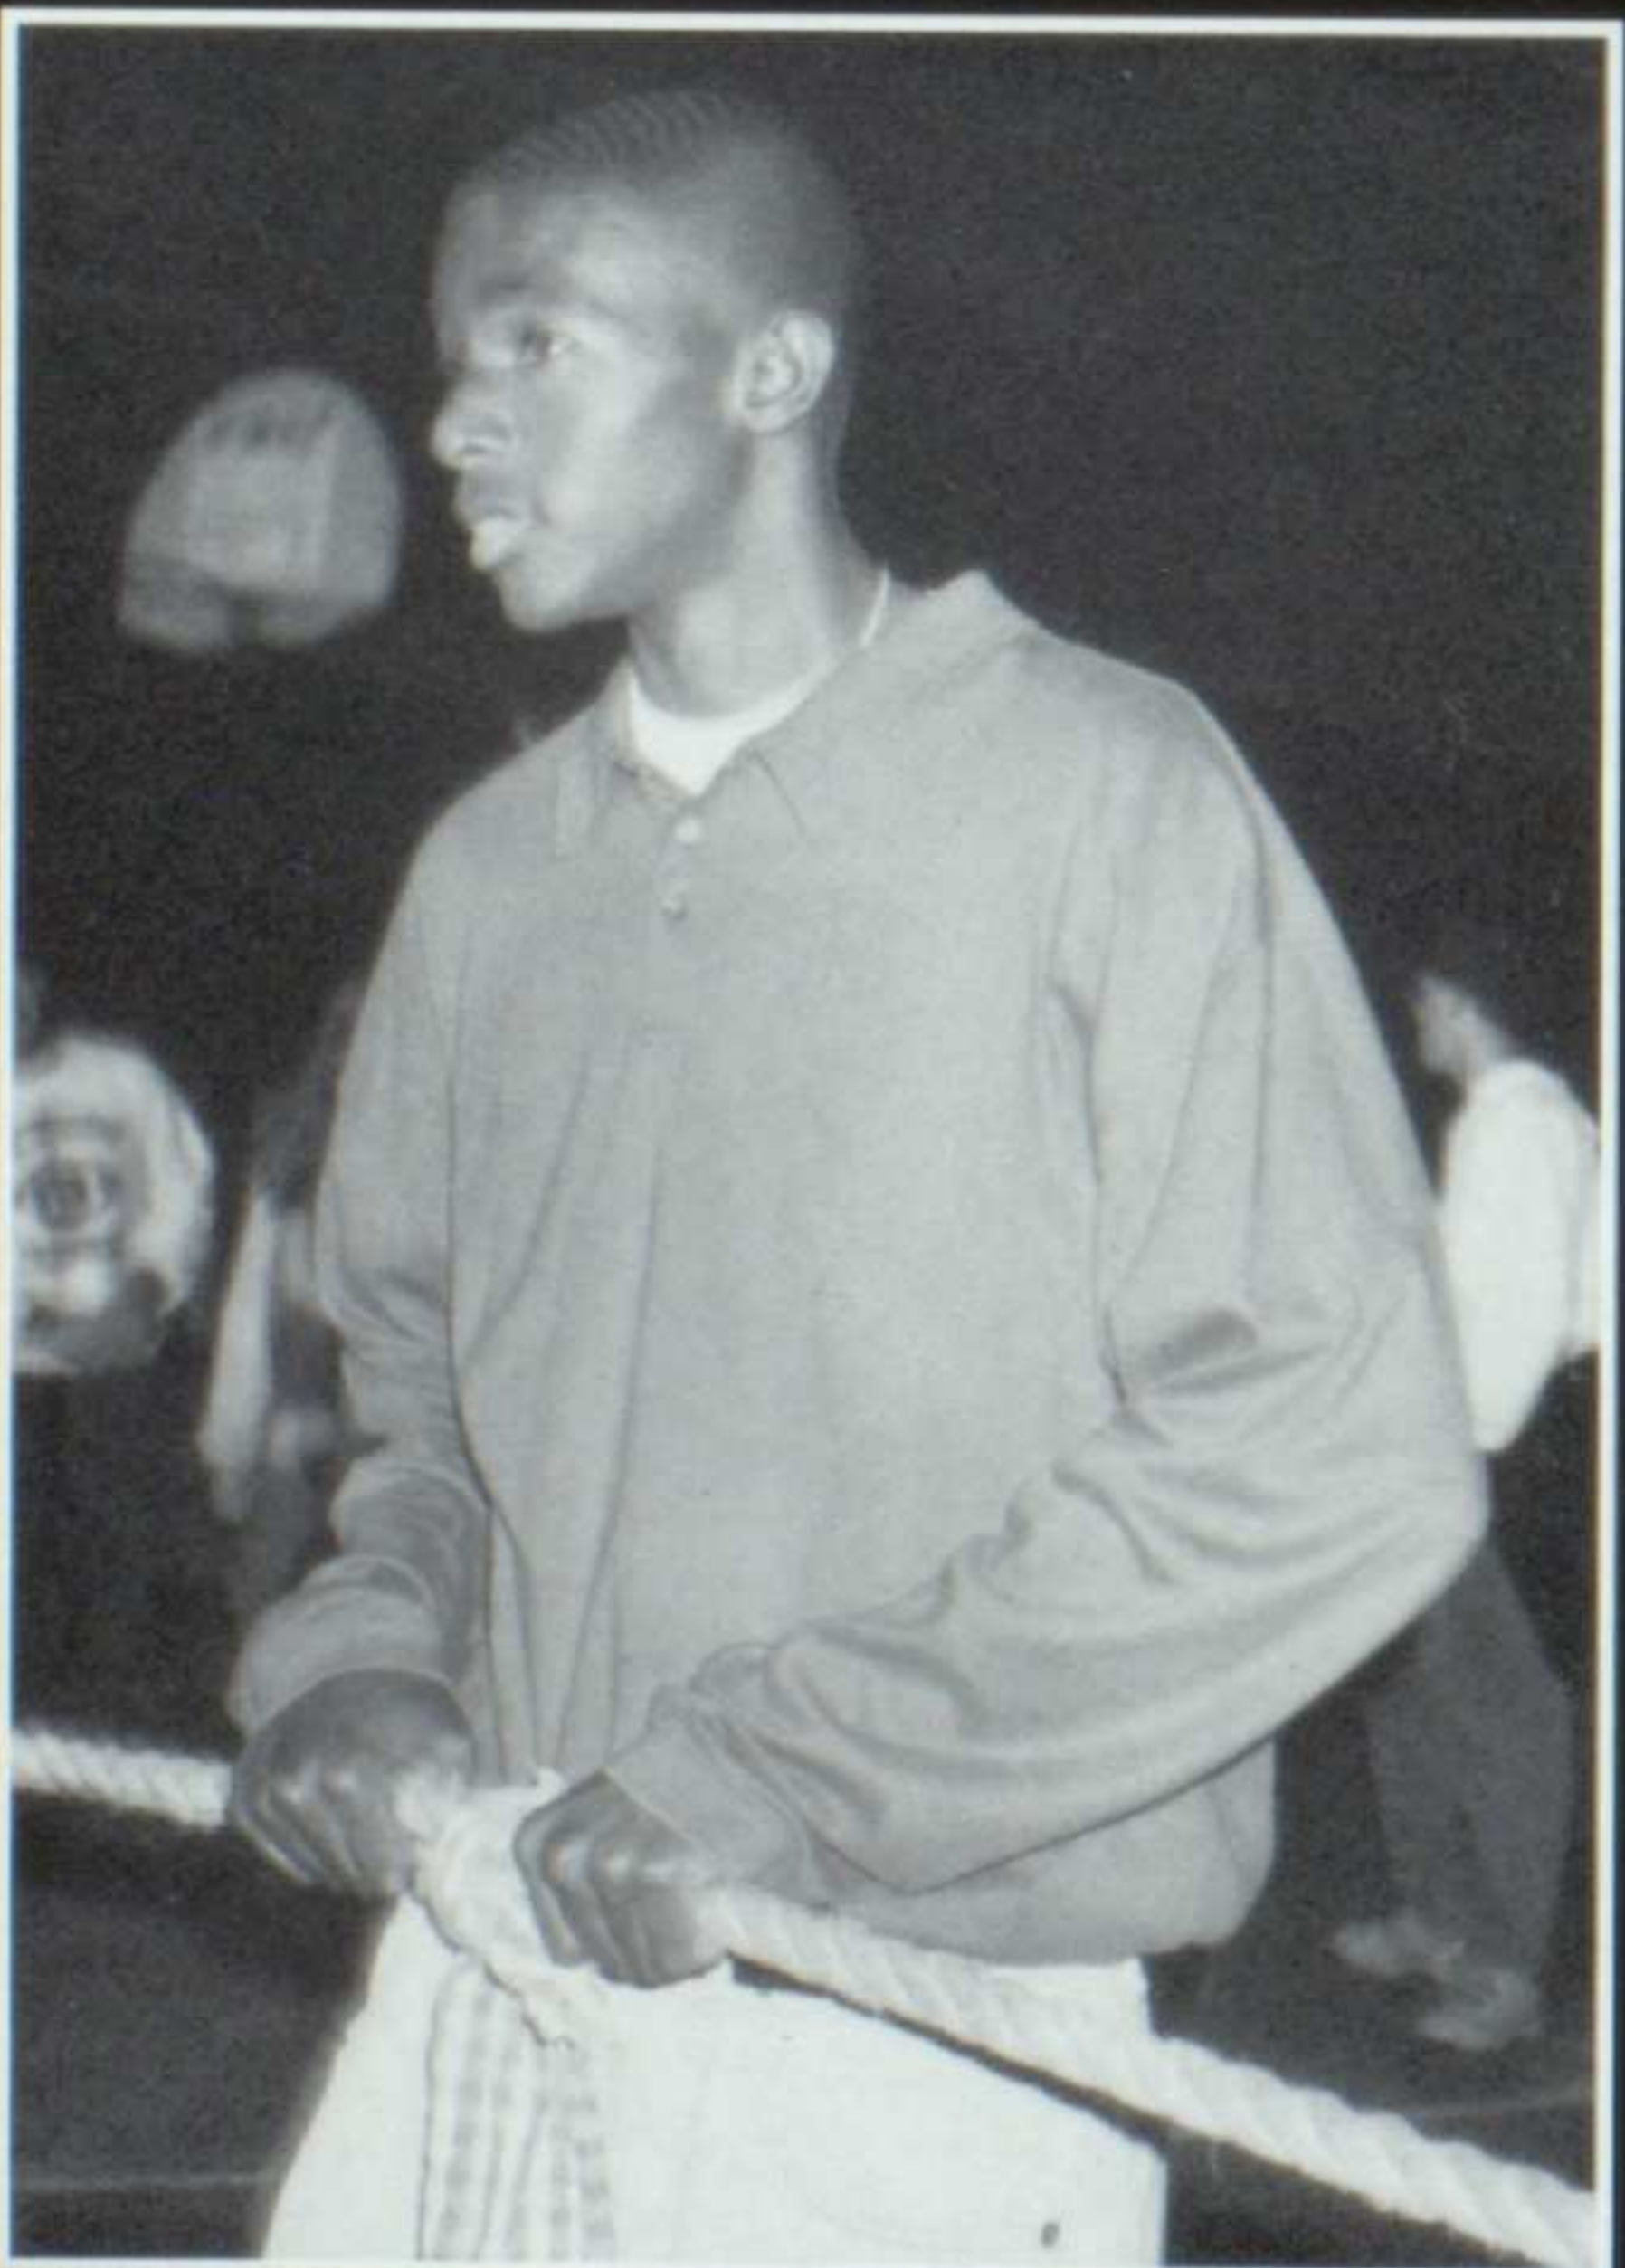

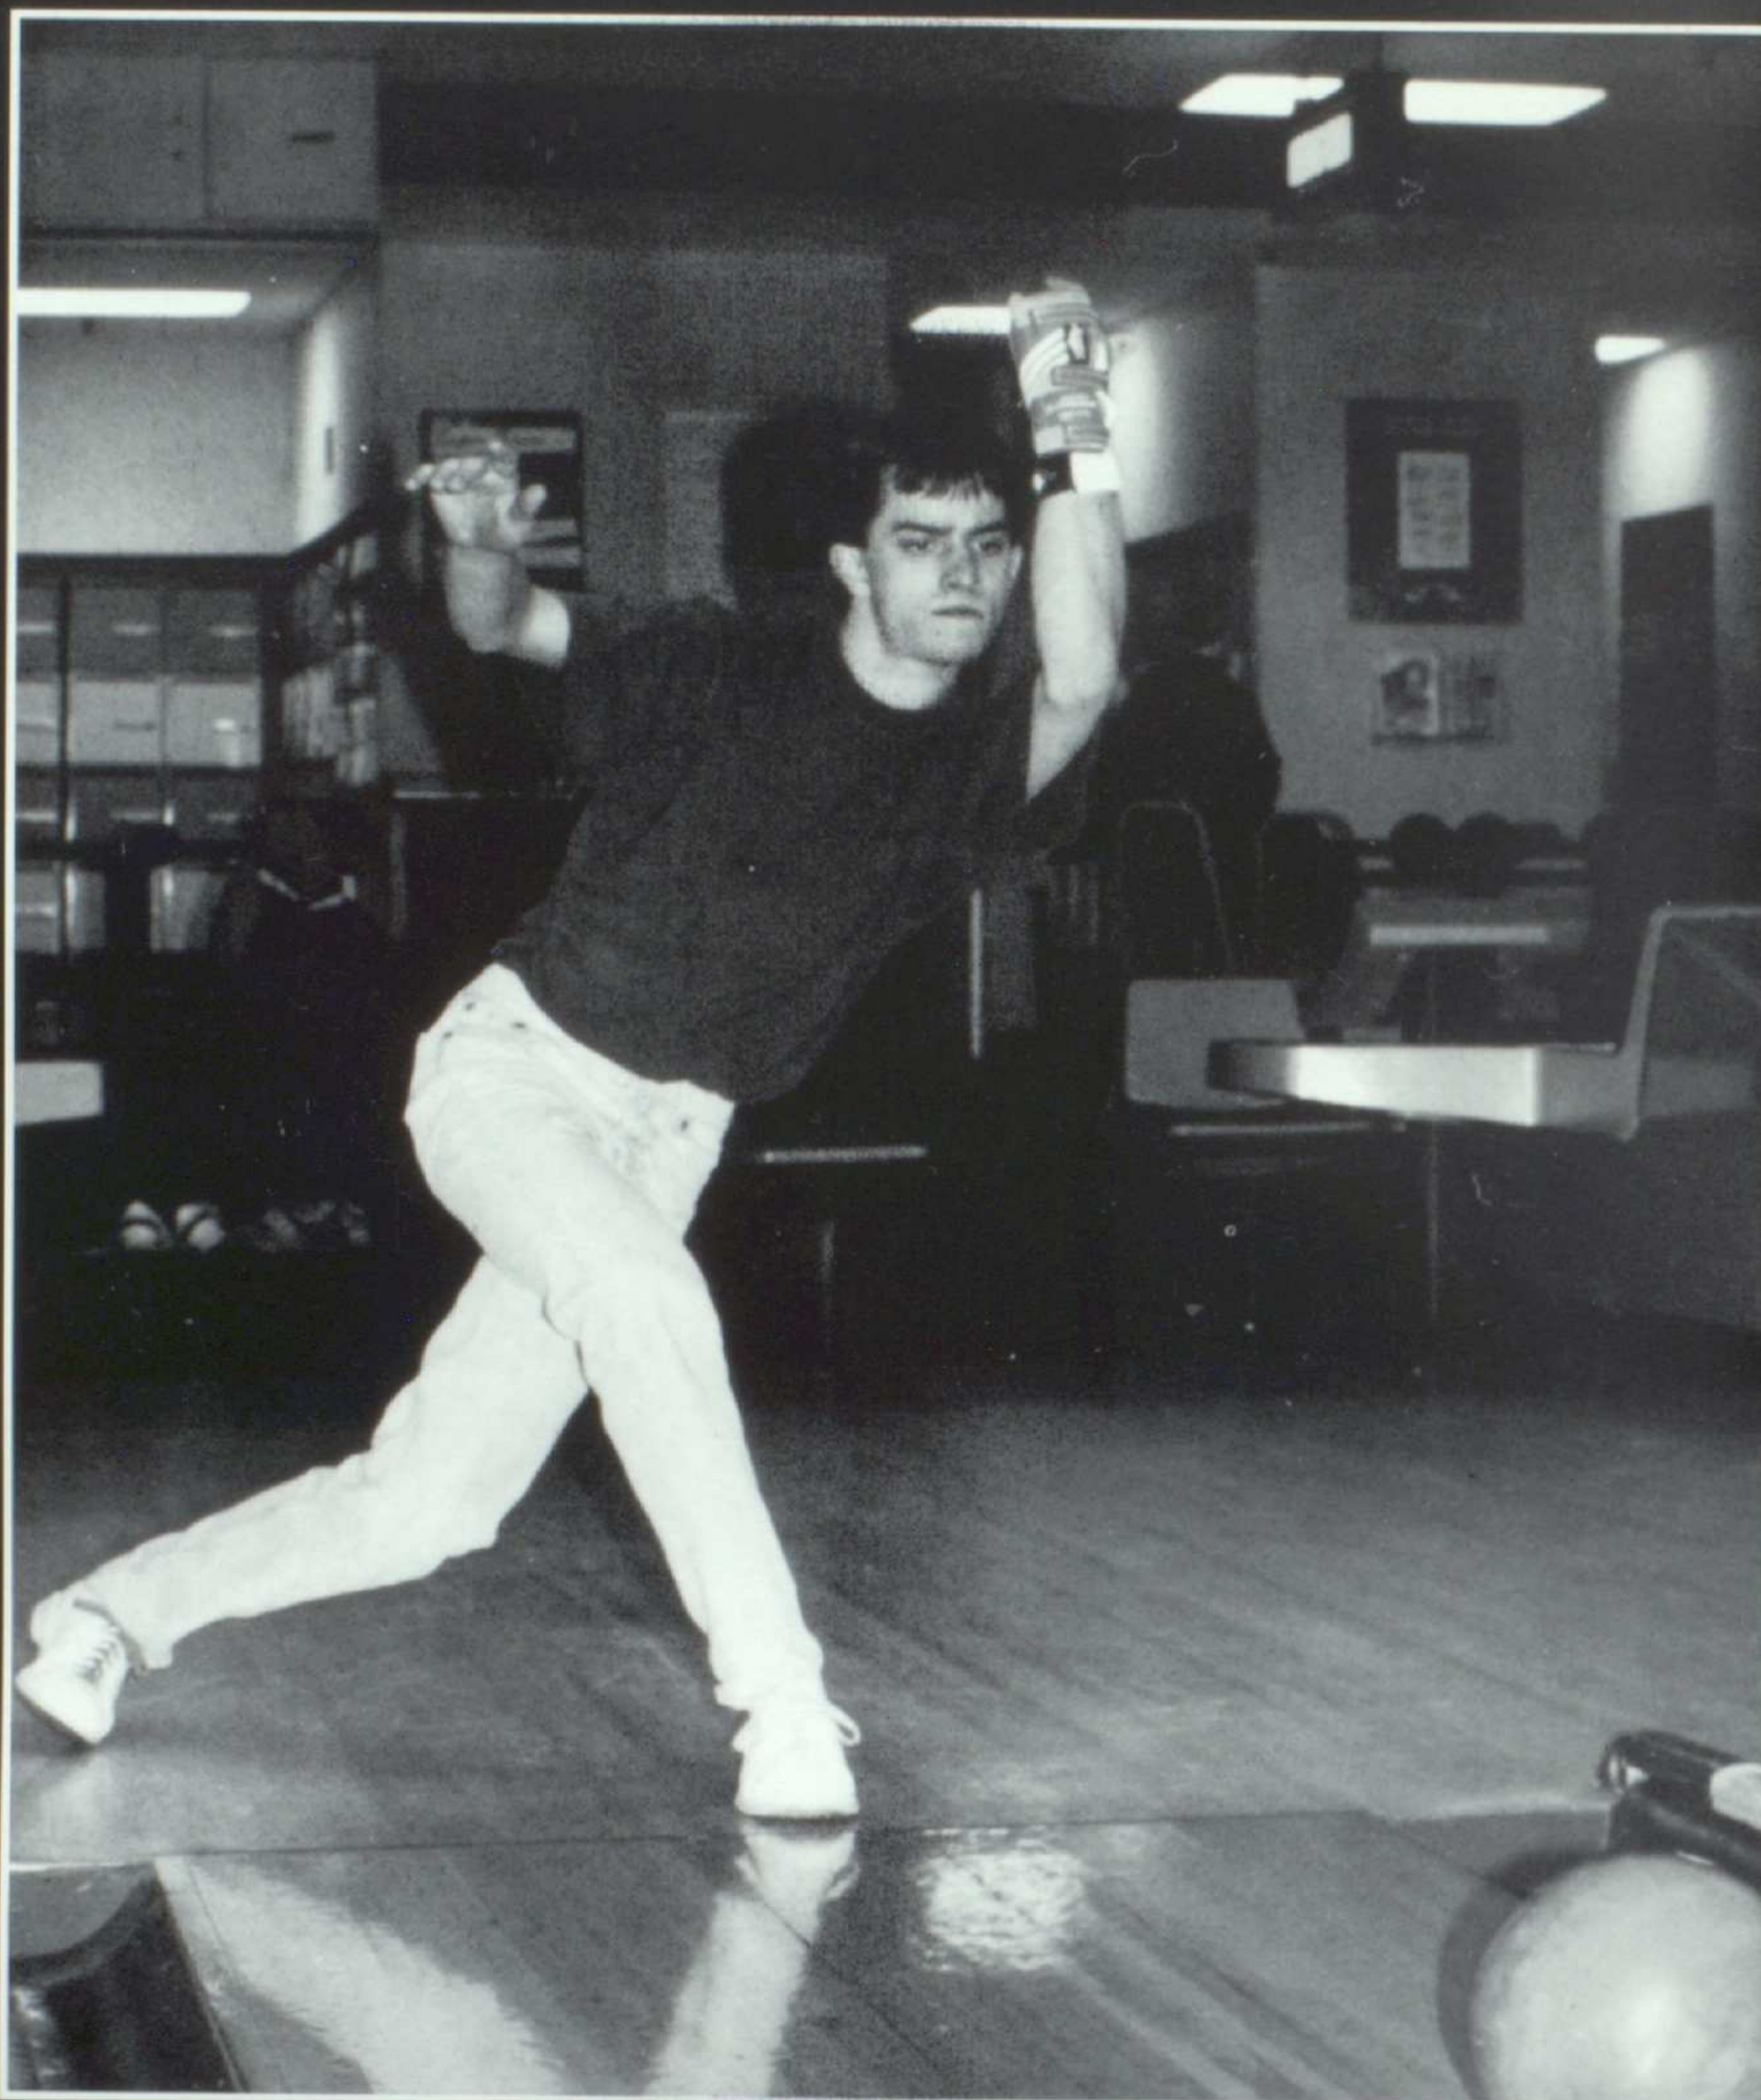

Showing off their "defense" smiles are Jenni Cramer, Amy Calhoon, and Jessica Sines.

"Tee-Hee," giggles Wendy Flaig while Jessi Tisdale smiles sweetly.

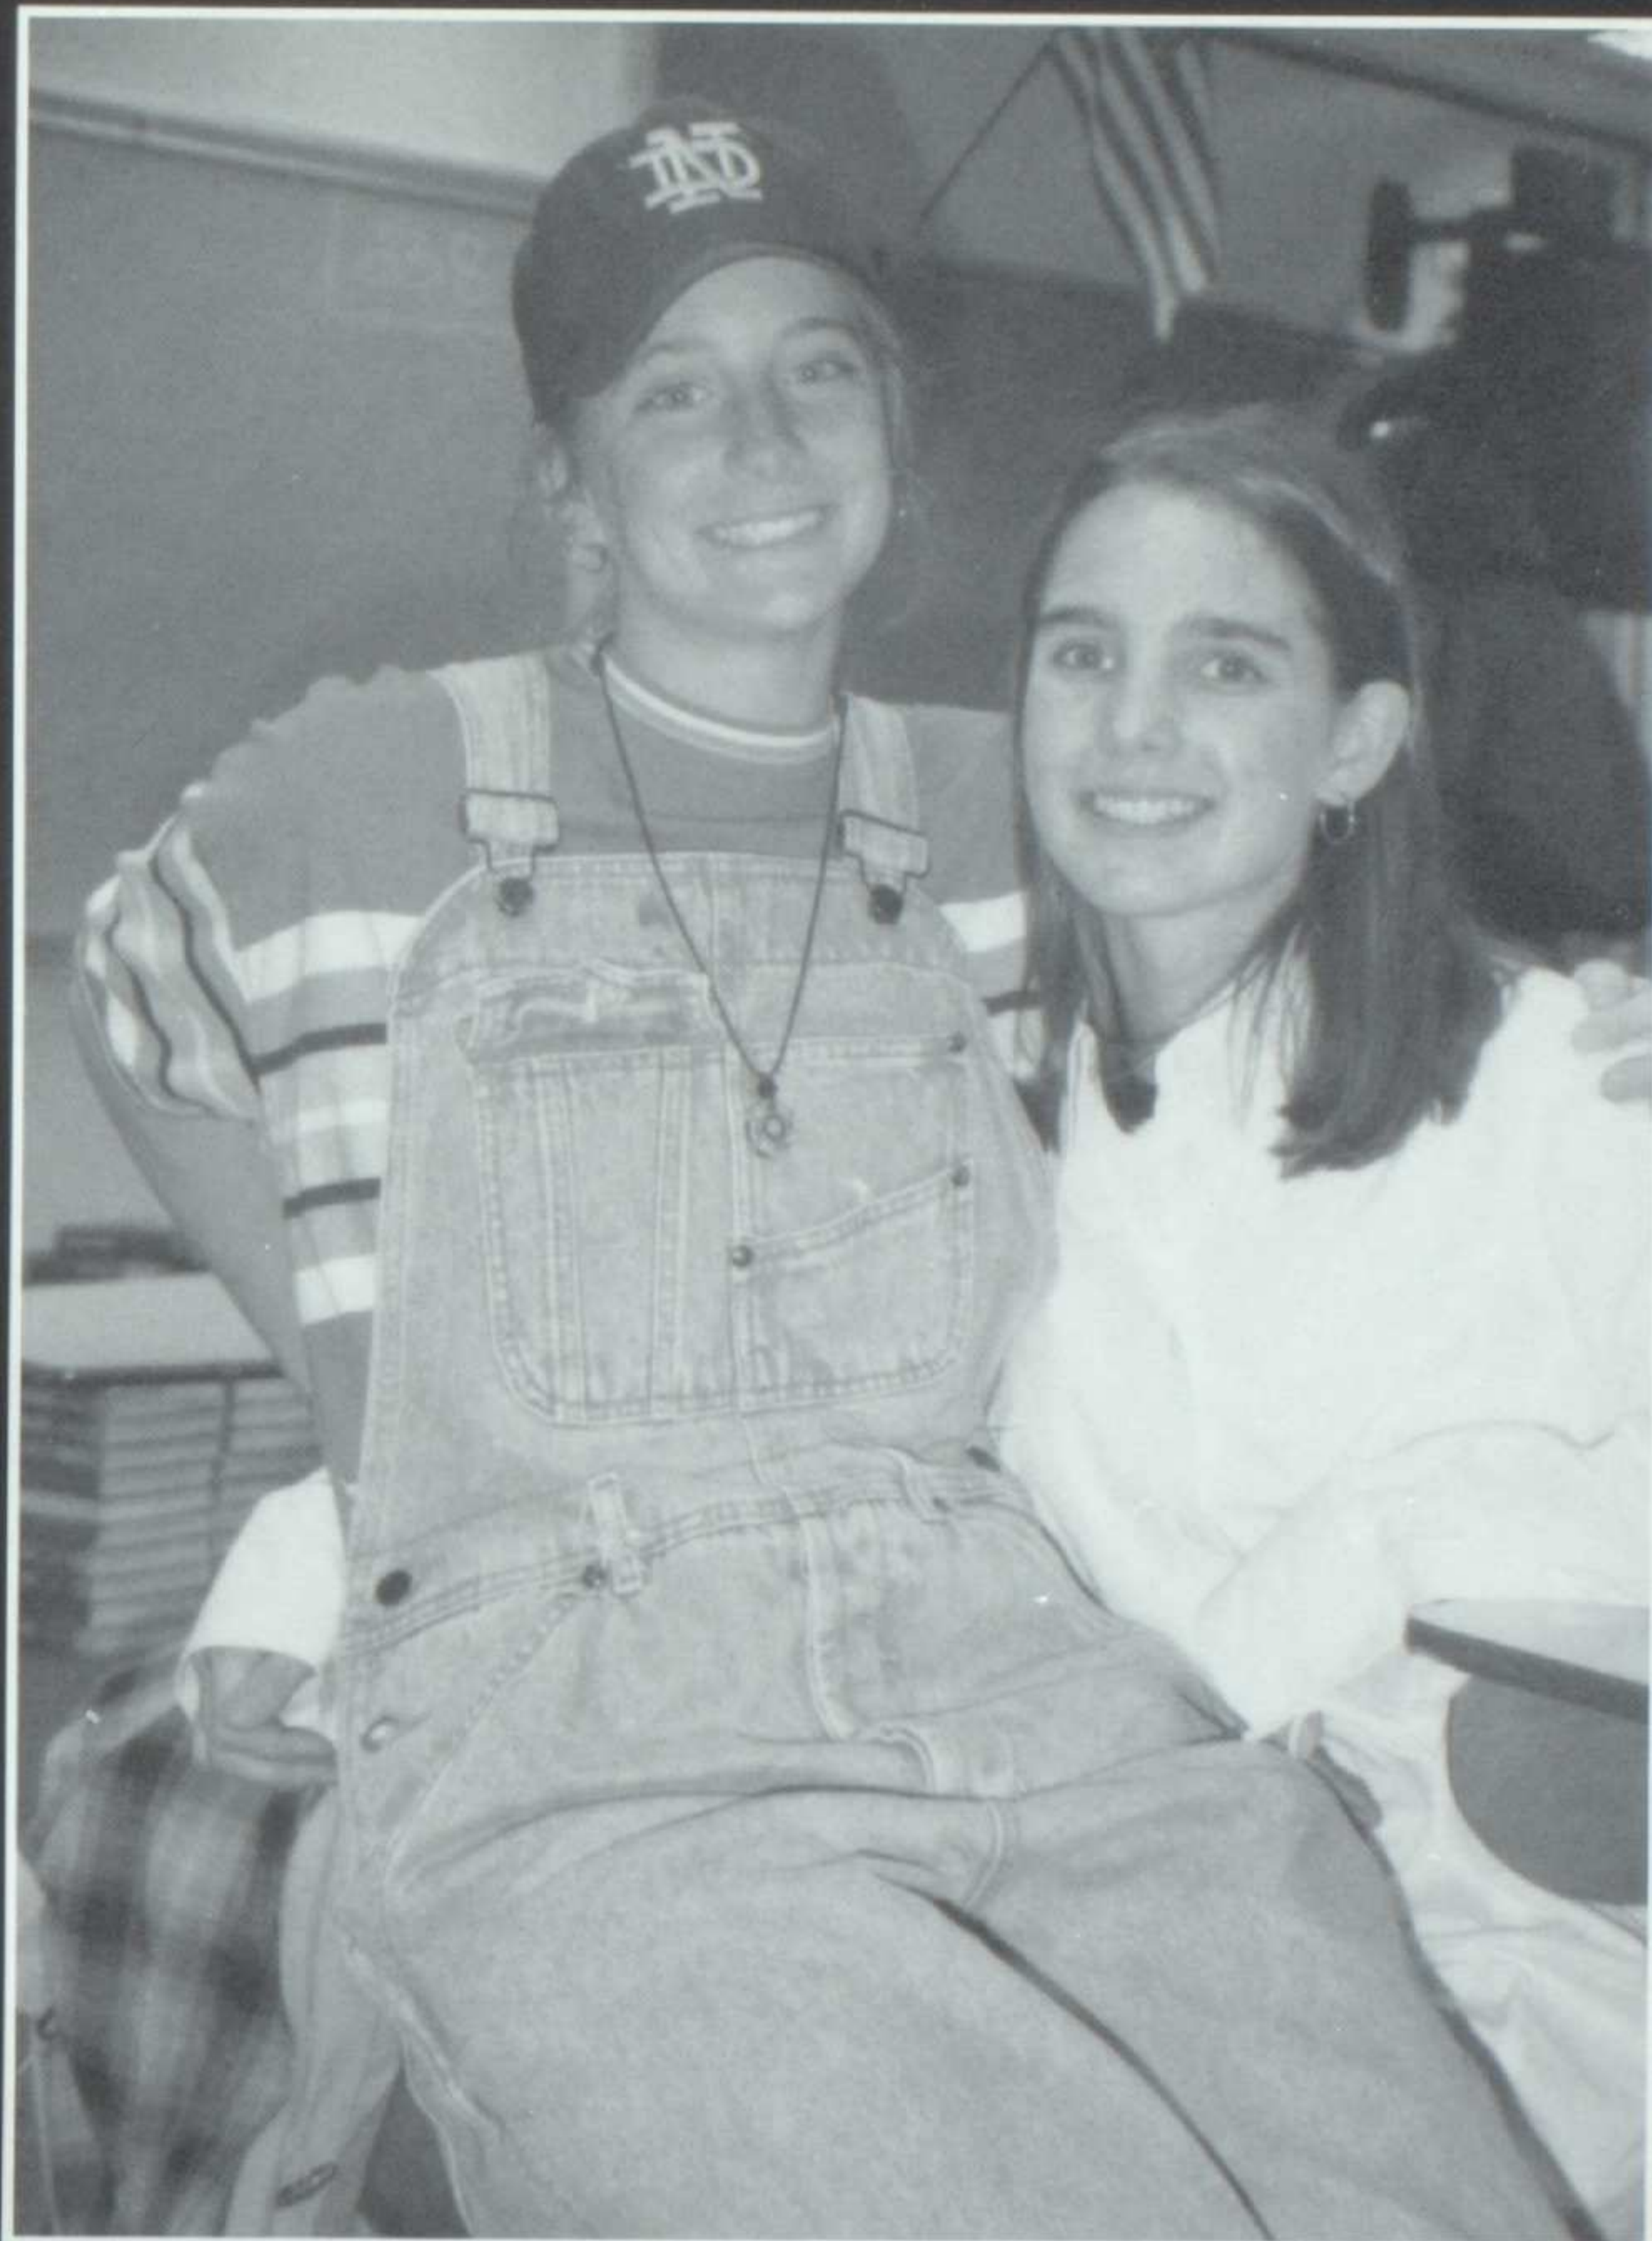

"Hey, what am I doing in the middle of this?" inquires Dale Williams.

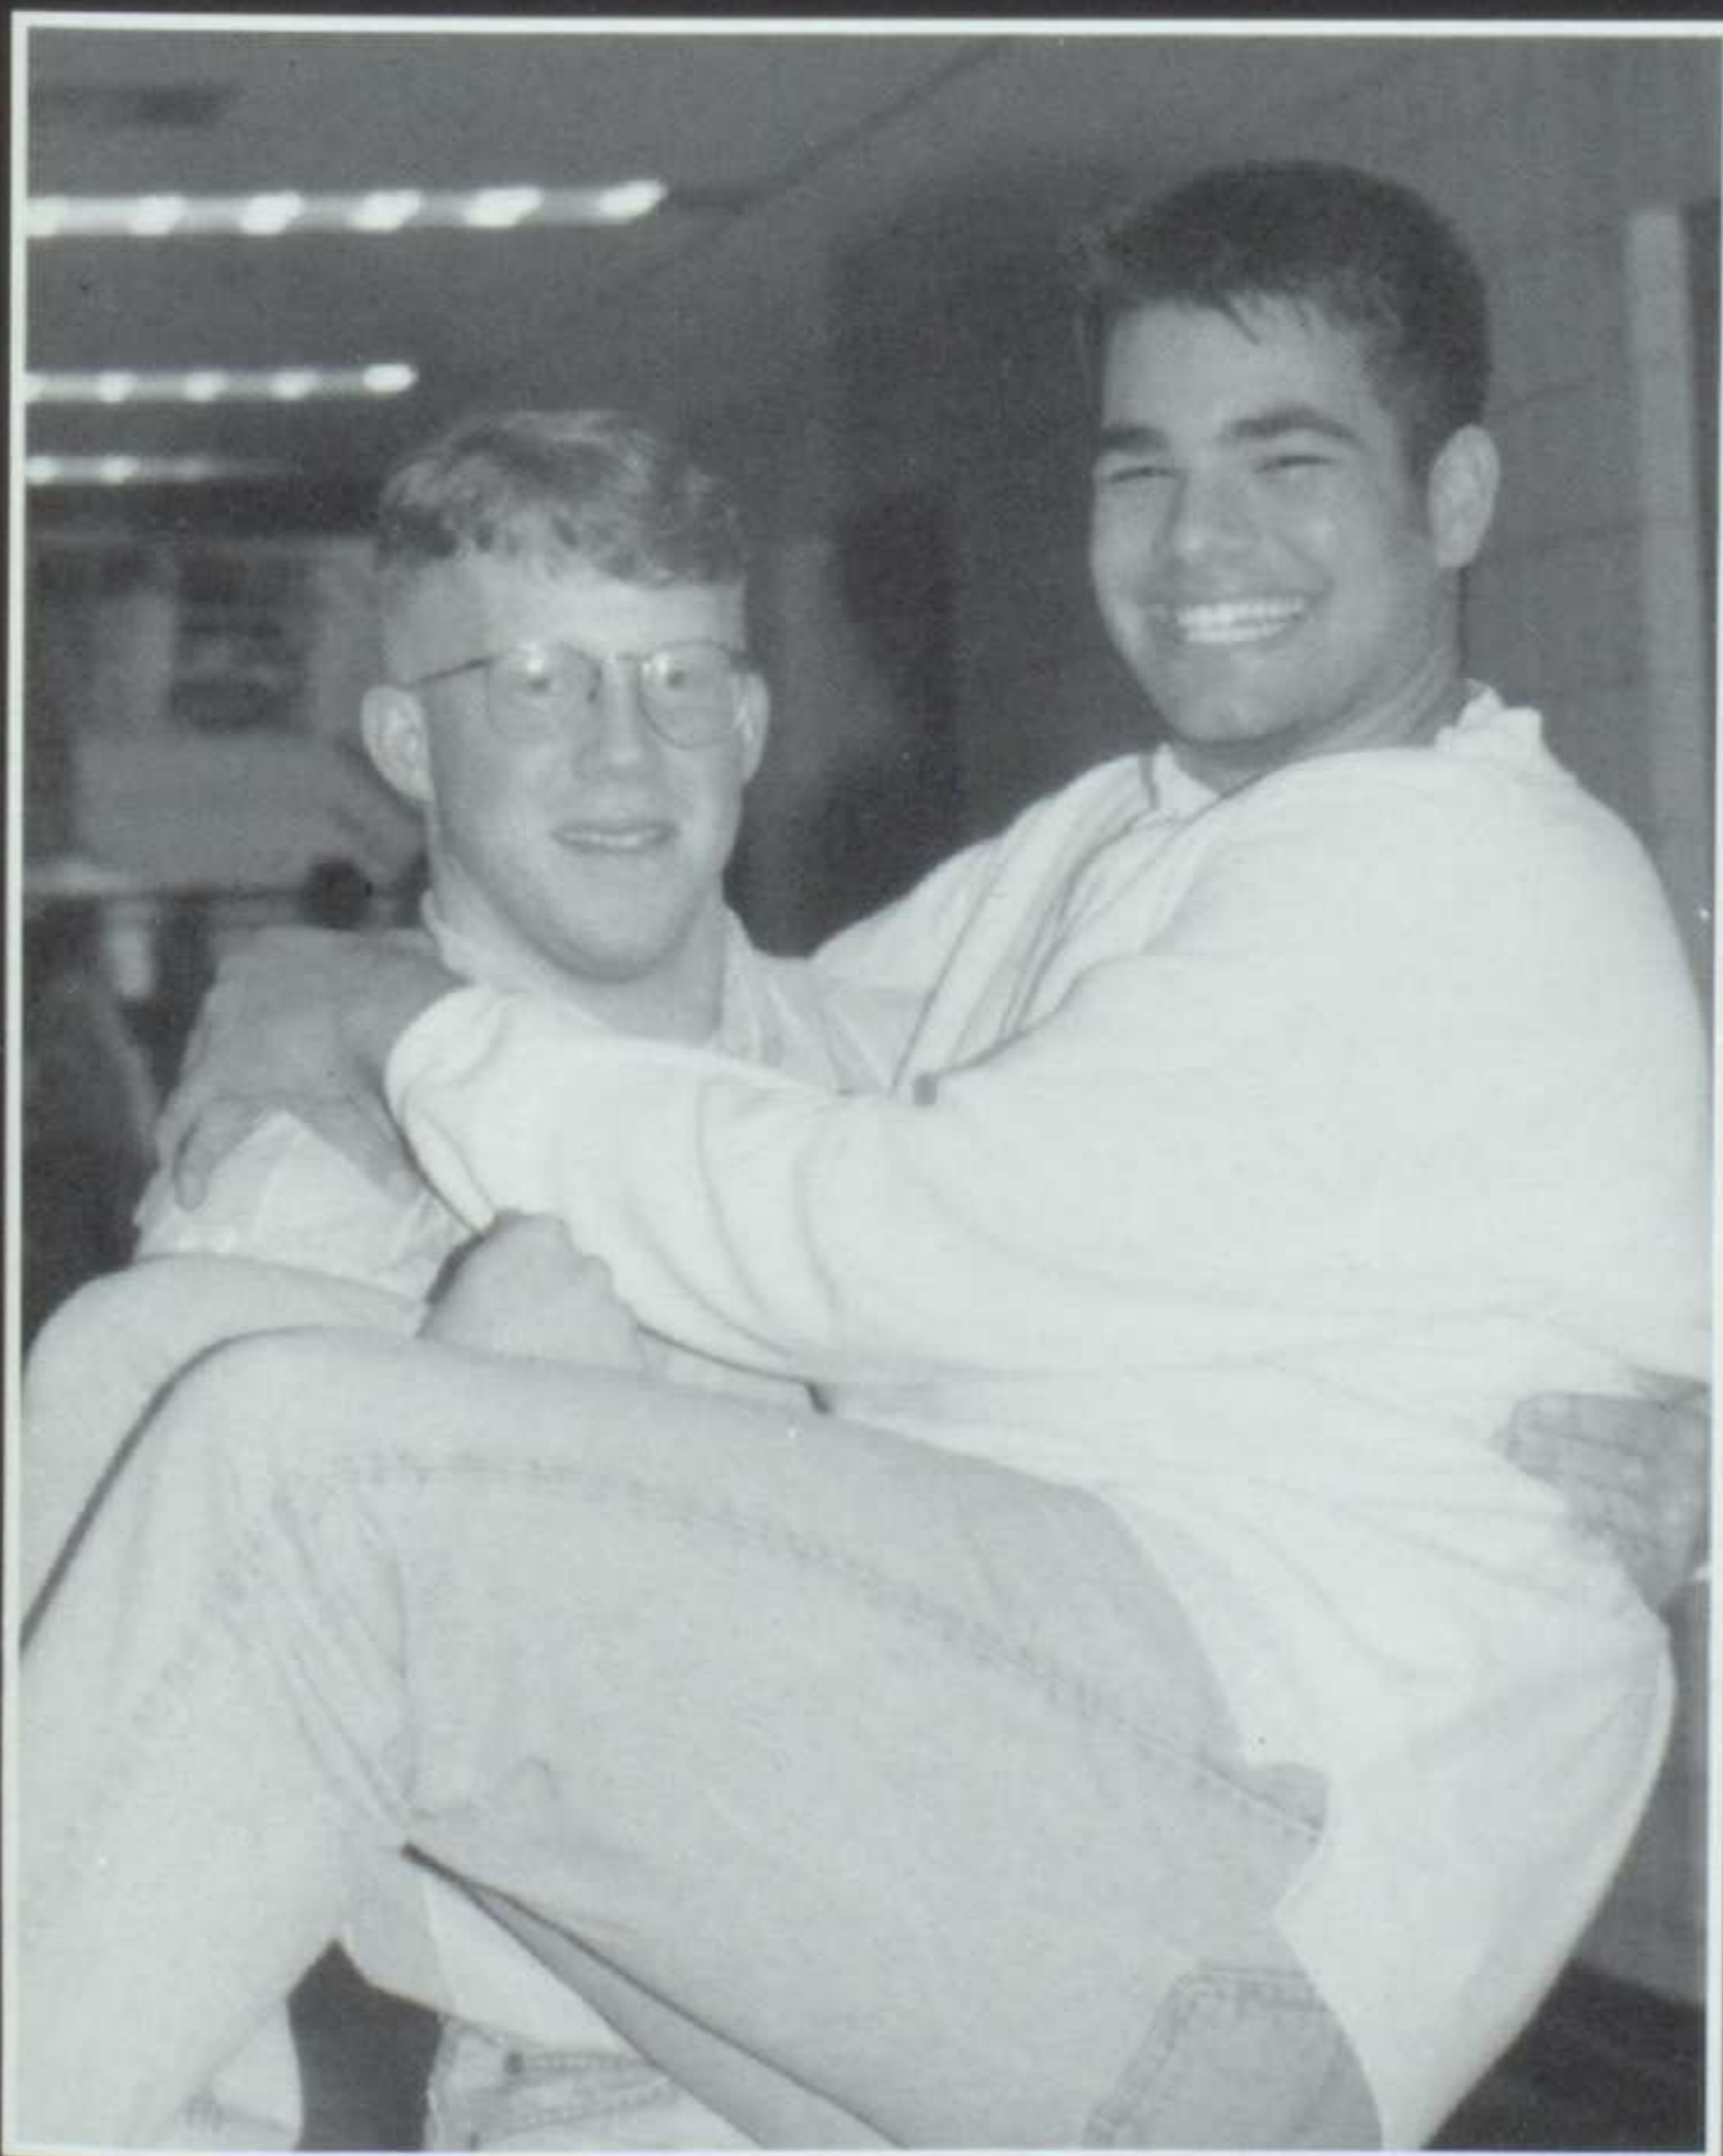

Bowling his way to the honor of third in the state and a $500 scholarship is Brad Ellifritz. Brad also must be congratulated upon bowling a perfect game this season!

"We must learn to express our individuality," say Libby Maia and Sharifa Andrews.

"We just love physics!" exclaim Maureen Hackett and Megan Harrison. It is obvious that they have become copper coil wrapping pros after finishing their required service project!

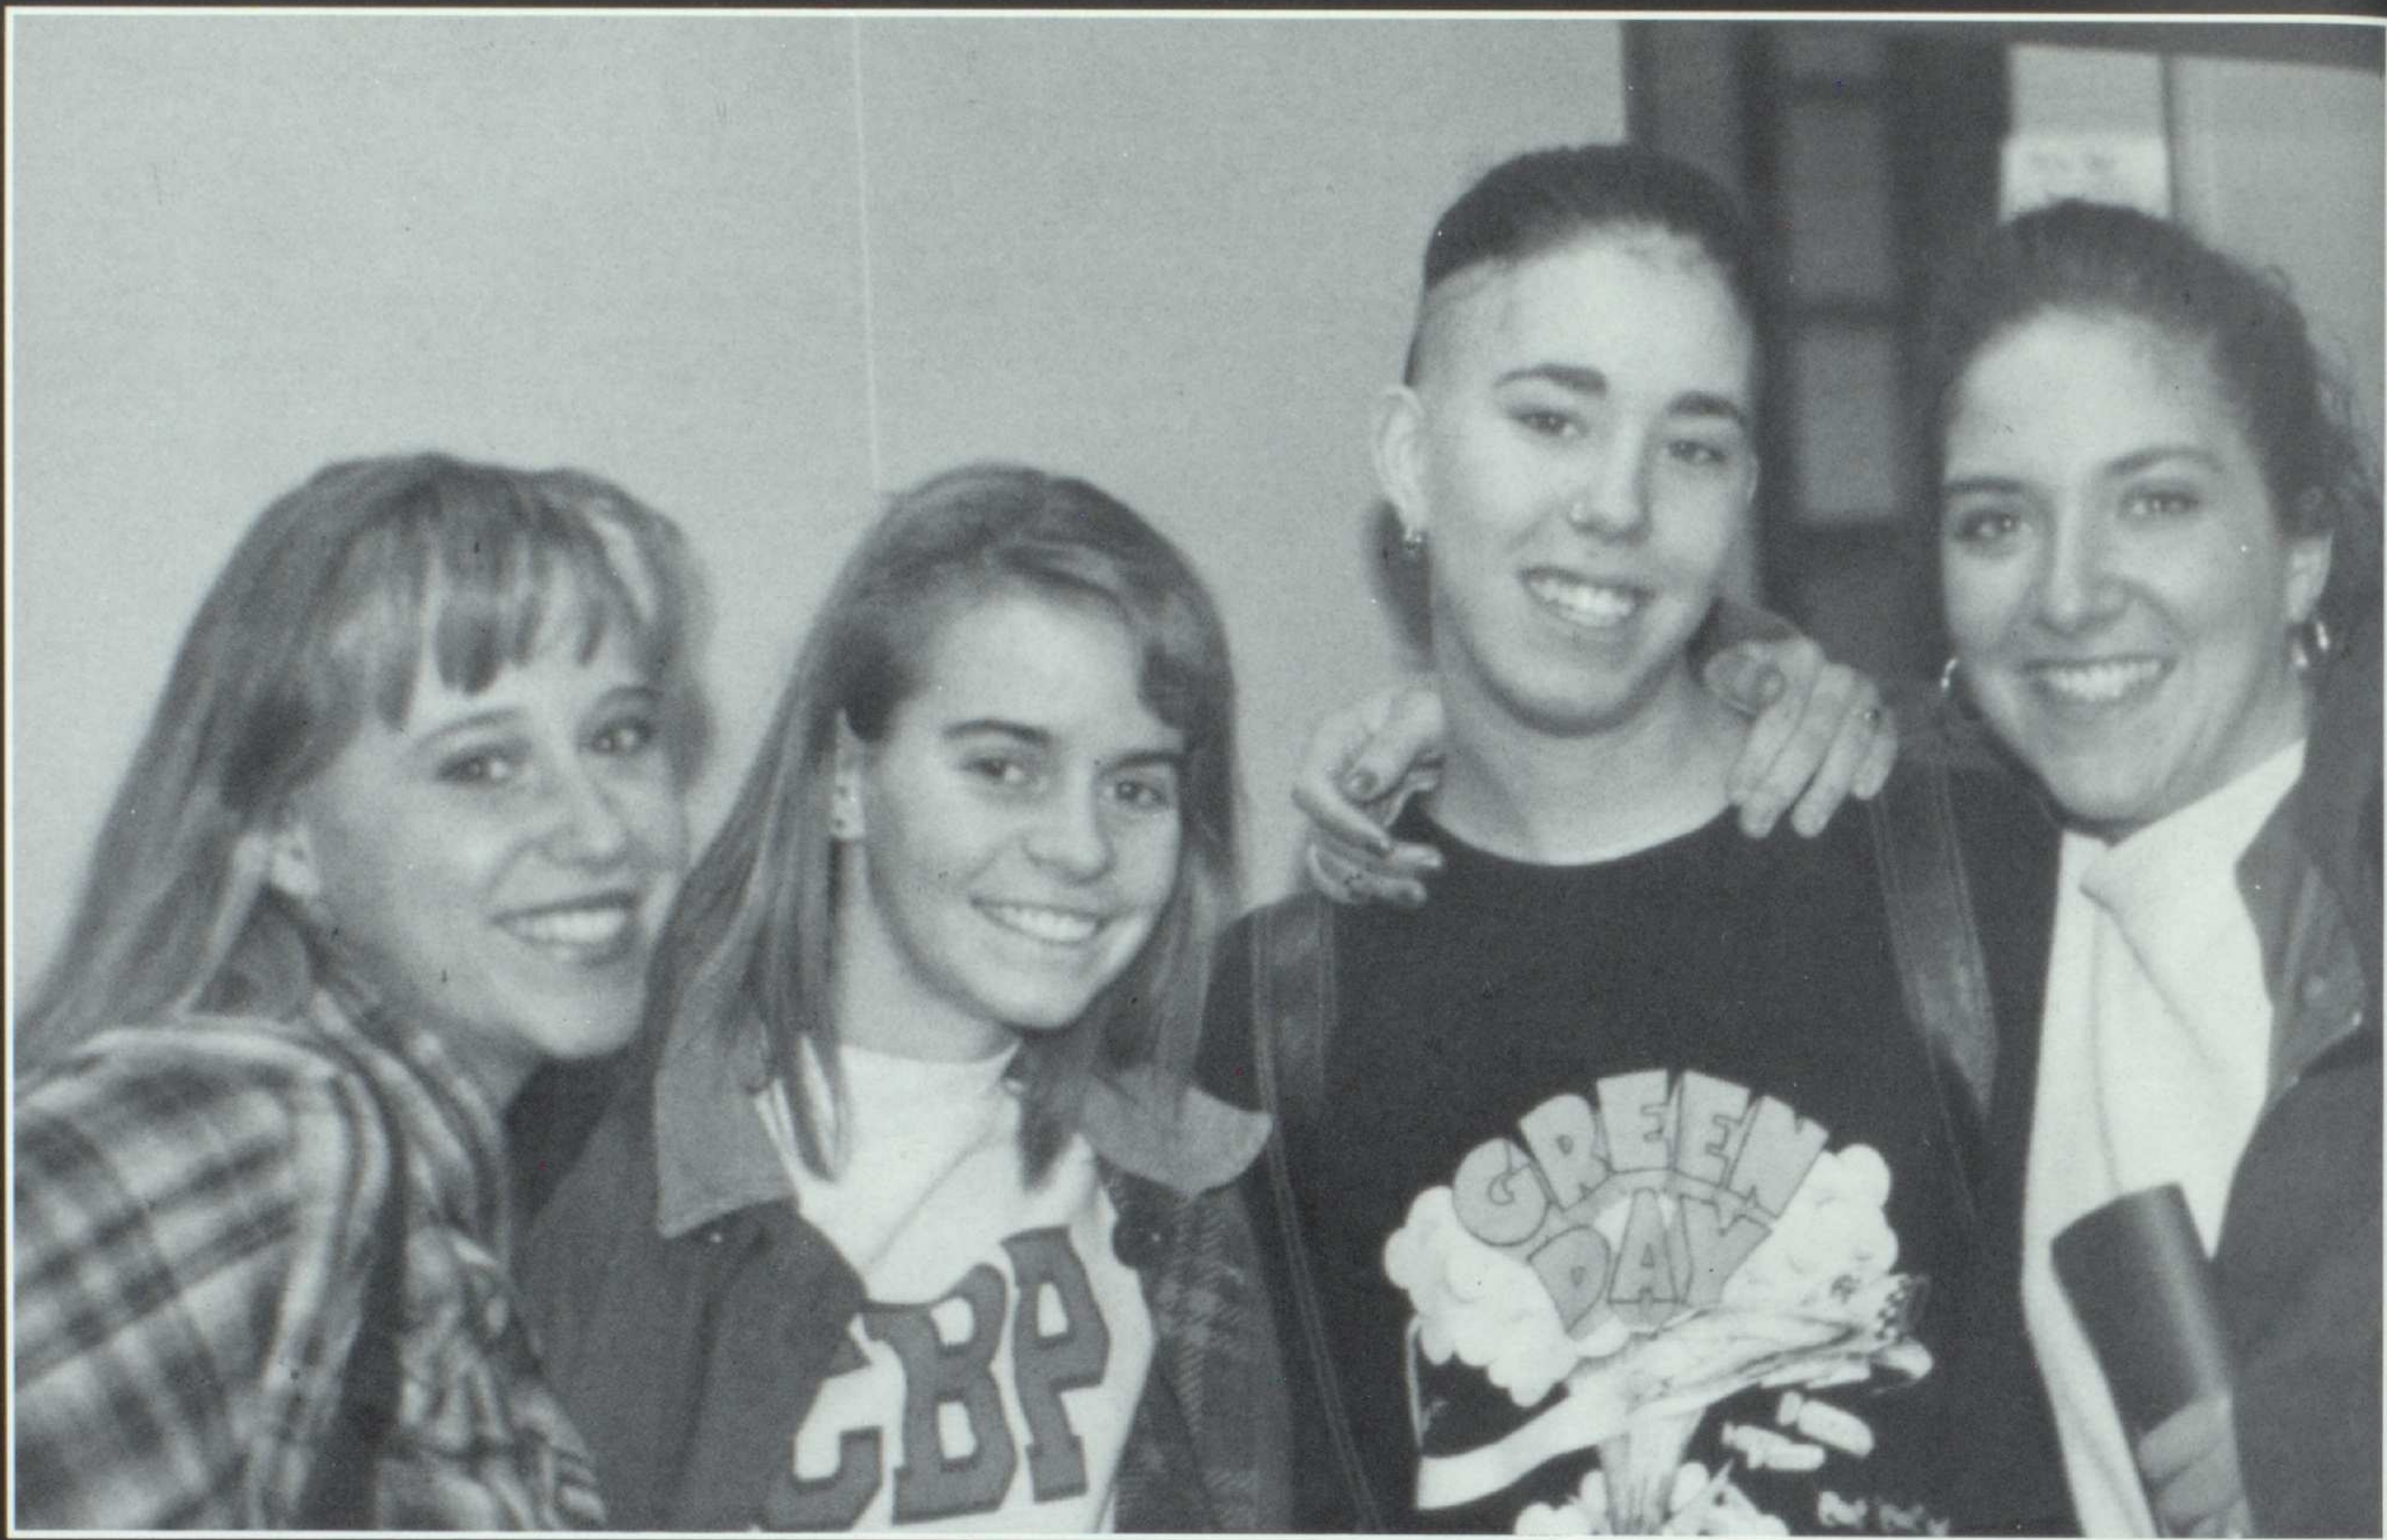

Aren't you a little too old to be sitting in your Mommy's lap, Erin Lyons? From the grimace on LeeAnn Mattes face, it would seem that she agrees. At first glance Jessica Sines appears so sweet, yet she has Jen Sedlak by the hair! Jen and Martin Lamp, you'd better beware.

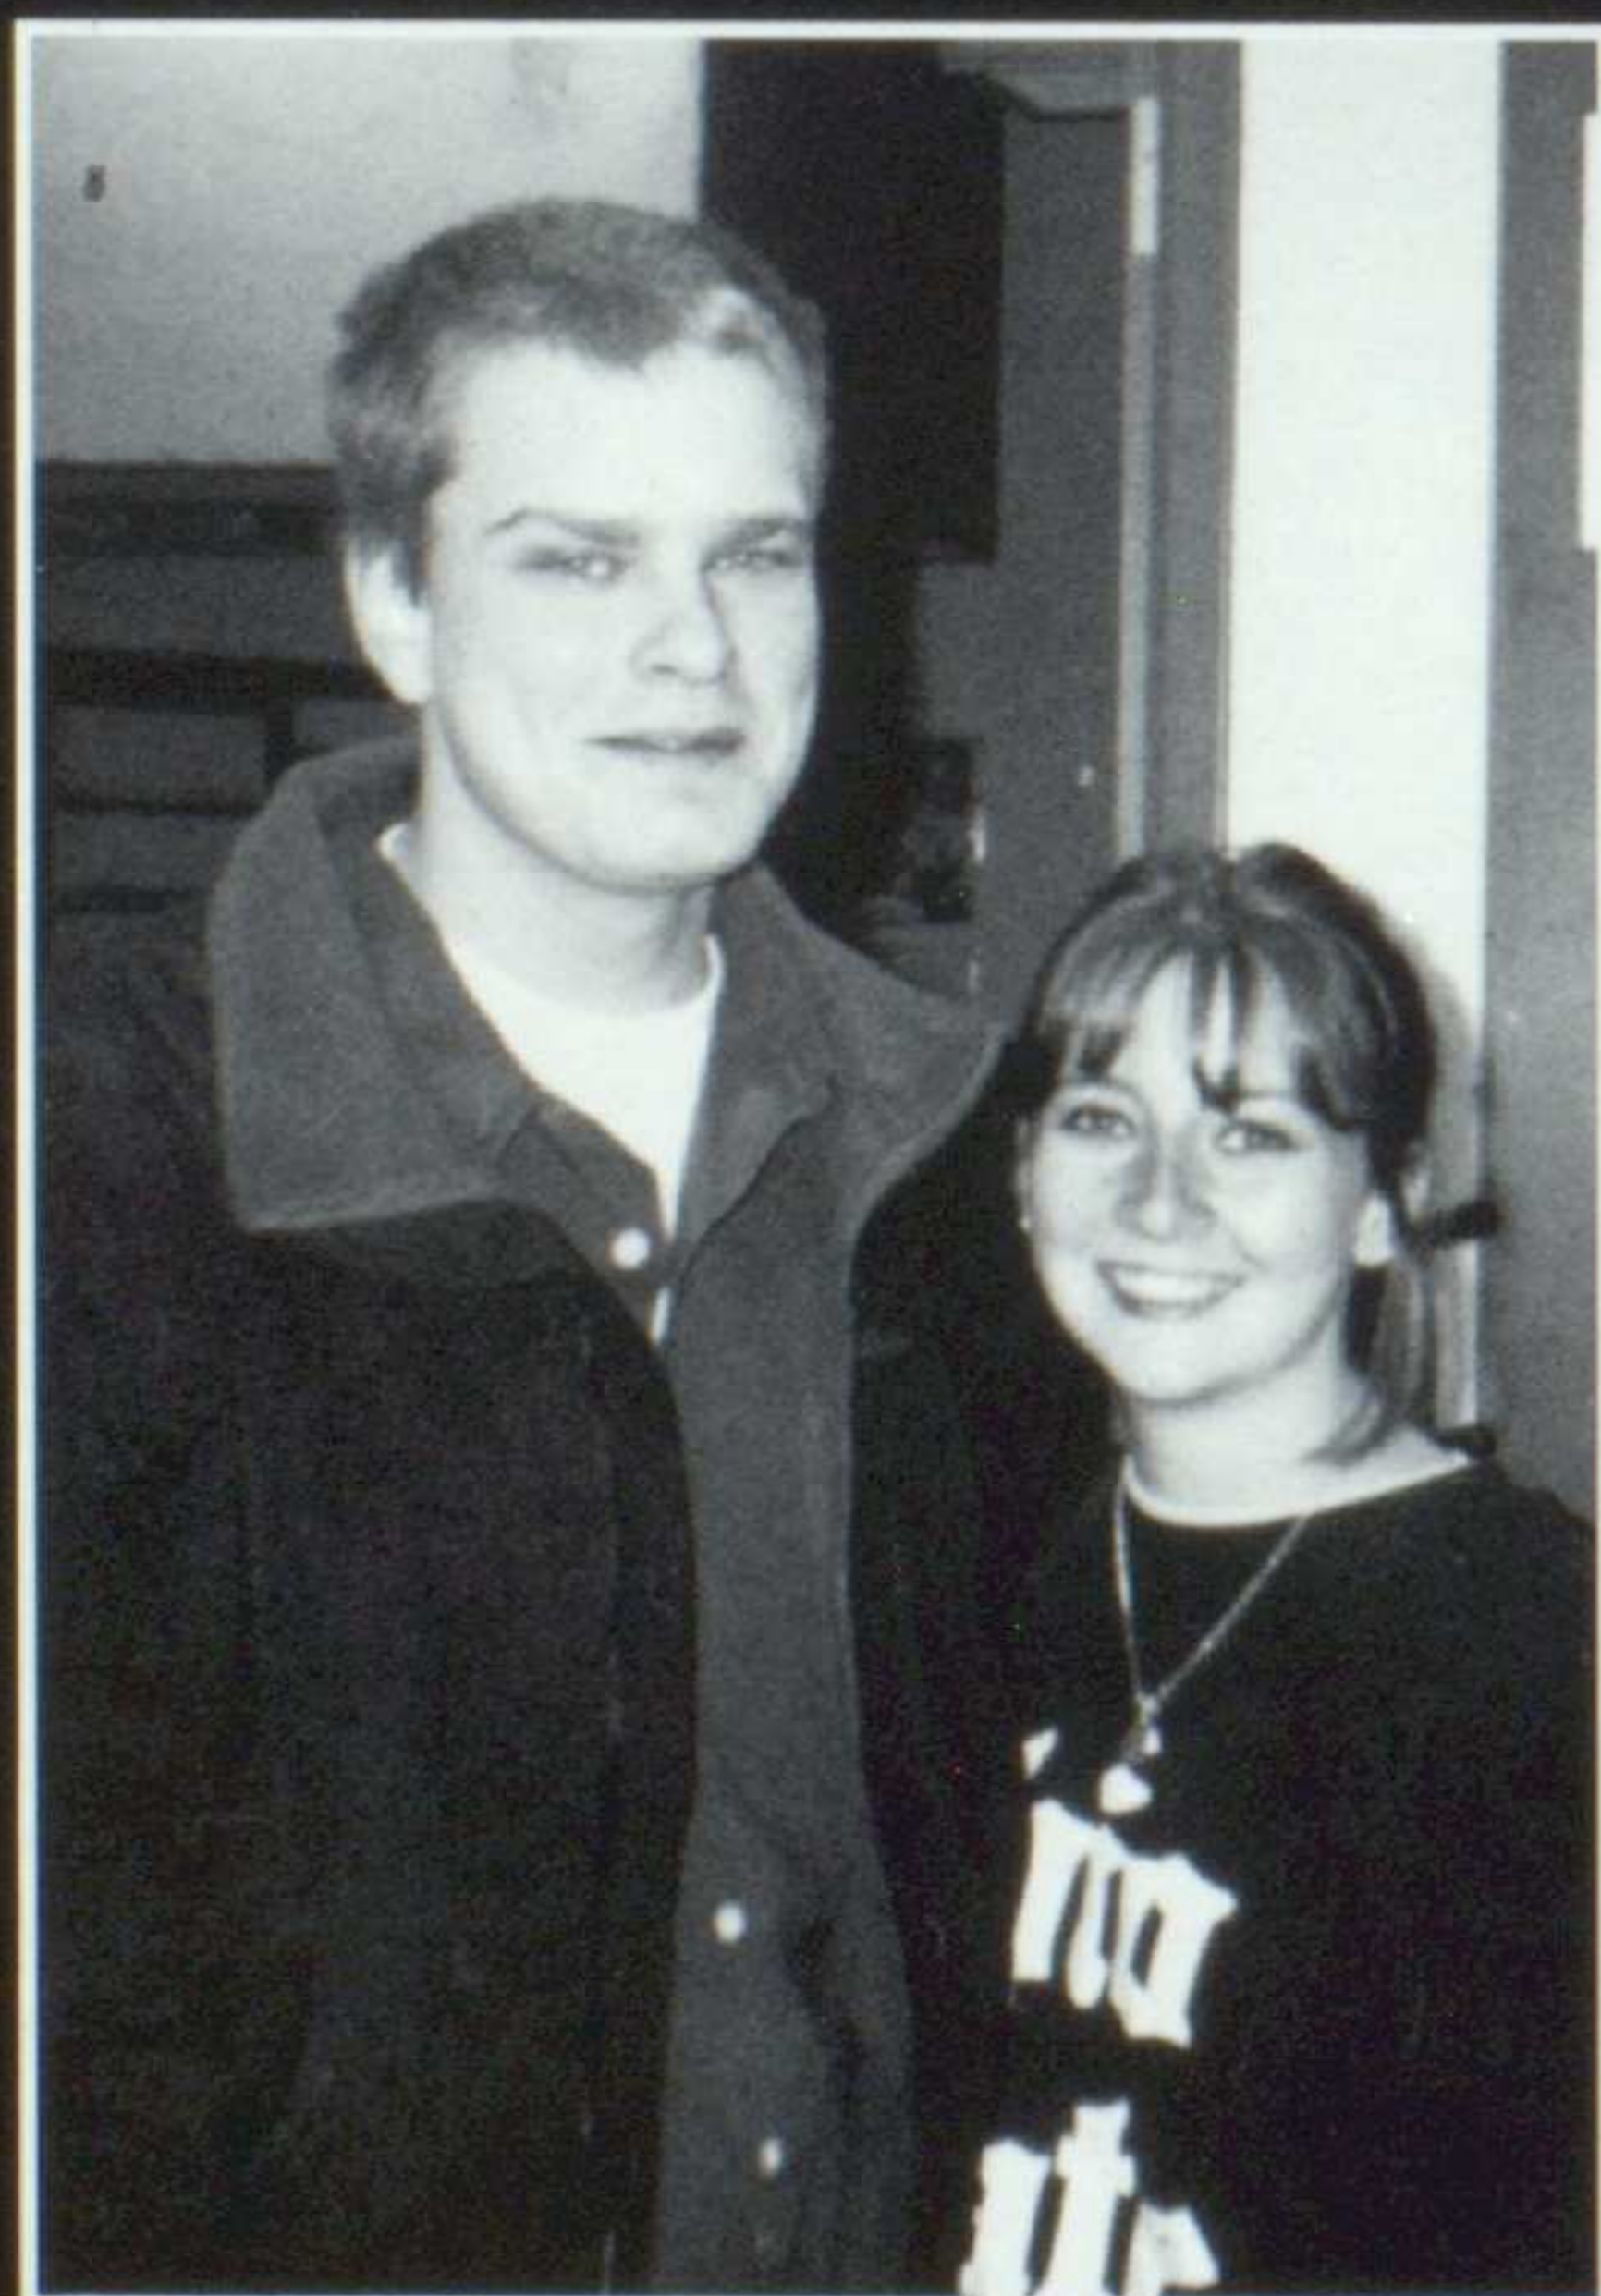

Carrying Jarrod Singleton over the threshold is Jason Poetker, but who is the bride and who is the groom?

"Welcome to Paradise!" Coming to school just makes me sing," says Michelle Casagrande, humming a Green Day tune along with friends Lisa Gawronski, Tracie Smith, and Amy Bellar.

LOOKS LIKE HE JUST STEPPED OUT OF A SALON!! Guess it was this hairstyle that earned junior Scott Smith the name "Rooster." It's amazing that hair can stand up that straight.

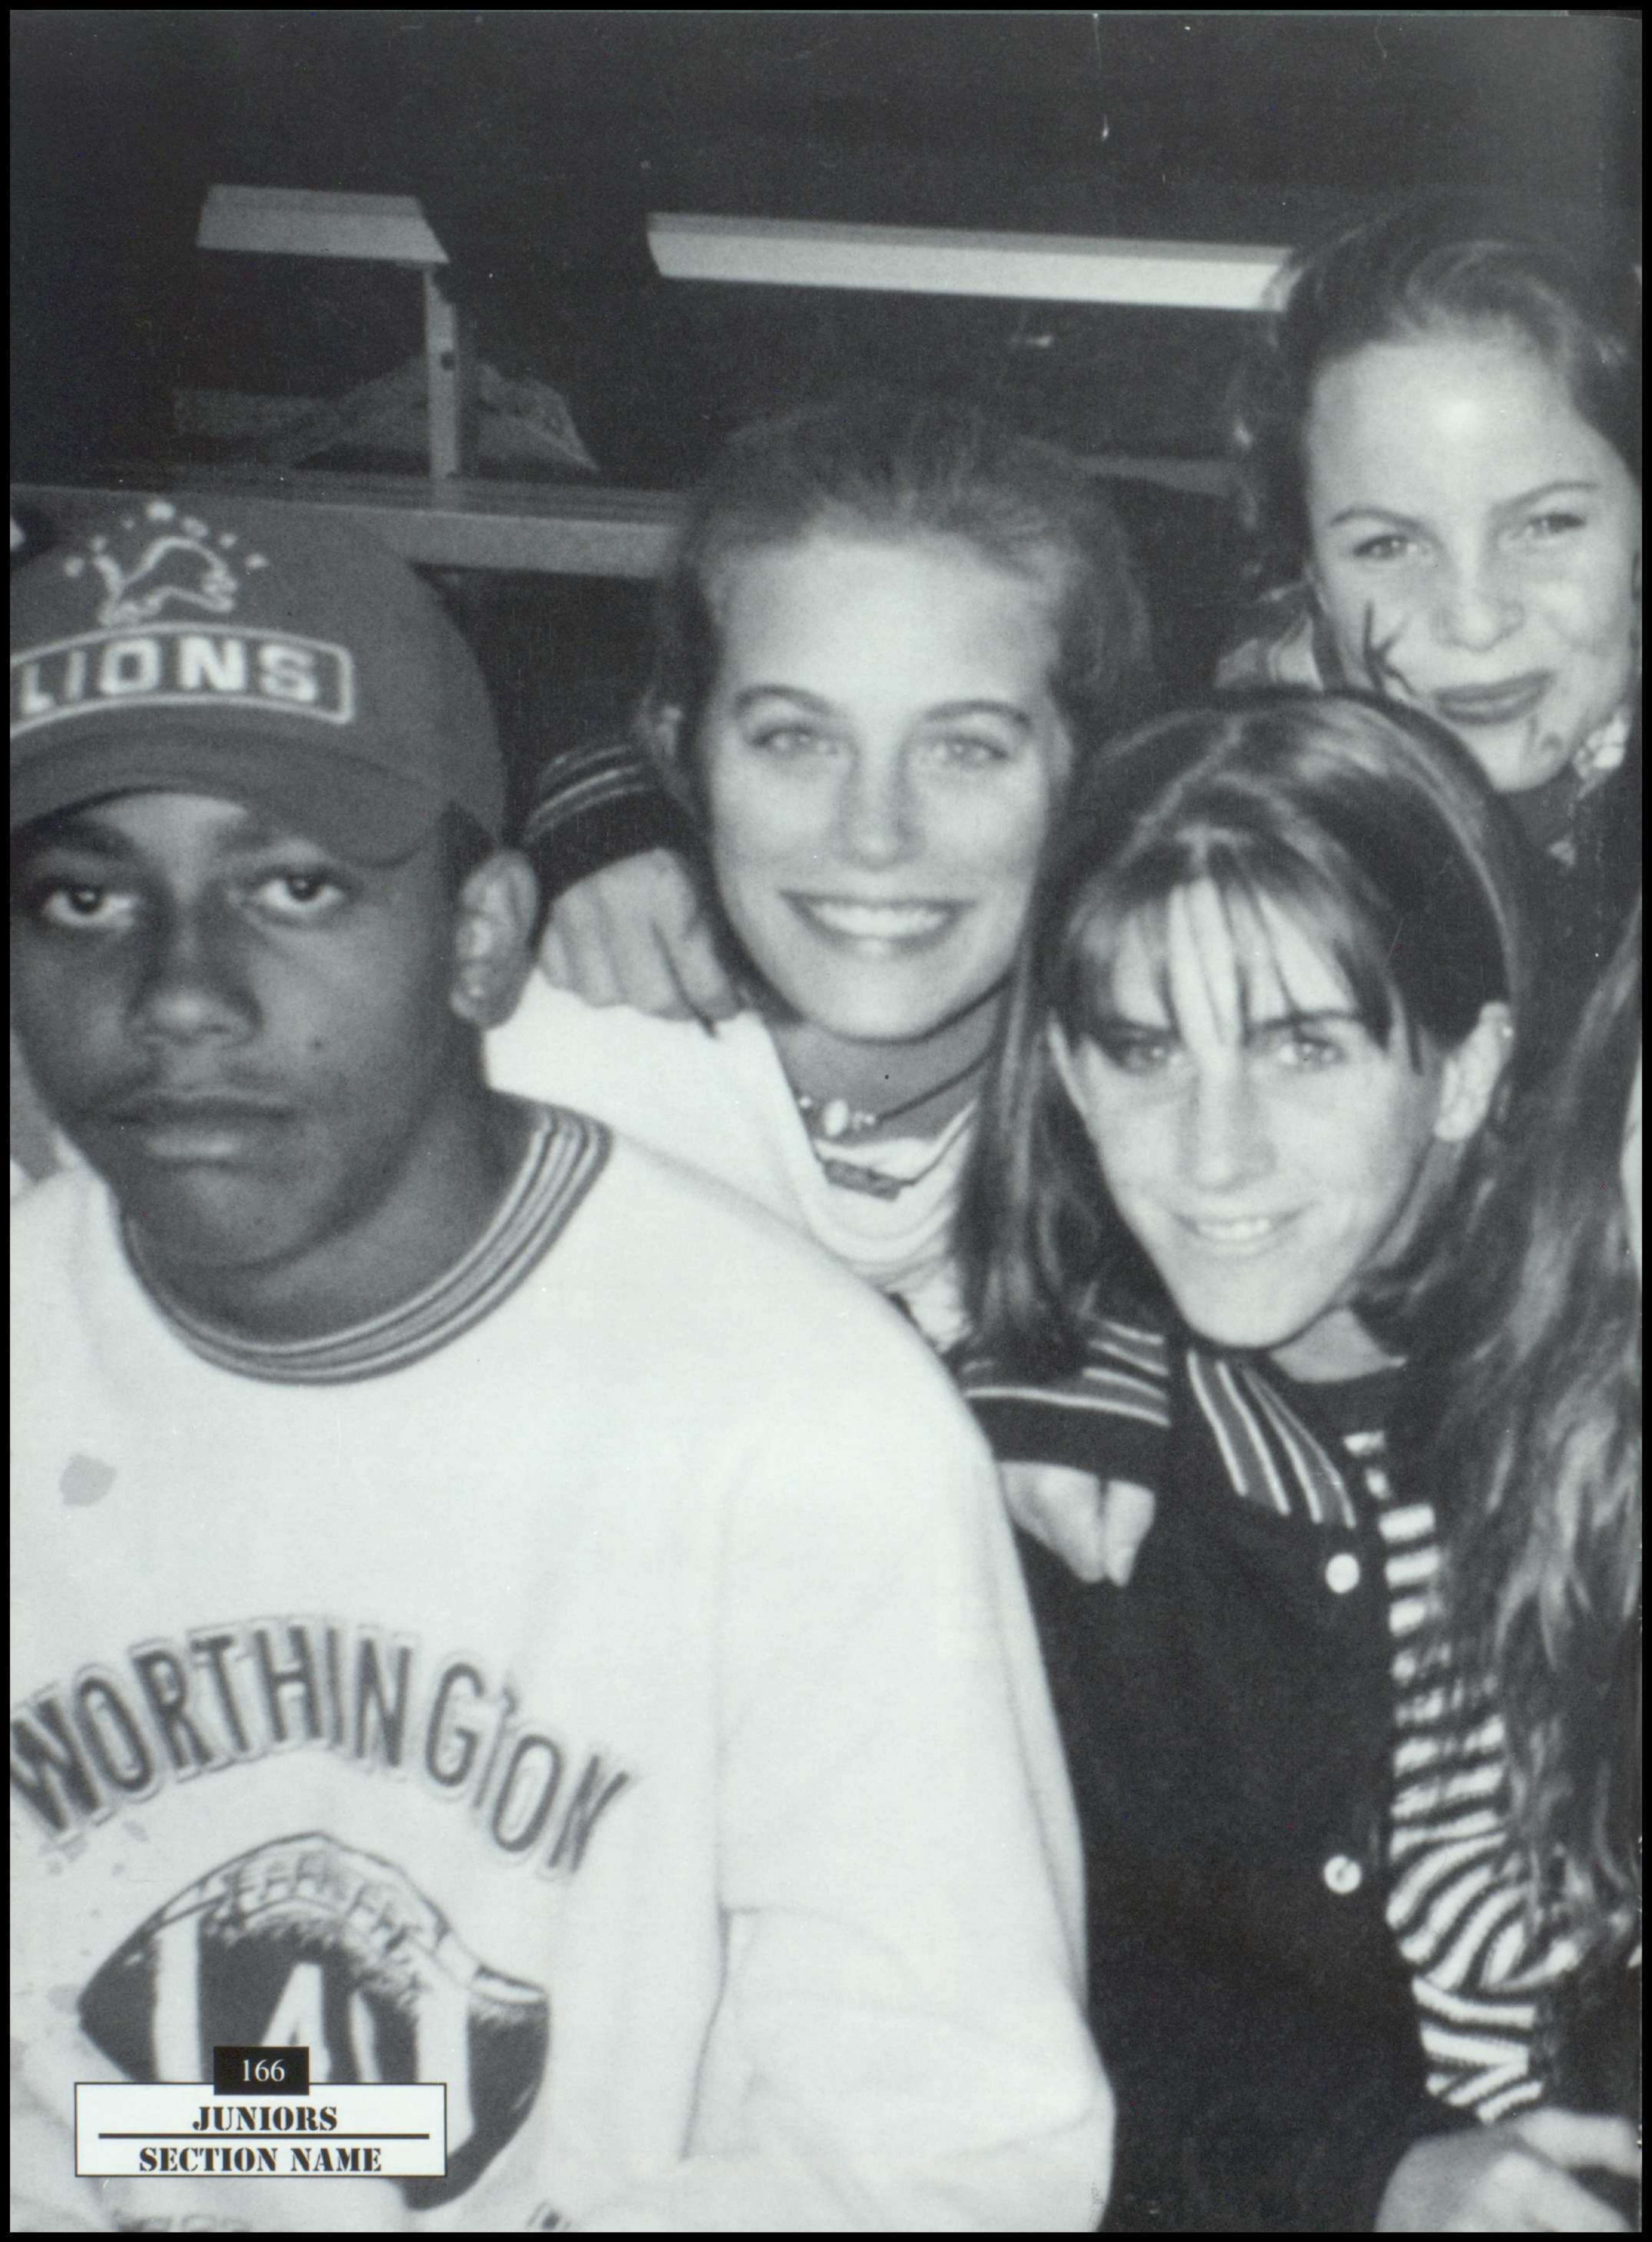

CAUGHT IN THE ACT!! Trying on Cosmo Kramer's "The Bro: A Bra For Men" is sophomore Matt Knott. Fellow soph TJ Maurer is amazed at his friend's courage to reveal his hidden feelings especially in front of those big, hulking seniors.

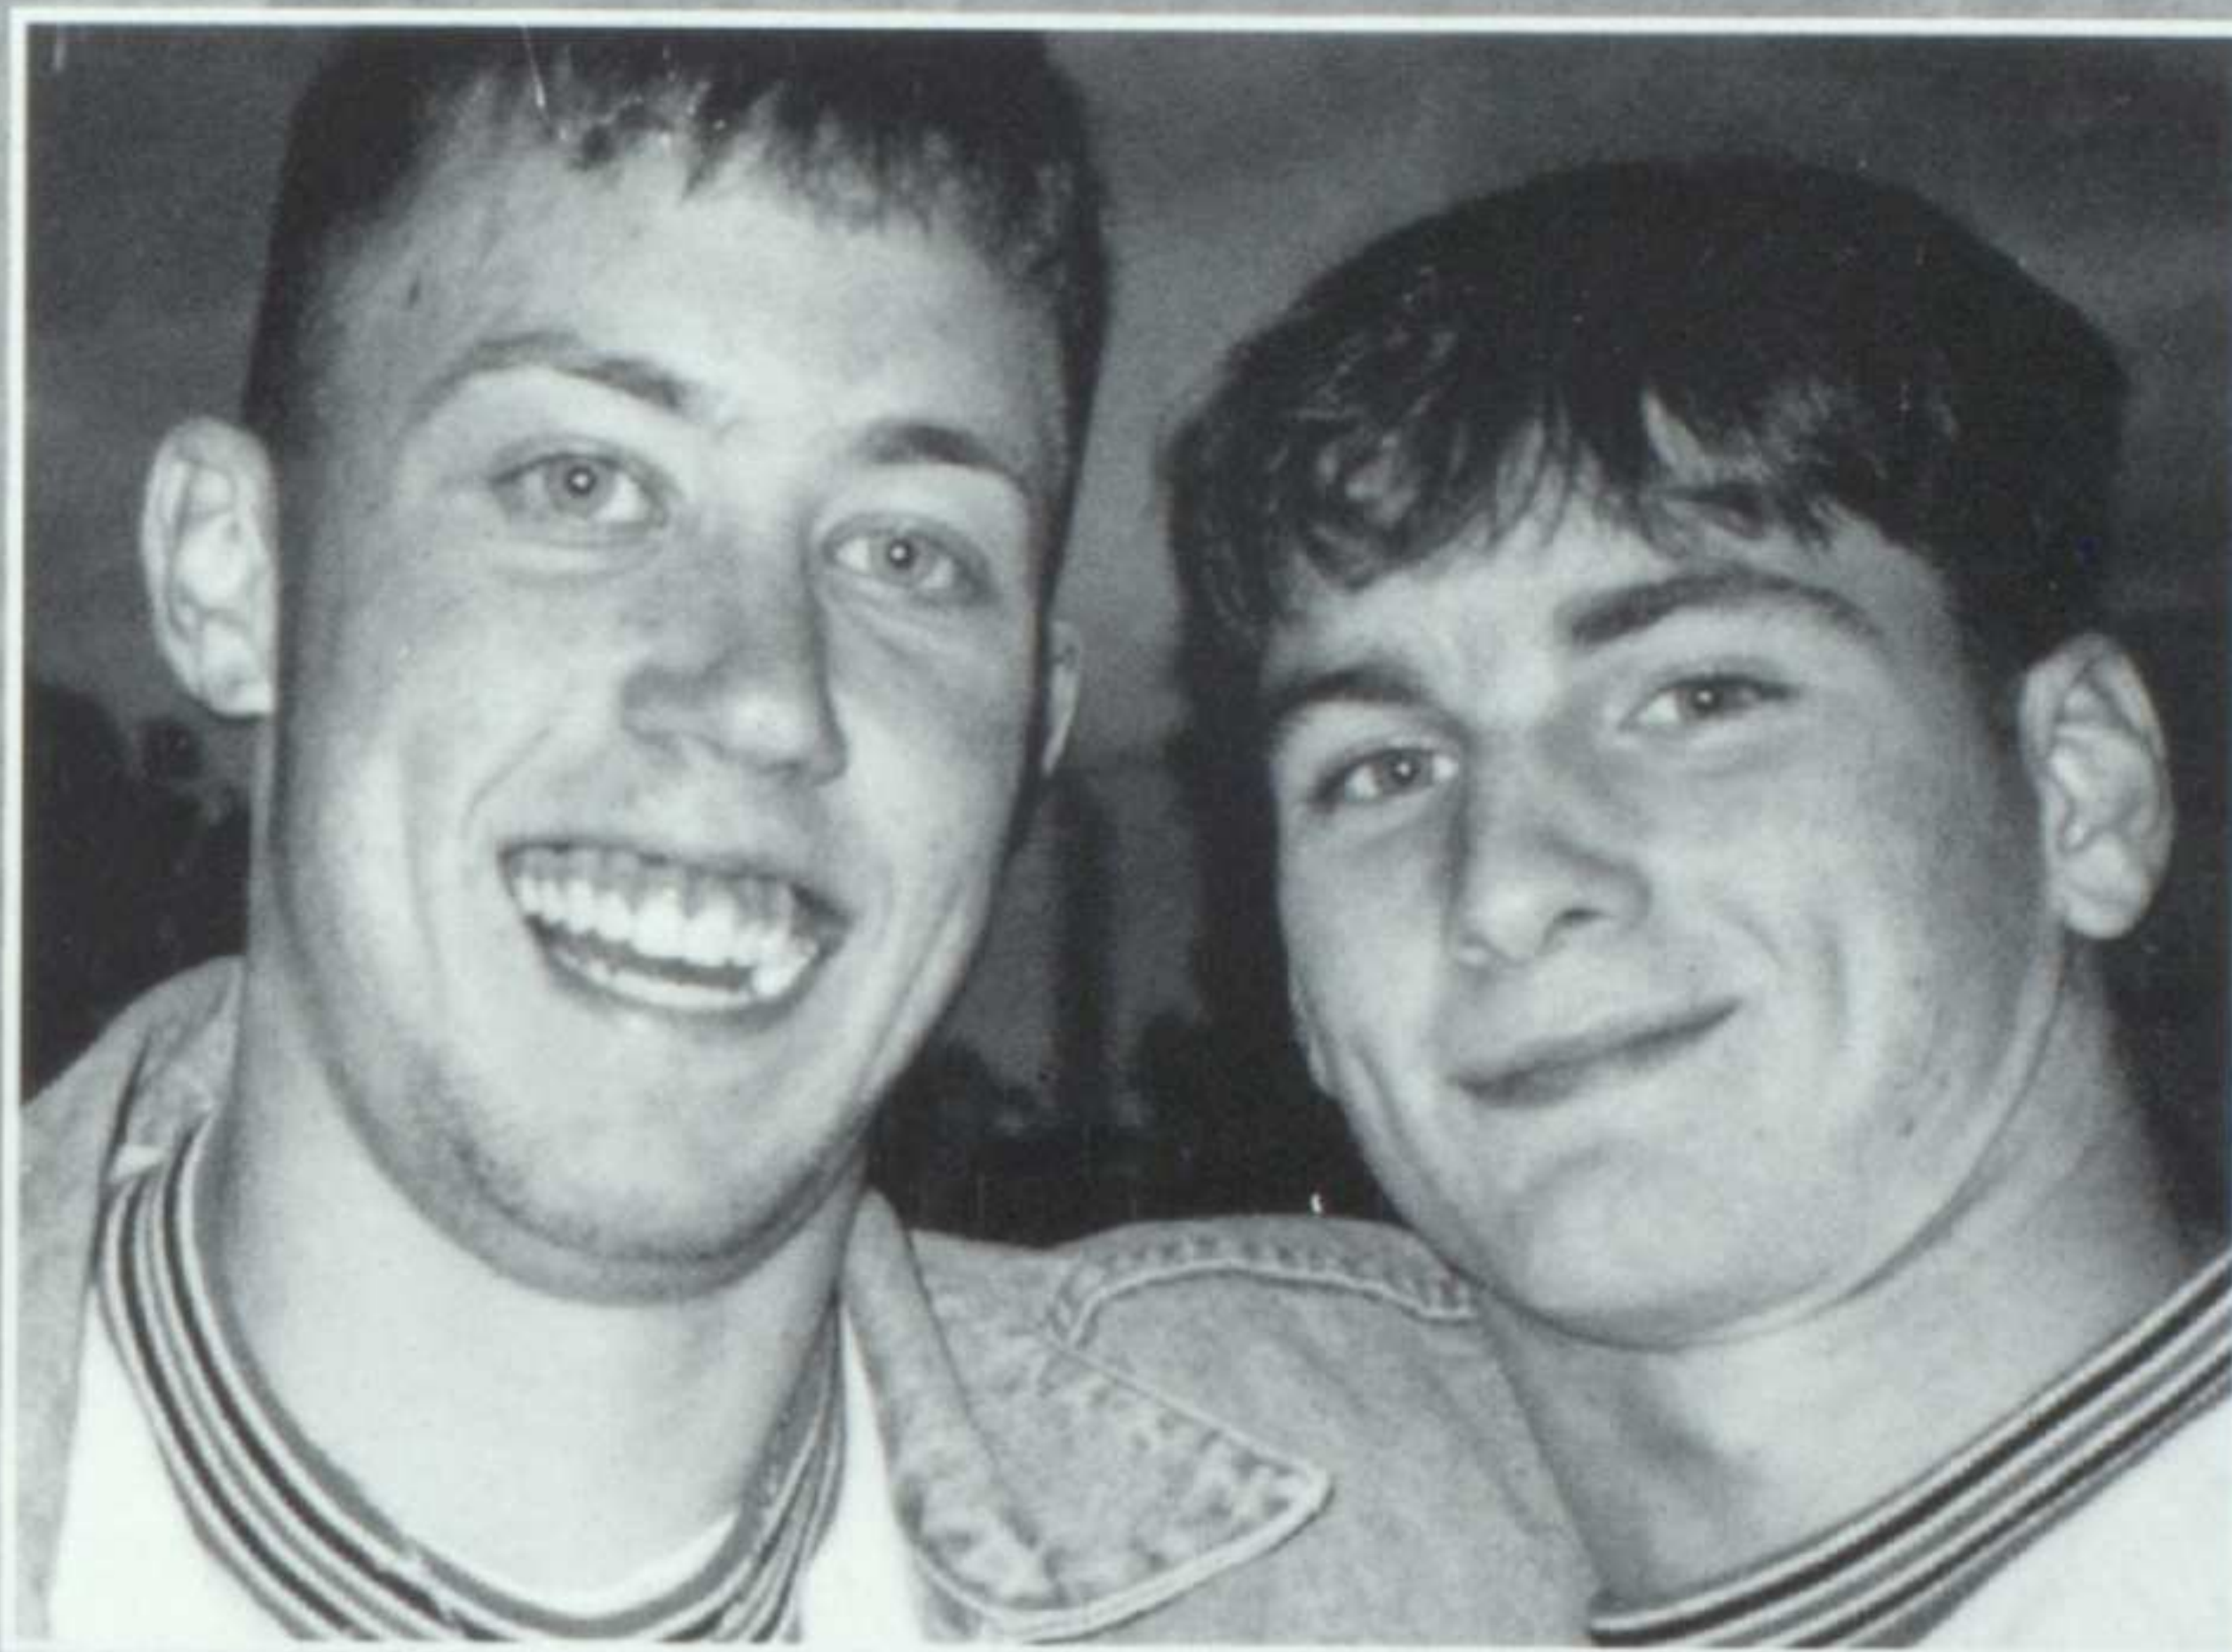

"IF I ONLY HAD SOME COURAGE!!!" Cowardly Lion Jack Prehm grips onto big, bad Brian Hudler for protection as Frauke Palmer flies by on her broomstick, defying all of Newton's Laws of Physics.

"SHHH! SHE'S RIGHT OVER THERE!!" Trying to hide their guilt are freshmen Matt Hollern and Kelly Fust. It's obvious that Angie Miller has no qualms about spreading Kilbourne gossip. So, that's how EVERYBODY found out!!

What's wrong, Kimar Morris? Aren't you enjoying the company of all these gorgeous girls? Aimee Lyons, Carrie Newman, Heather Niess and Kellie Key sure seem to be having a good time.

Sharing a tender moment at the bonfire are football players, Thad Turano and Joe Savage.

Excited that he can be taller than Conrad Cosey for once, Dan Brooks climbs on top of the lockers to extend his height.

EXPERIMENT GONE HAYWIRE?

The junior class was the first at Worthington Kilbourne to go through the process of arena scheduling. On Thursday, May 4, nearly all juniors arrived at school at 7:30 a.m. in hopes of receiving the classes, teachers and periods they wanted.

As the students entered the auxiliary gym, they rushed to different tables set up for each department where they asked for a card representing the period, teacher and class they wanted. Once they had that card, they were supposed to be in the class. But the process did not go as easily as it was planned. Some classes closed or were put on hold which forced students to frantically change their schedules to accommodate what remained open. As a result, students had to drop certain classes and pick up new ones because they had gotten closed out of their original choices.

Kim Ballantyne commented on all the students rushing around only to be shut out of their classes. "It was a nightmare. It didn't seem like a privilege." Matt Luckino showed similar feelings. "It was a good idea," he said, "but it wasn't organized."

Some students that came out of the experience with a positive attitude. "It was stressful at first, but once it was over I was glad that I got the teachers and classes that I wanted," said Amanda Koenigsknecht. "It will work better next year because it will be more organized," replied Jackie Popa.

Despite the mixed reviews from the students, teachers tended to like the idea of arena scheduling. "I really like the process," said teacher Leslie Snyder, "because it lets the kids organize their own schedules and take control of their education."

Whether or not the students thought arena scheduling was chaotic or successful, it gave them the chance to see what scheduling will be like in college. This experience gave the Class of 1996 the unique opportunity to plan their daily routines for their senior year in high school.

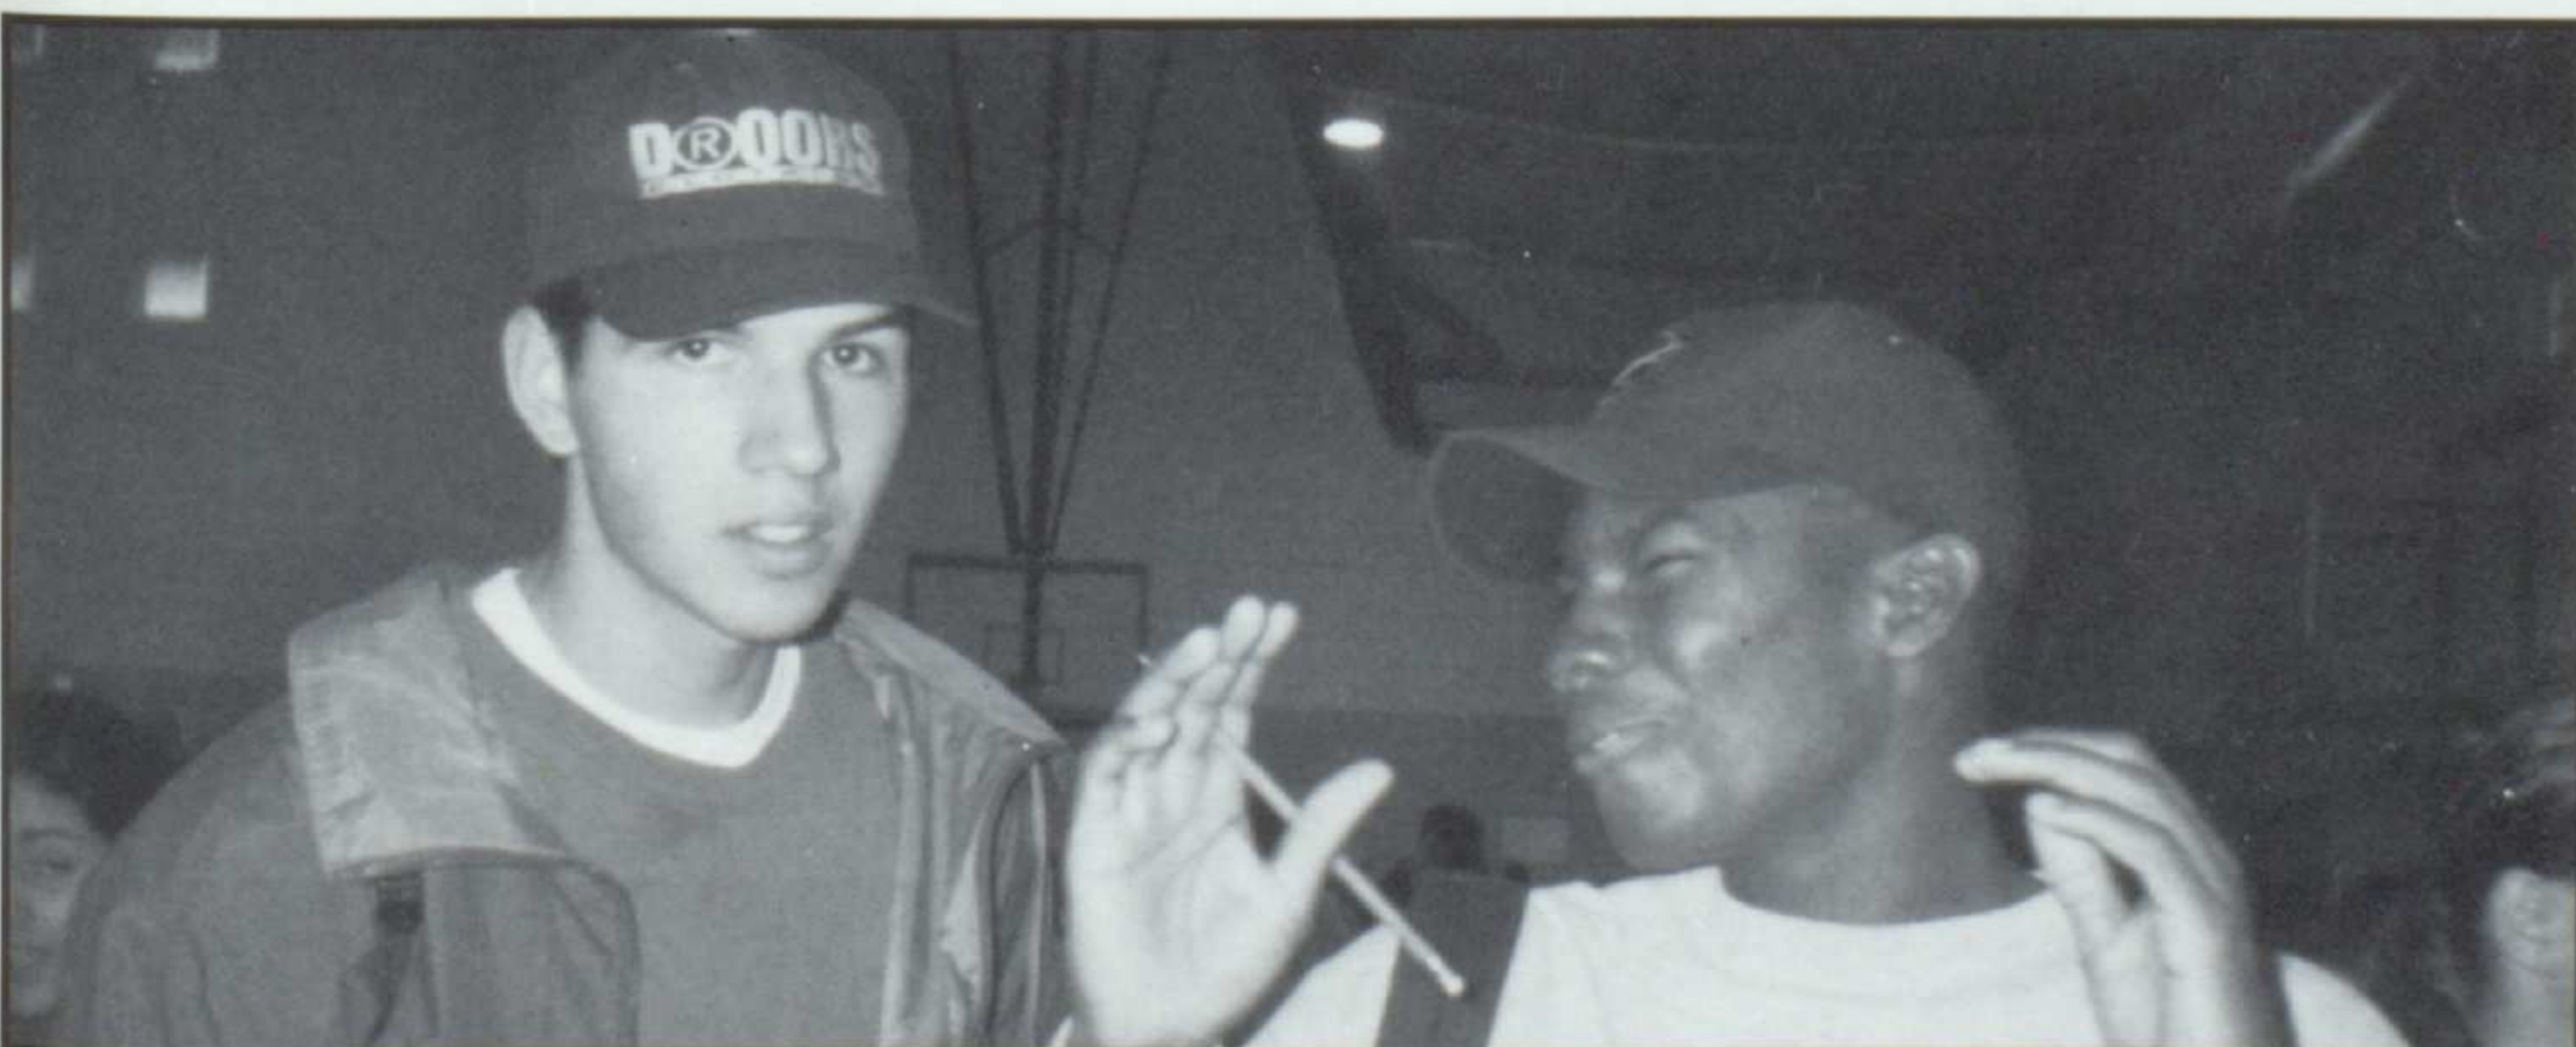

By Holly Bell

"What are they doing to my schedule?" asks junior Tenia Howell to Natalie Mitchell.

Not wanting to make any more changes is Paula Poka.

"I give up. Nick, take my advice. Just let the computer figure out your schedule," says Delon Prince to Nick Stanisic at arena scheduling. Nick is beginning to agree with Delon.

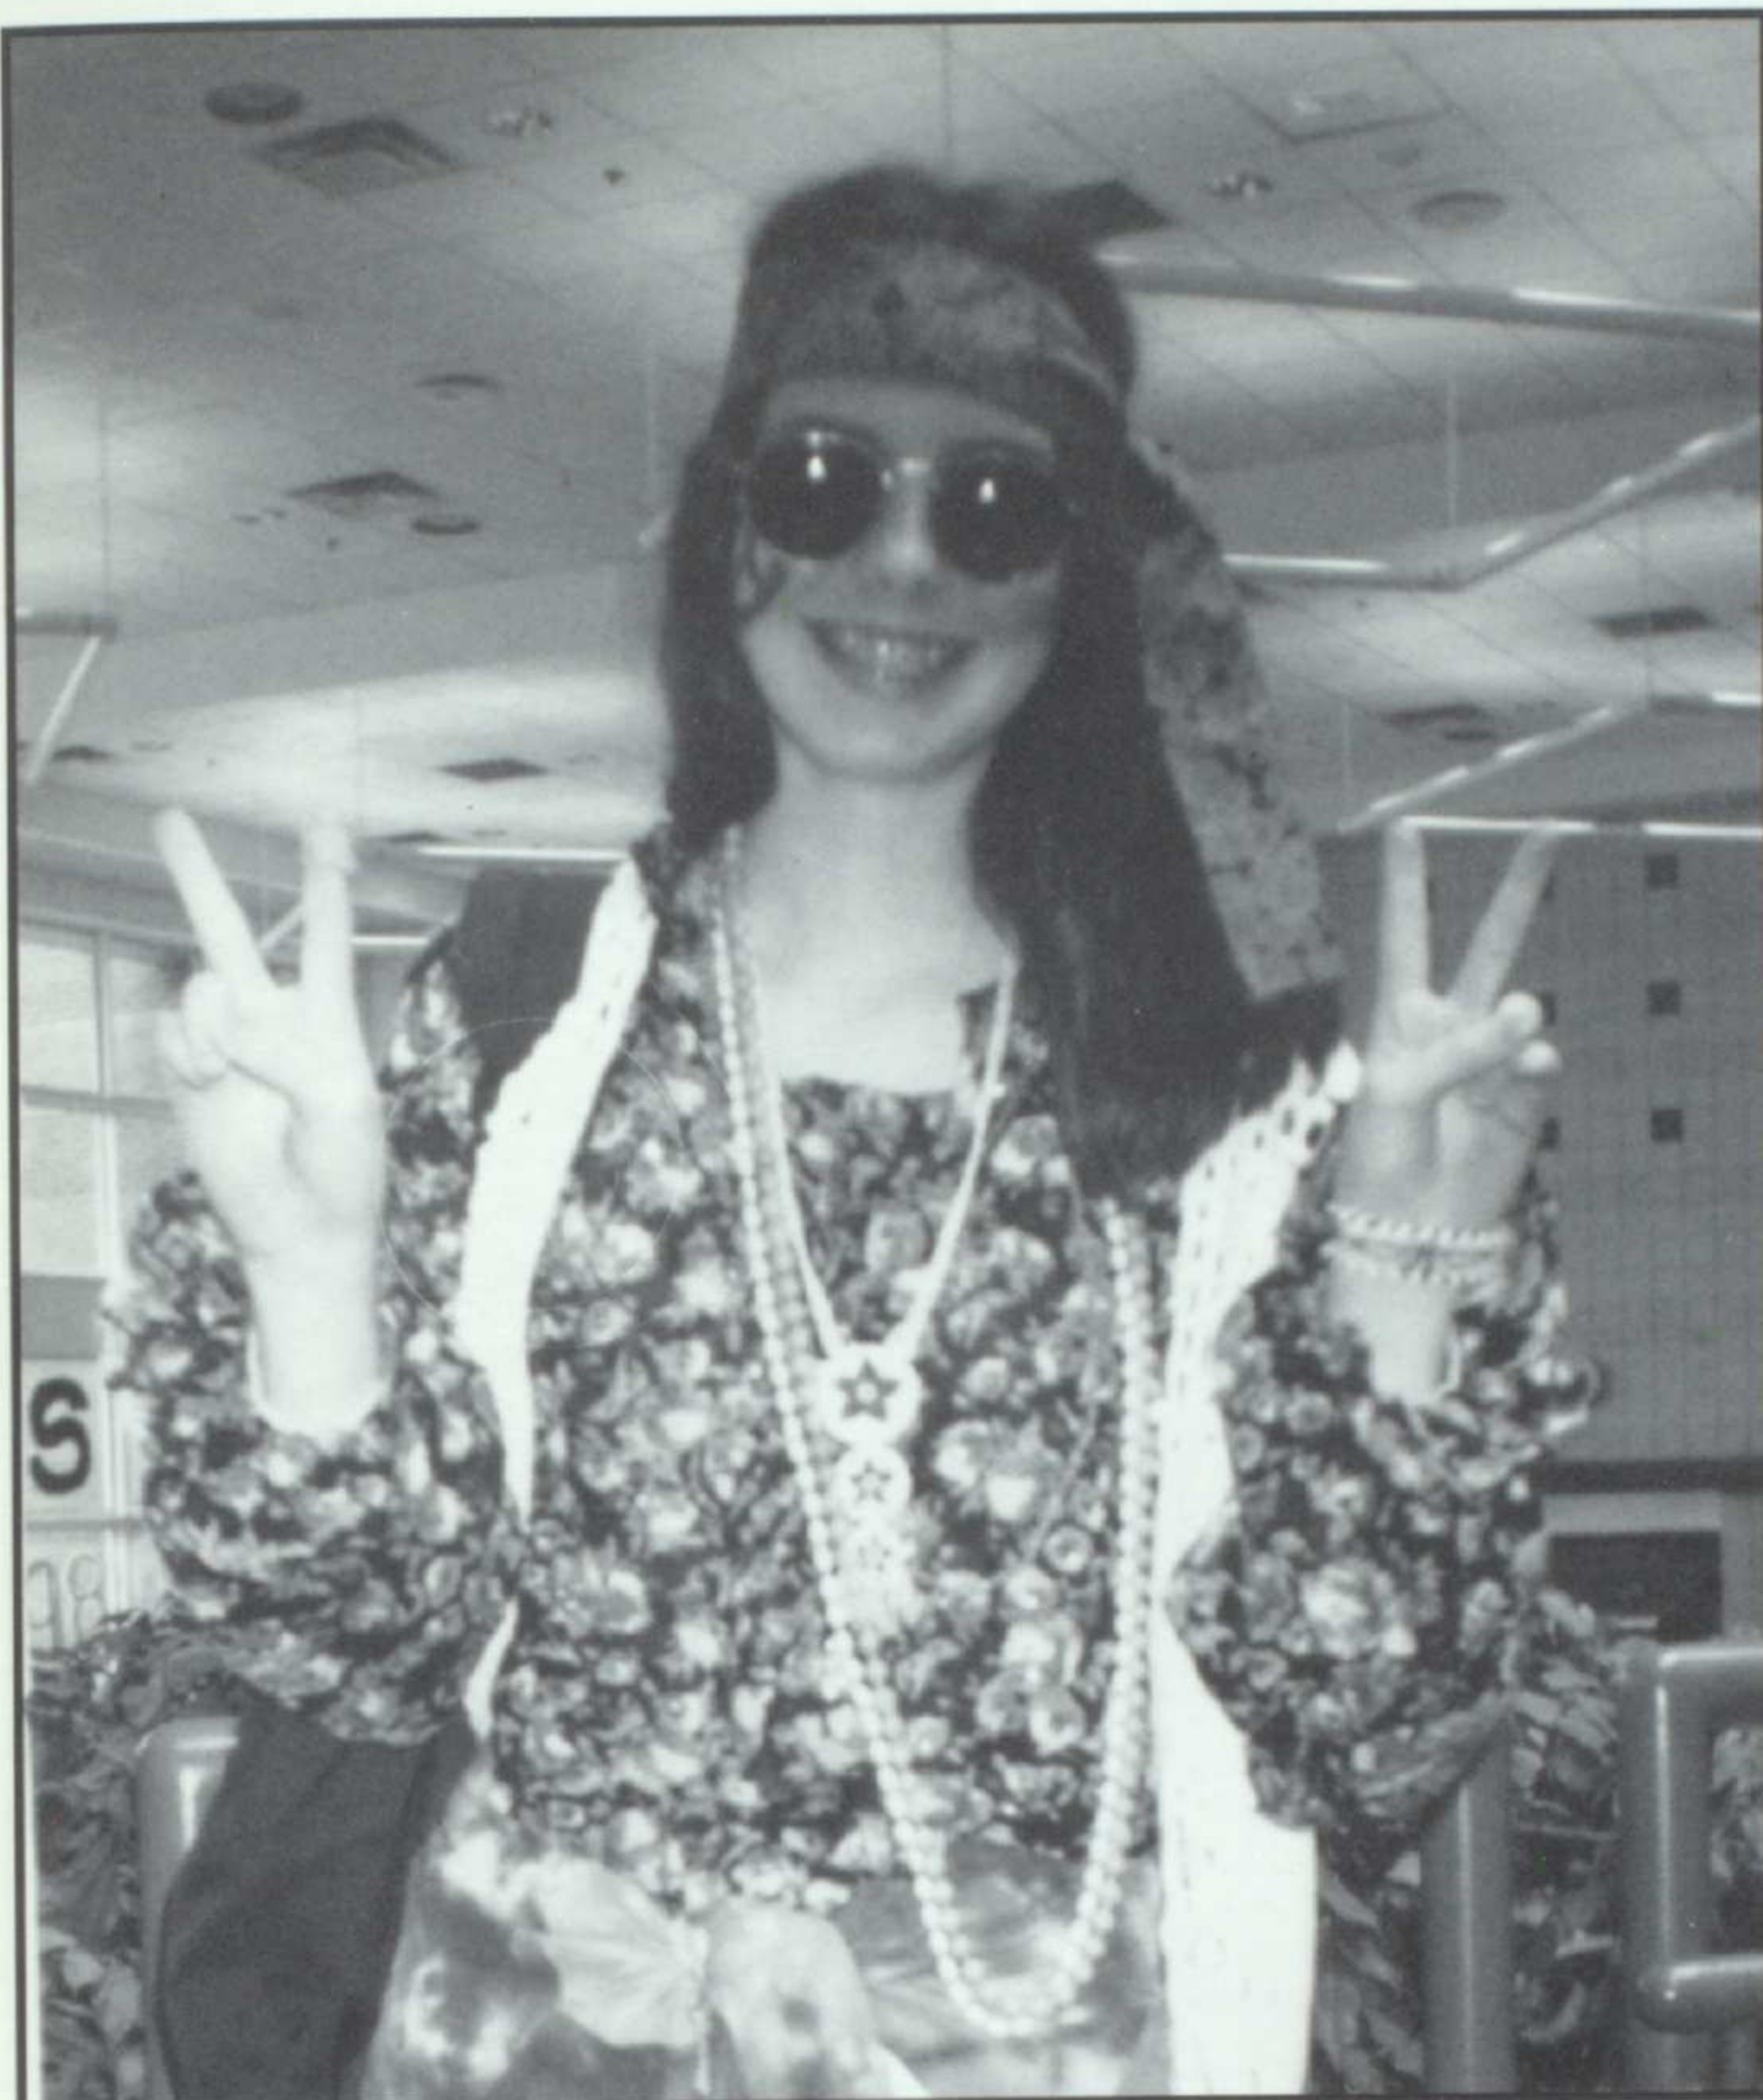

What are these girls so excited about? Maybe they are just enjoying time together in the commons. Whatever it is, Holly Bell, April Tang, Alicia Kirk, Erin Daugherty and Kim Ballantyne sure seem to be having a great time.

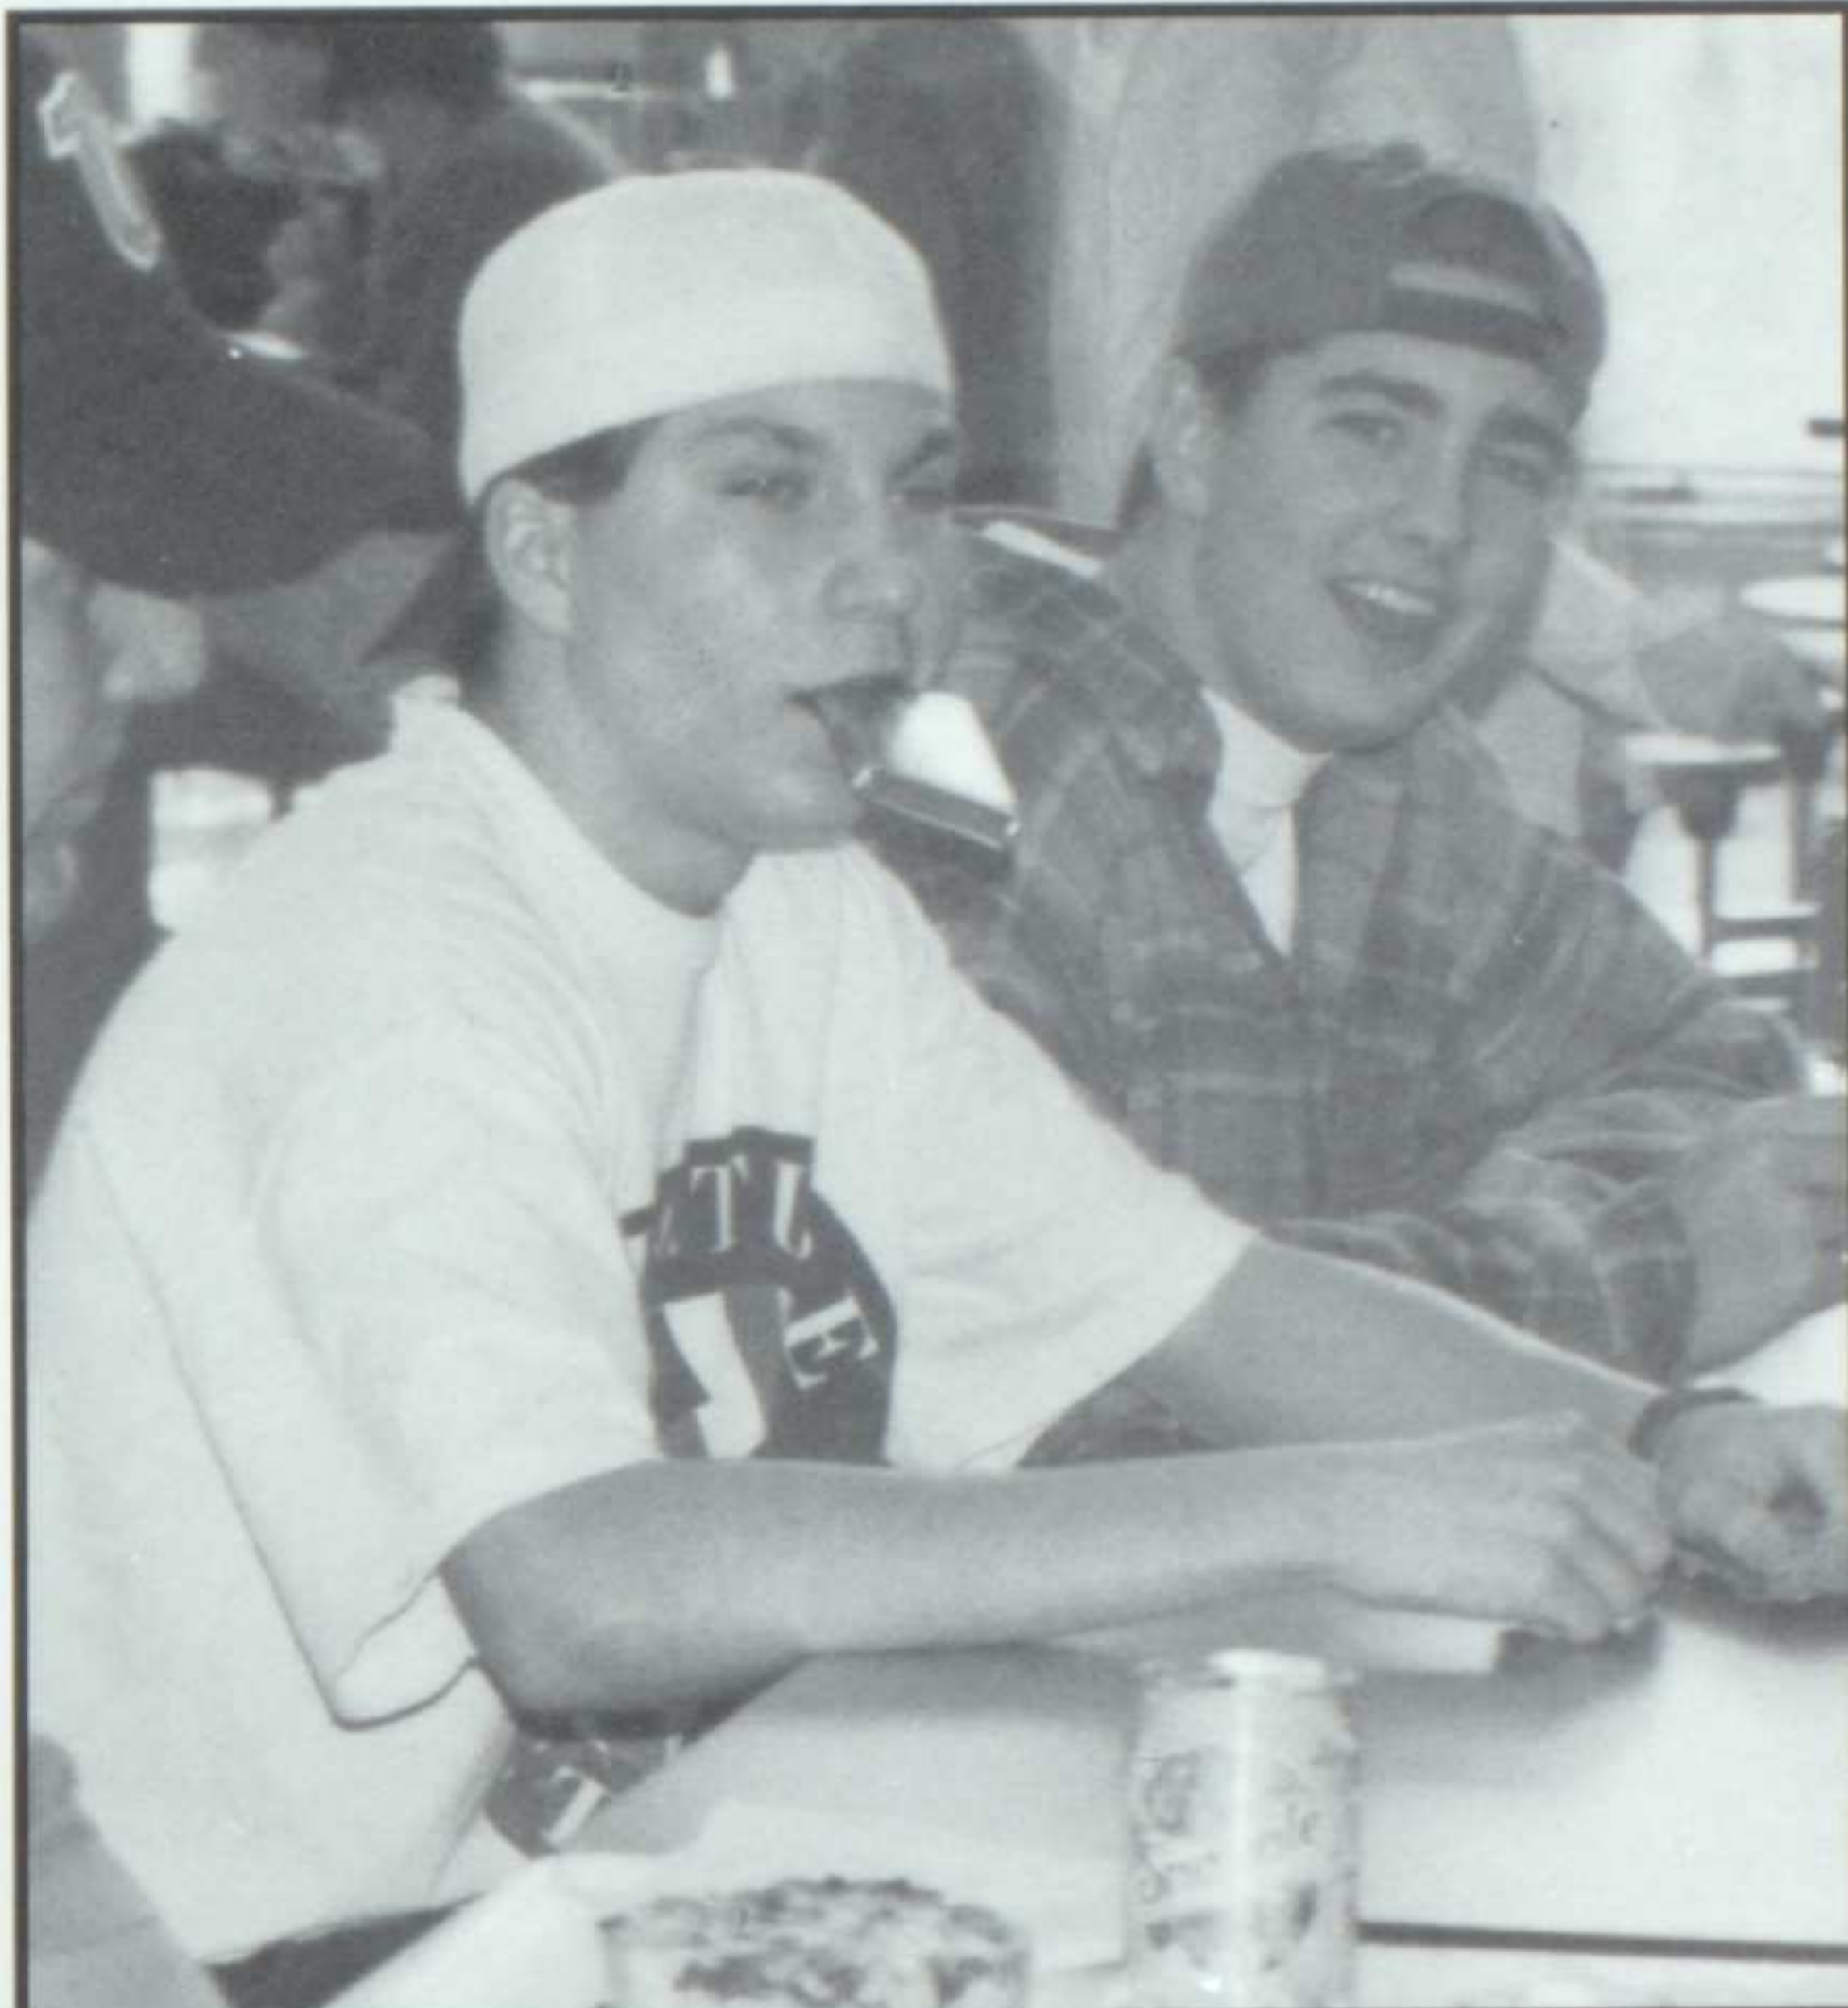

"If you drink from a mug like this, you can look as great as us!" exclaims Gina Federico as she stands in the lunch room with her friend Erin Hartong.

Did you forget to get dressed this morning Electra Stillwagon? Or maybe you're just participating in Pajama Day during Spirit Week?

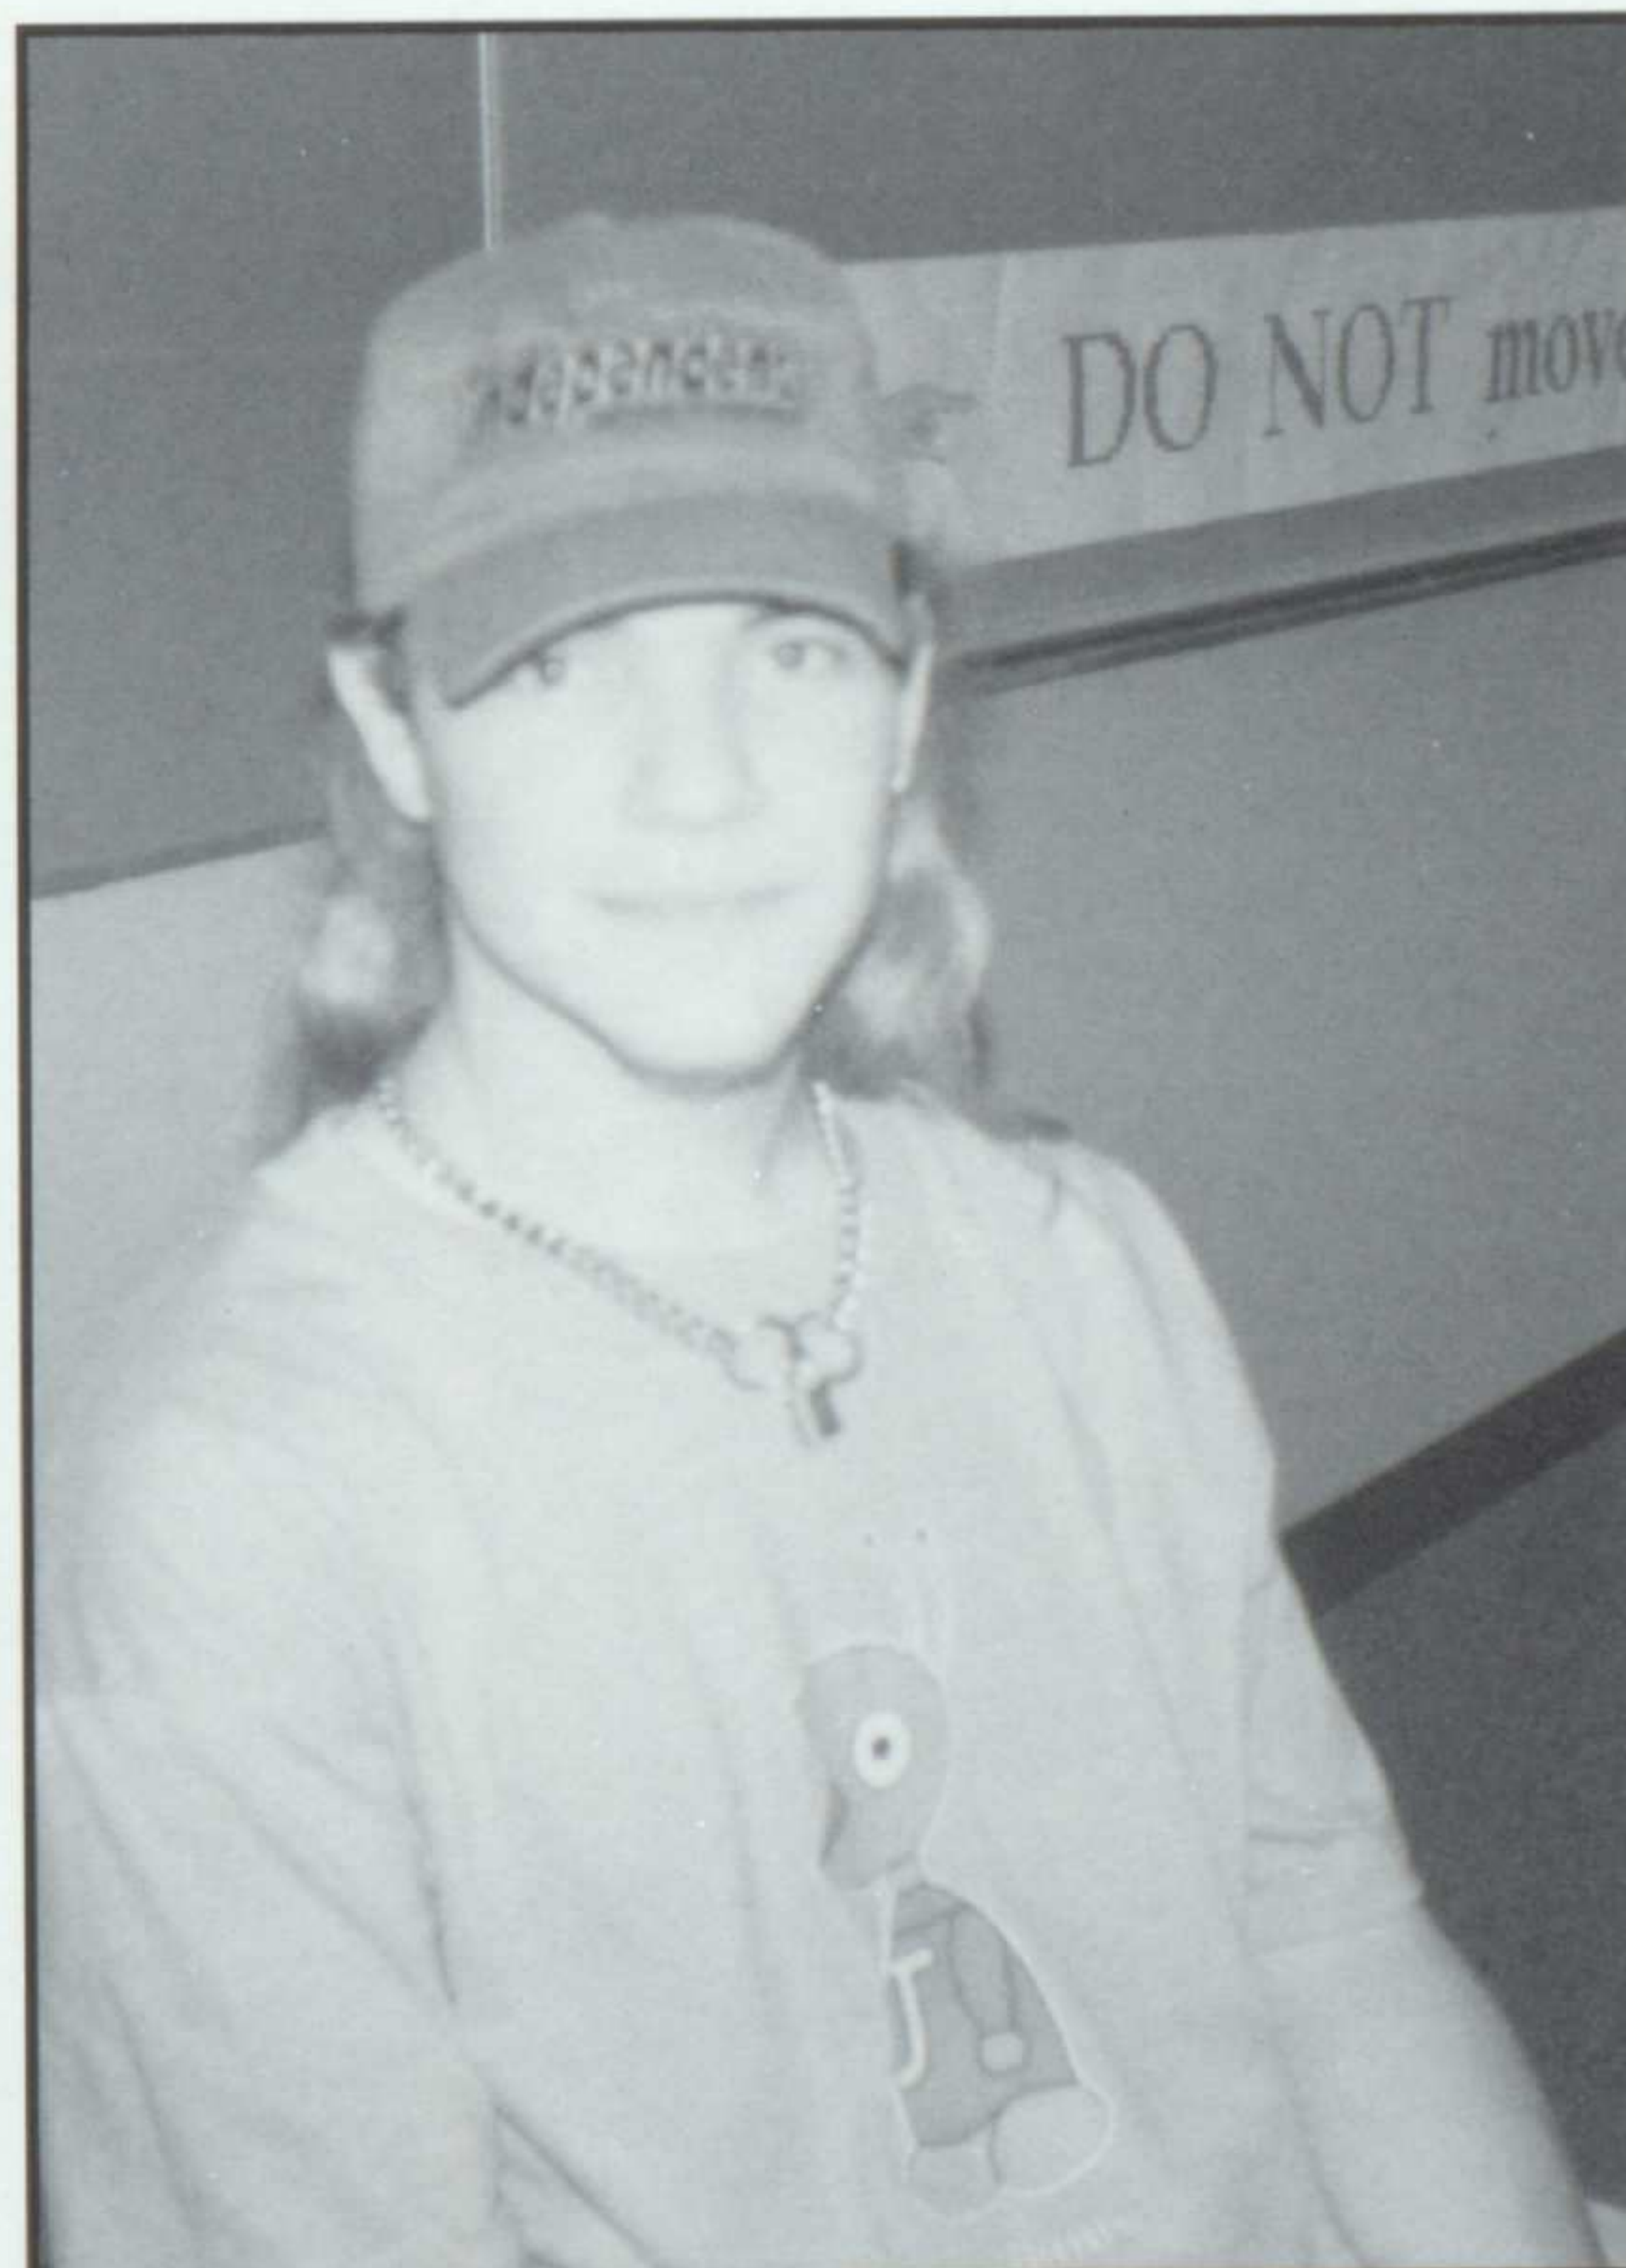

With her style of clothes and peace signs, Luigia Sanders appears to be taking a blast into the past. Either she's dressing up for Hippie Day or she doesn't know that it is the 90's, not the 70's. We admire our classmates who aren't afraid to show their spirit.

"Don't ask me what he's doing because I have no idea!" says Scott Holowicki referring to Mike Cipkala's unique way of eating his food.

If it gets too dark, Diane Valine and Angela Laws can light up the commons with their hats and smiles. Becky Belknap admires their unique style.

After an intense period of studying, Brian Hudler takes a break and relaxes during his study hall.

Showing their school spirit during an outdoor pep rally are Julie Russelo, Nicole Tumbry, and Gina Hoffman, but who is that standing between them?

Concentrating extremely hard in order to win the tug of war competition at the bonfire is Ben Maurer.

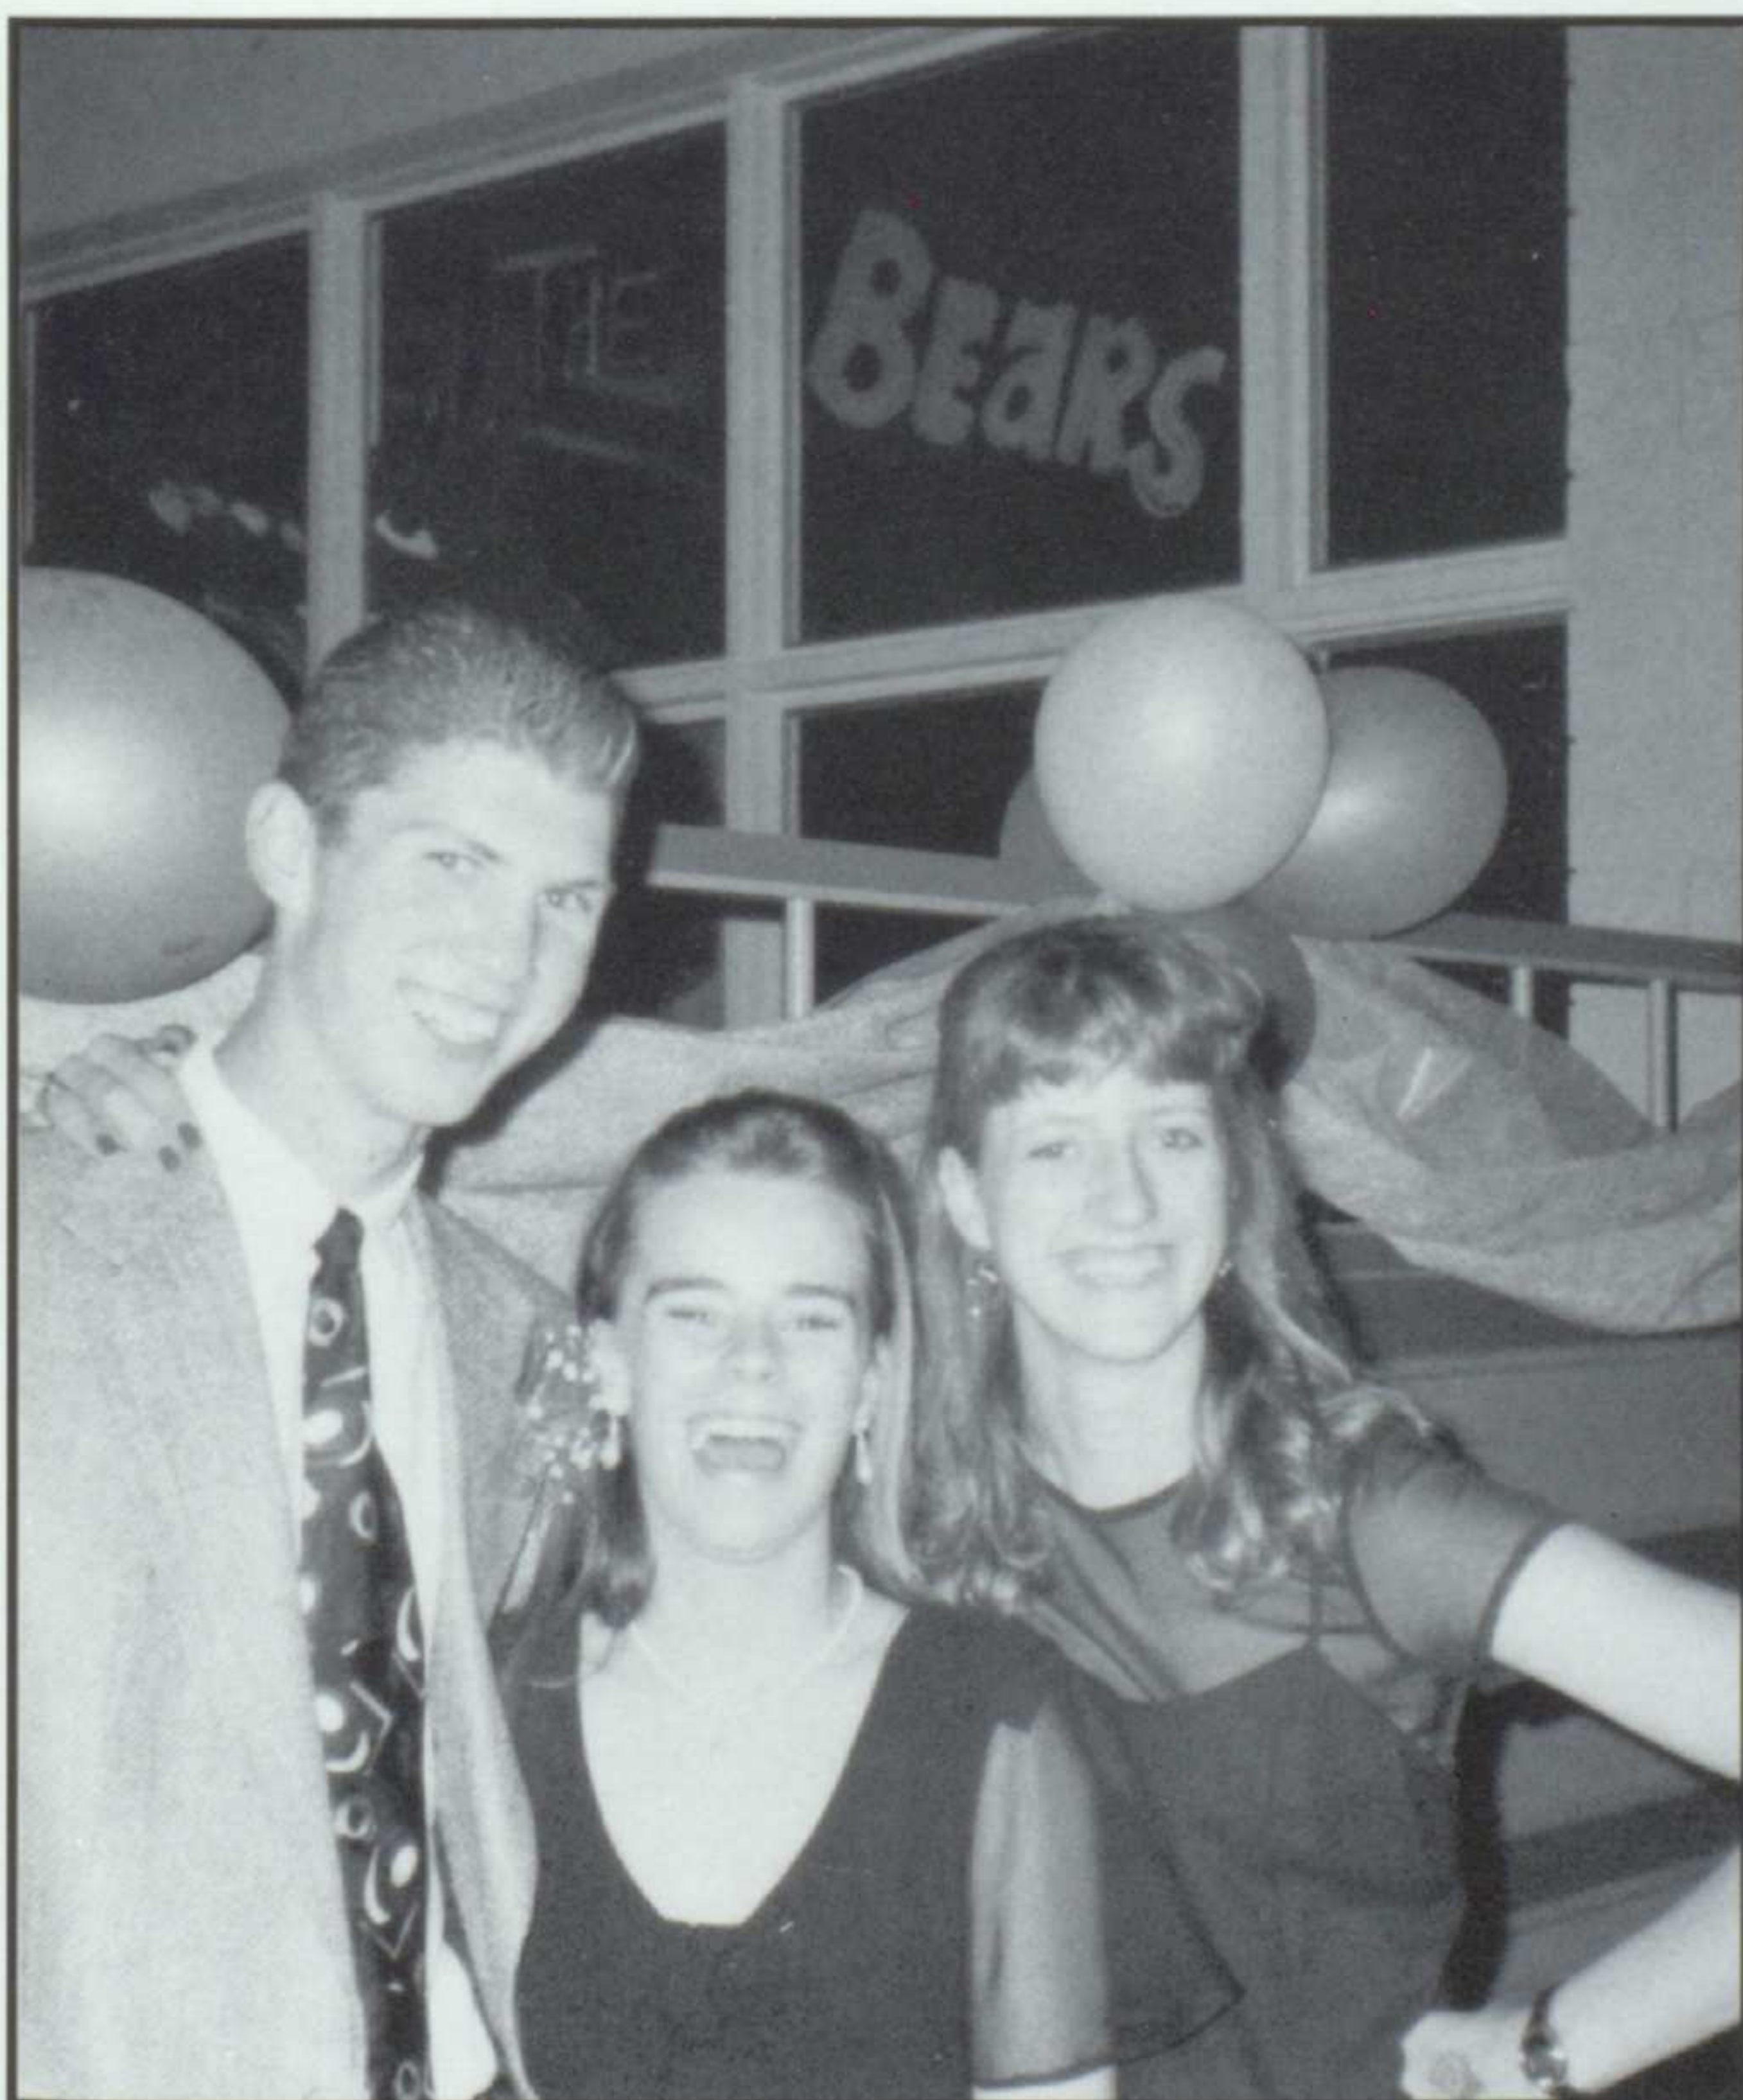

Jackie Piero shows off her prize pumpkin which she will later throw at the bonfire.

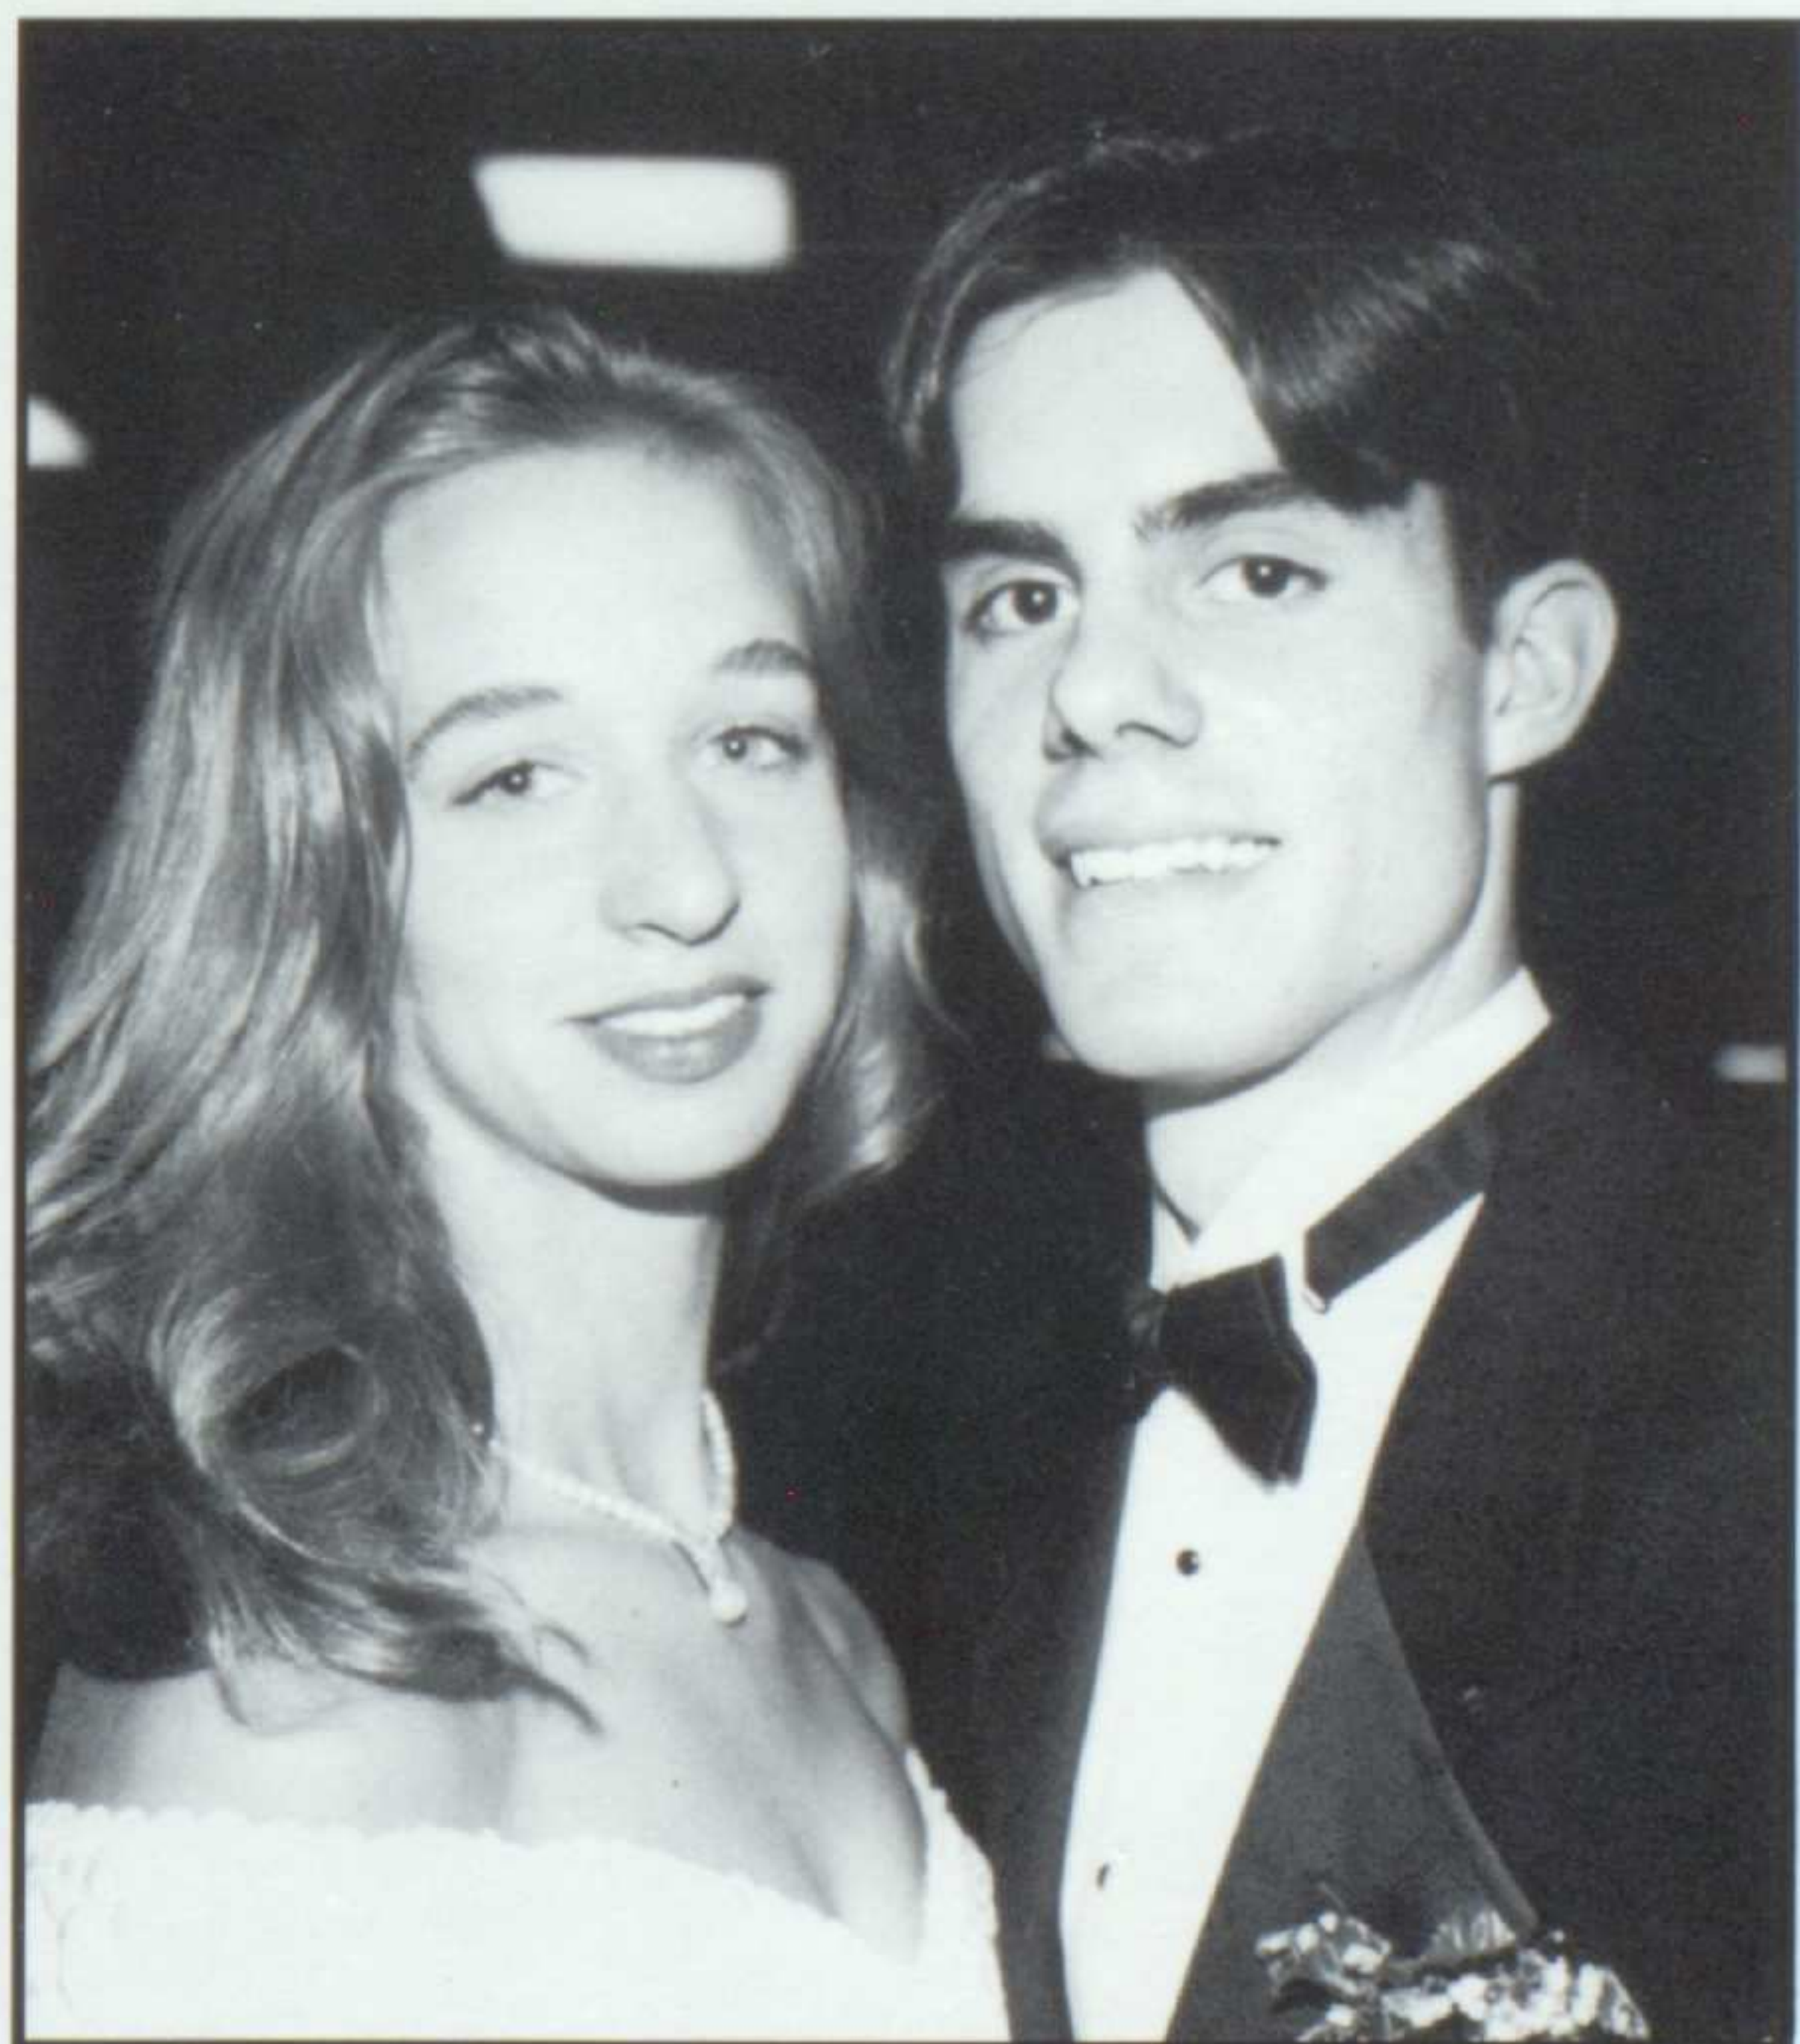

Wishing they were in the events of Wolfapalooza, Pat Marker and Bill Blackburn watch the participants of the field day.

Lisa Weidner and Amy Shough unwind after an exhausting choir concert. It appears that they've had a great performance and now they're setting their sights on the national competition that will take place in May.

Jenni Davis doesn't seem too upset as Kathy Schregardus tries to move in on her homecoming date, Doug Hartman.

Having had one picture too many taken, juniors Tim Milligan and Jeni Moore's faces are frozen in that "smile" position.

Proud to show their school spirit at the homecoming bonfire are sophomores Matt Knott, Mike Fairchild, TJ Maurer, Alexis Urbank, Erica Seabloom, and Bethen Turano.

We can tell by the deviant smiles on Tony Wooten's and Eric Yinger's faces that they are probably up to no good.

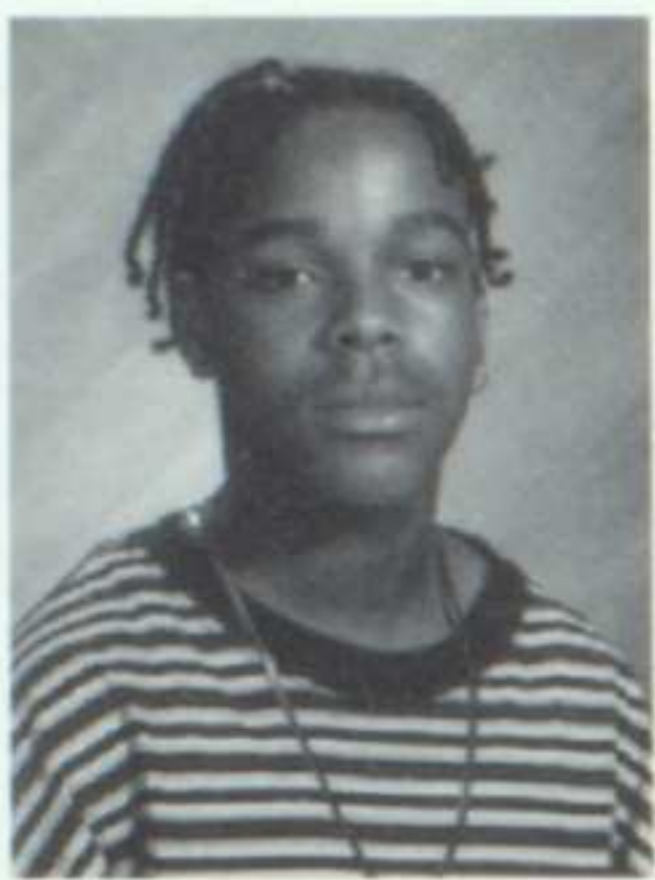

Best friends Charlotte Sidor and Teresa Stanonik share a sentimental moment while lounging during lunch in the commons.

Providing music for us at the first annual Wolfapolooza is sophomore Aaron Woody. Aaron, don't look so nervous you guys were great!

What is this we see? Can it be that sophomore Brad Wickes is studying? We didn't know you had it in you, Brad!

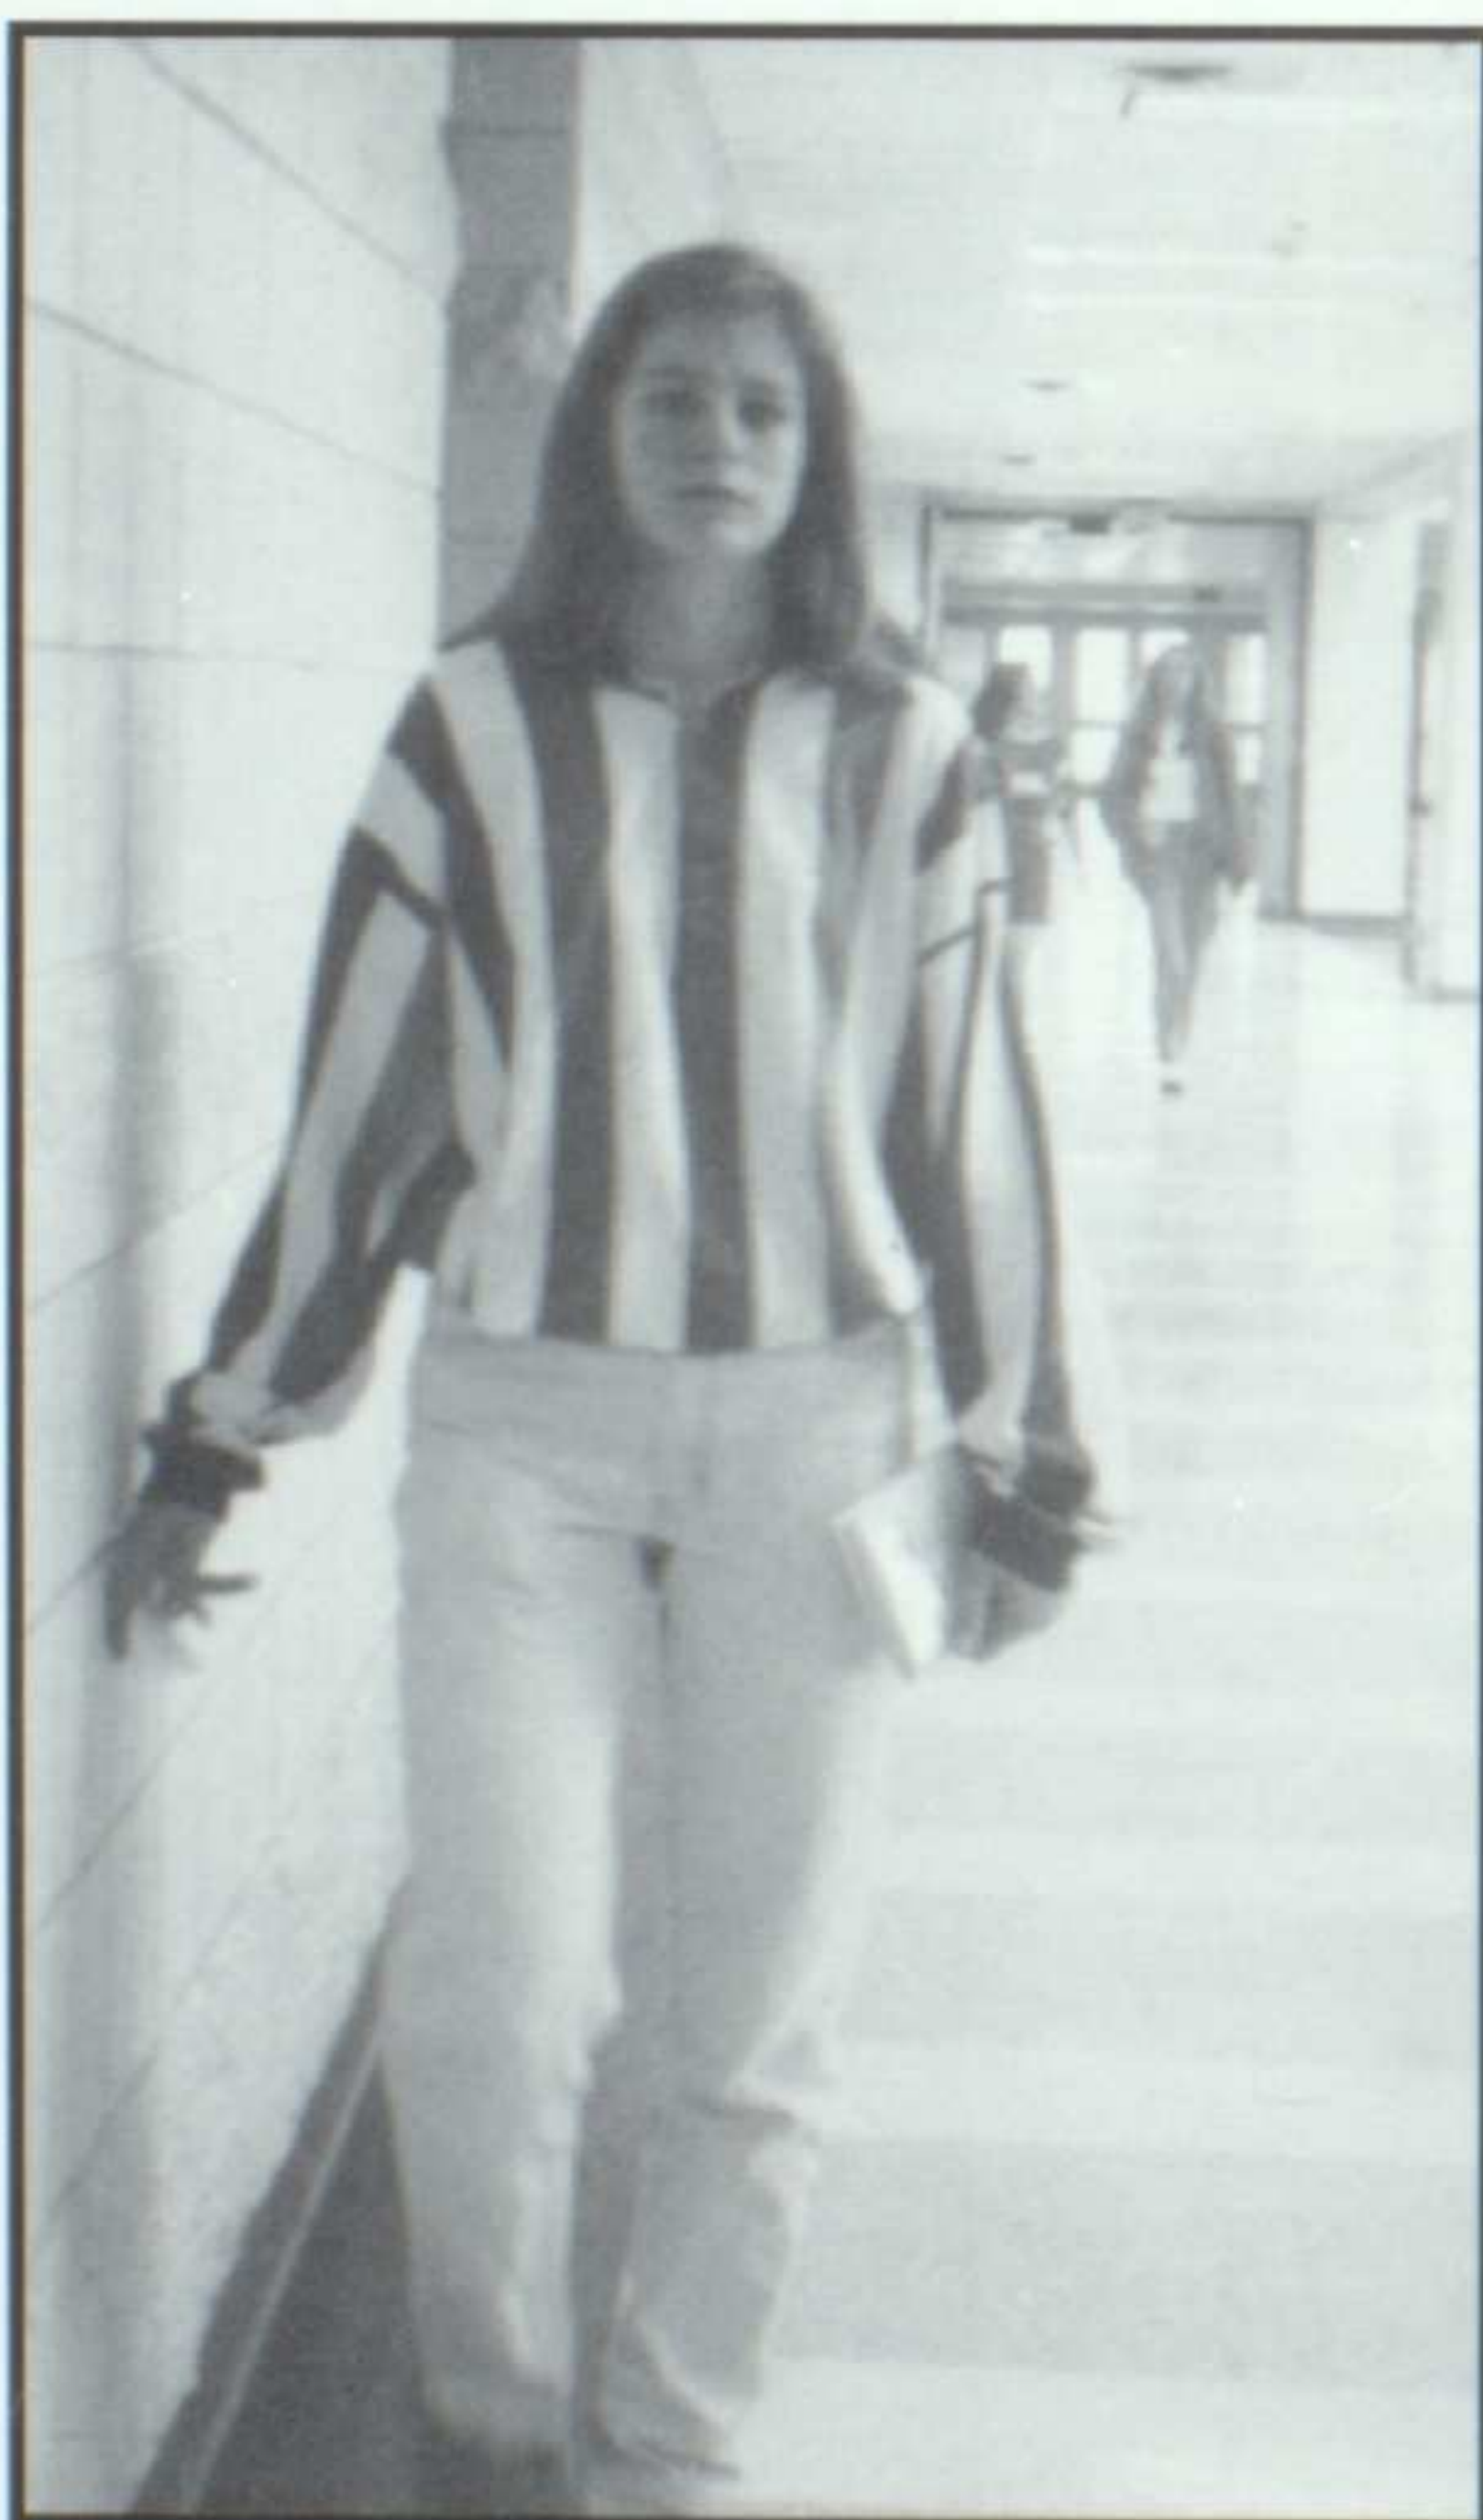

Showing their pride in their school on clean-up-the-grounds day is junior Nina Jaleeli and sophomore Jennifer Gilbert, but what is that in Nina's mouth? Don't you know you're supposed to throw out the trash, not eat it!

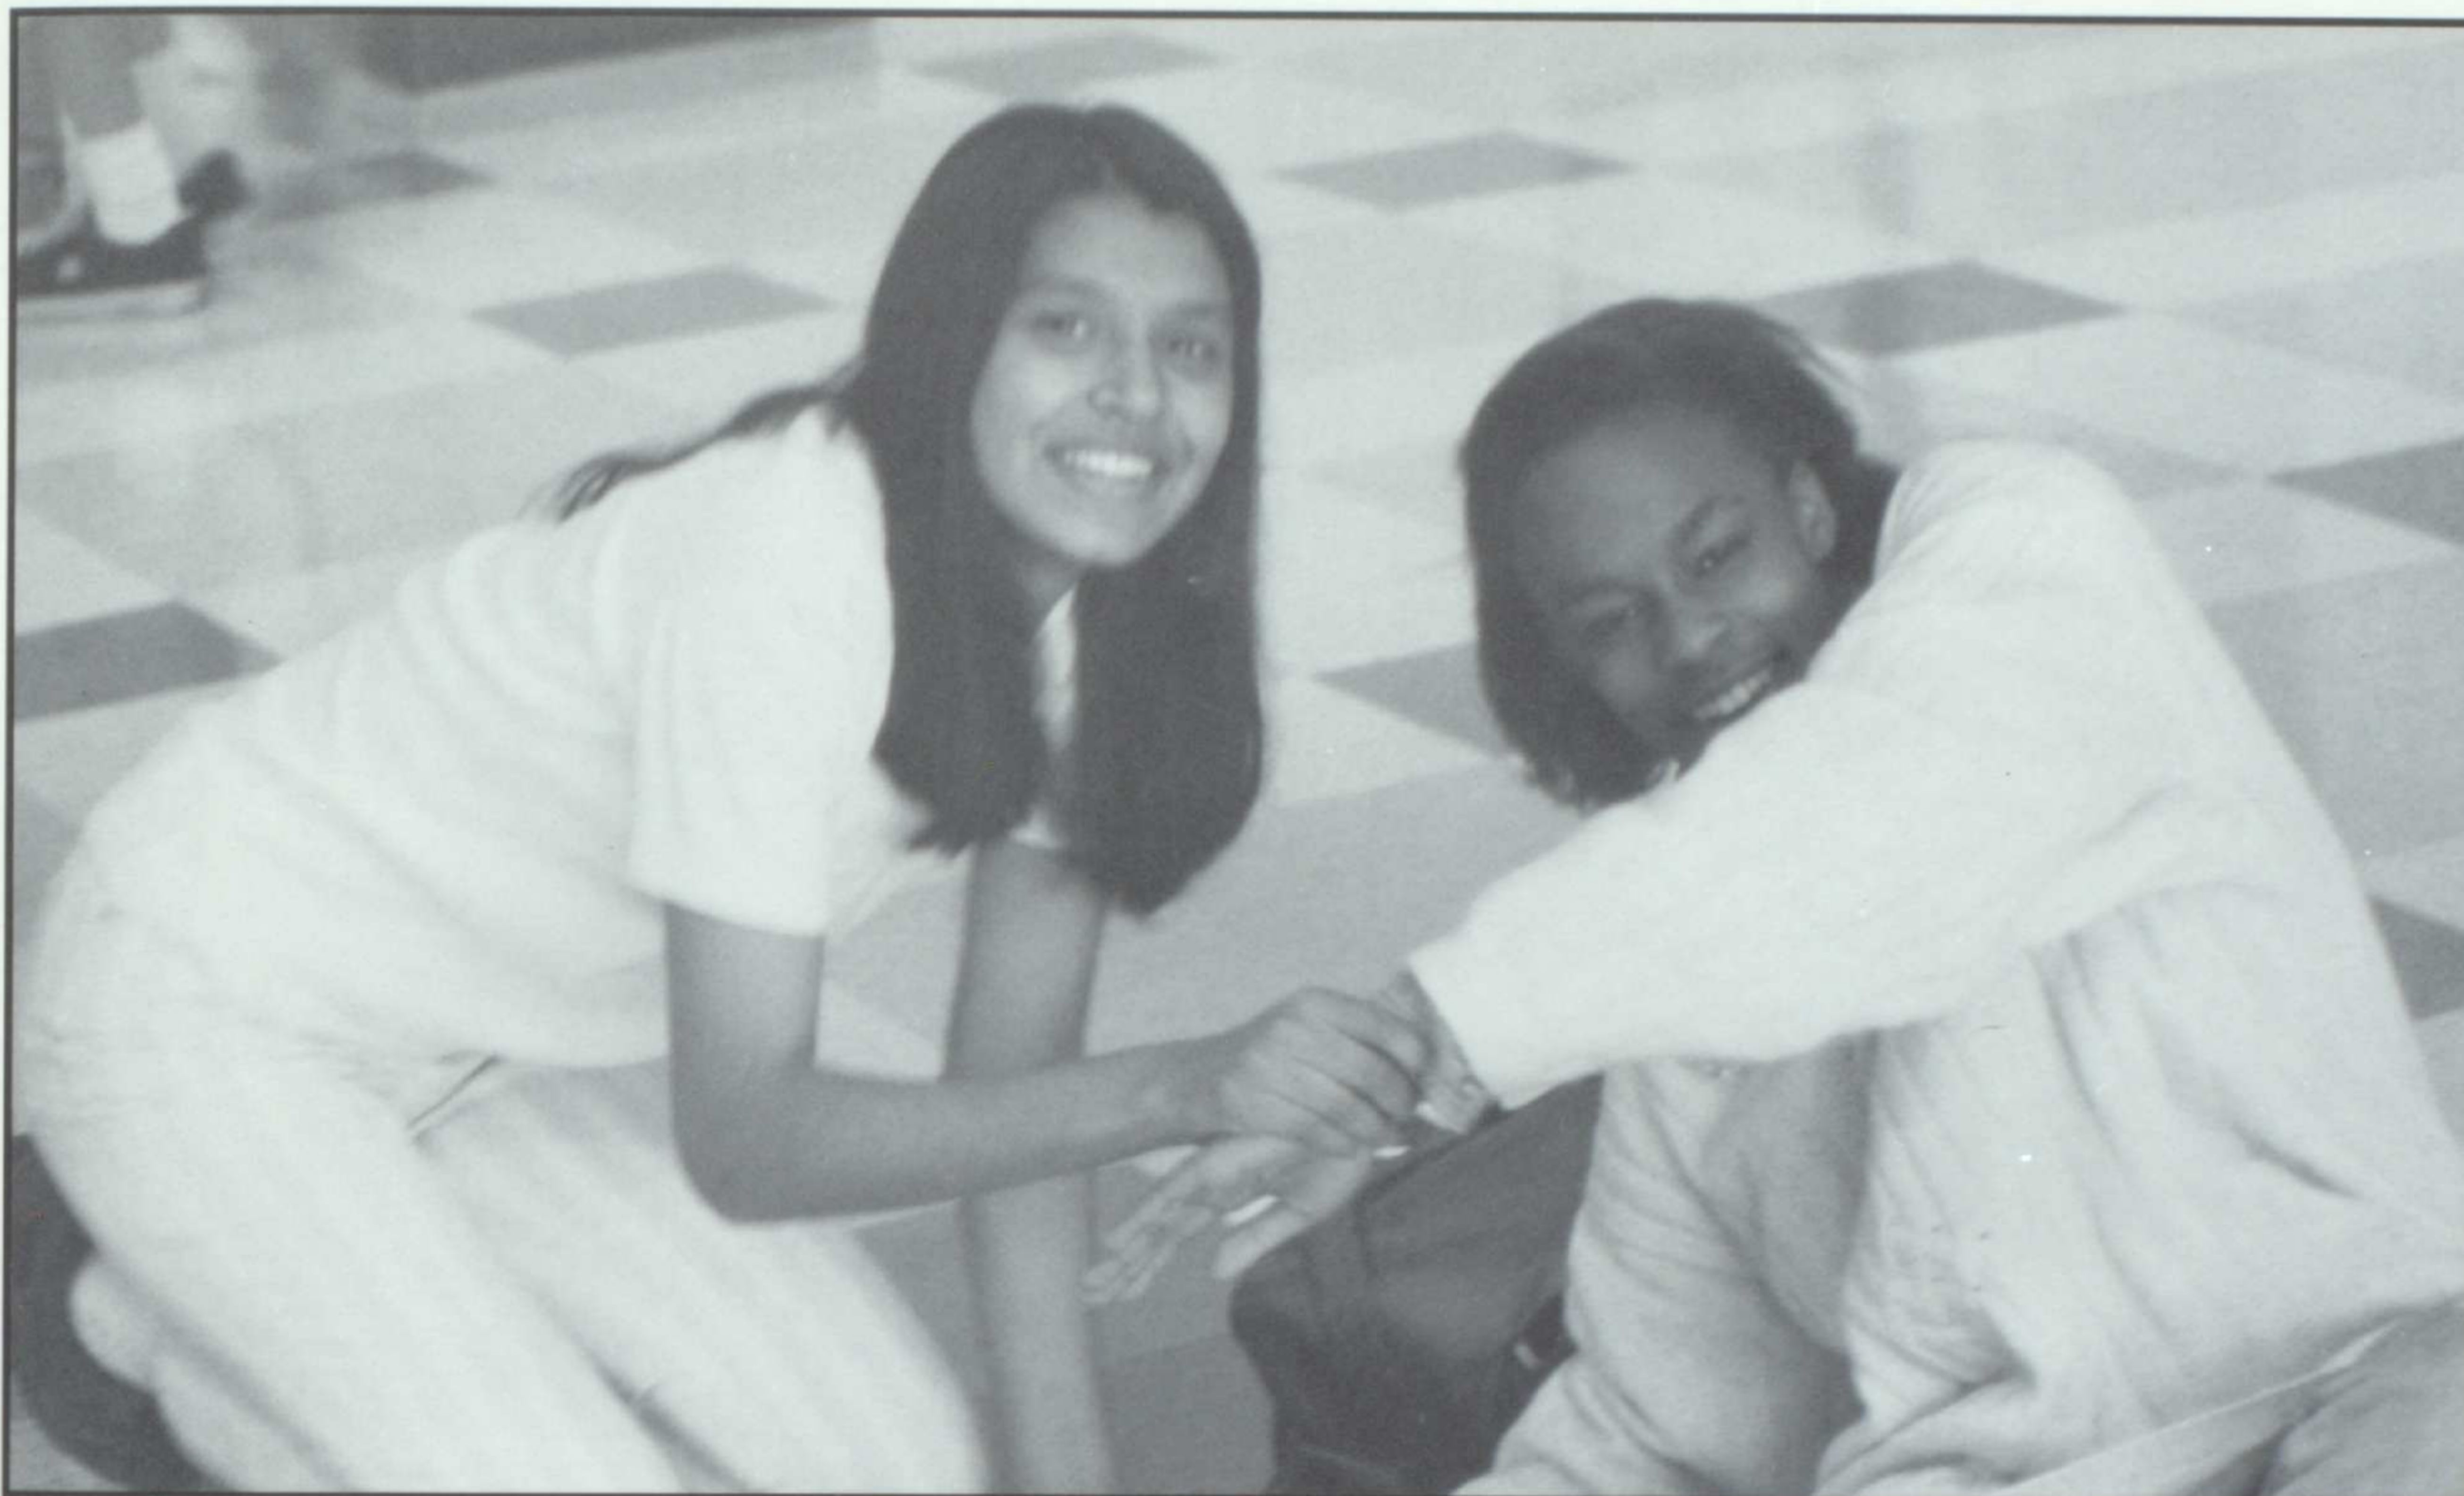

Pondering the true meaning of life is sophomore Tara Feeney. Would you like to share your secret with us, Tara?

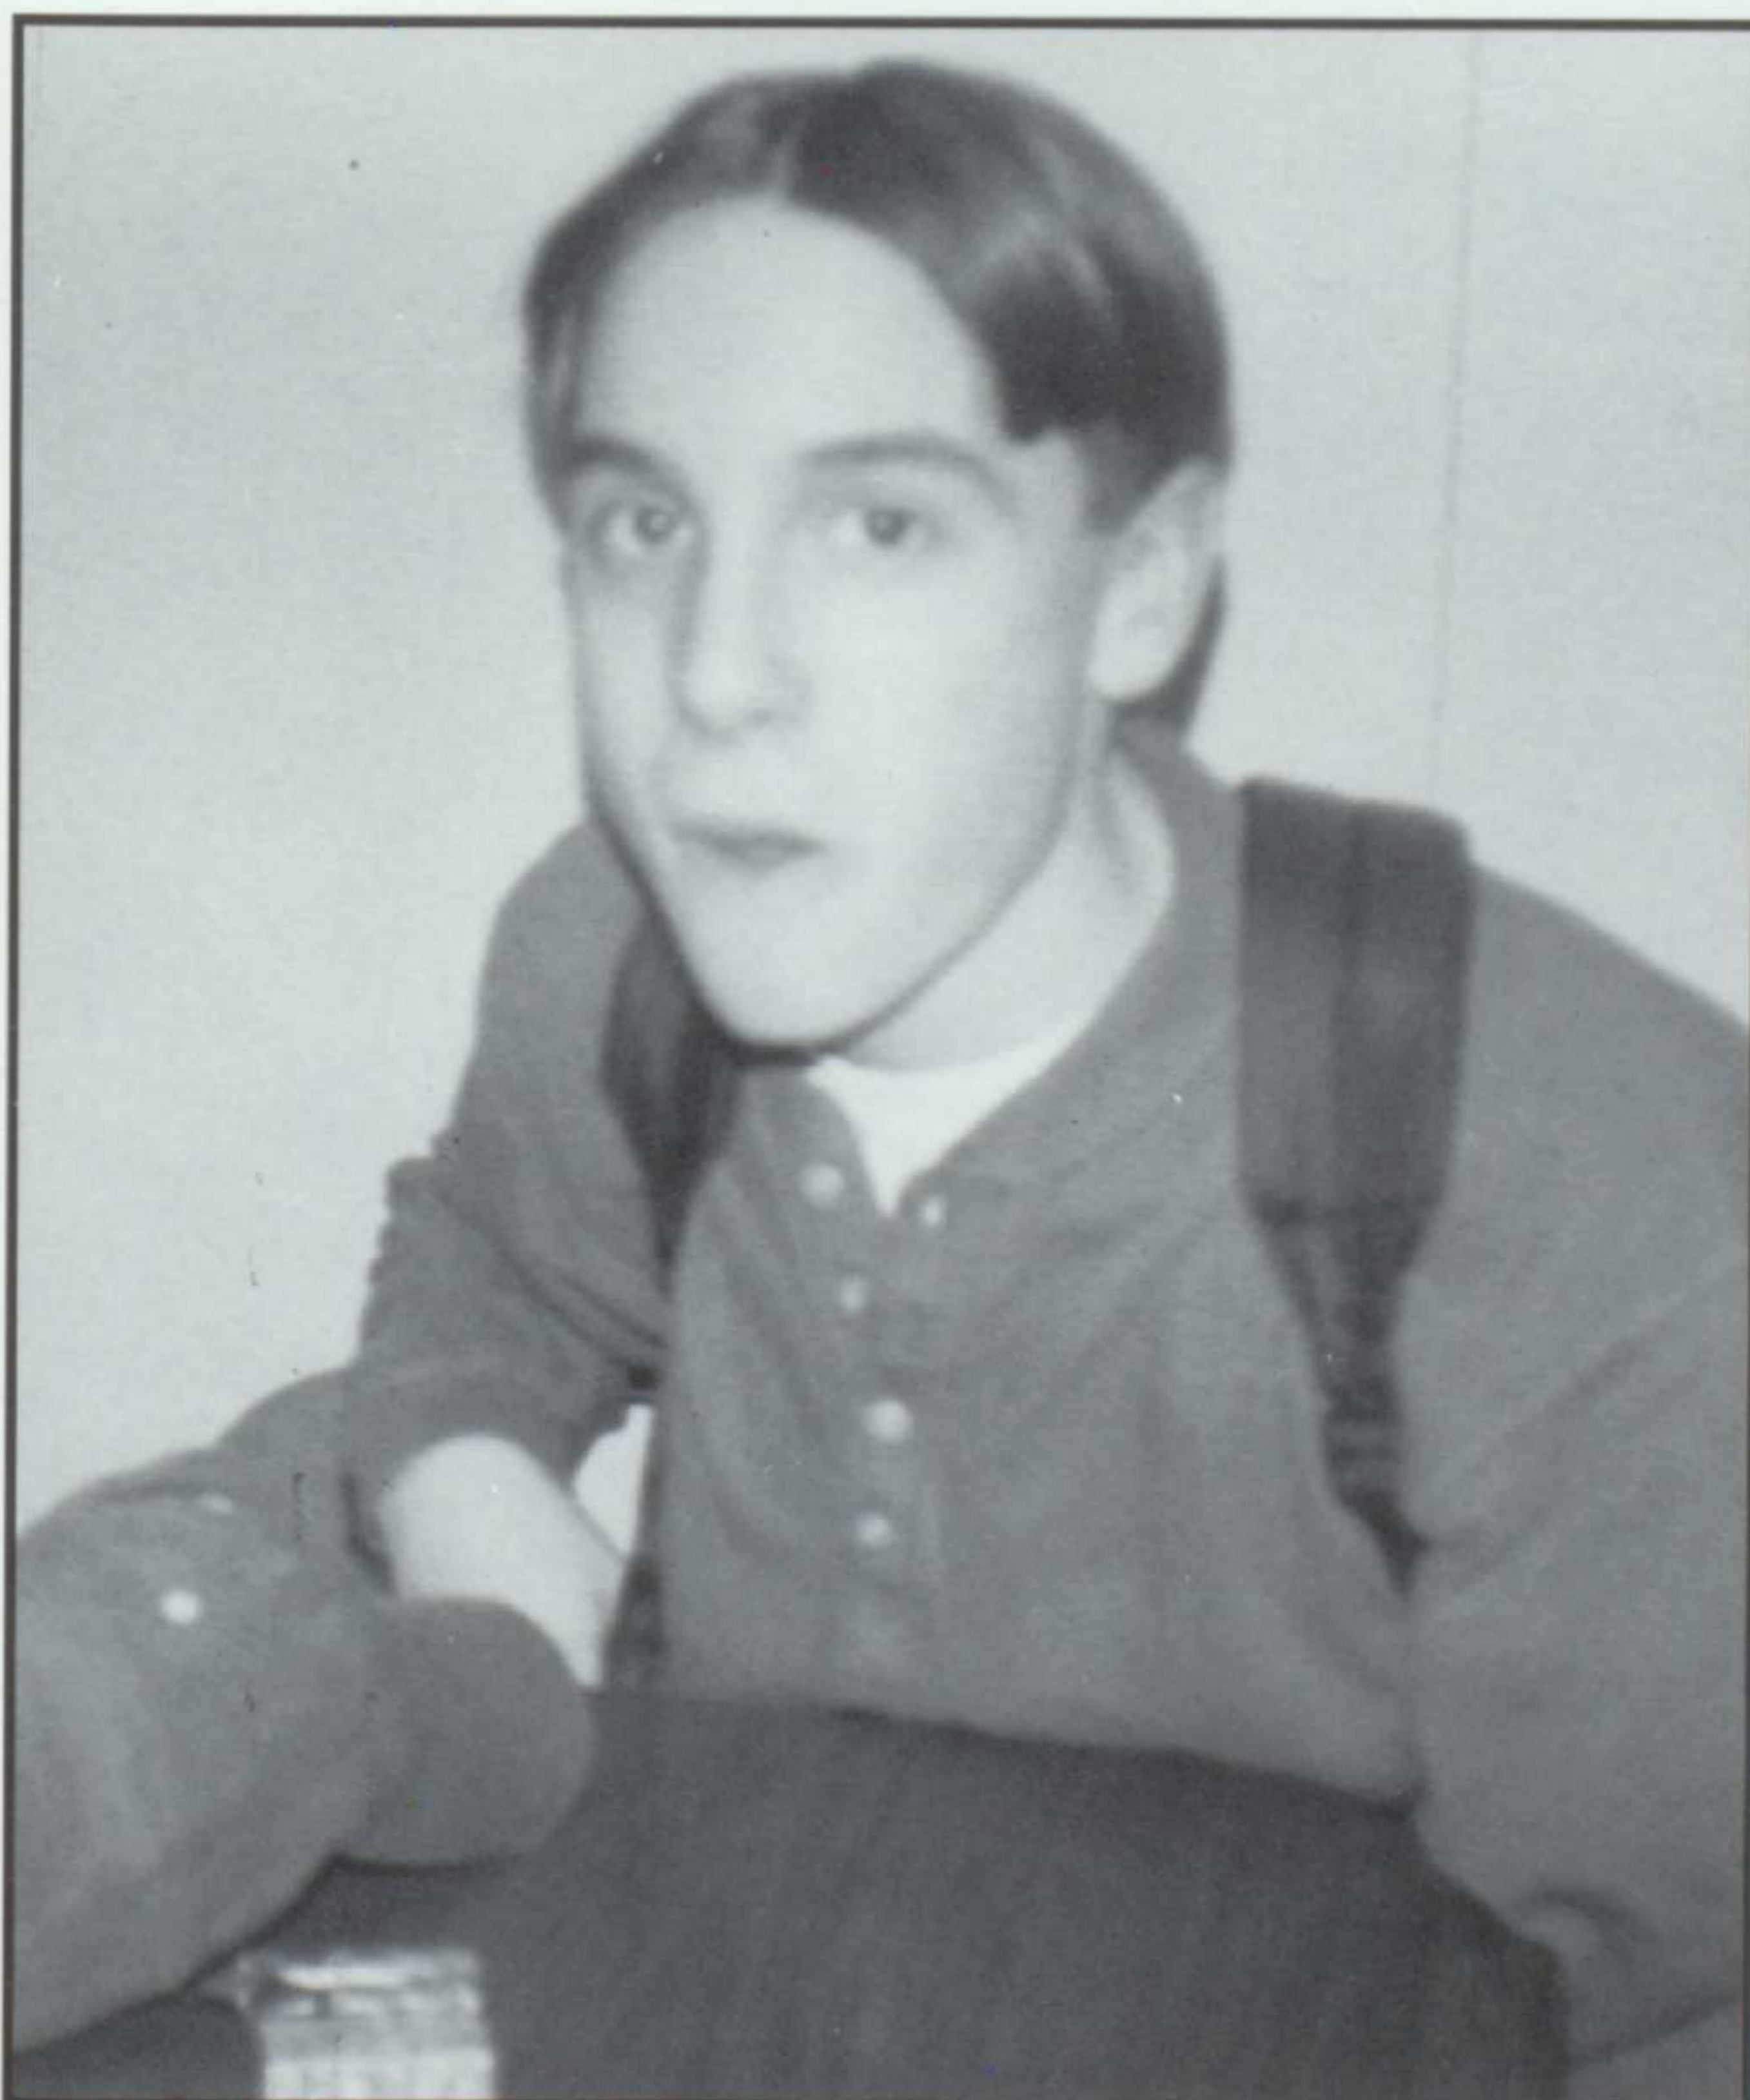

Walking quickly, Amy Martin tries to escape us before getting to class.

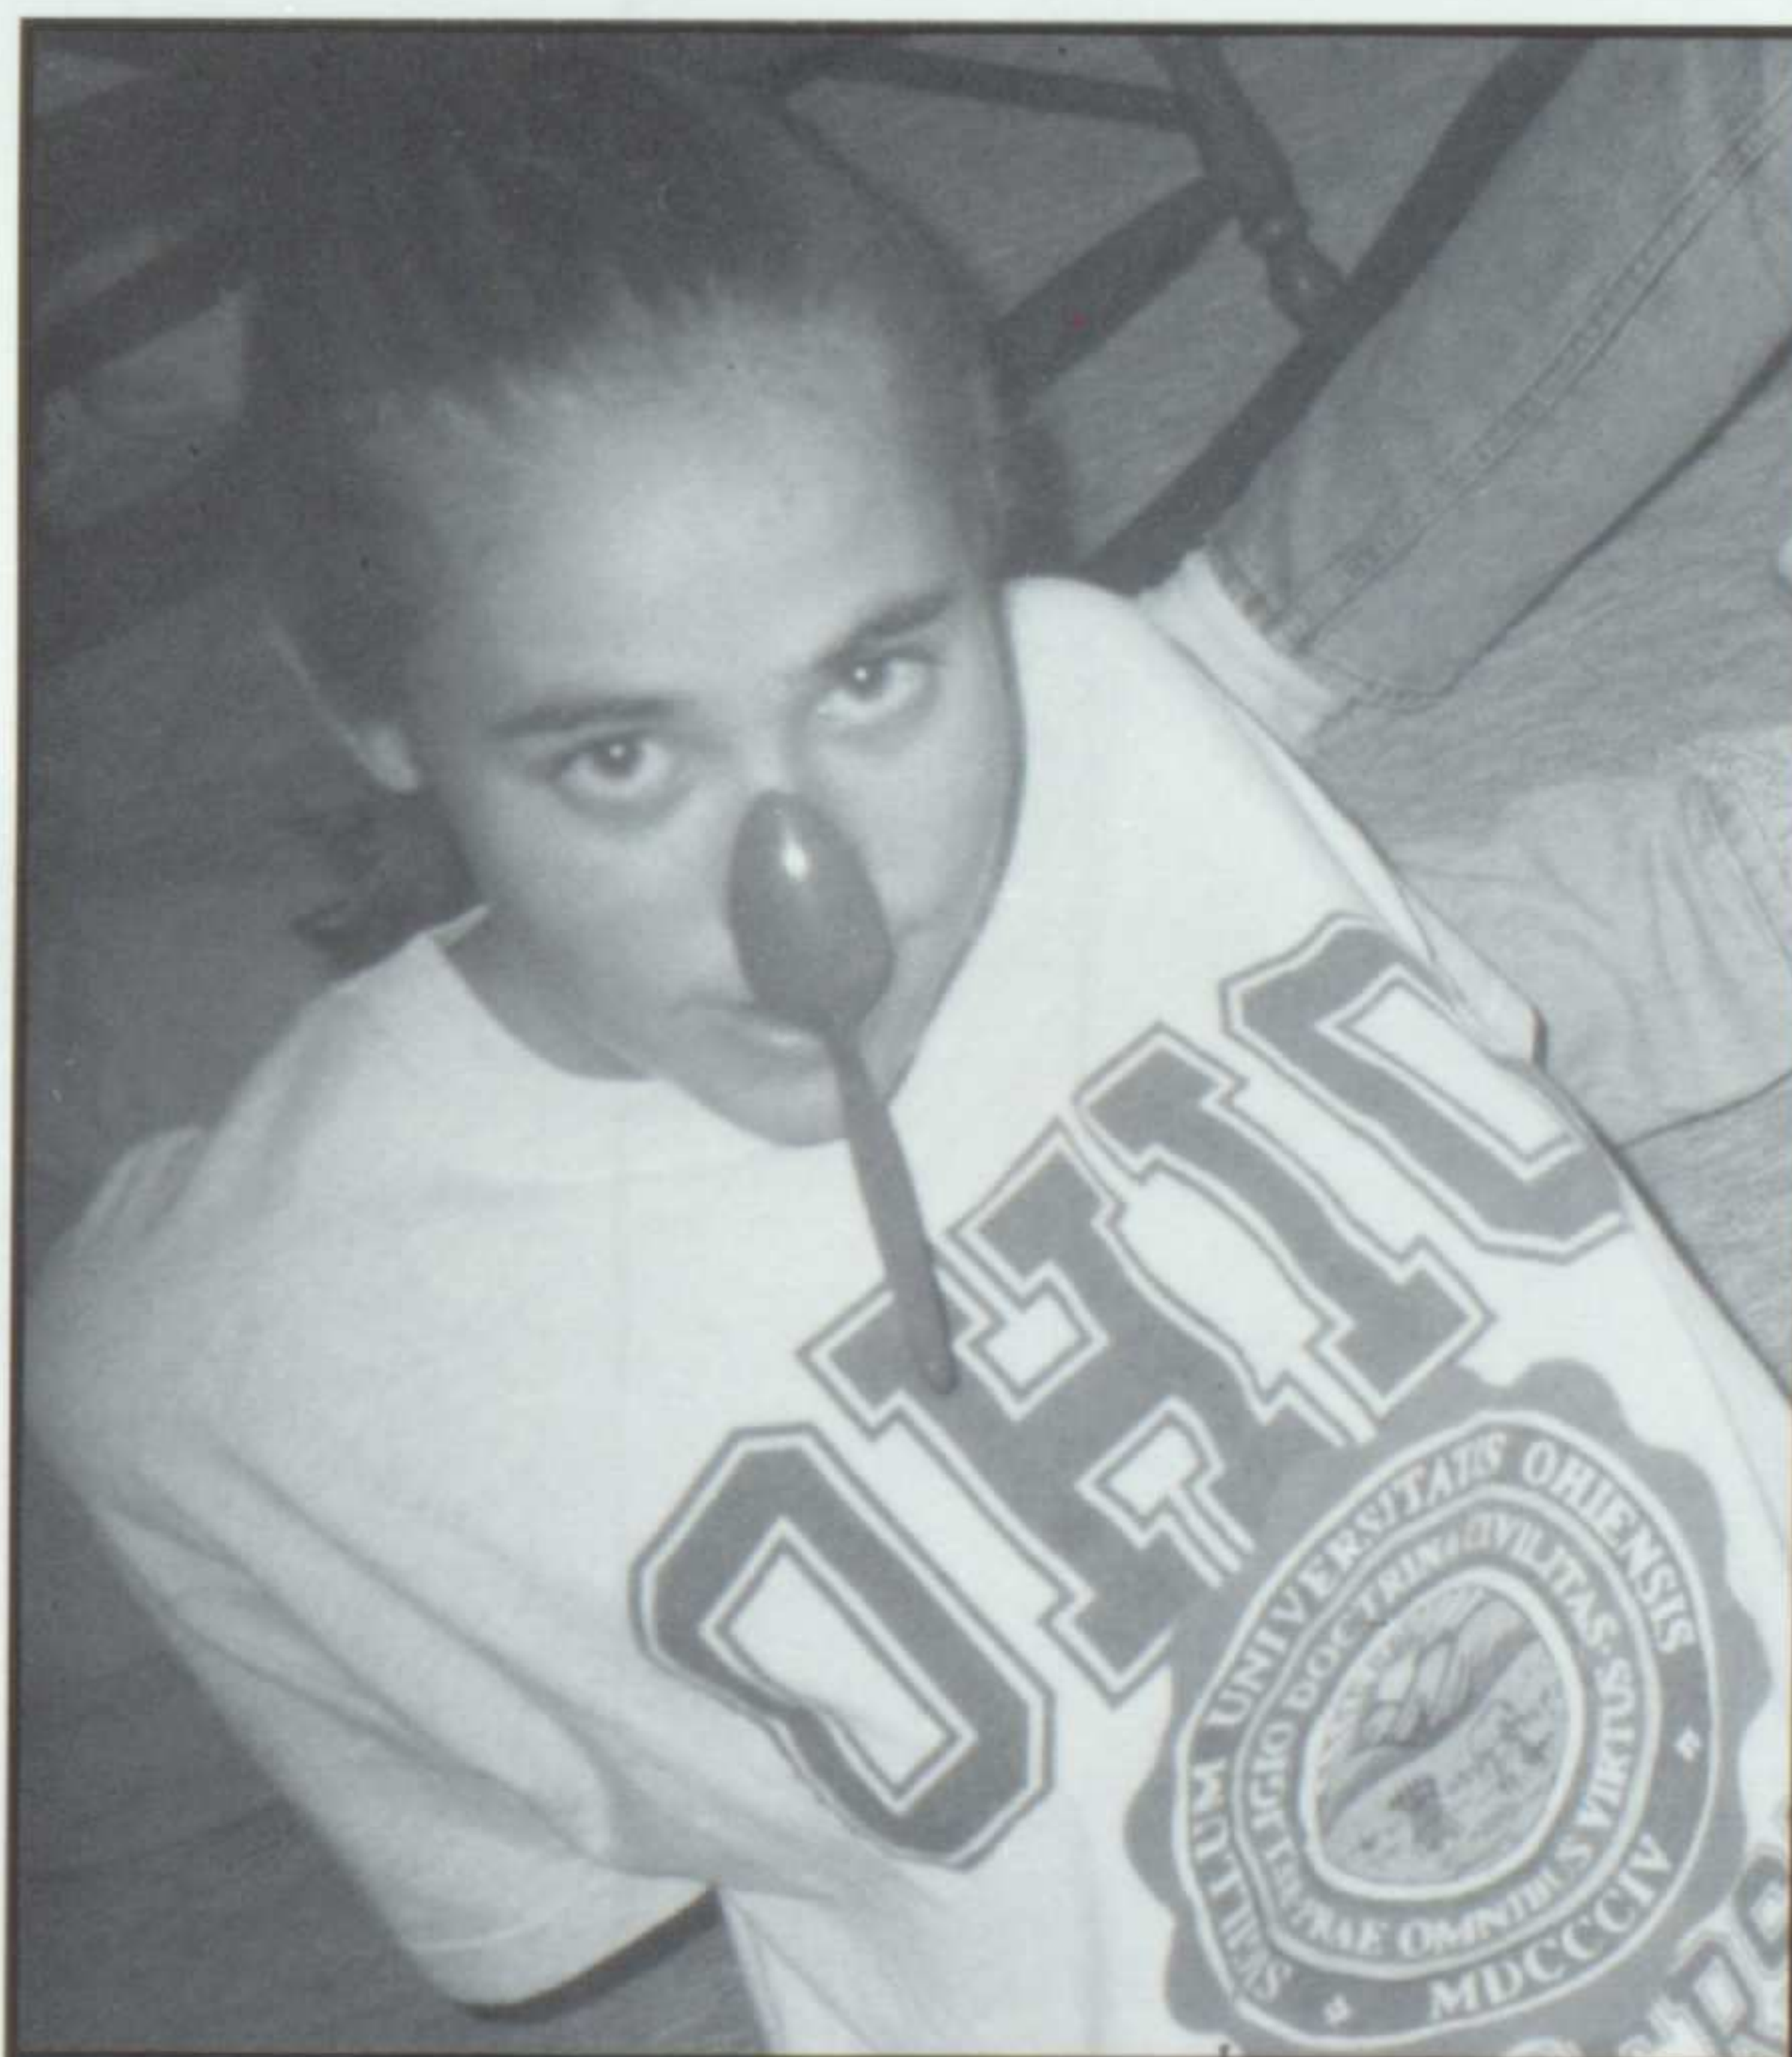

Sophomores Katie Borokhovich and Christa McKnight show us the true closeness of a best friendship.

Giving each other a helping hand are good friends Pina Patel and Key Shakoore. I guess Junior made those floors just a little too slippery today, but it doesn't look like Key minded all that much.

What kind of smile is that, Birch Cooper? Whatever it is, it looks like you're up to no good. You can run, but you can't hide Birch.

Demonstrating her very strong talent in holding a spoon on her nose is the one and only Tara Mackin.

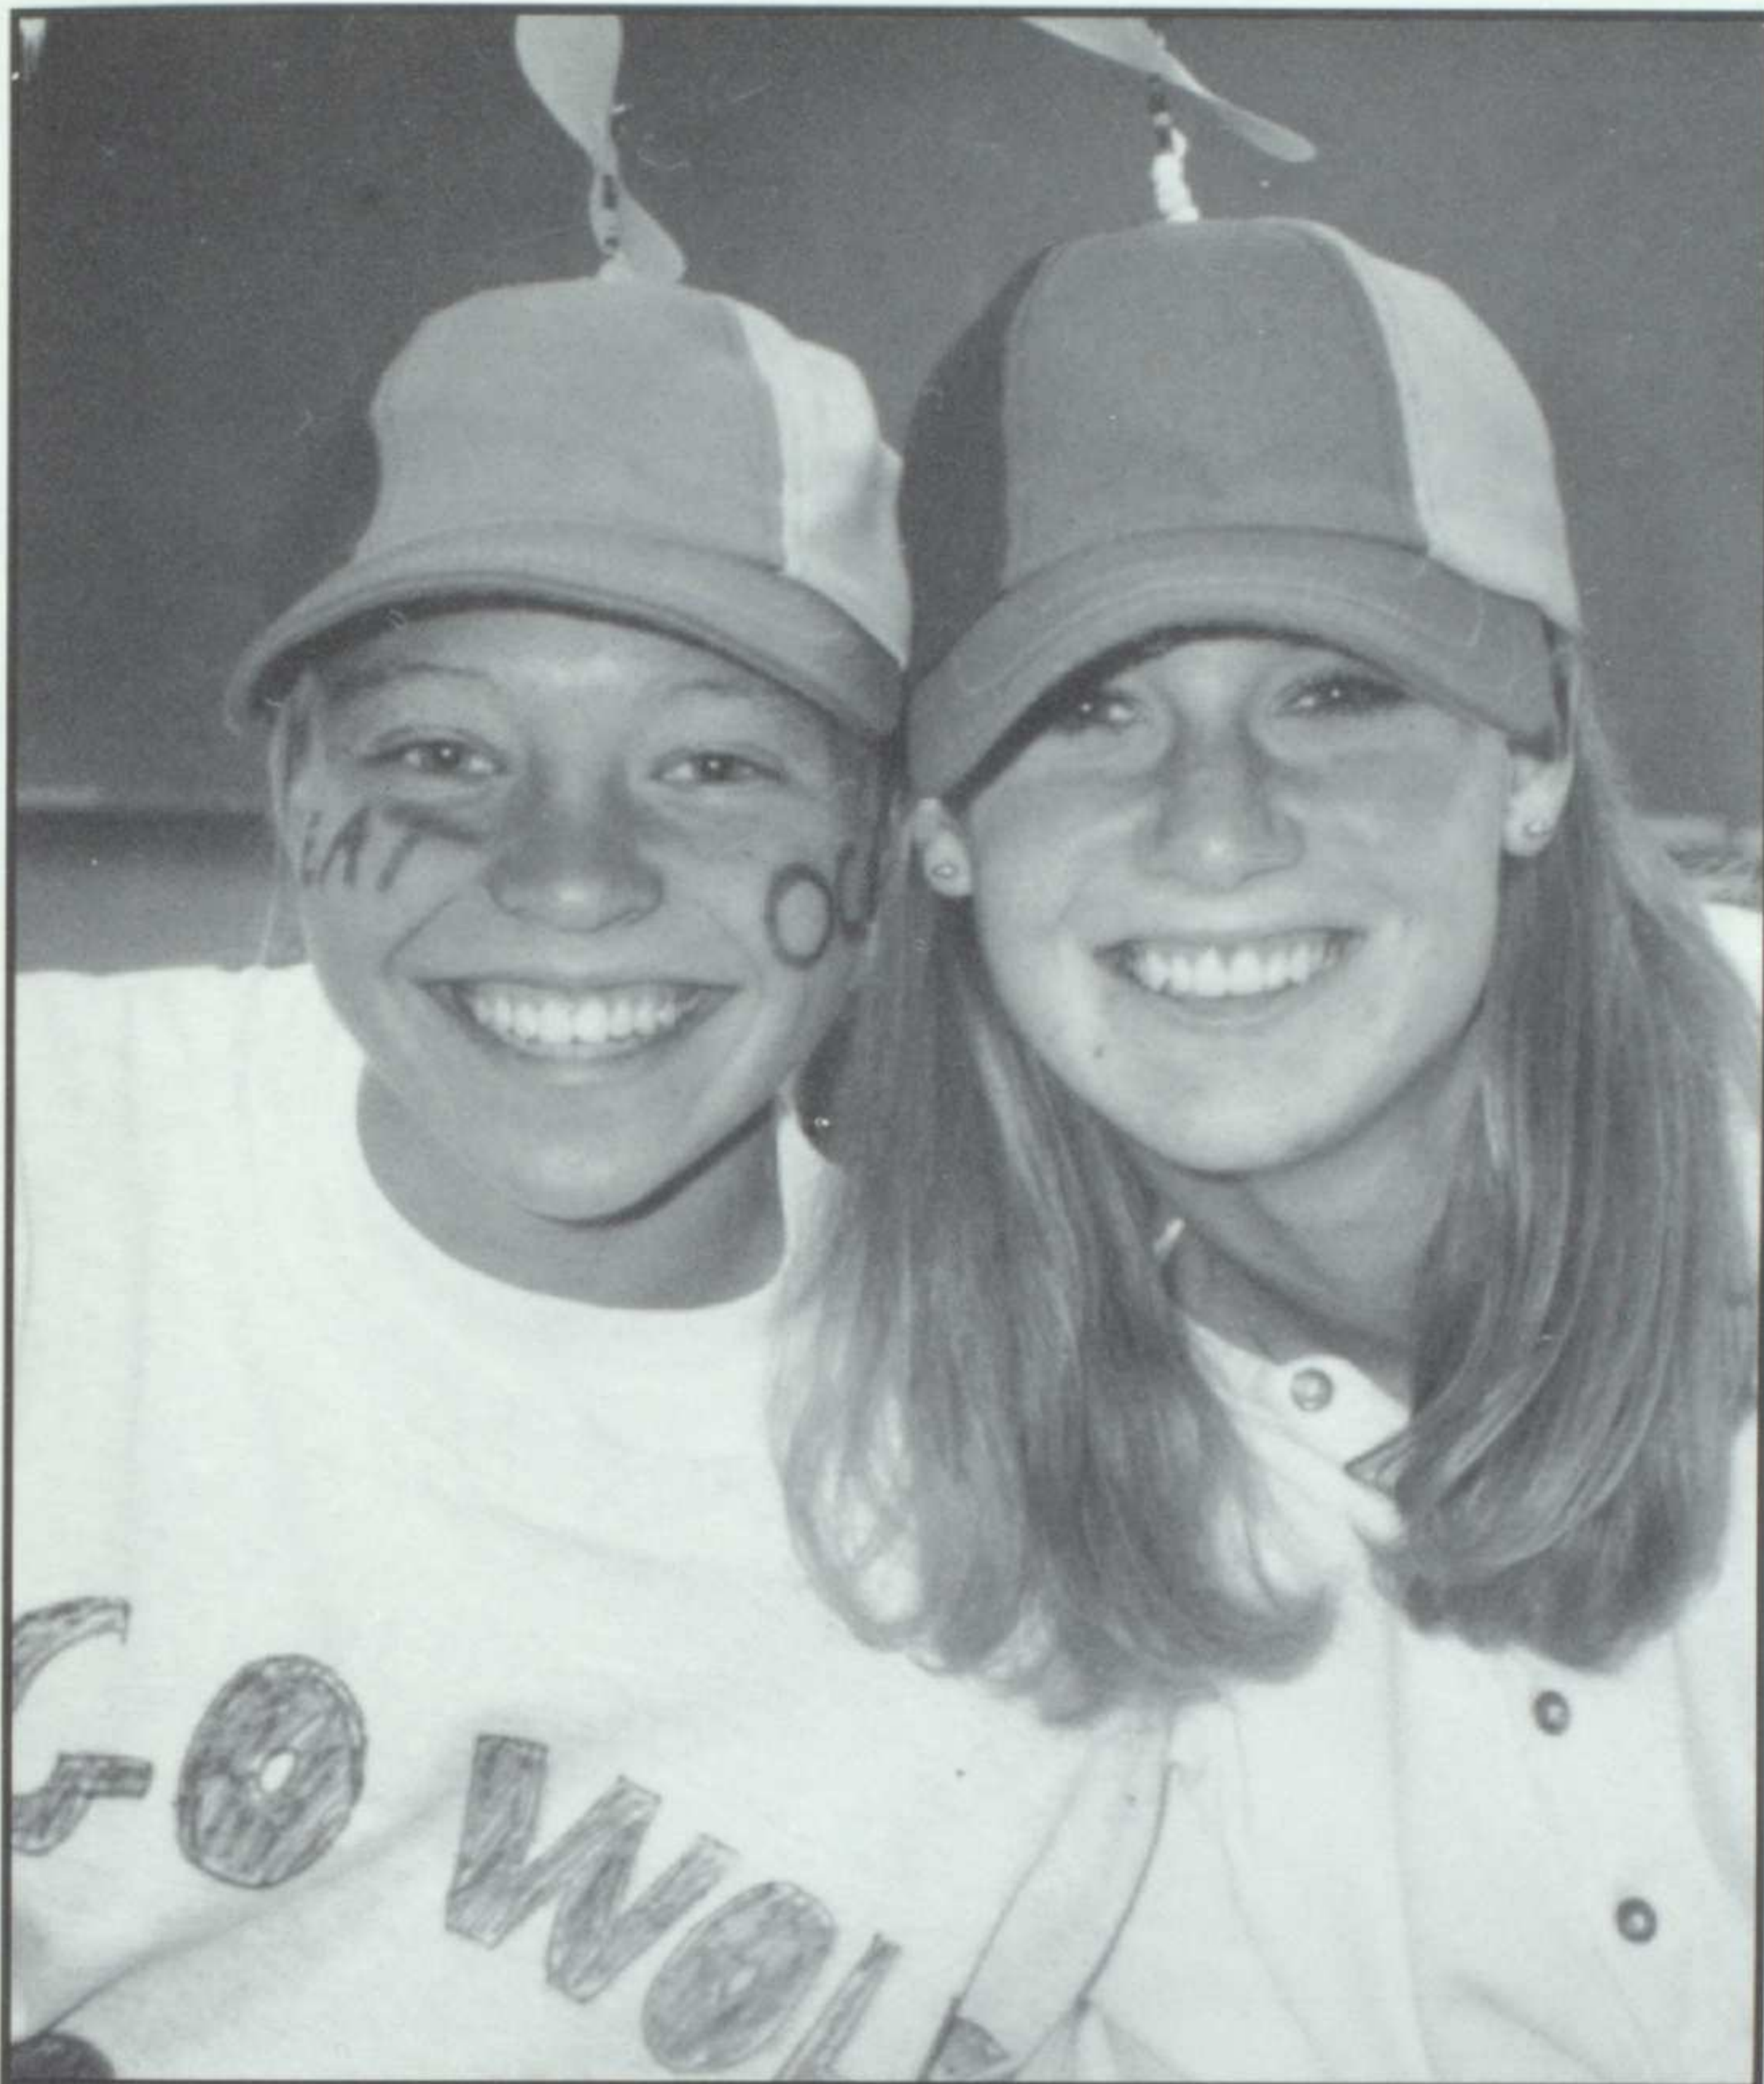

"Ariba, Ariba, Andale, Andale!" exclaims an animated Amy Asmus. She may not be Speedy Gonzales, but her bright smile and gigantic Mexican hat will make anyone's day brighter. "Adiós, amigos!"

"God, I can not believe I did that!" laments sophomore Robin Sandell. "I can't believe I missed the easiest question on the test! Baloo means bear; any idiotm can answer the sample question correctly. Why couldn't I?"

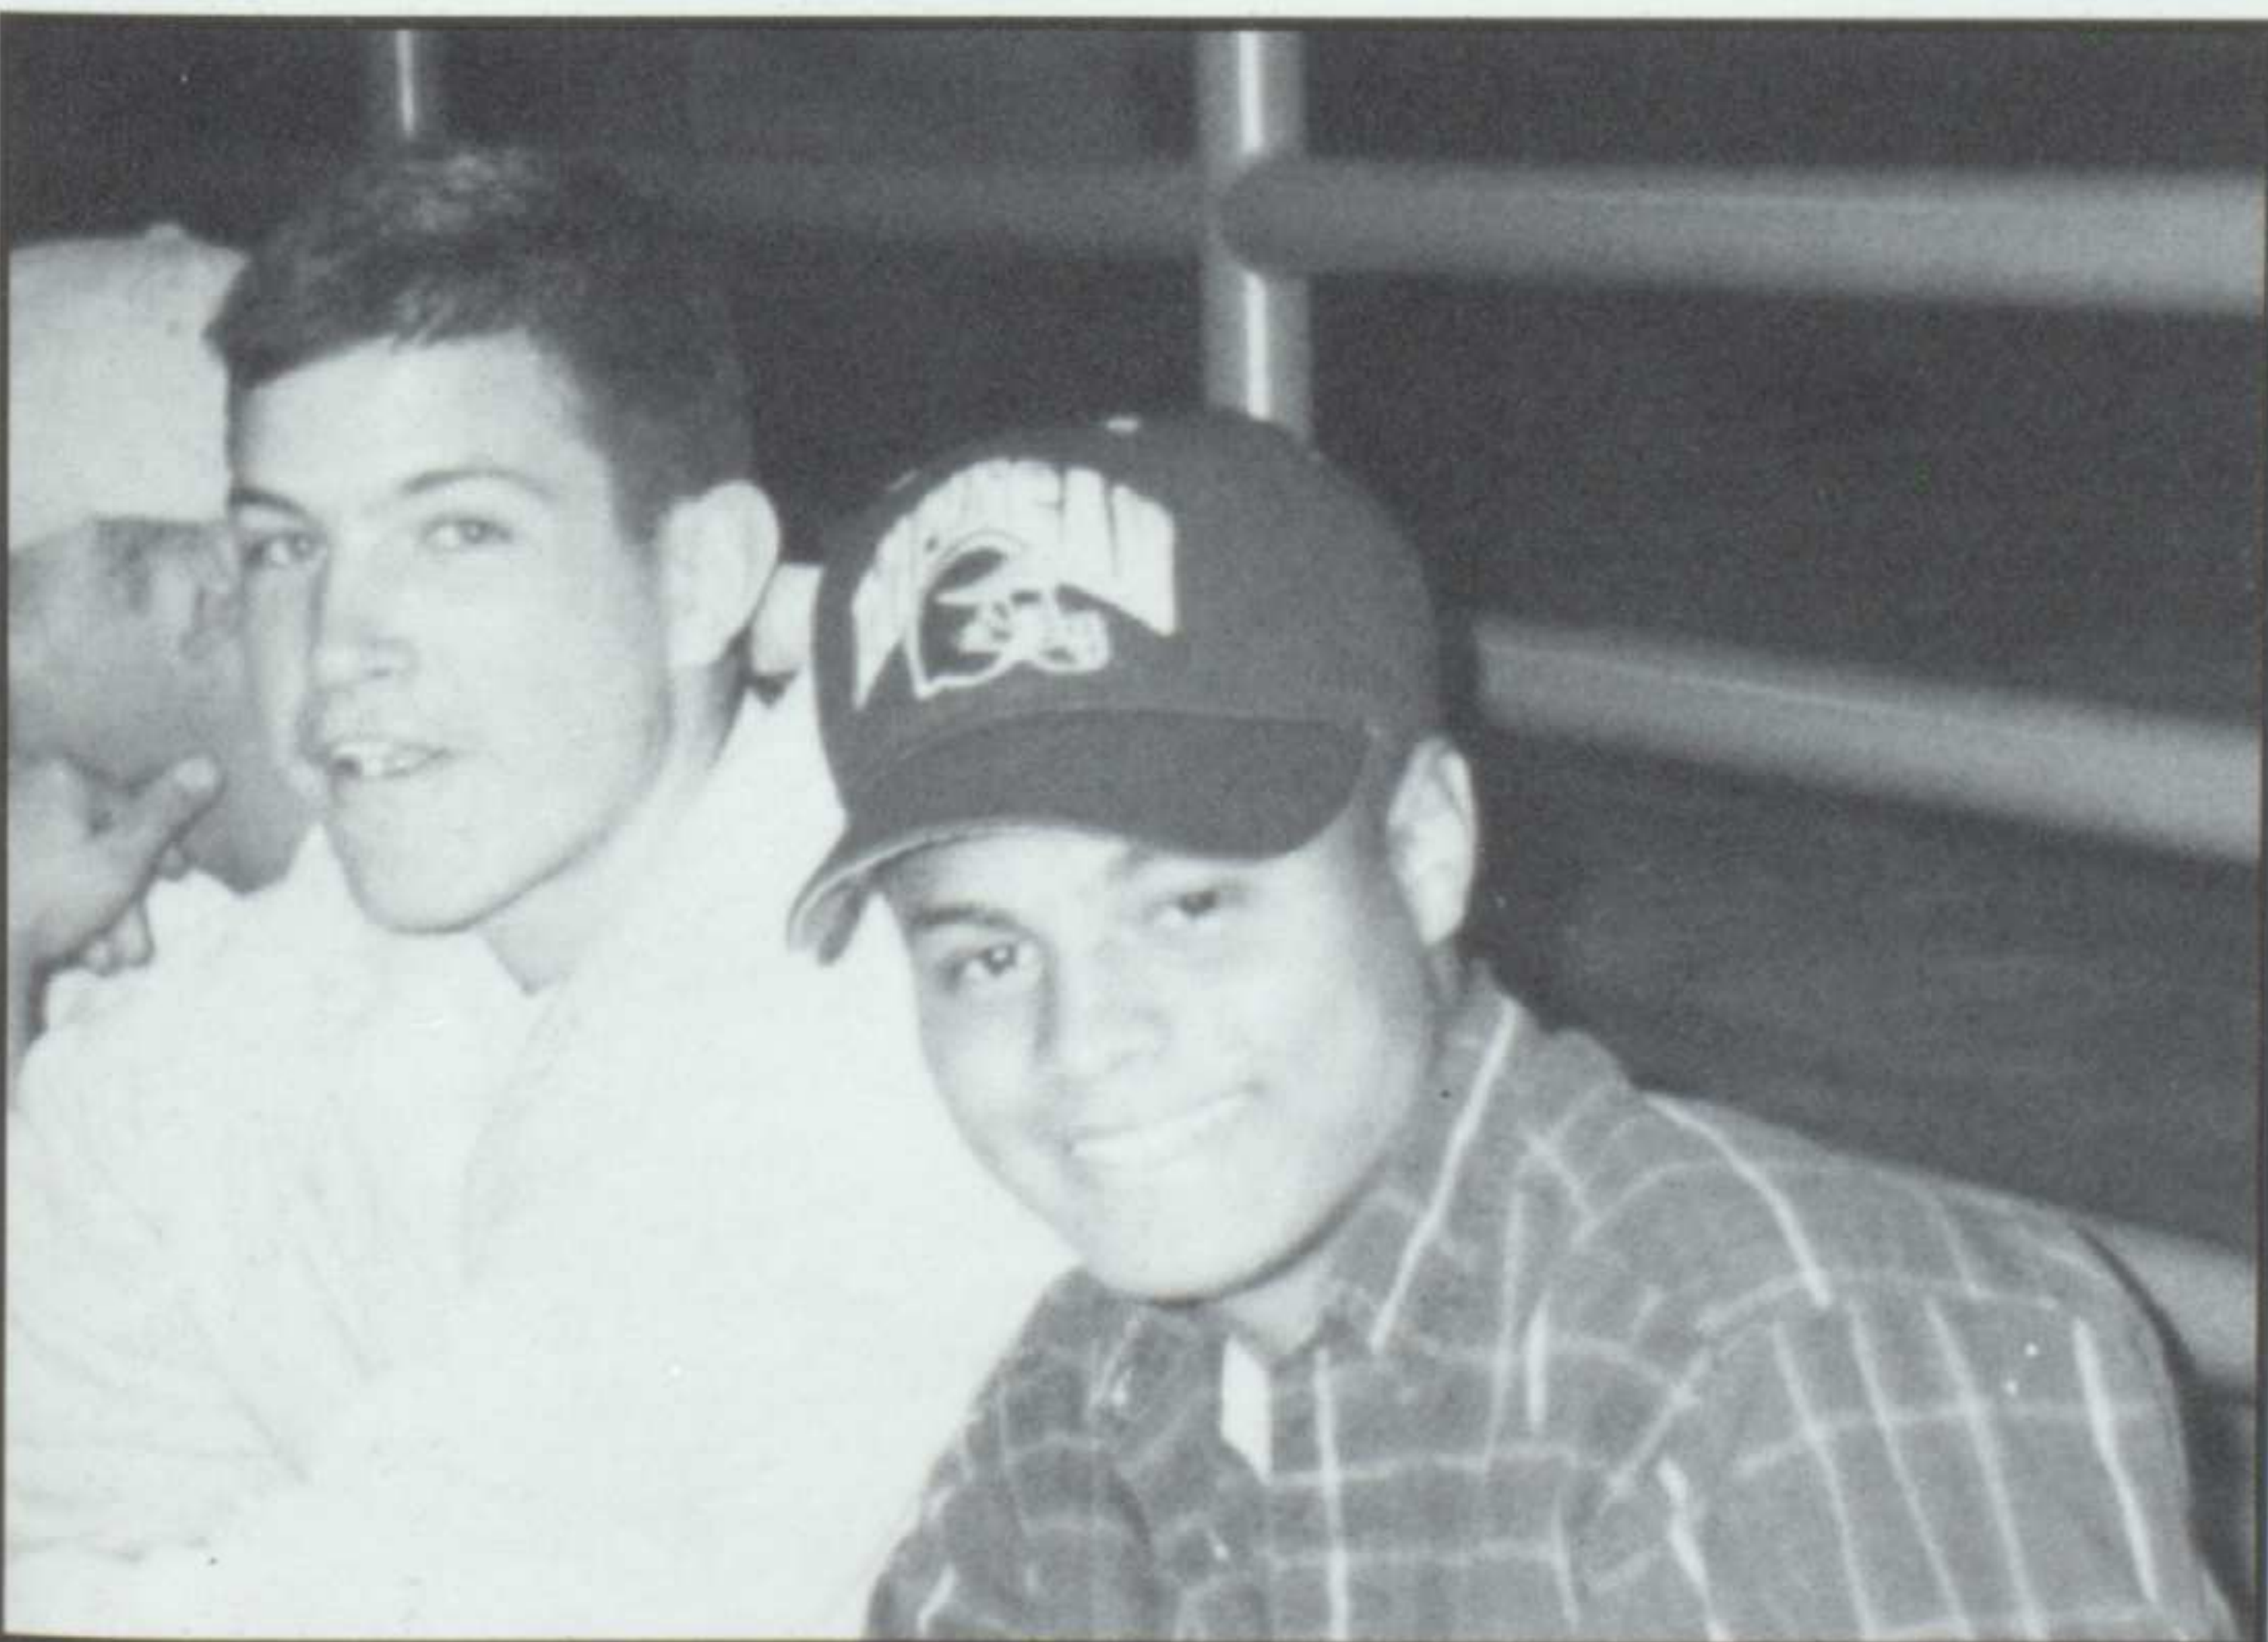

Sophomores James Wright and Chris Wise show their enthusiasm at a school pep ralley. We can tell by their eyes that it's pretty exciting.

Did sophomore Jill Baker and senior Heather Jacobson plan this little matching of their hats, or could it all just be one big mysterious coincidence? Either way, they both look adorable in their little kid wear. Gee, guys, you're gonna have to grow up sometime.

"I just love eating these Oreos," exclaims sophomore Hallie Cramer. "I just can't get enough." Maybe if you're lucky, some day you could be on a commercial.

Casey Neal and Kirk Mawhinney really know how to give a grin when asked for one. Thanks, boys!

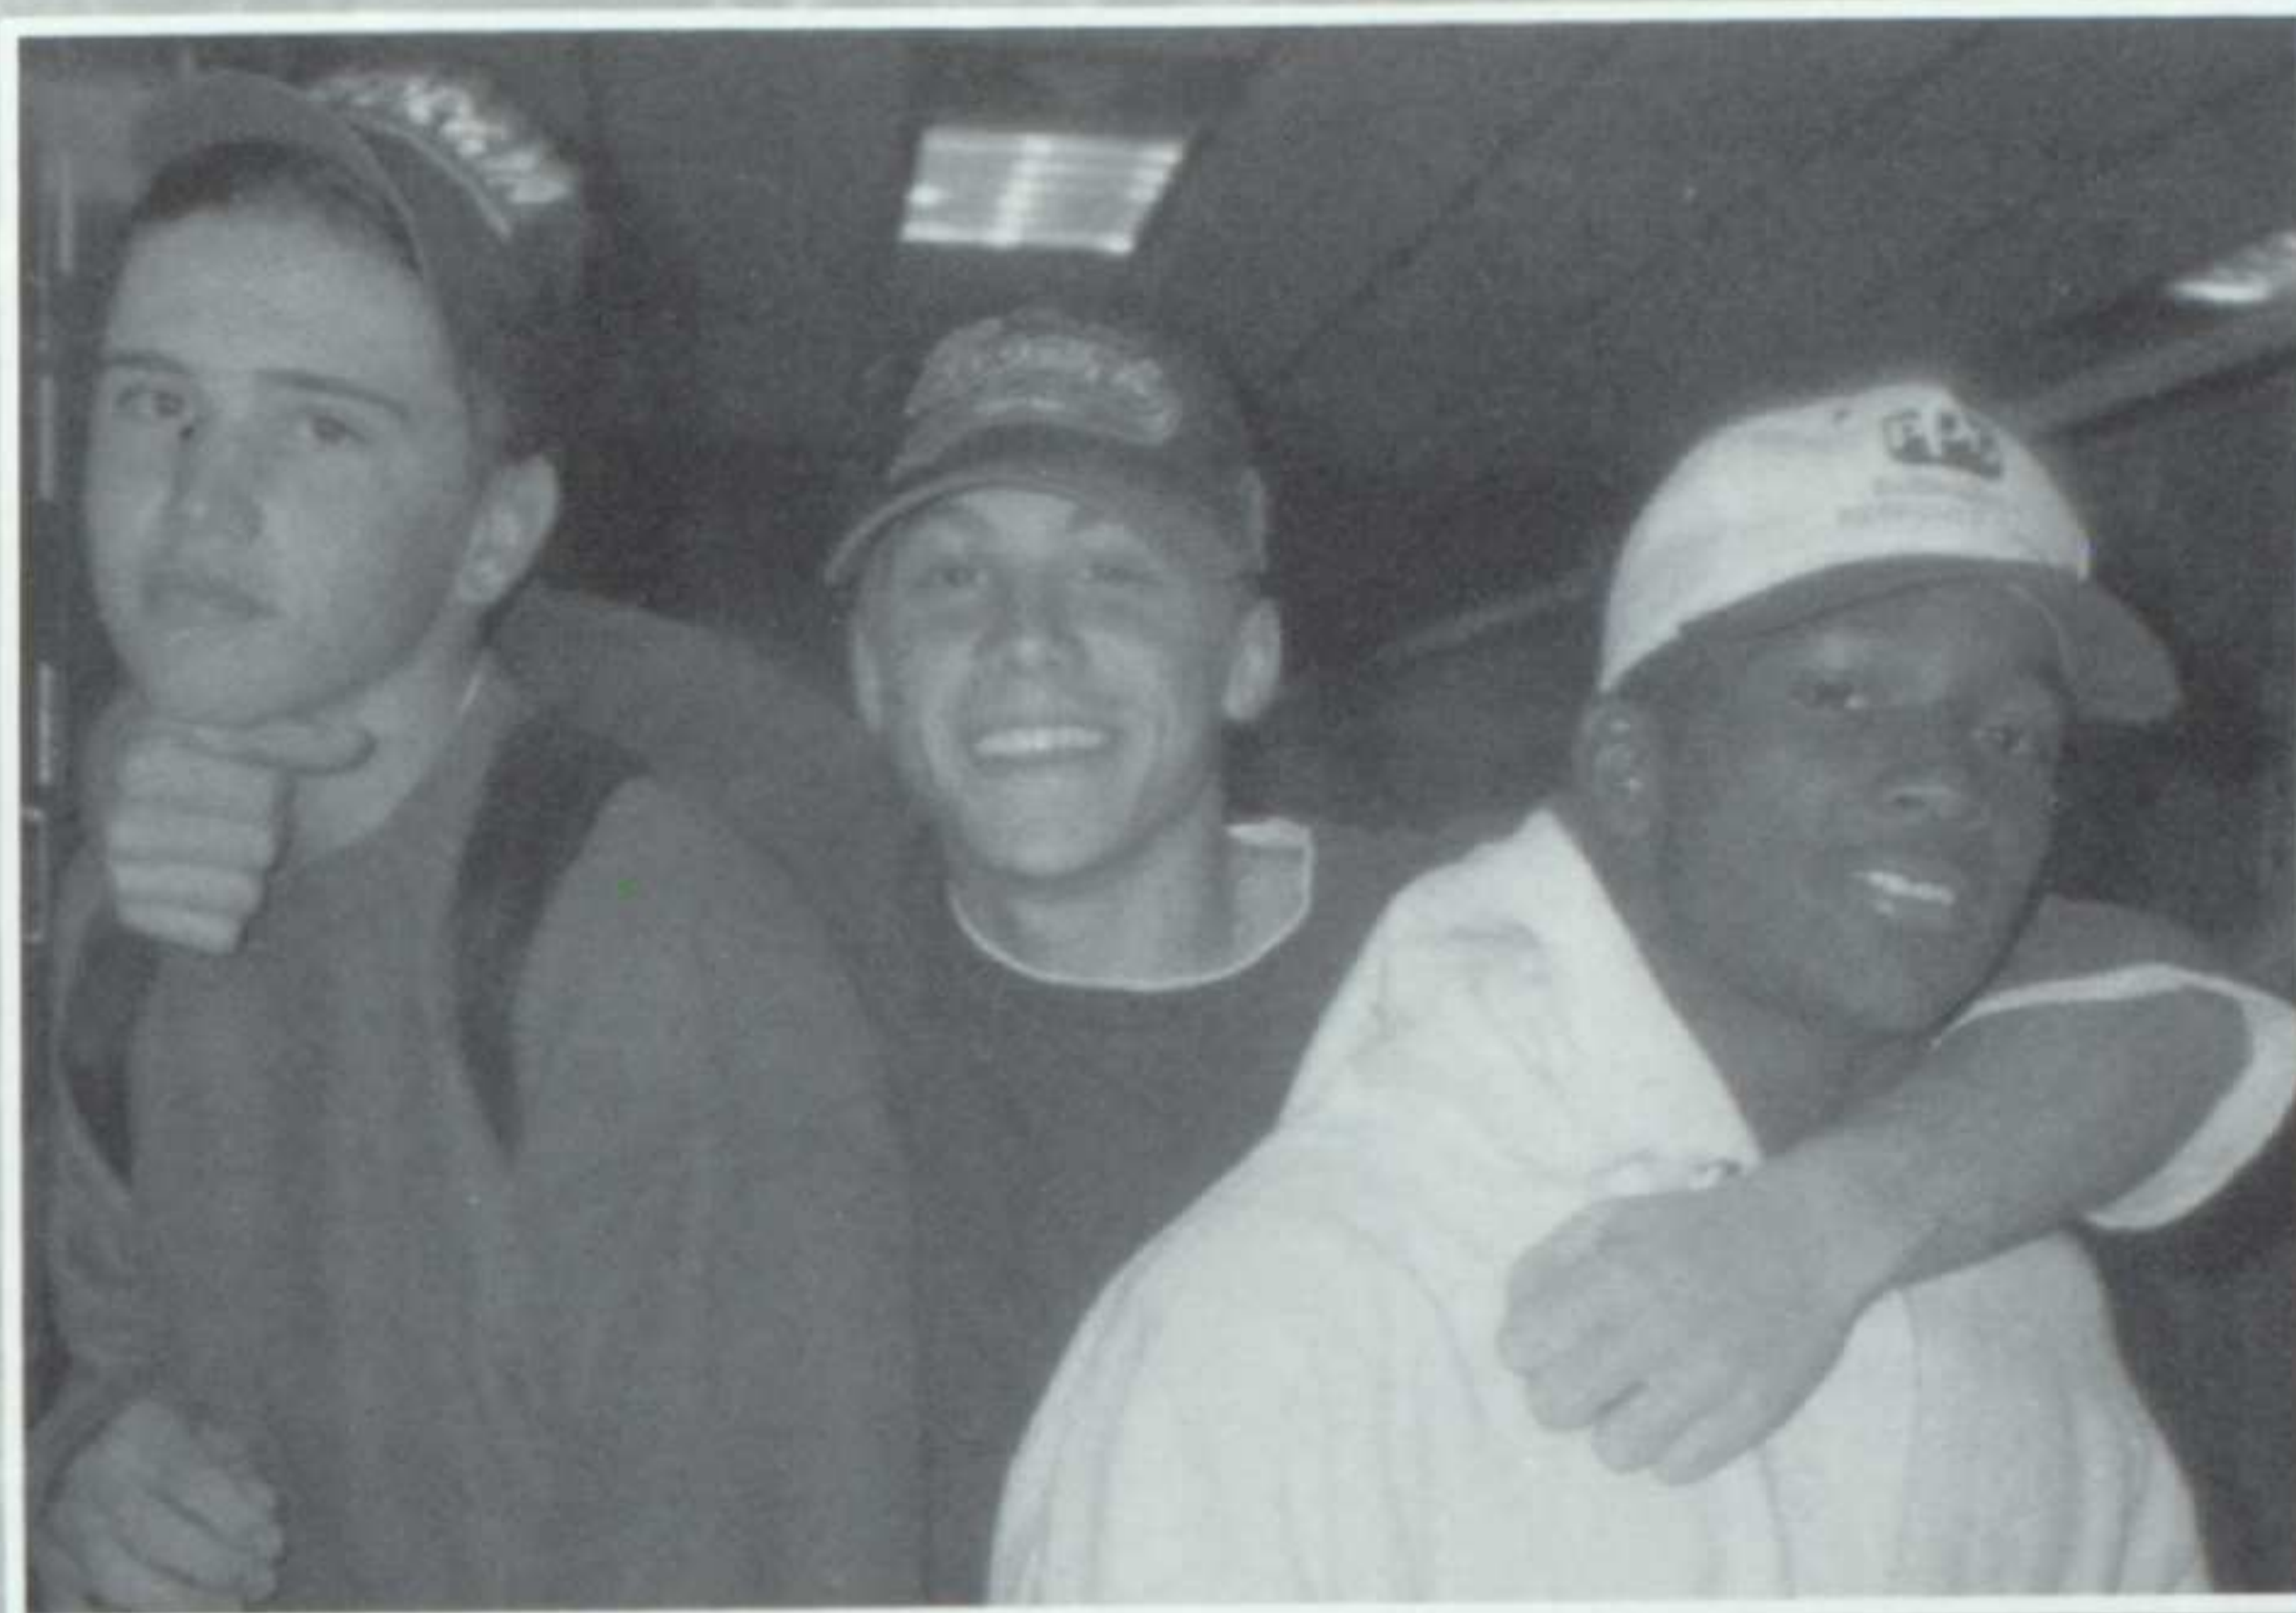

Wow, what a party animal! Sophomore Alexis Urbank shows us the other side of her.

Excited to be freshmen are Kathryn Bertram, Jessie Martin, and Abby Reed.

Tough guys, Keith Warren, Chris Freeman, and Jake Kovacks, show their brotherly love.

Showing their support for the Wolves Field Hockey team are Canady Wiley and Elaine Hern. Their presence made a great impact. The Wolves beat the Cardinals for the first time in our school rivalry.

"I'm the mac, and this is my posse," states Sean Mercer as his friends Vivek Sahai, Trevor Linnabary, Mike Leahy, Nate Young, and Mike Van Cleef gather around him in awe."

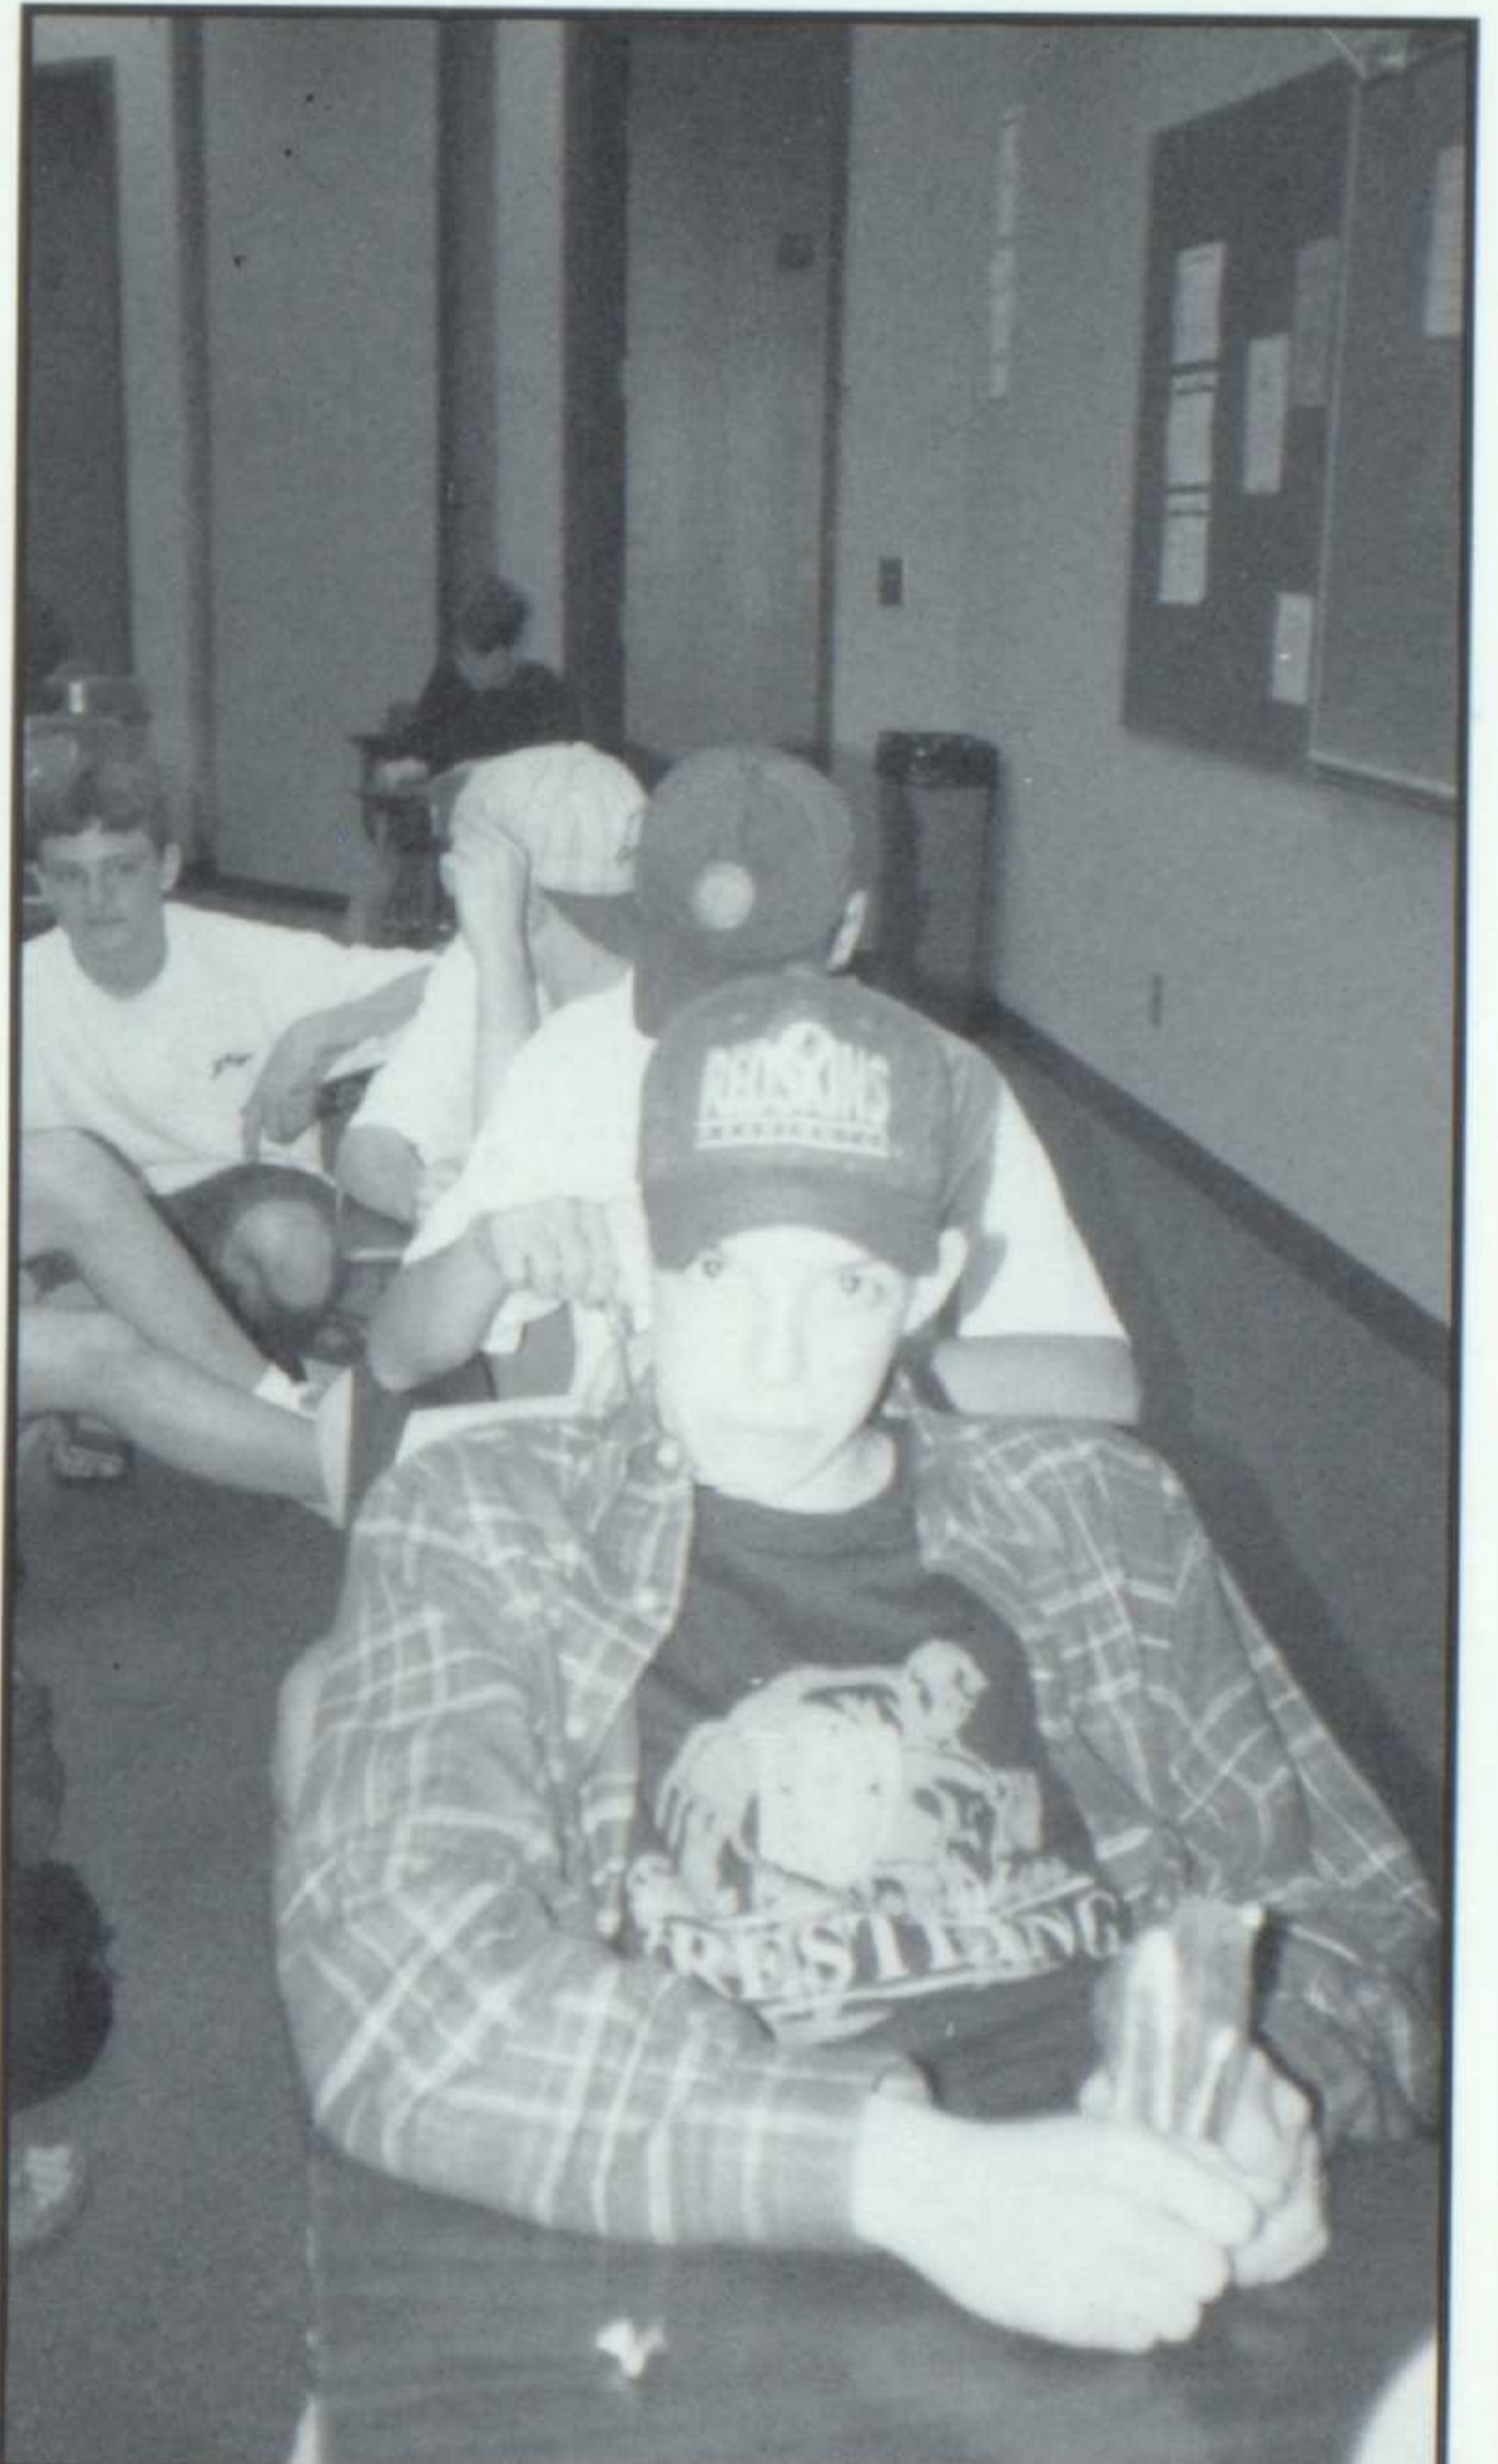

"Freshman year has been thumbs up," says Megan Draudt. Classmates Kris Eley, Nikki Crotty and Natalie Bensman are in agreement with her.

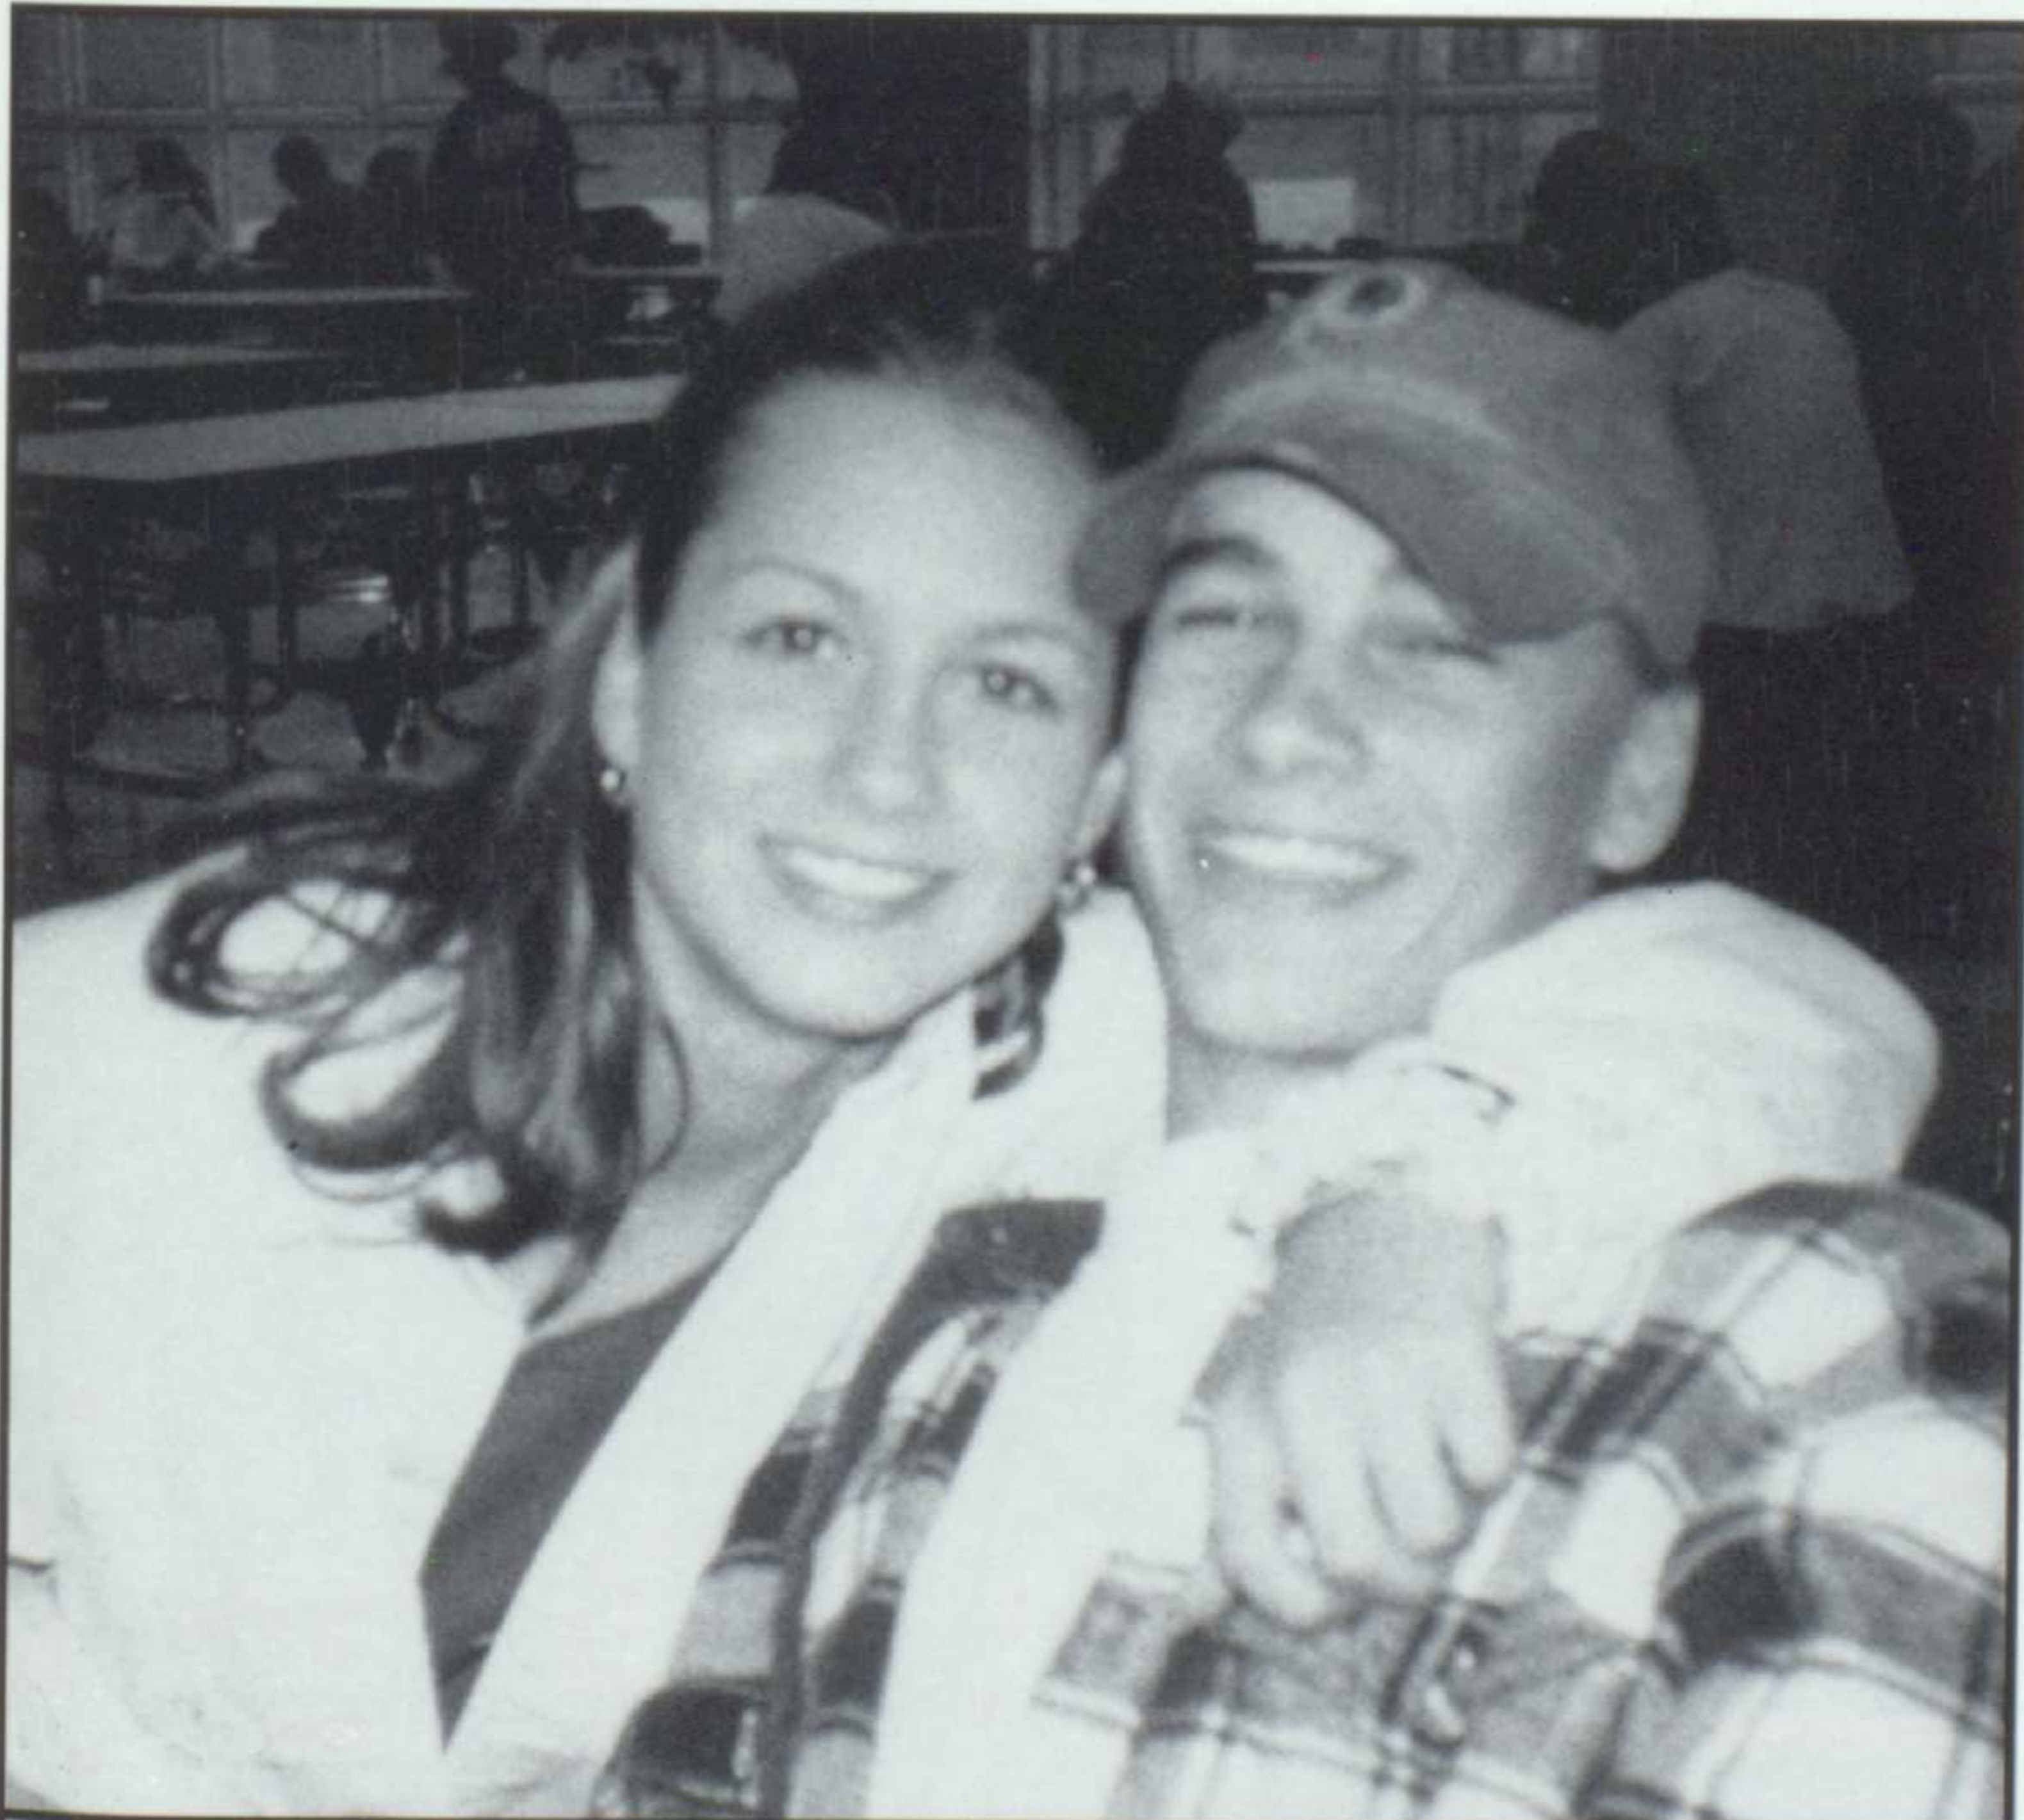

"What are you looking at?" asks Tatum Pritchard. Hasn't Jill Daugherty ever seen Santa Claus before?

"These suckers are so good!" exclaims Jenny Korn and Sarah Gibson. Maybe you guys can get a contract for modeling blow pops. Good luck!

"Do I look happy to be here, NO!" Freshman Kevin West just can't wait to get out of study hall for the year.

"Some people say that we are the cutest freshmen in the school," say Tara Shoemaker and Jeremy Dusina," but actually we're the cutest freshmen in the world."

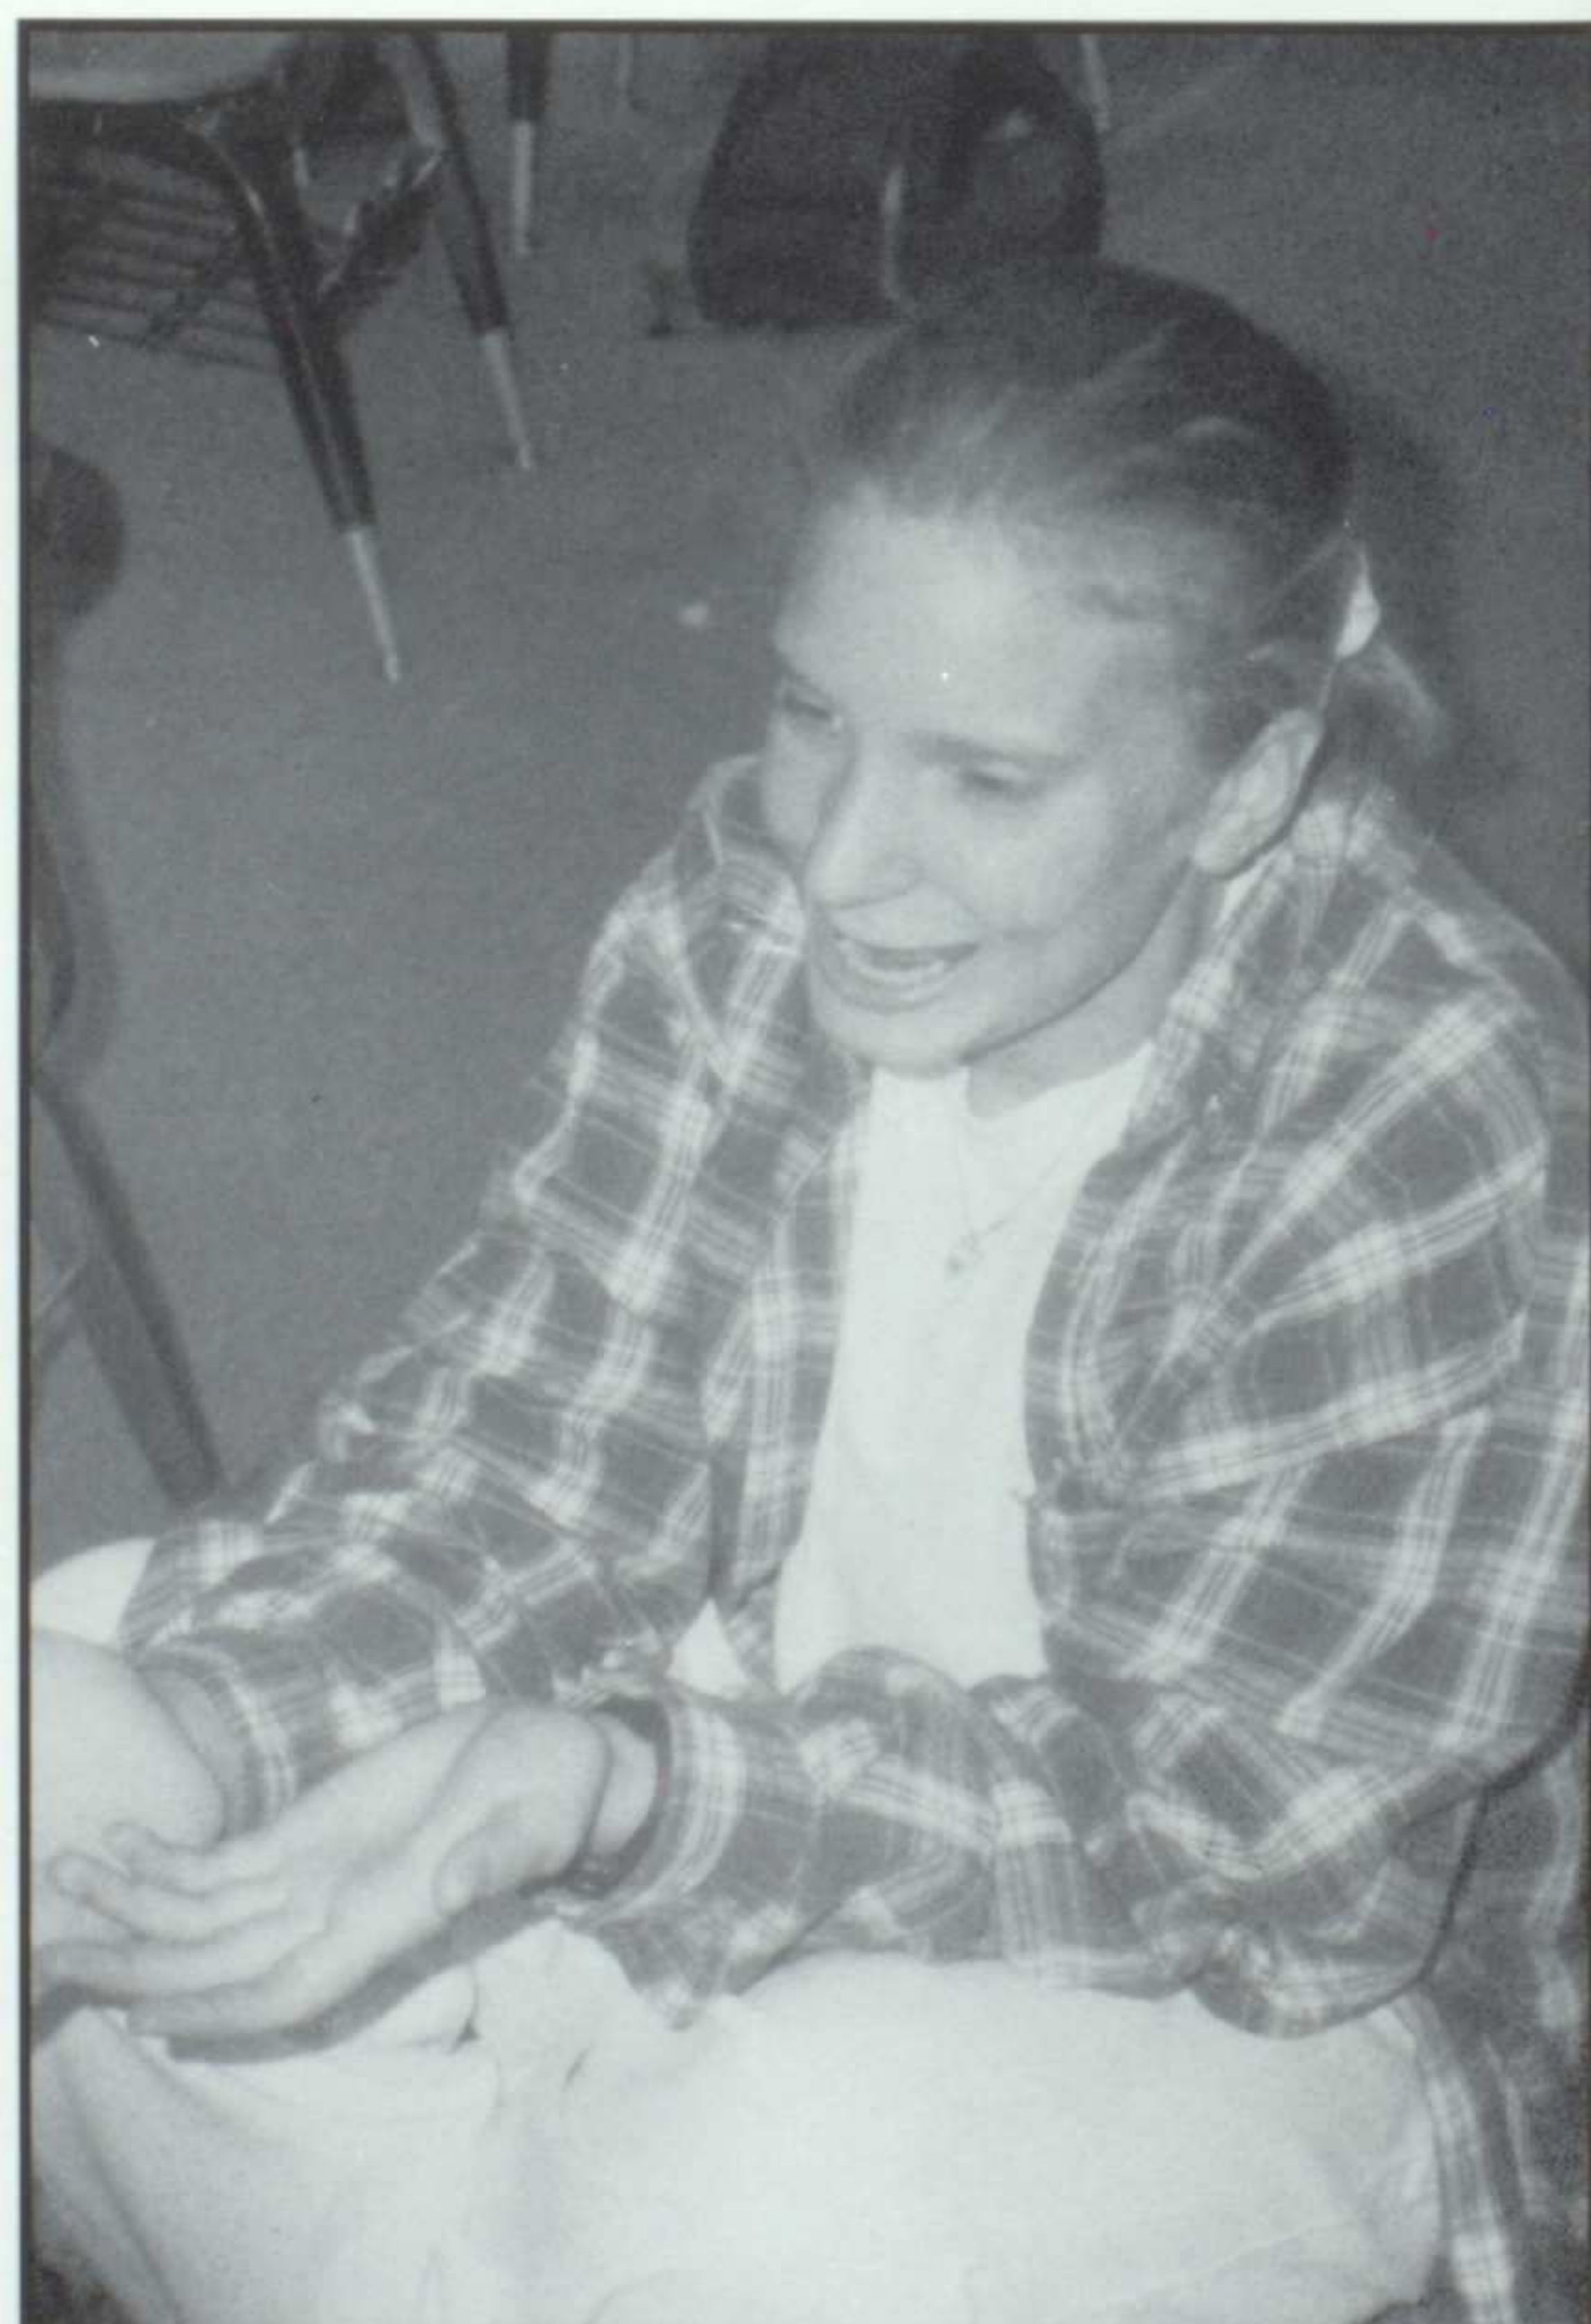

"Man, it was so great! He made the bus jump! Keanu Reeves is sooo cool!" exclaims James Hong to his friend Cory Jacobs.

"No! I refuse to take another picture. All I've done is take pictures throughout this evening!" exclaims Michael Gagliardi. "Just smile and take the picture. Pretend that you're having a good time like me," says his date Melissa Russell.

"I feel so loved," says Chris Wiess. "Dan Milnor and Kristy Chapman will just have to fight for my attention."

"I just don't know what he is talking about. I know I didn't skip study hall all last week, but Mr. Johnson just will not believe me!" exclaims Darcy Burdette.

FRESHMEN

"Bring on anything, I'm ready for you!" Mandy Slater takes her stance and warns her competition. What little competition she had because half of the school decided to go home instead of showing their school spirit and participating in Wölfapalooza.

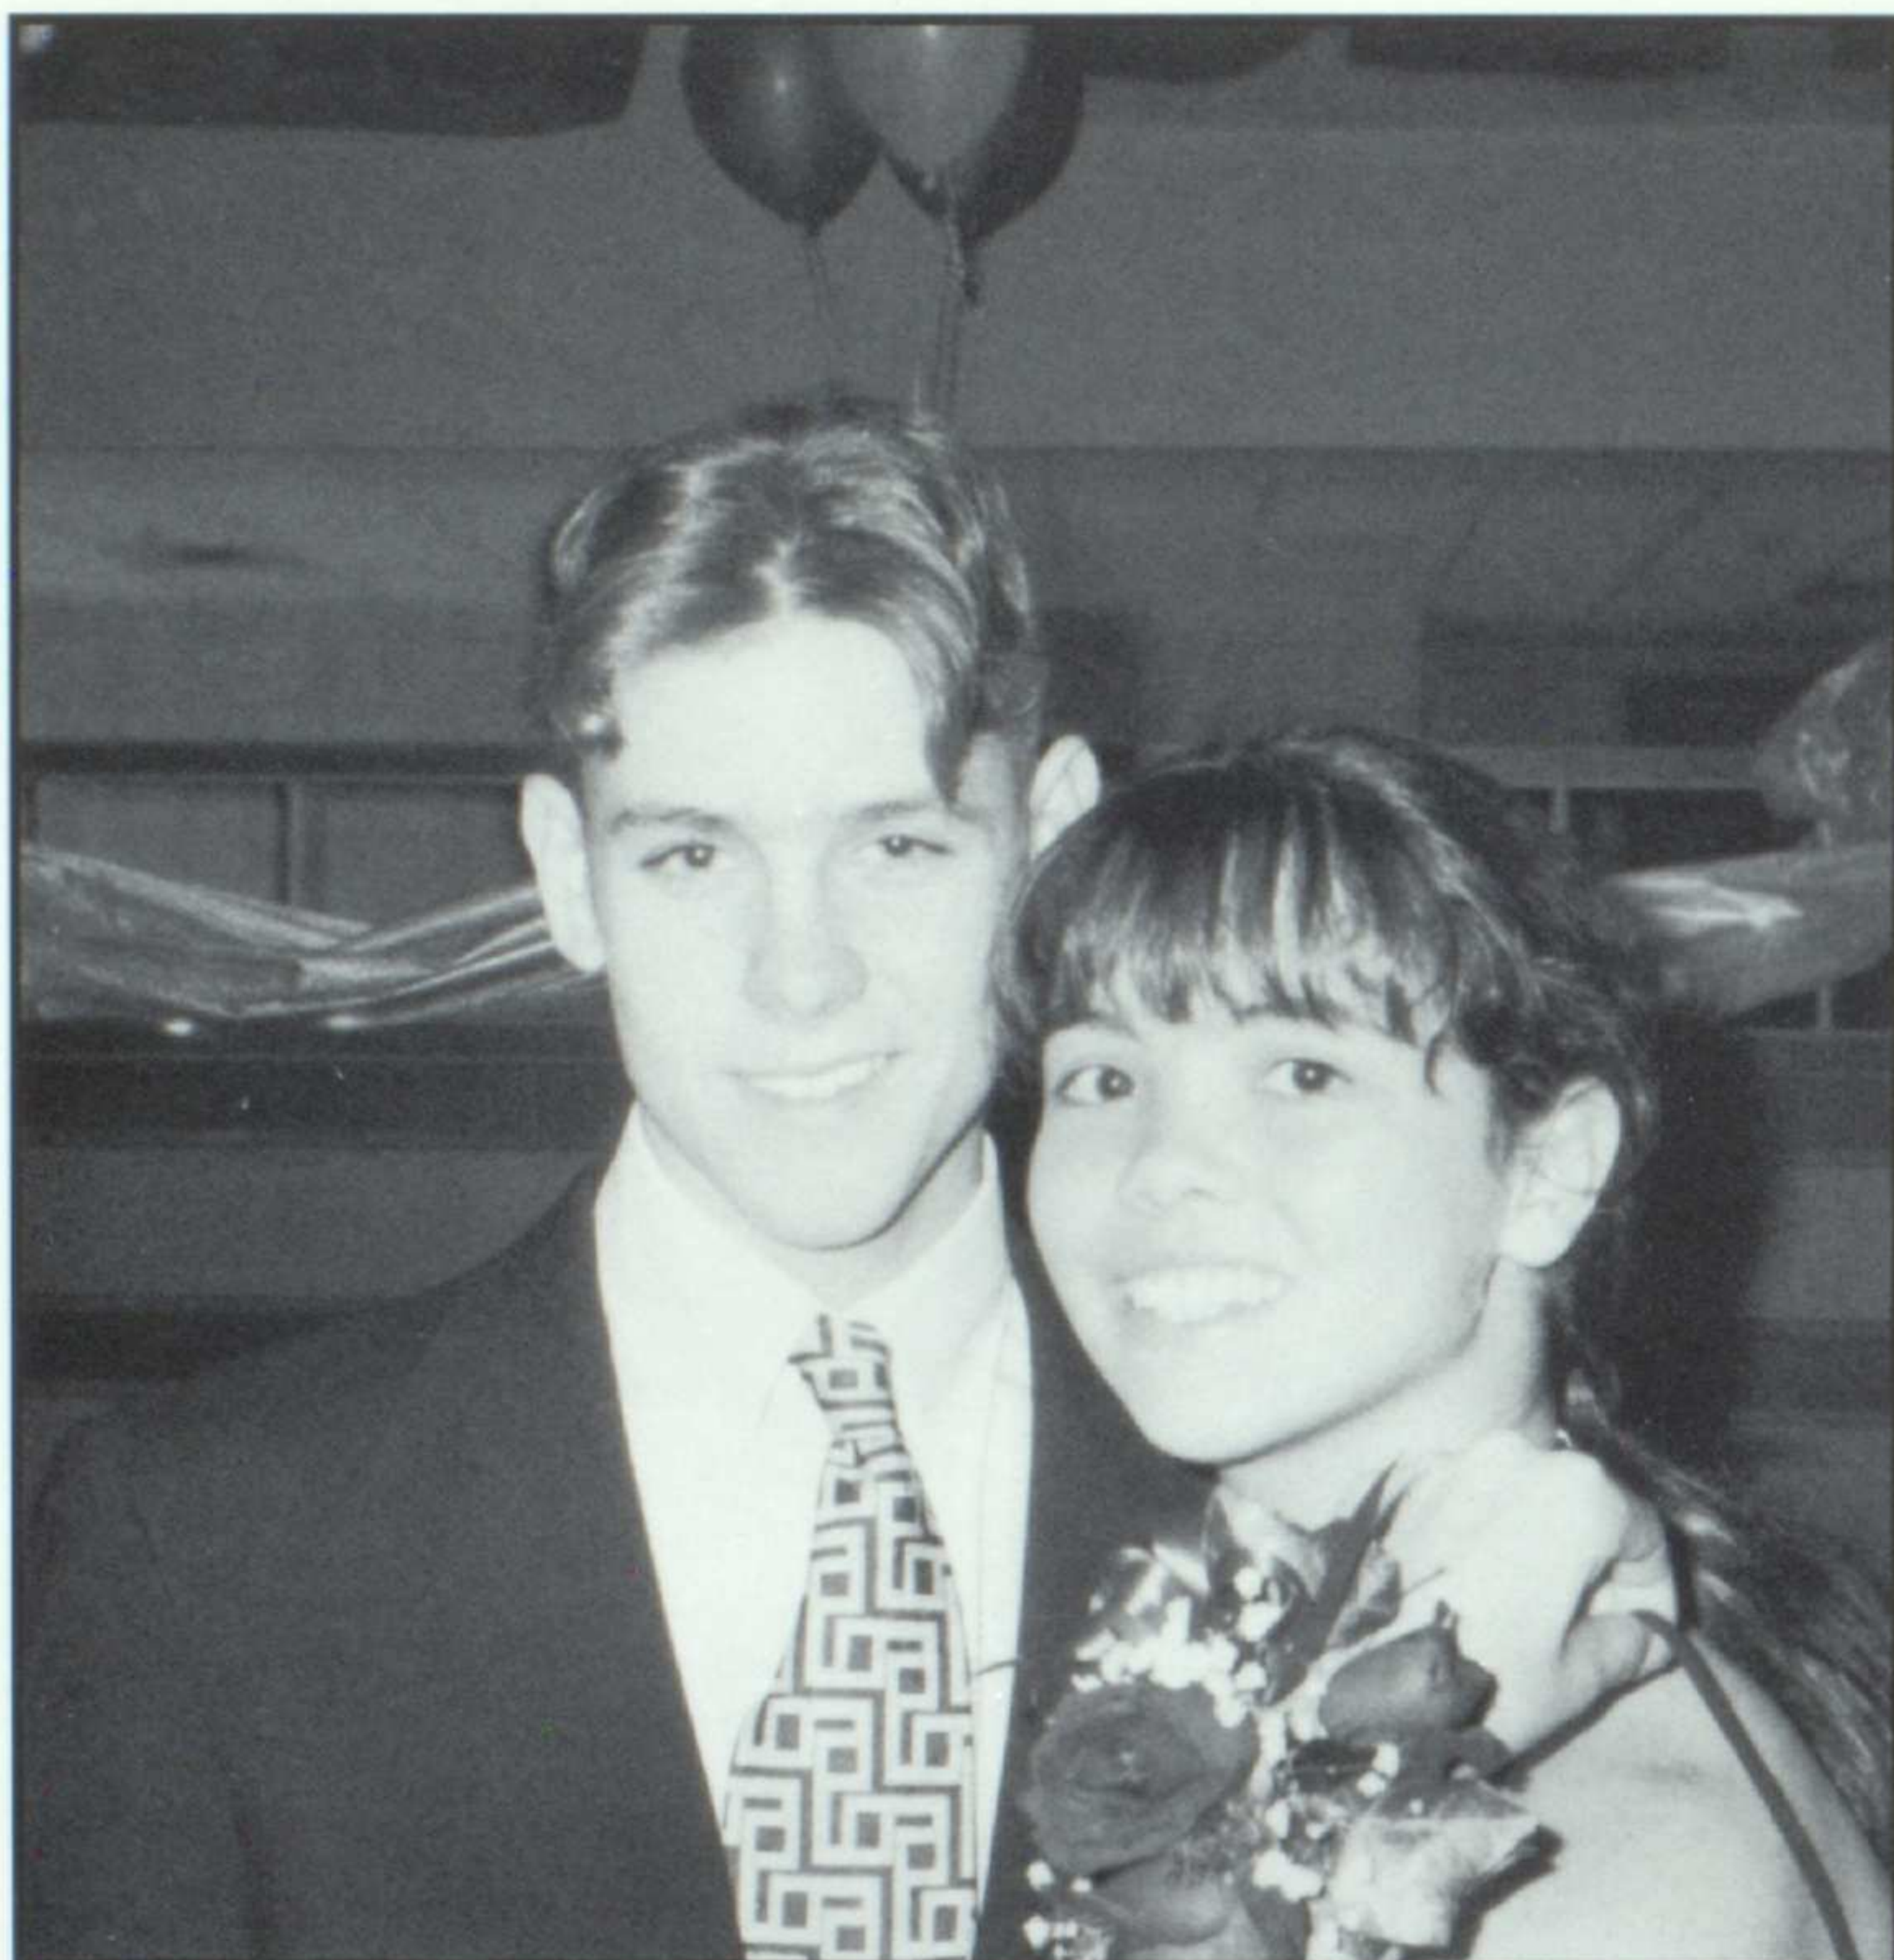

"Ah, yes. It's another beautiful day in the neighborhood." says Justin Groves. "Too bad it's not the first place I'd pick to be."

Proving that the bonds of friendship are only an arms length away are Canady Wiley, Tracy Macaulay, Gretchen Walcott, Noelle Vikre, Jenny Korn, Kelli Hartig, Sara Montgomery, Tara Shoemaker, and Sean Mercer.

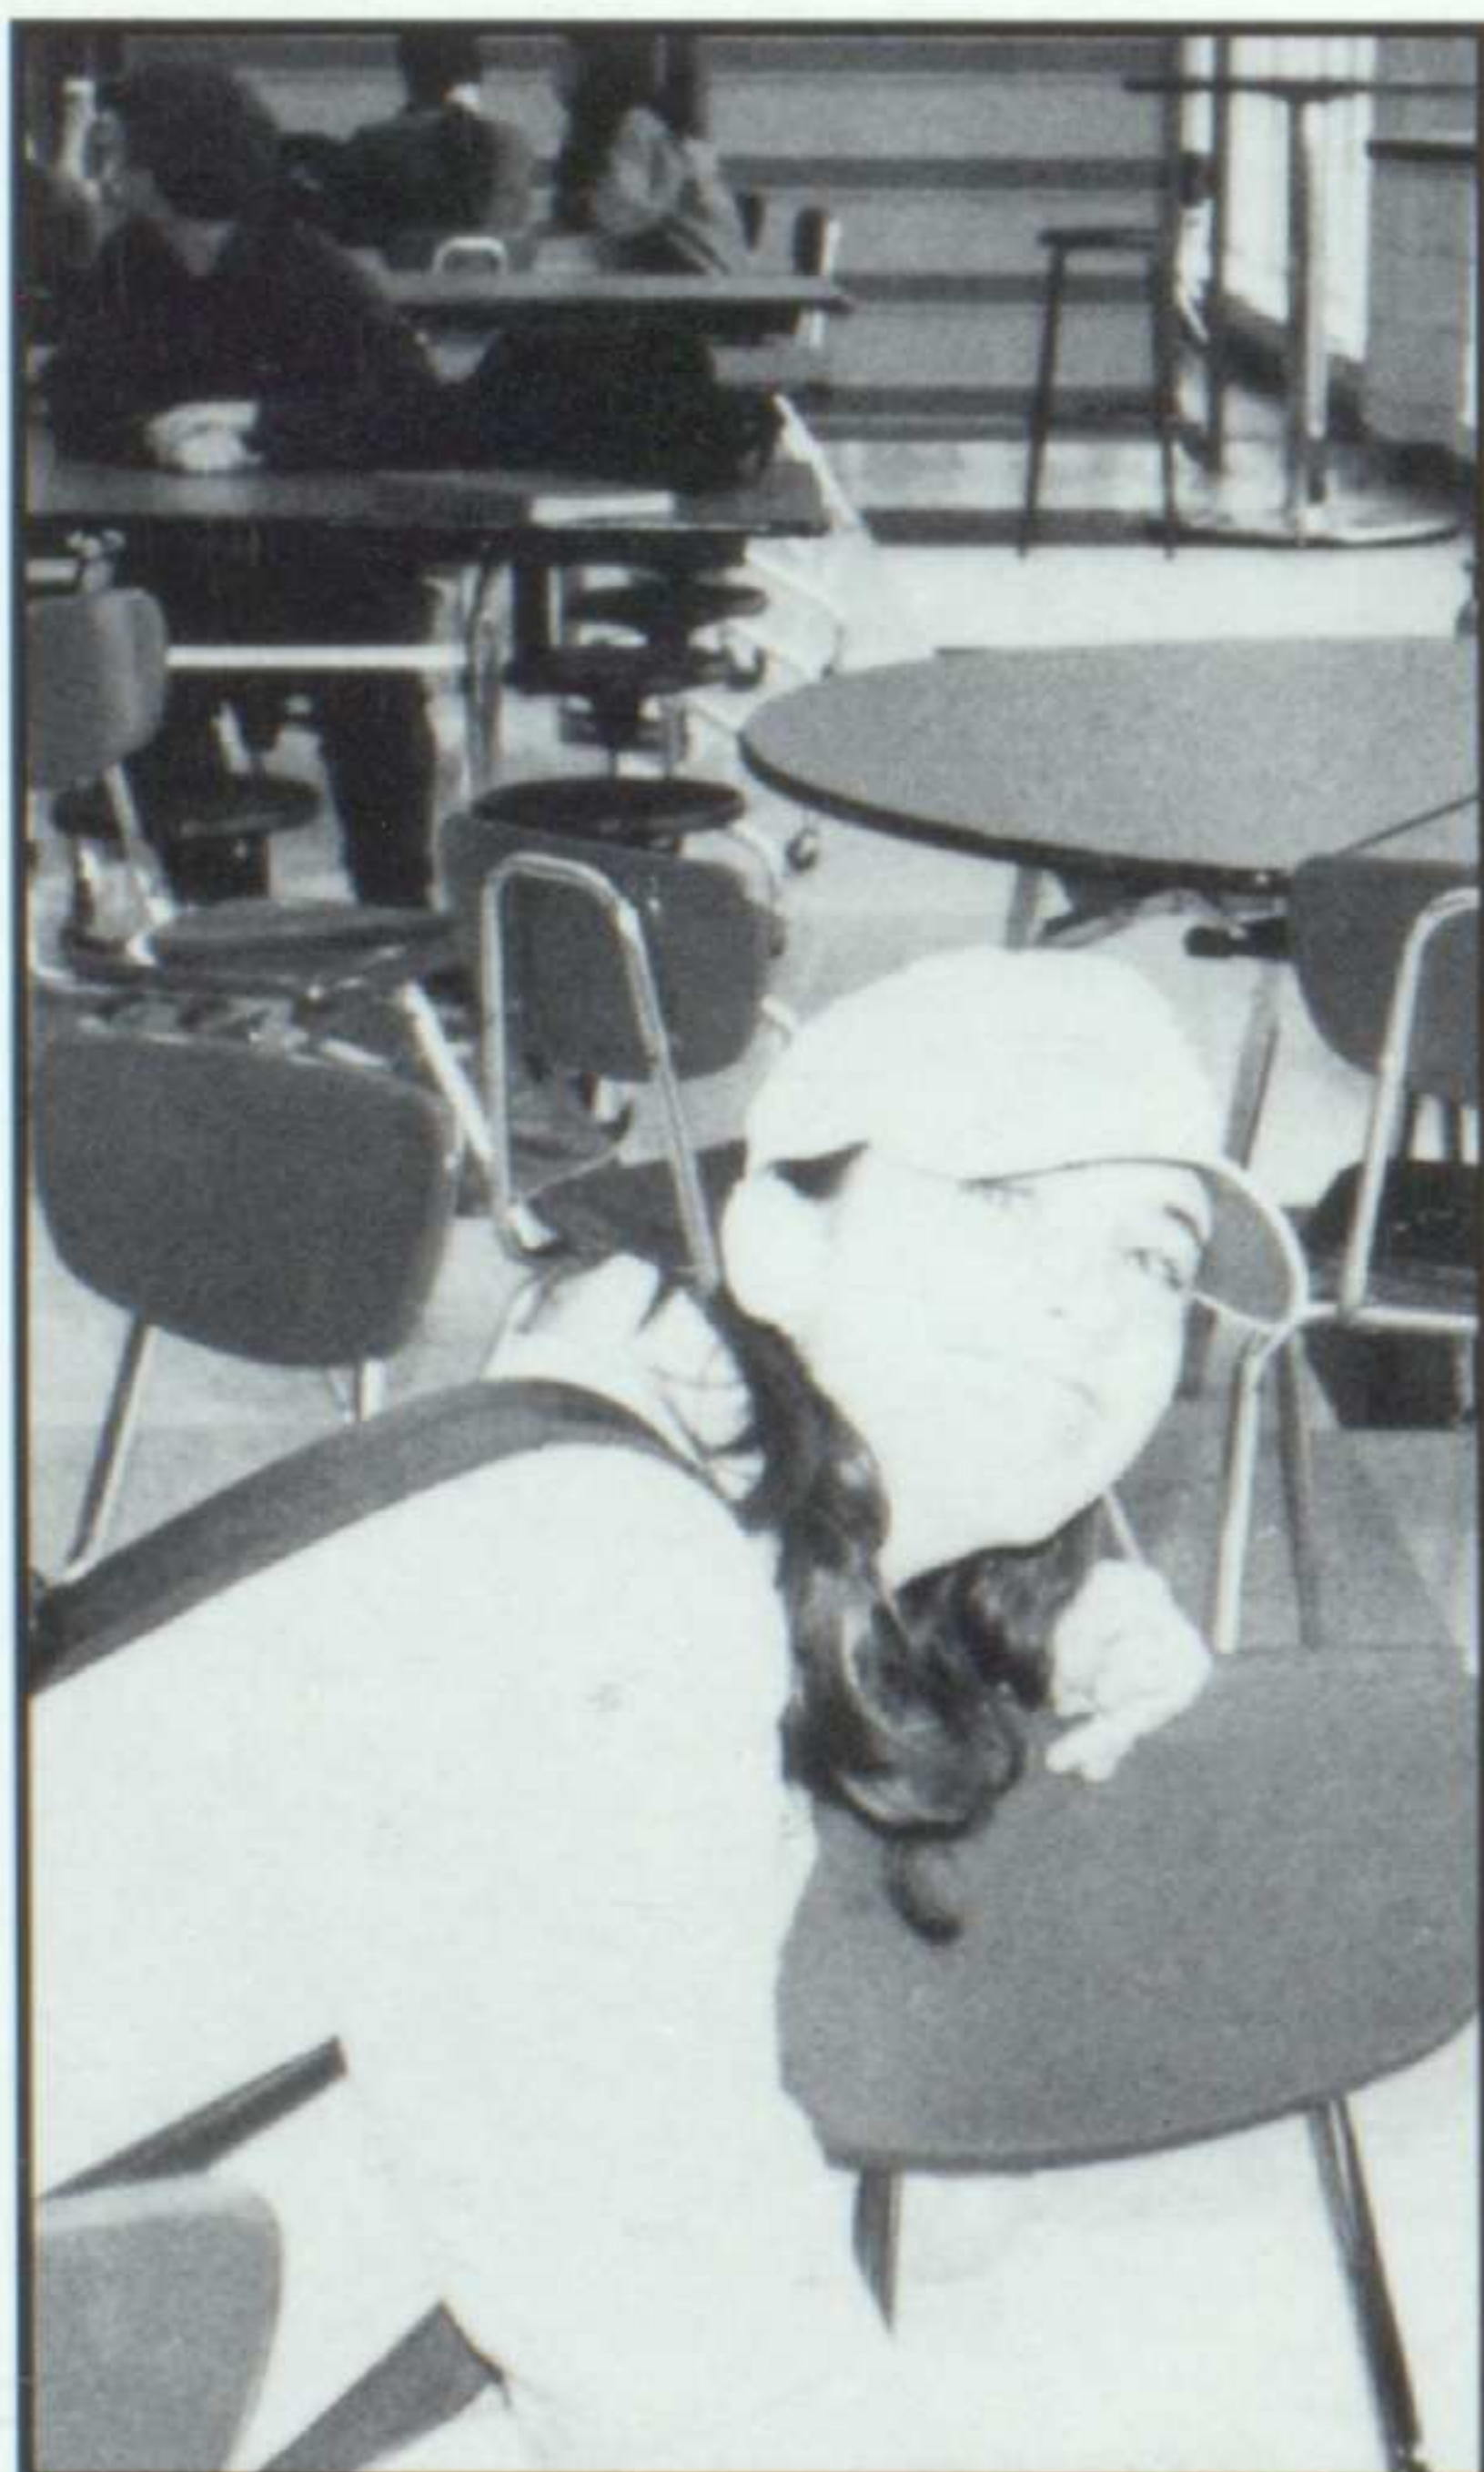

Getting a suntan and listening to the music are Jenny Garrett and Krista Freudeman. The festivities from Wölfapalooza have just worn them out.

"What are you looking at?" asks Stephanie Miller of her date JP Brewer. "Haven't you ever had problems with your dress straps before?"

"Ouch! You're squeezing me too tight," exclaims Kristy Chapman under the grip of date Andy Gerling. "I can't help it," he tells her. "You are just too cute to let go of."

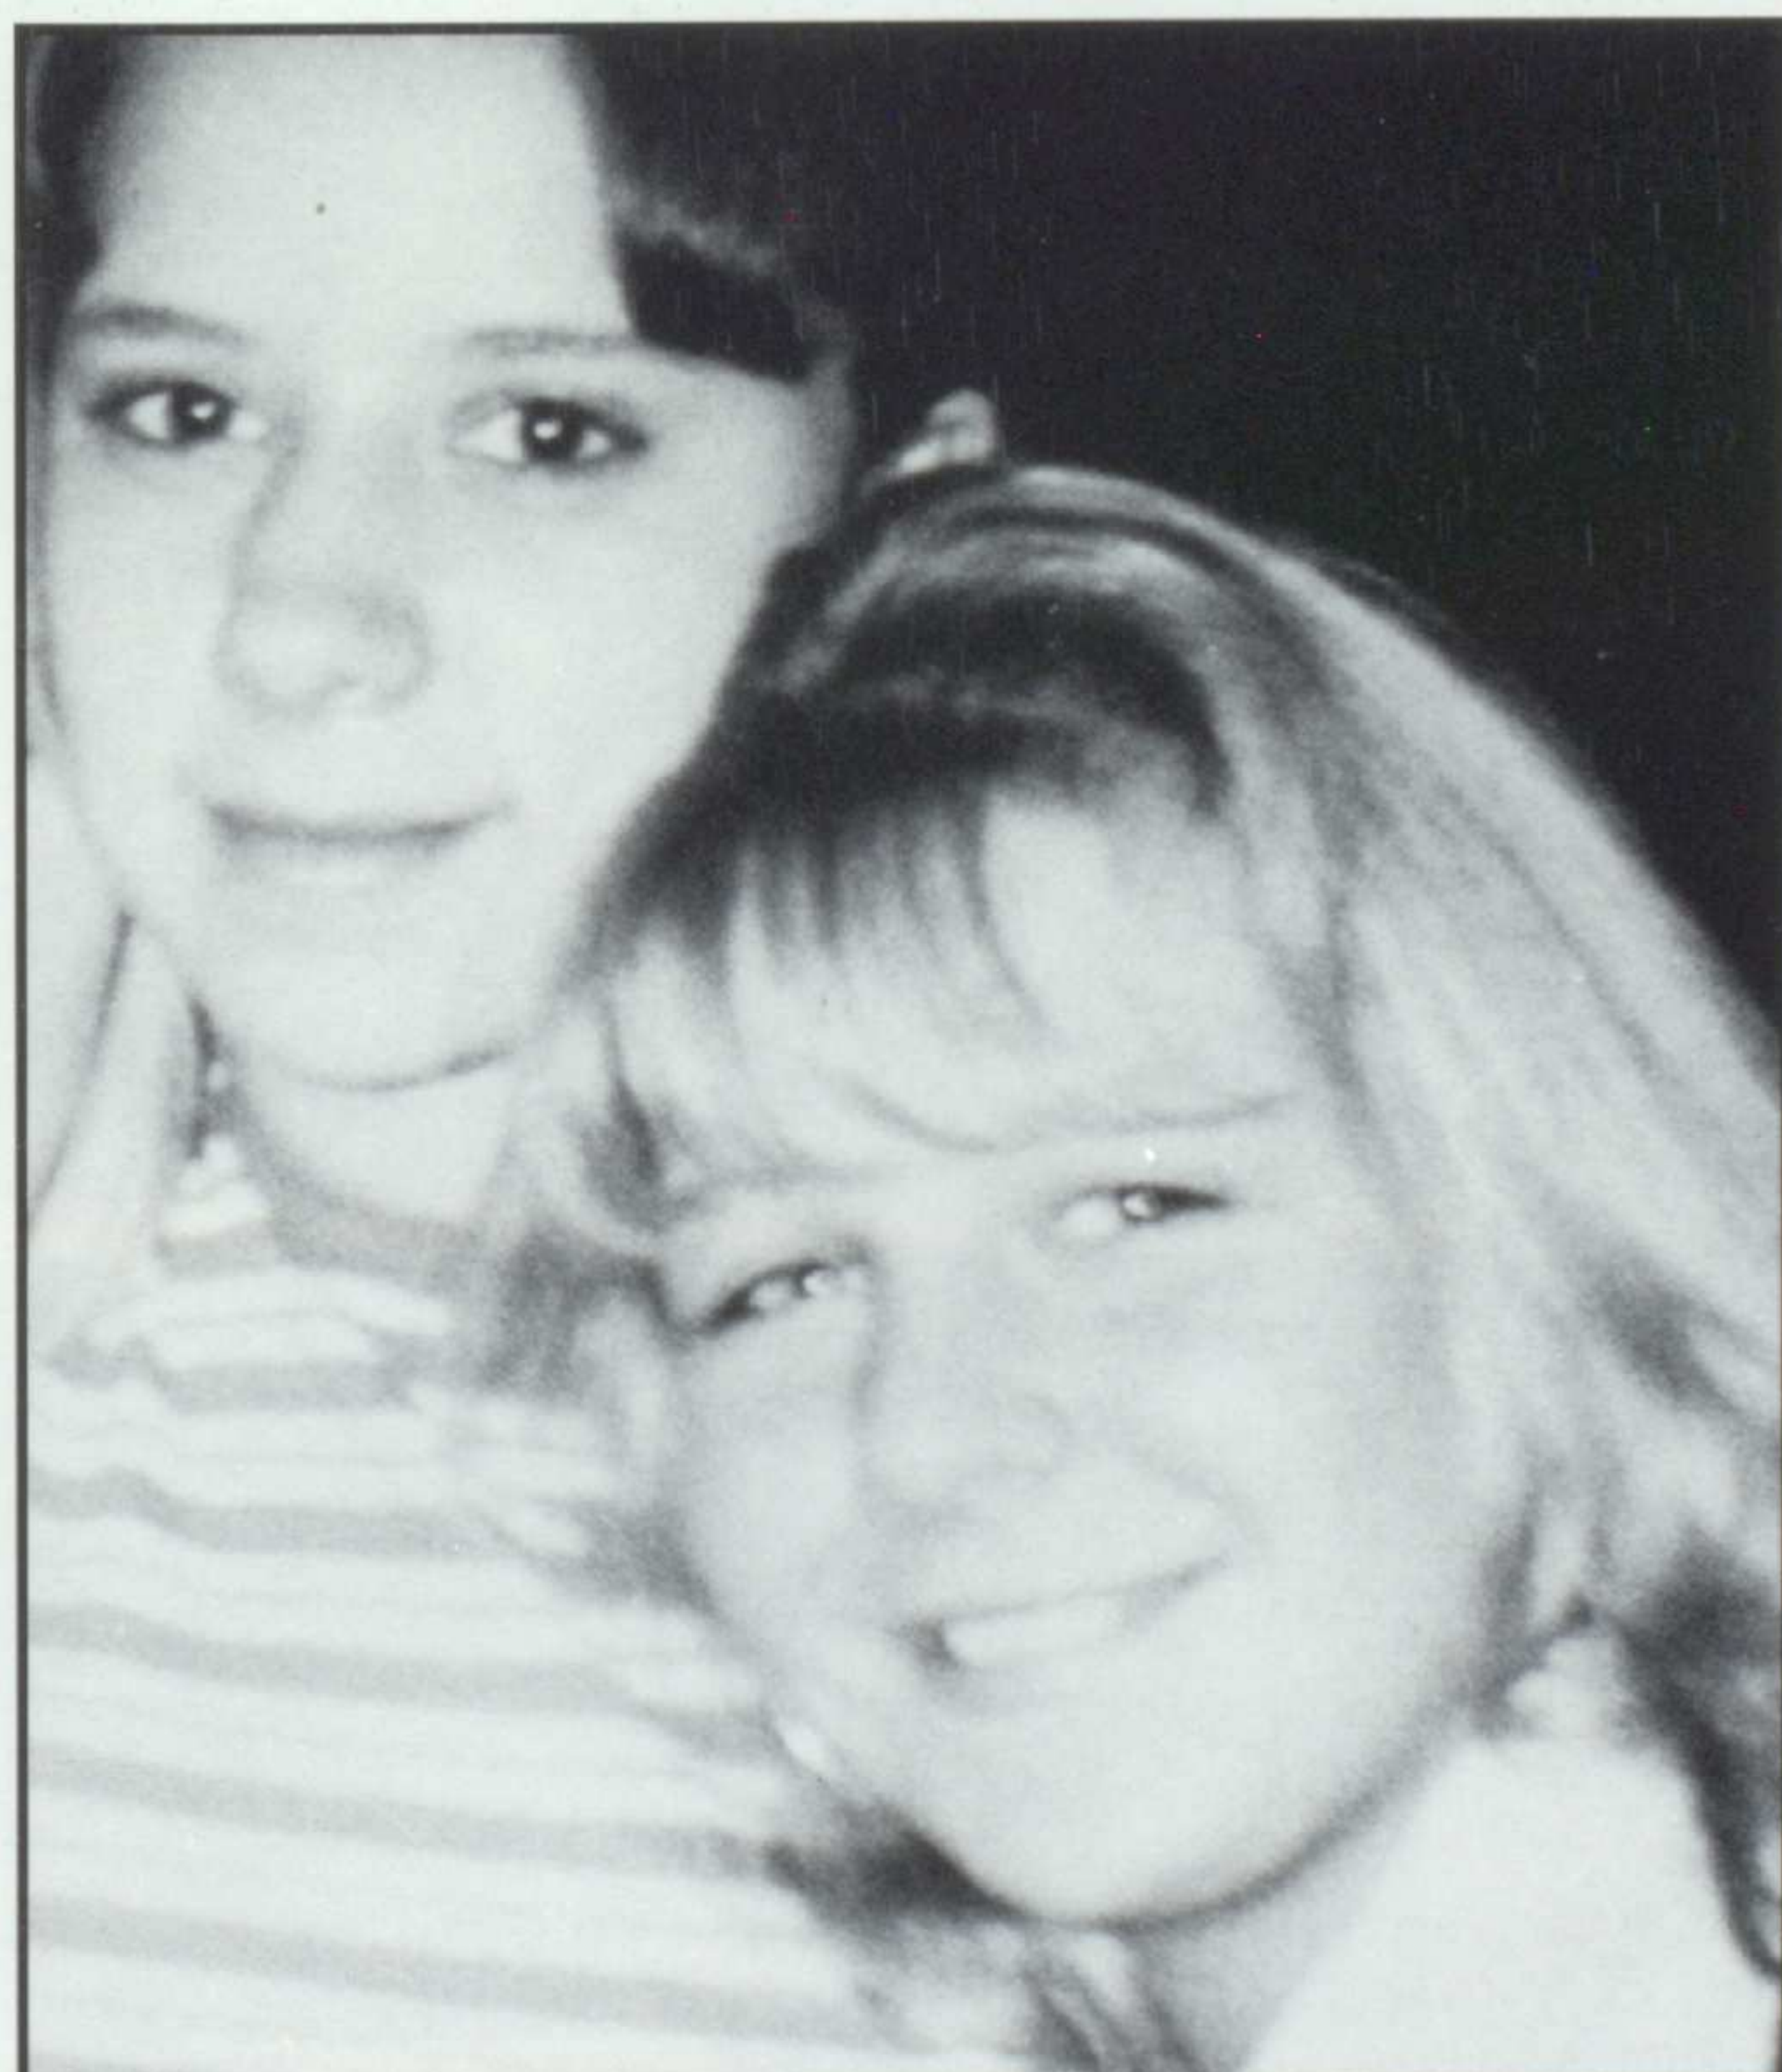

"Did you say cheese or cheesy?" wonders freshman Lisa Kuhn as she takes a lunch break to flash us a smile.

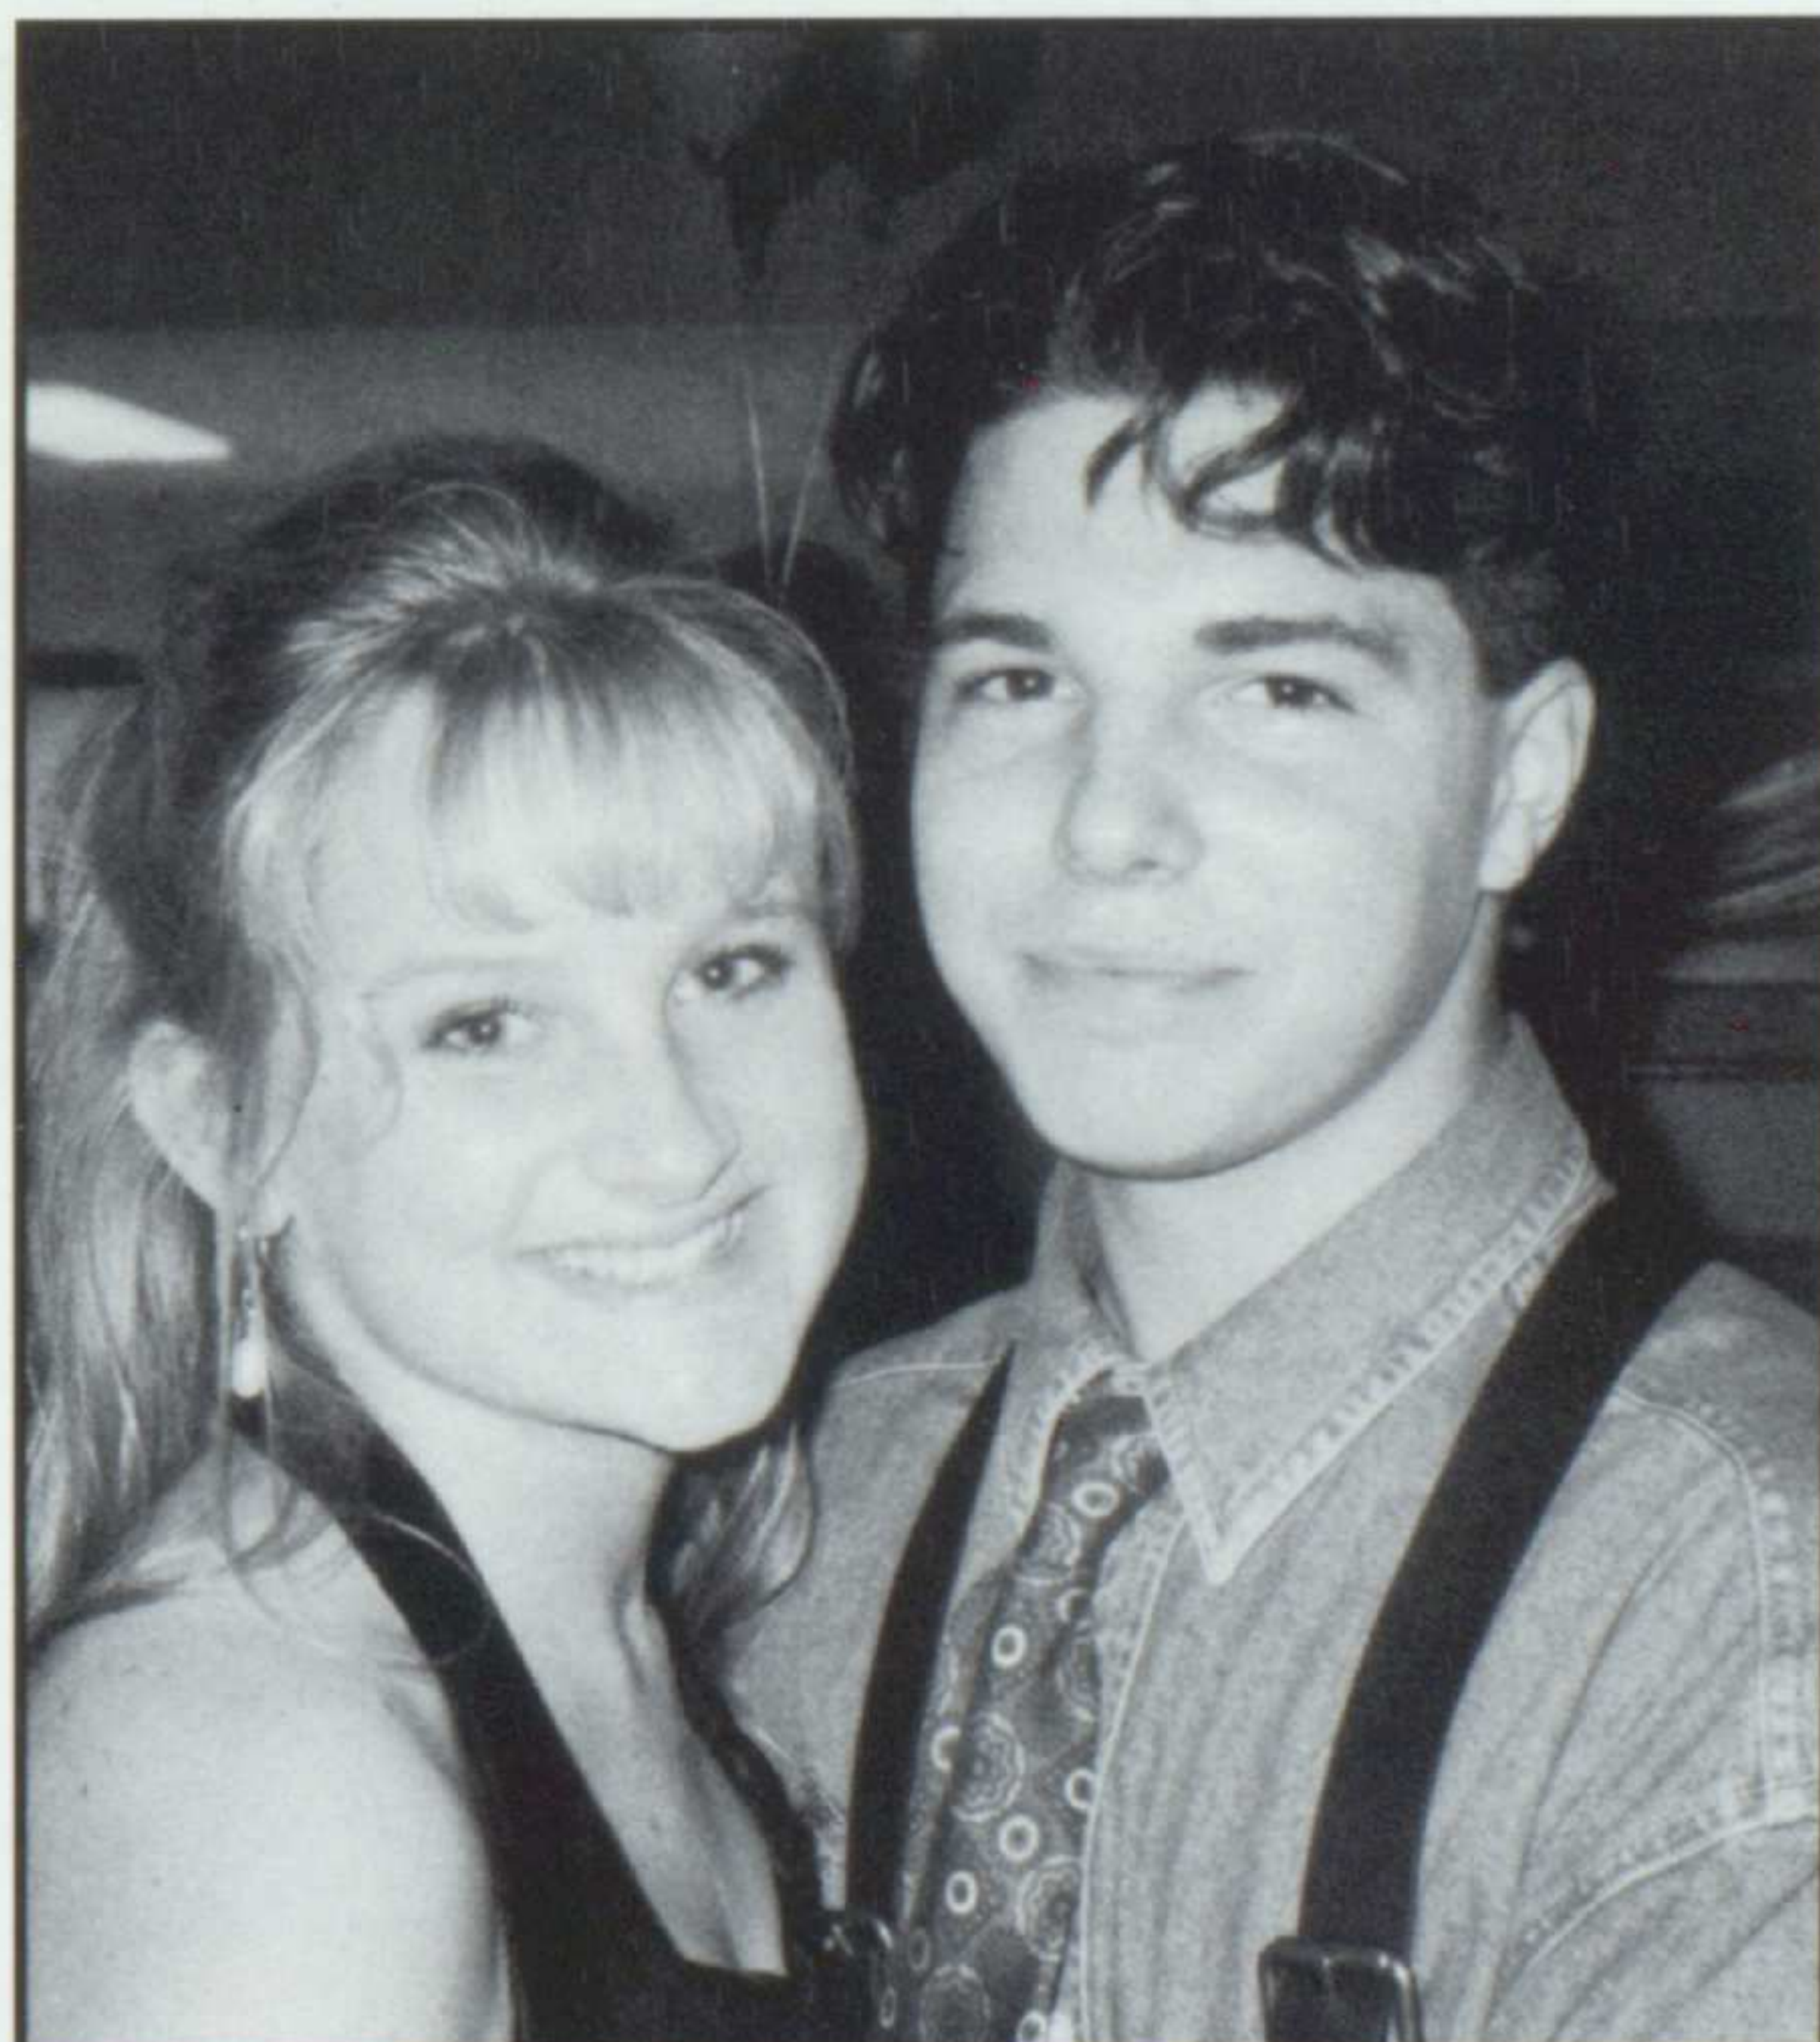

Pretending to pay attention to the ramblings of Mr. Wisard, Ed Canady is actually remembering that last wild Metallica concert. Wasn't that Mr. Wisard who jumped on the stage and had to be taken away by security? Guess not.

"Yeah, that was me," explains Jessica Carvey to her friends Sara Rothermel and Sarah Merriman. "I was the one who jumped over that car in the parking lot. You guys just couldn't tell because I was wearing my disguise." Her friends just look on in amusement, knowing this is just another one of her stories.

Trying to decide whether or not to go to class today are Shannon Hodge and Corey McCarthy. You girls better think this over. There are teachers patrolling the hallways in every corner of the building.

"Hurry up and take the picture already," says Stacey Mustard through gritted teeth. At least her date Nate Young seems a little more cooperative.

I'M LATE, I'M LATE, I'M LATE FOR A VERY IMPORTANT DATE!! If you ever have the urge to look for the White Rabbit, just ask Linworth student Sam Clanton. He'll point you in the right direction. His friends seem to agree on his expertise.

HMM, I WONDER WHAT SHE'S LAUGHING ABOUT!! COULD IT BE MY EYEBROW RING?? A suspicious Tony Gerling seems to be unduly worried about what Lisa Baldwin finds so amusing about this situation.

LEAN ON ME!! Linworth groupie Jen Petitti makes a great support for Kathleen Sutherland-Rice. Life sure ain't a bowl of cherries, but we will always have our friends!!

NO REALLY! KMART IS HAVING ANOTHER BLUE-LIGHT SPECIAL? I'M THERE, MAN!! Amazed at junior Katy Pierce's knowledge of the KMART community, Cassie Tate just laughs at her own ignorance on the subject. Too bad we all can't be as gifted.

HEY BABY!! WANNA PLAY WITH MY COMPUTER?? Senior Rick Aguirre has spent many hours working on his computer, and now he's ready for some fun. Rick knows that all work and no play makes for a boring date.

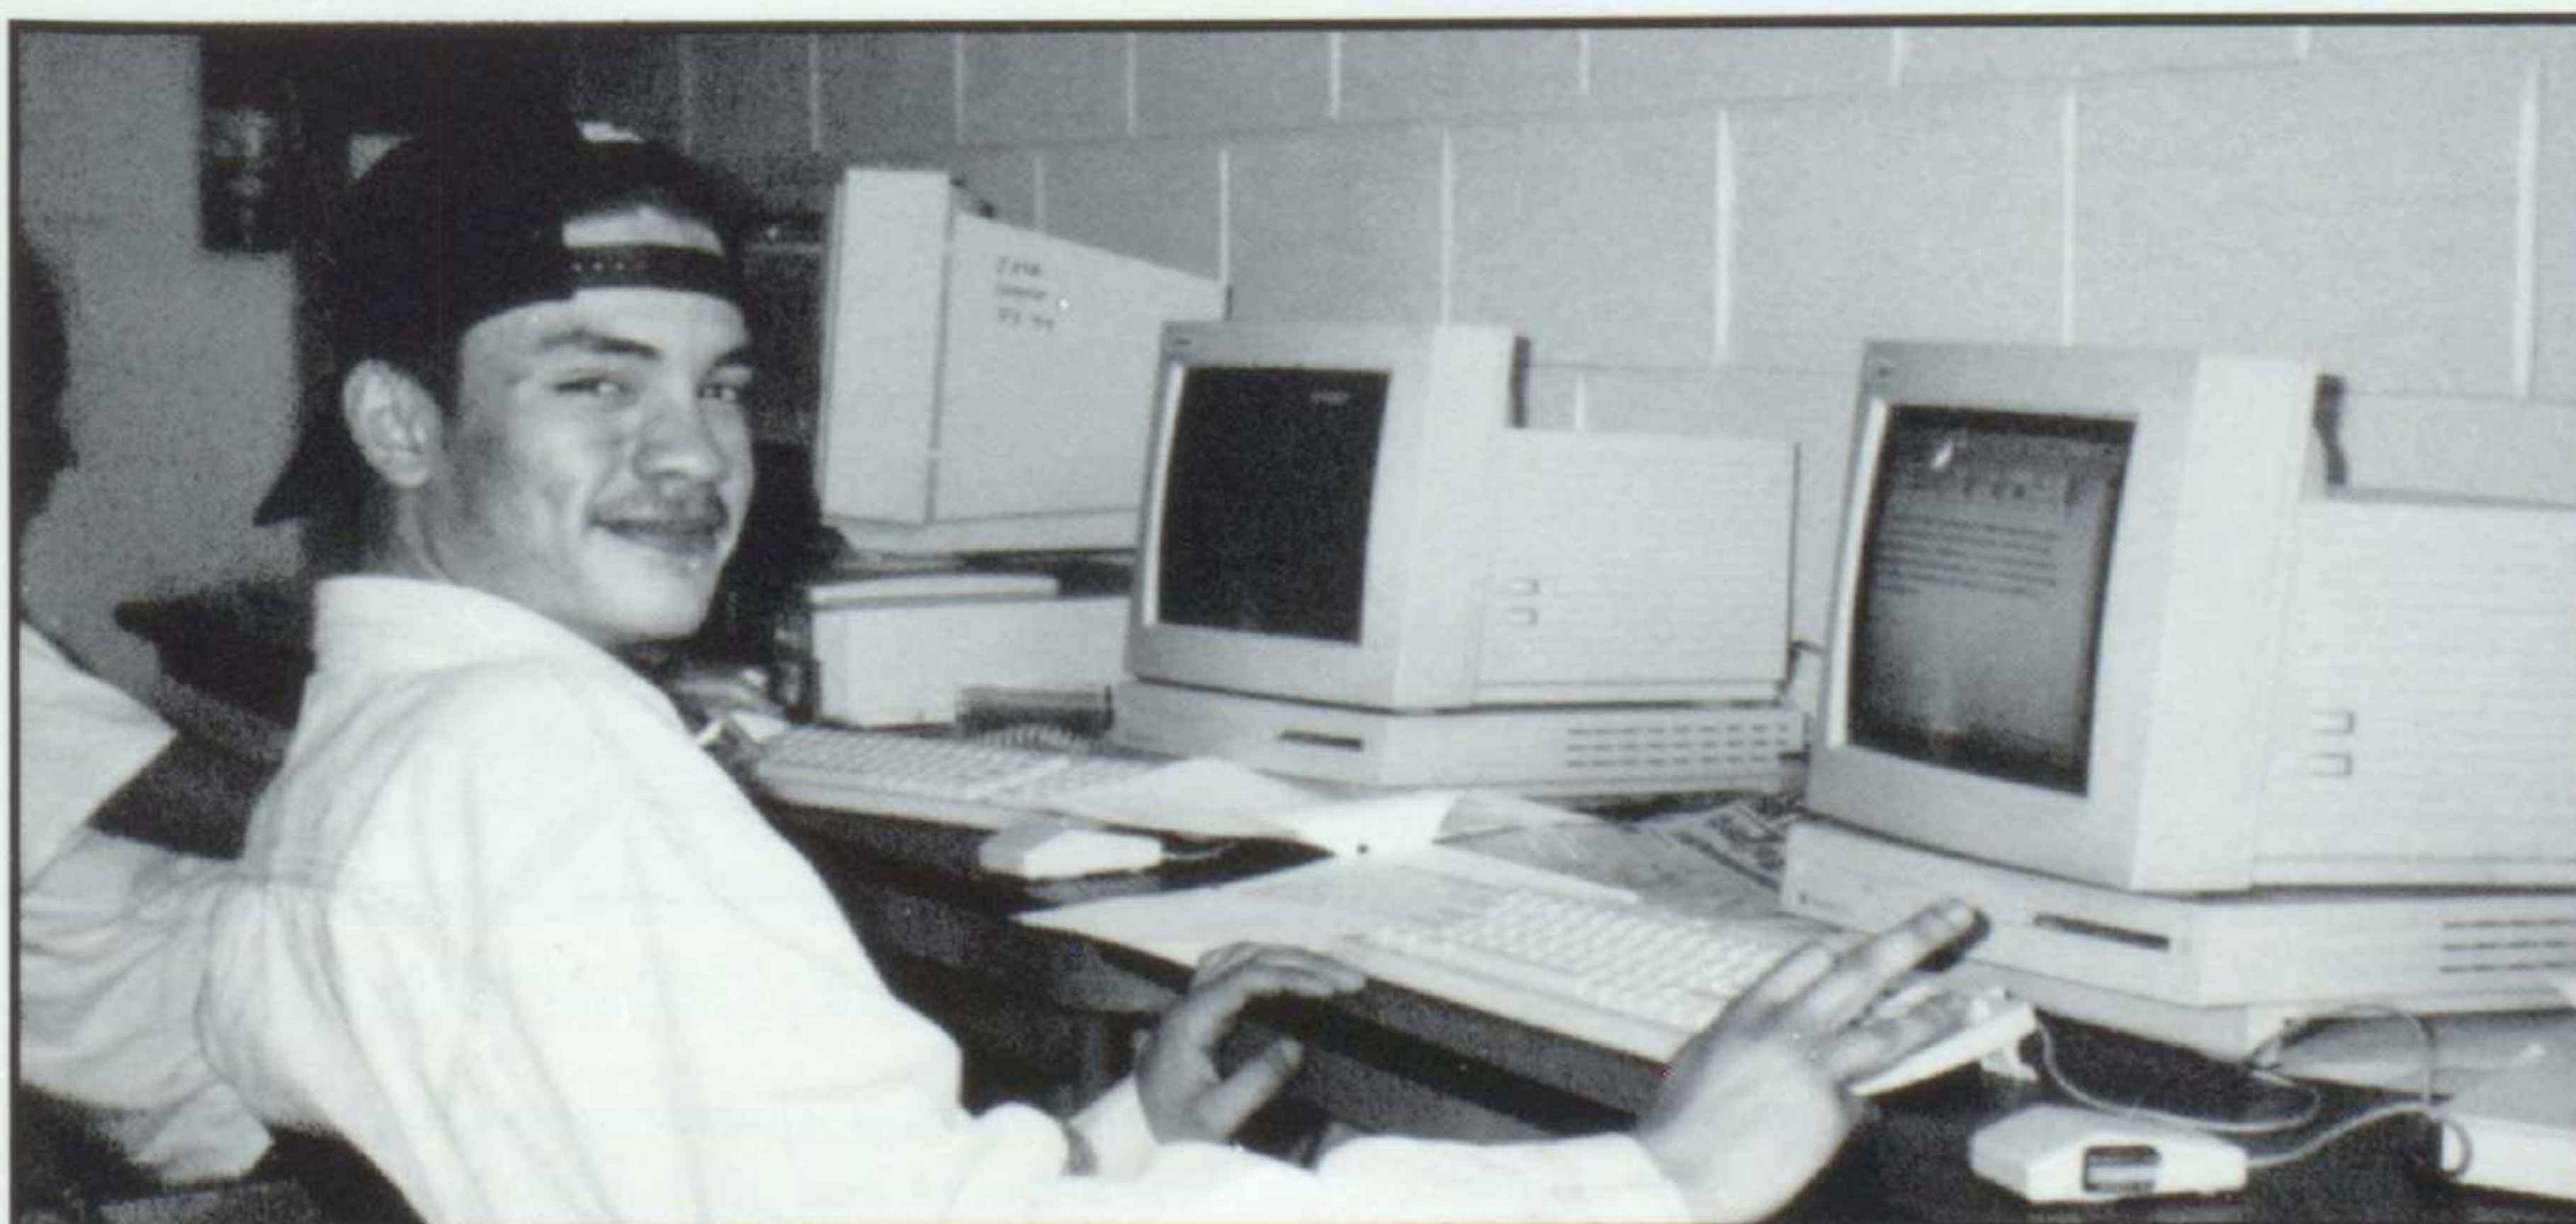

NOT THE ONLY WAY

LINWORTH
PAGES 220-223

*Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler; long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;
And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I-
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.*

- "The Road Not Taken"

Robert Frost

Linworth

A Different Experience

Walking into Linworth, we can see that the A.P. is not a typical school. The building itself is more like a house. Everywhere there is evidence of how the students have made it their home. Colorful sculptures dangle from the ceiling and elaborate murals span the walls. Even the Coke machine has a personal touch: "Welcome to Linworth, where different is a relative term."

Linworth's academic life is also very different. All students are assigned a teacher-counselor who works with them to help develop a schedule that suits both the student's interests and fulfills the State's requirements. Kathleen Sutherland-Rice and Michelle Taylor agree that this is a positive aspect of the school; they enjoy being treated as adults and not being told what to do. With only 150 students, classes are much smaller than those of the regular high schools. This allows classes to be more relaxed and less formal with the students and teachers interacting more like a big family than as authority figures and pupils. Mrs. Sweet who recently switched from teaching at the regular high schools to the A.P. enjoys the smaller environment. "I like having fewer students. It gives me the opportunity to see them a lot more, not just in class but around the school."

The unique environment of Linworth allows students to develop and share their talents. The "Den of Iniquity," an outdoor sheltered bench, and artwork on the walls demonstrate the students' talents as well as their interest in improving the school. Painted at the entrance of the school, a quotation adapted from Robert Frost's famous poem, "The Road Not Traveled," best captures the overall experience at Linworth: "Two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference."

By Michelle Martin and Sarah Thompson

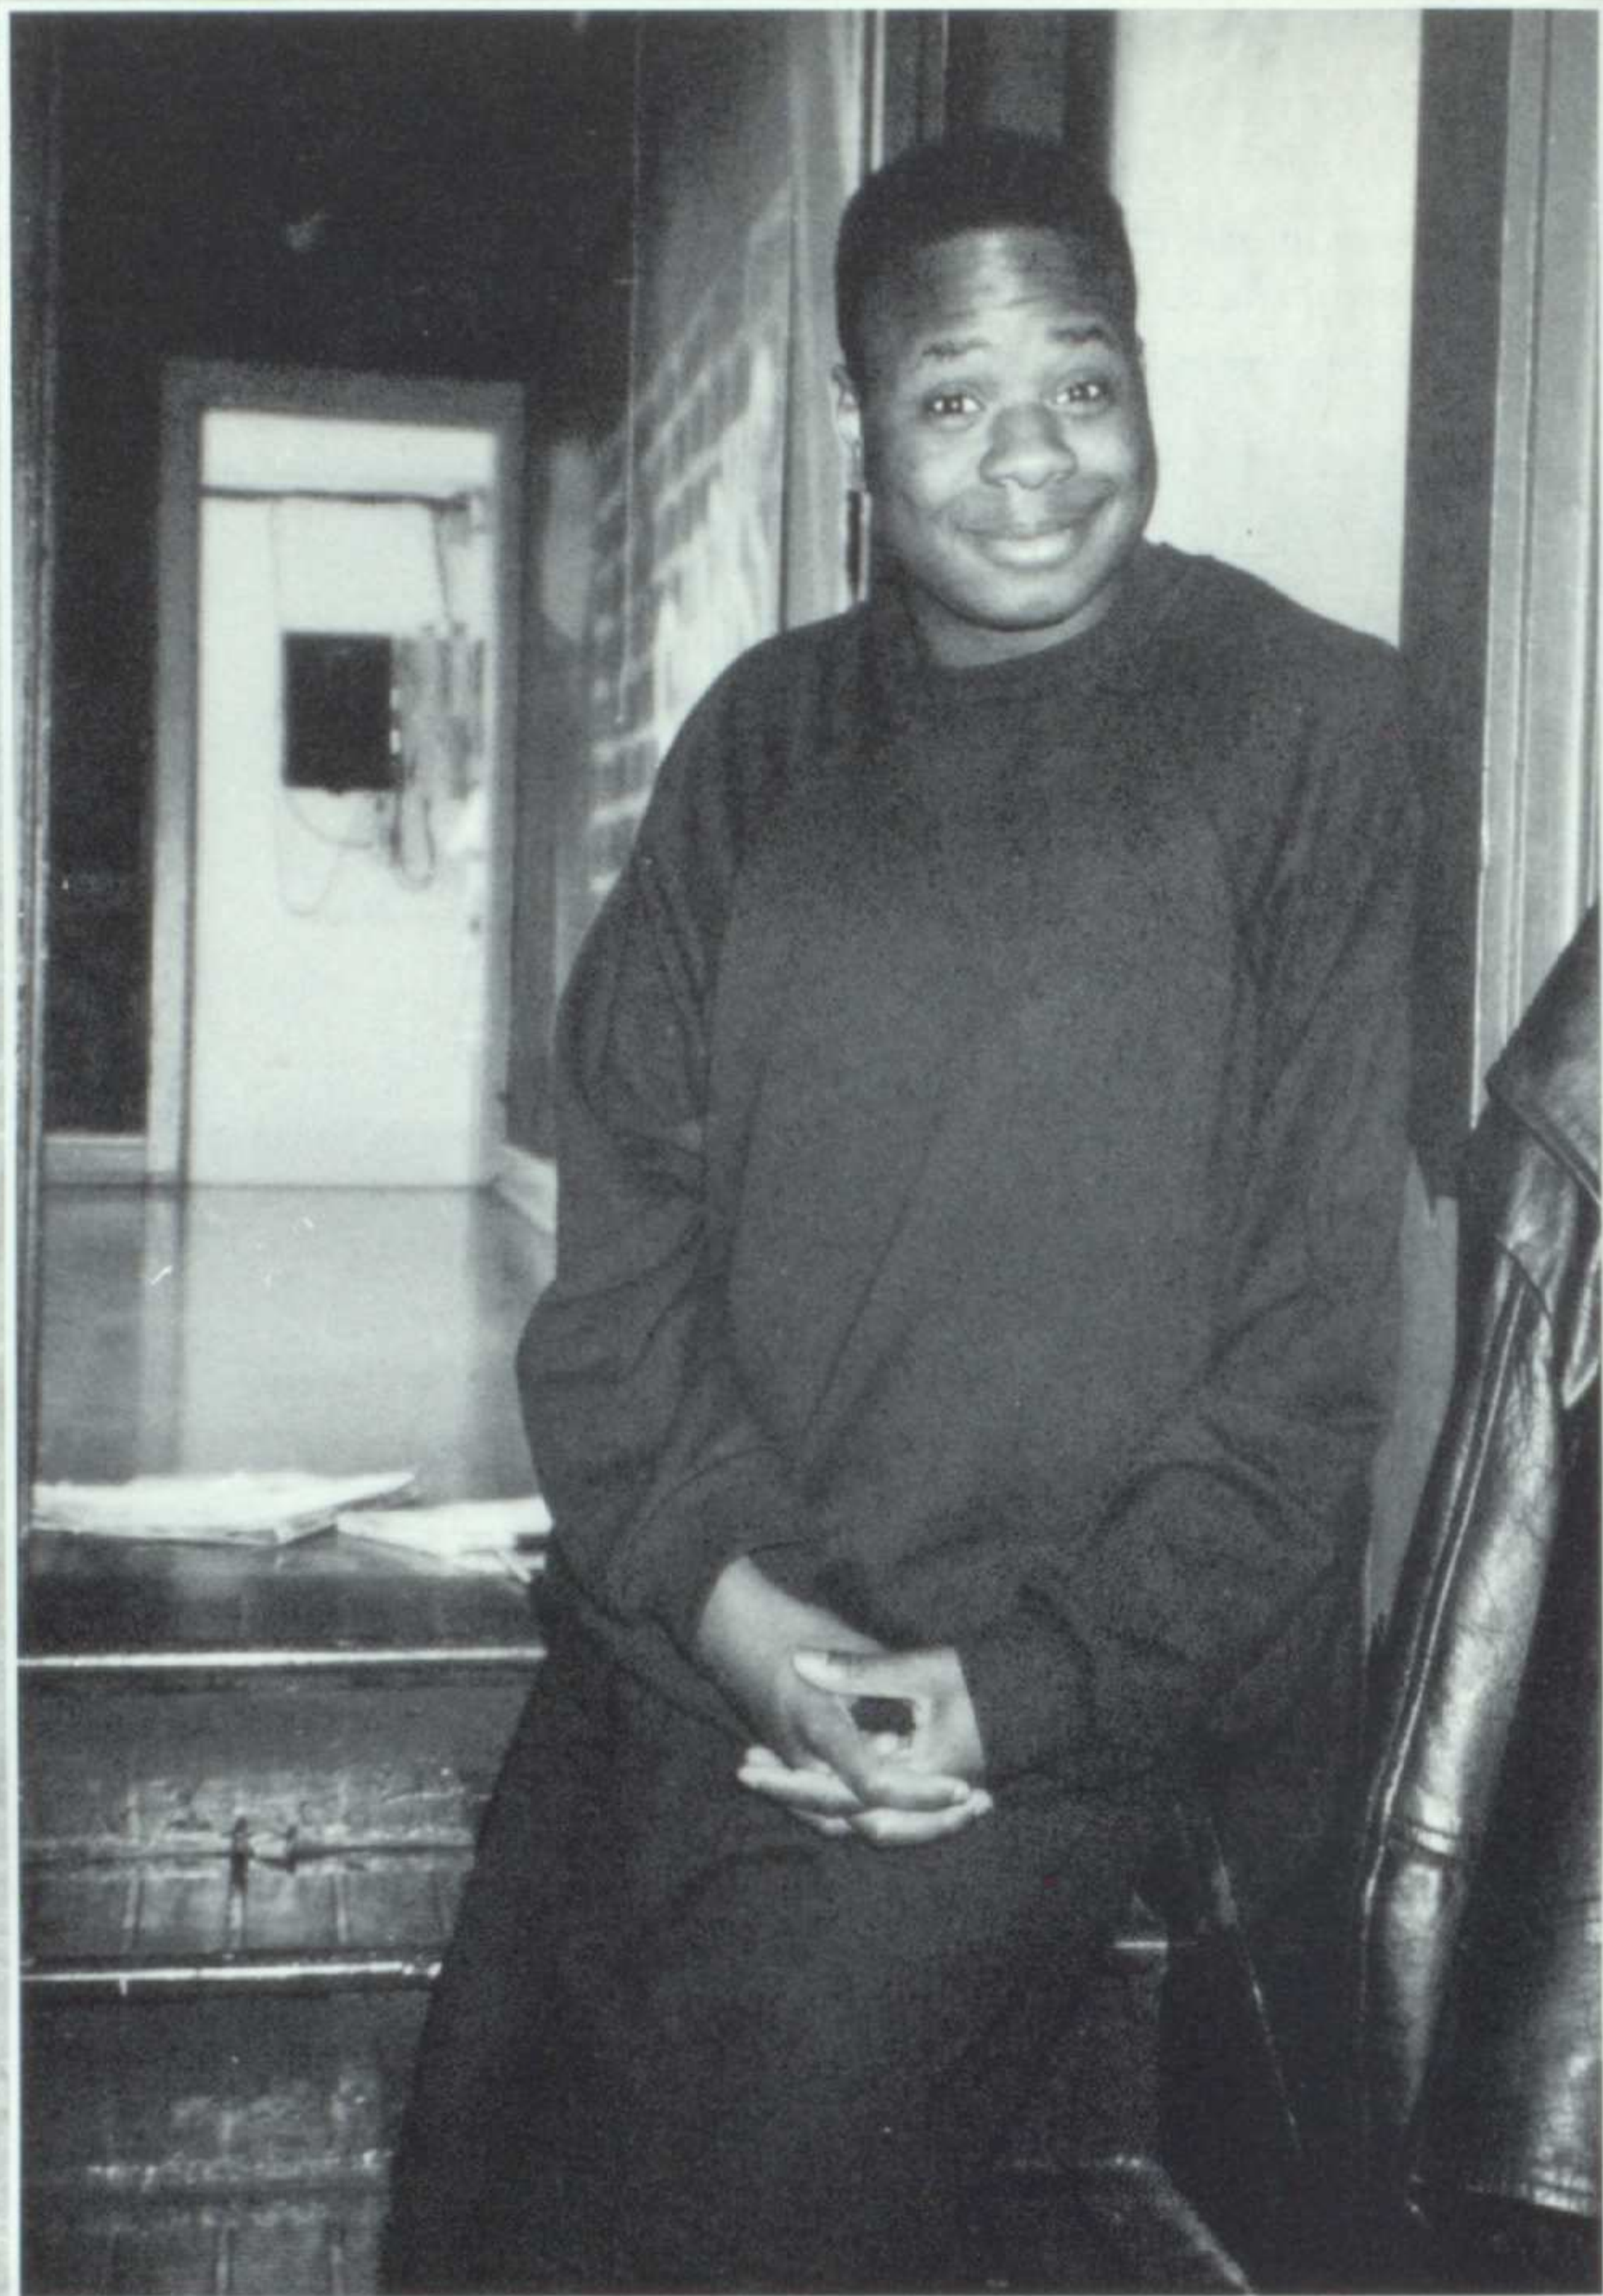

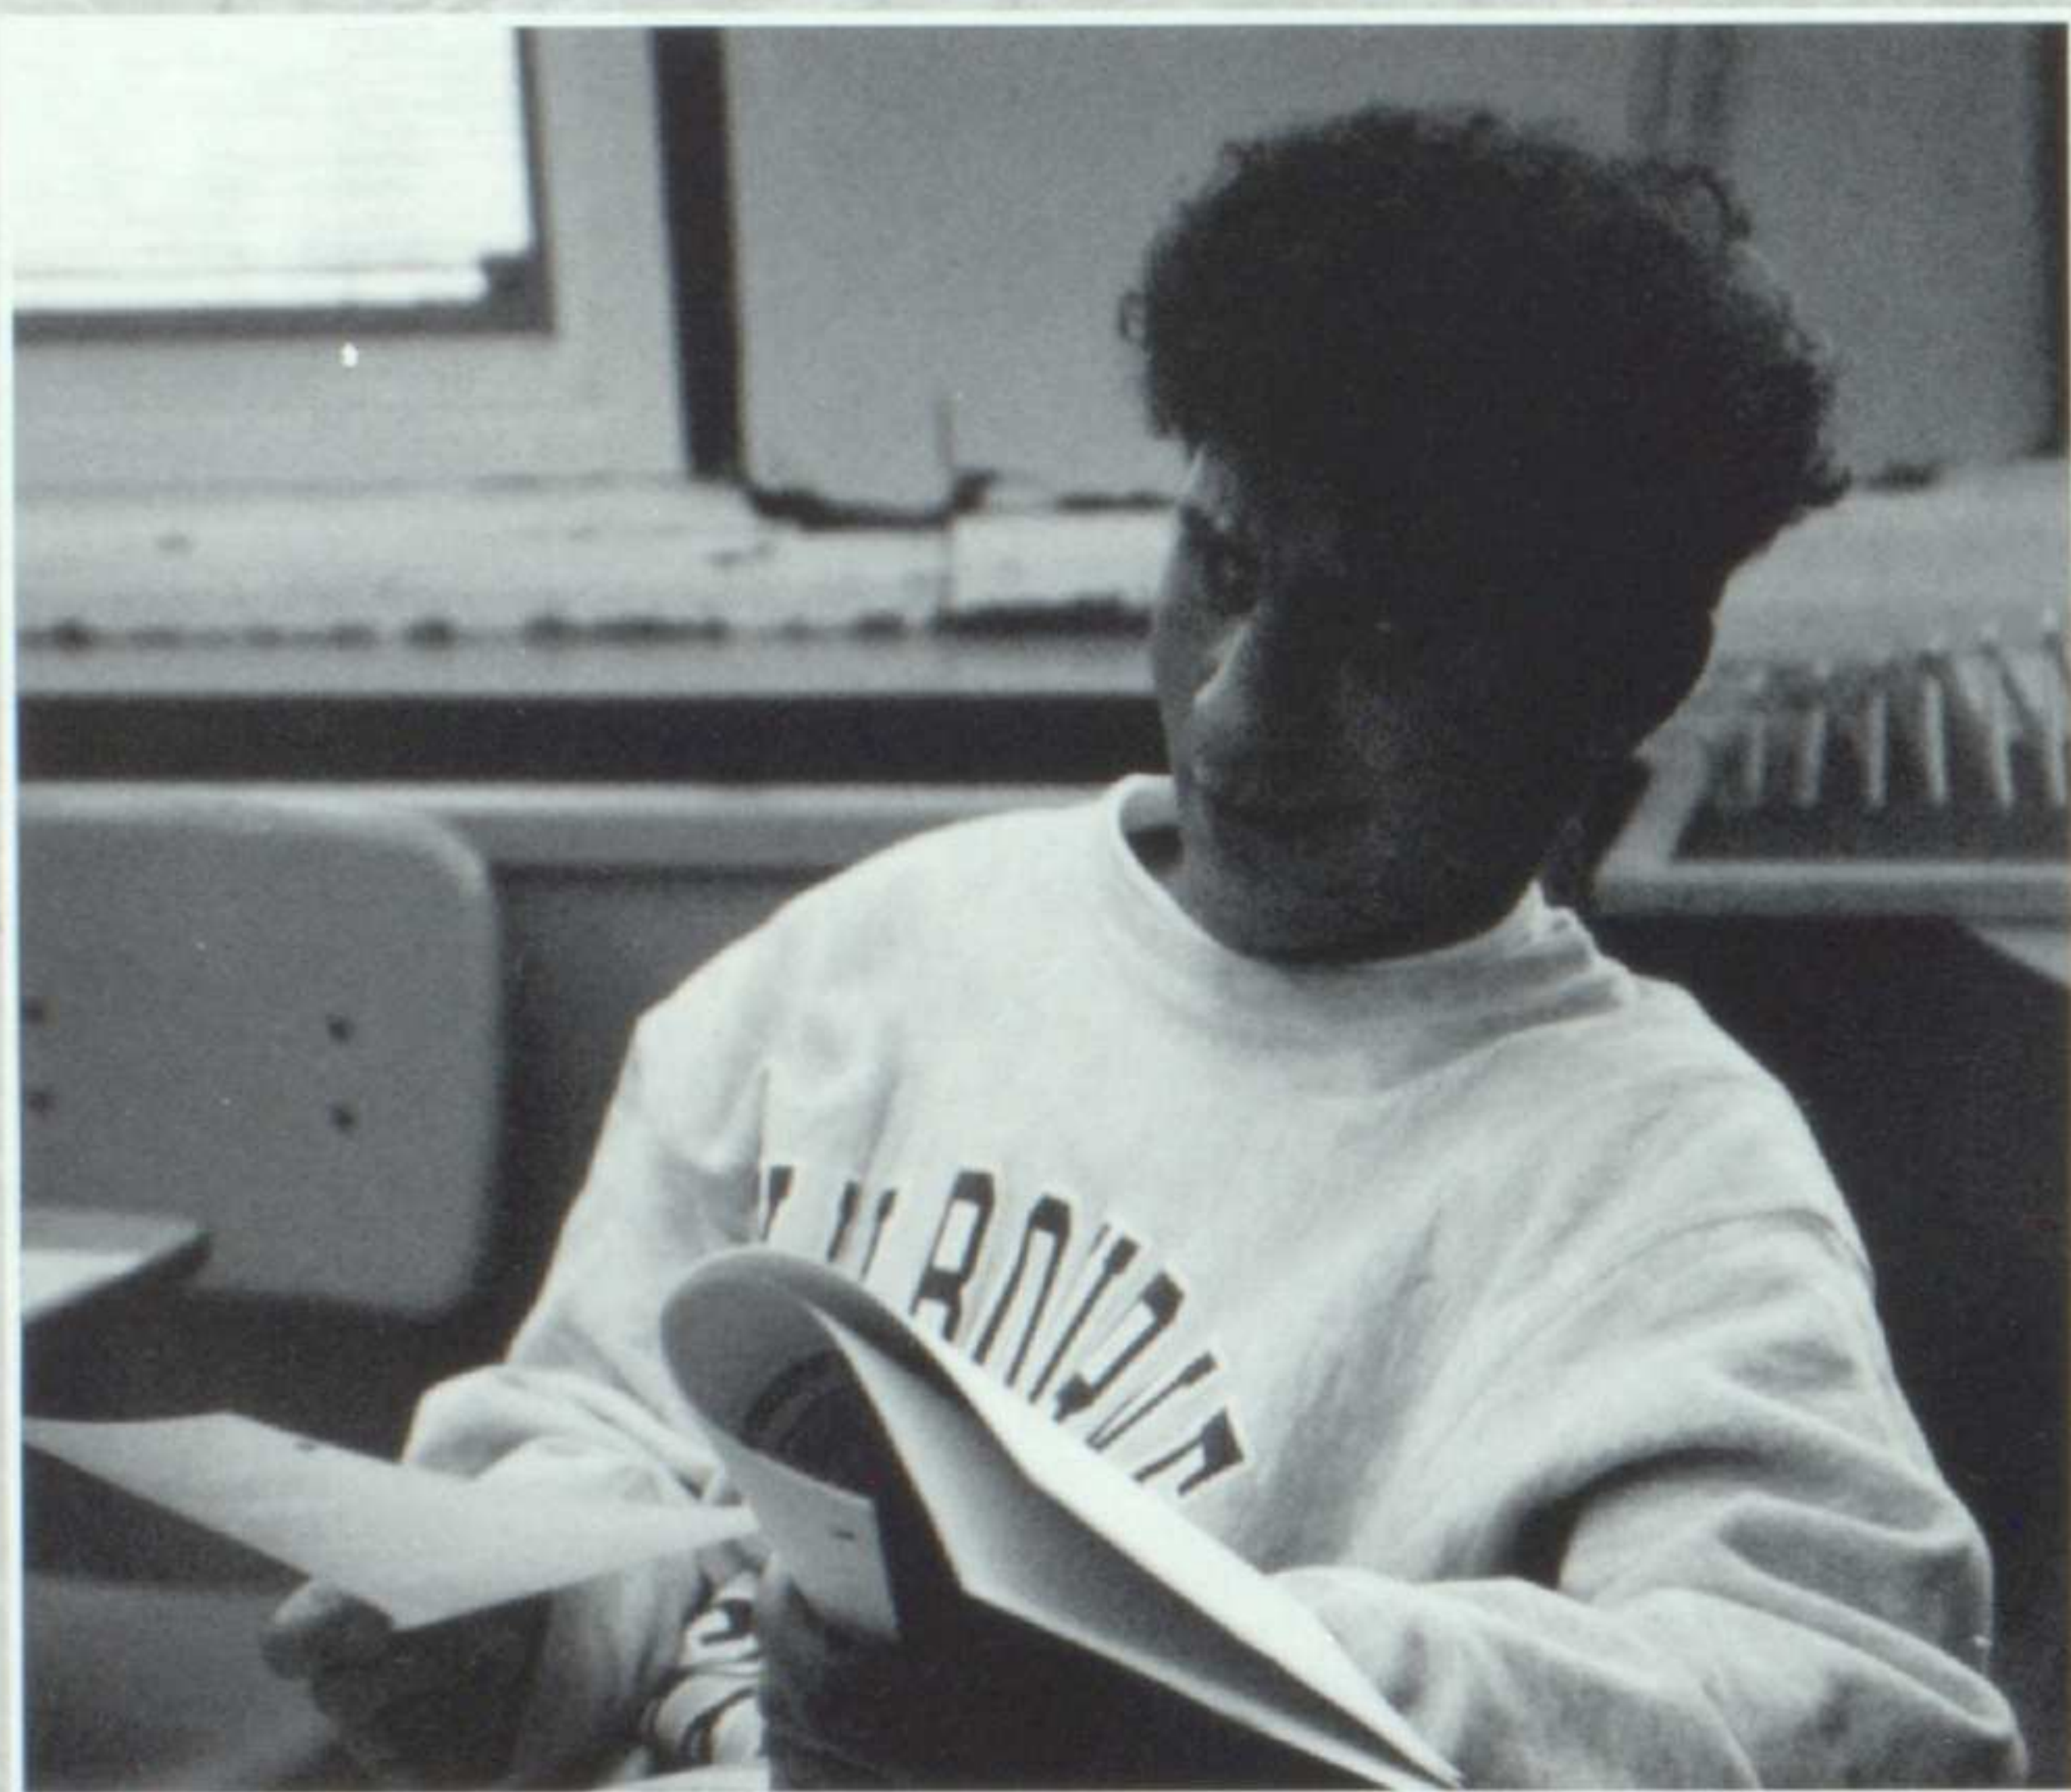

A famous quotation from "The Road Not Taken" by Robert Frost spans the wall at the entrance of the building reminding everyone of the value of the alternative program.

With looks like these, no wonder Quinton Fields is never home on a Saturday night!

"What!" exclaims Ales Martinek. "Have a fifteen page report on the migration habits of walruses done by tommorrow. . . I think not!"

Sure, she looks innocent, but little does Garth Baker suspect that Leslie Moran has stolen their companion's hat! Shame on you, Leslie!!! Who knows what terrible mischief Leslie will be up to next. You had better keep your eye on her, Garth. She could have some more pranks in store for you too.

Relaxing after lunch, Greg Latanick takes some time out to play his guitar.

The industrial technology class at Linworth is building a kayak with an instructor who built the Santa Maria that's moored downtown. Jason Kingham and Dan Reed pose by the partially completed craft.

Friends flock around Denise Rodriguez.

Is Beth Gibbs trying to smother Karen McConnell?

TOSSIN' AND TURNIN' ALL NIGHT!! "This musical has given me the BIGGEST headache," groans Holly Thompson. It was well worth the time and effort as Guys and Dolls proved to be the greatest musical ever performed in WKHS history.

"COME ON, BABY, LET'S PLAY THE GAME OF LOVE..." Newlyweds Dr. and Mrs. Seils enjoy their time together both in and out of school. They are just one of the MANY faculty hook-ups at Worthington.

Doing his best impression of Bullwinkle, Mr. Meister reverts to his childhood hero.

Extending Our Education

Playful Poetry

"I was happy to know that the third graders were interested in learning more about poetry and listening to us," said junior Jason Slack when asked what he liked about working with elementary students. Throughout the semester Mrs. Schoenhoff's Poetry Seminar class of sophomores to seniors shared their creative writing skills with Granby third graders. During the holiday season the poetry class helped the young kids write Thanksgiving poems and draw pictures to go with them. "I had a lot of fun. The kids were very creative, and it was a nice change," junior Erik Nielson said.

Students at both levels enjoyed these activities and hope for a continuation next year. "It was a good learning experience to work with younger kids, and I know that they learned to express themselves more in writing," senior Kristi Chitwood explained.

"Henry Griffith, if you're late one more time to my class, I'll crush your brain just like this," explains Mr. Johnson. Acting innocent is Lynn Markowsky who is hiding behind her papers because she knows she's been tardy more times than poor Henry.

"I got the whole world in my hand, I got the whole world in my hand..." sings Mr. Cave.

One of the many field trips for American Humanities is a visit to the Amish country. Here, Joe Savage and Brad Todd are in awe of the farm animals the farmer proudly displayed. The class was also privileged to attend an Amish grade school.

School Reform

Is it a change for the better?

Reform (ri-form'): to improve by removing faults or abuses.

School reform has become a topic of the nineties. From the historical combination of American History and American Literature into American Humanities to the more recent switch of biology to B.E.S.S. (Biological Earth System Science) and this year's blocked English II and B.E.S.S. classes are all examples of the elements of school reform. But why the change? What is wrong with conventional classes? American Humanities teacher Jeff Vincent thinks that nothing is wrong with the old approach but added, "We also need to take a look at things that we can do better. Good education does not occur when a teacher recites information and the students regurgitate it." Assistant Principal Ms. Jenny Young believes that integrated classes make the material more easy to learn because the material flows together. For example, students will better understand and remember the effects of the depression when they read Grapes of Wrath while placing it within the historical perspective of the dust bowl and the migration of homeless families to California. The idea is that students will make better sense of what they're learning.

Taught within a normal schedule, the B.E.S.S. program has evolved from a biology class to one that puts more emphasis on the environment and its ecology. The blocked English II - B.E.S.S. classes are scheduled back to back so on one day students attend B.E.S.S. for two periods while on the next day they attend the English class for the entire time. This allows the students more time to complete class activities such as science labs. Vince Trombetti likes blocking because "it gives us the flexibility to vary class times when needed." Another integration that is forming for the 1995-96 is Advanced Composition and Government. Seniors take both classes which are requirements for graduation but by enrolling in this course, they may feel less stress because the curriculum will be taught for an entire school year instead of a semester.

These classes earn mixed reaction from the student body. Some students explain that the classes aren't integrated enough. Jim Begley feels, "The class became boring. Some days it was a two hour long history or English class." Others feel good about the class because they enjoyed the material they studied through a more hands-on approach as well as the field trips they took. Eric Waltermire "liked the grading system and the selection of books we read." Jen Casey says, "The day goes by faster with the combined classes." Mrs. Krebs, one of the Humanities teachers, believes that "the philosophy of reform requires students to take charge of their own learning so the teacher isn't the font of knowledge but the coach who helps the student learn."

Hopefully, this more integrated approach will better prepare WKHS graduates for life beyond high school.

"Peace, I'm outta here, back to the crib!" raps Mrs. Gibson.

Proud counselor Bill Frye congratulates one of his students Chris Moore on a job well done.

"I don't know how he did it," ponders P.R. West at the very enthusiastic Jarrod Singleton who obviously enjoyed graduation in the gymnasium. "Congratulations, Jarrod."

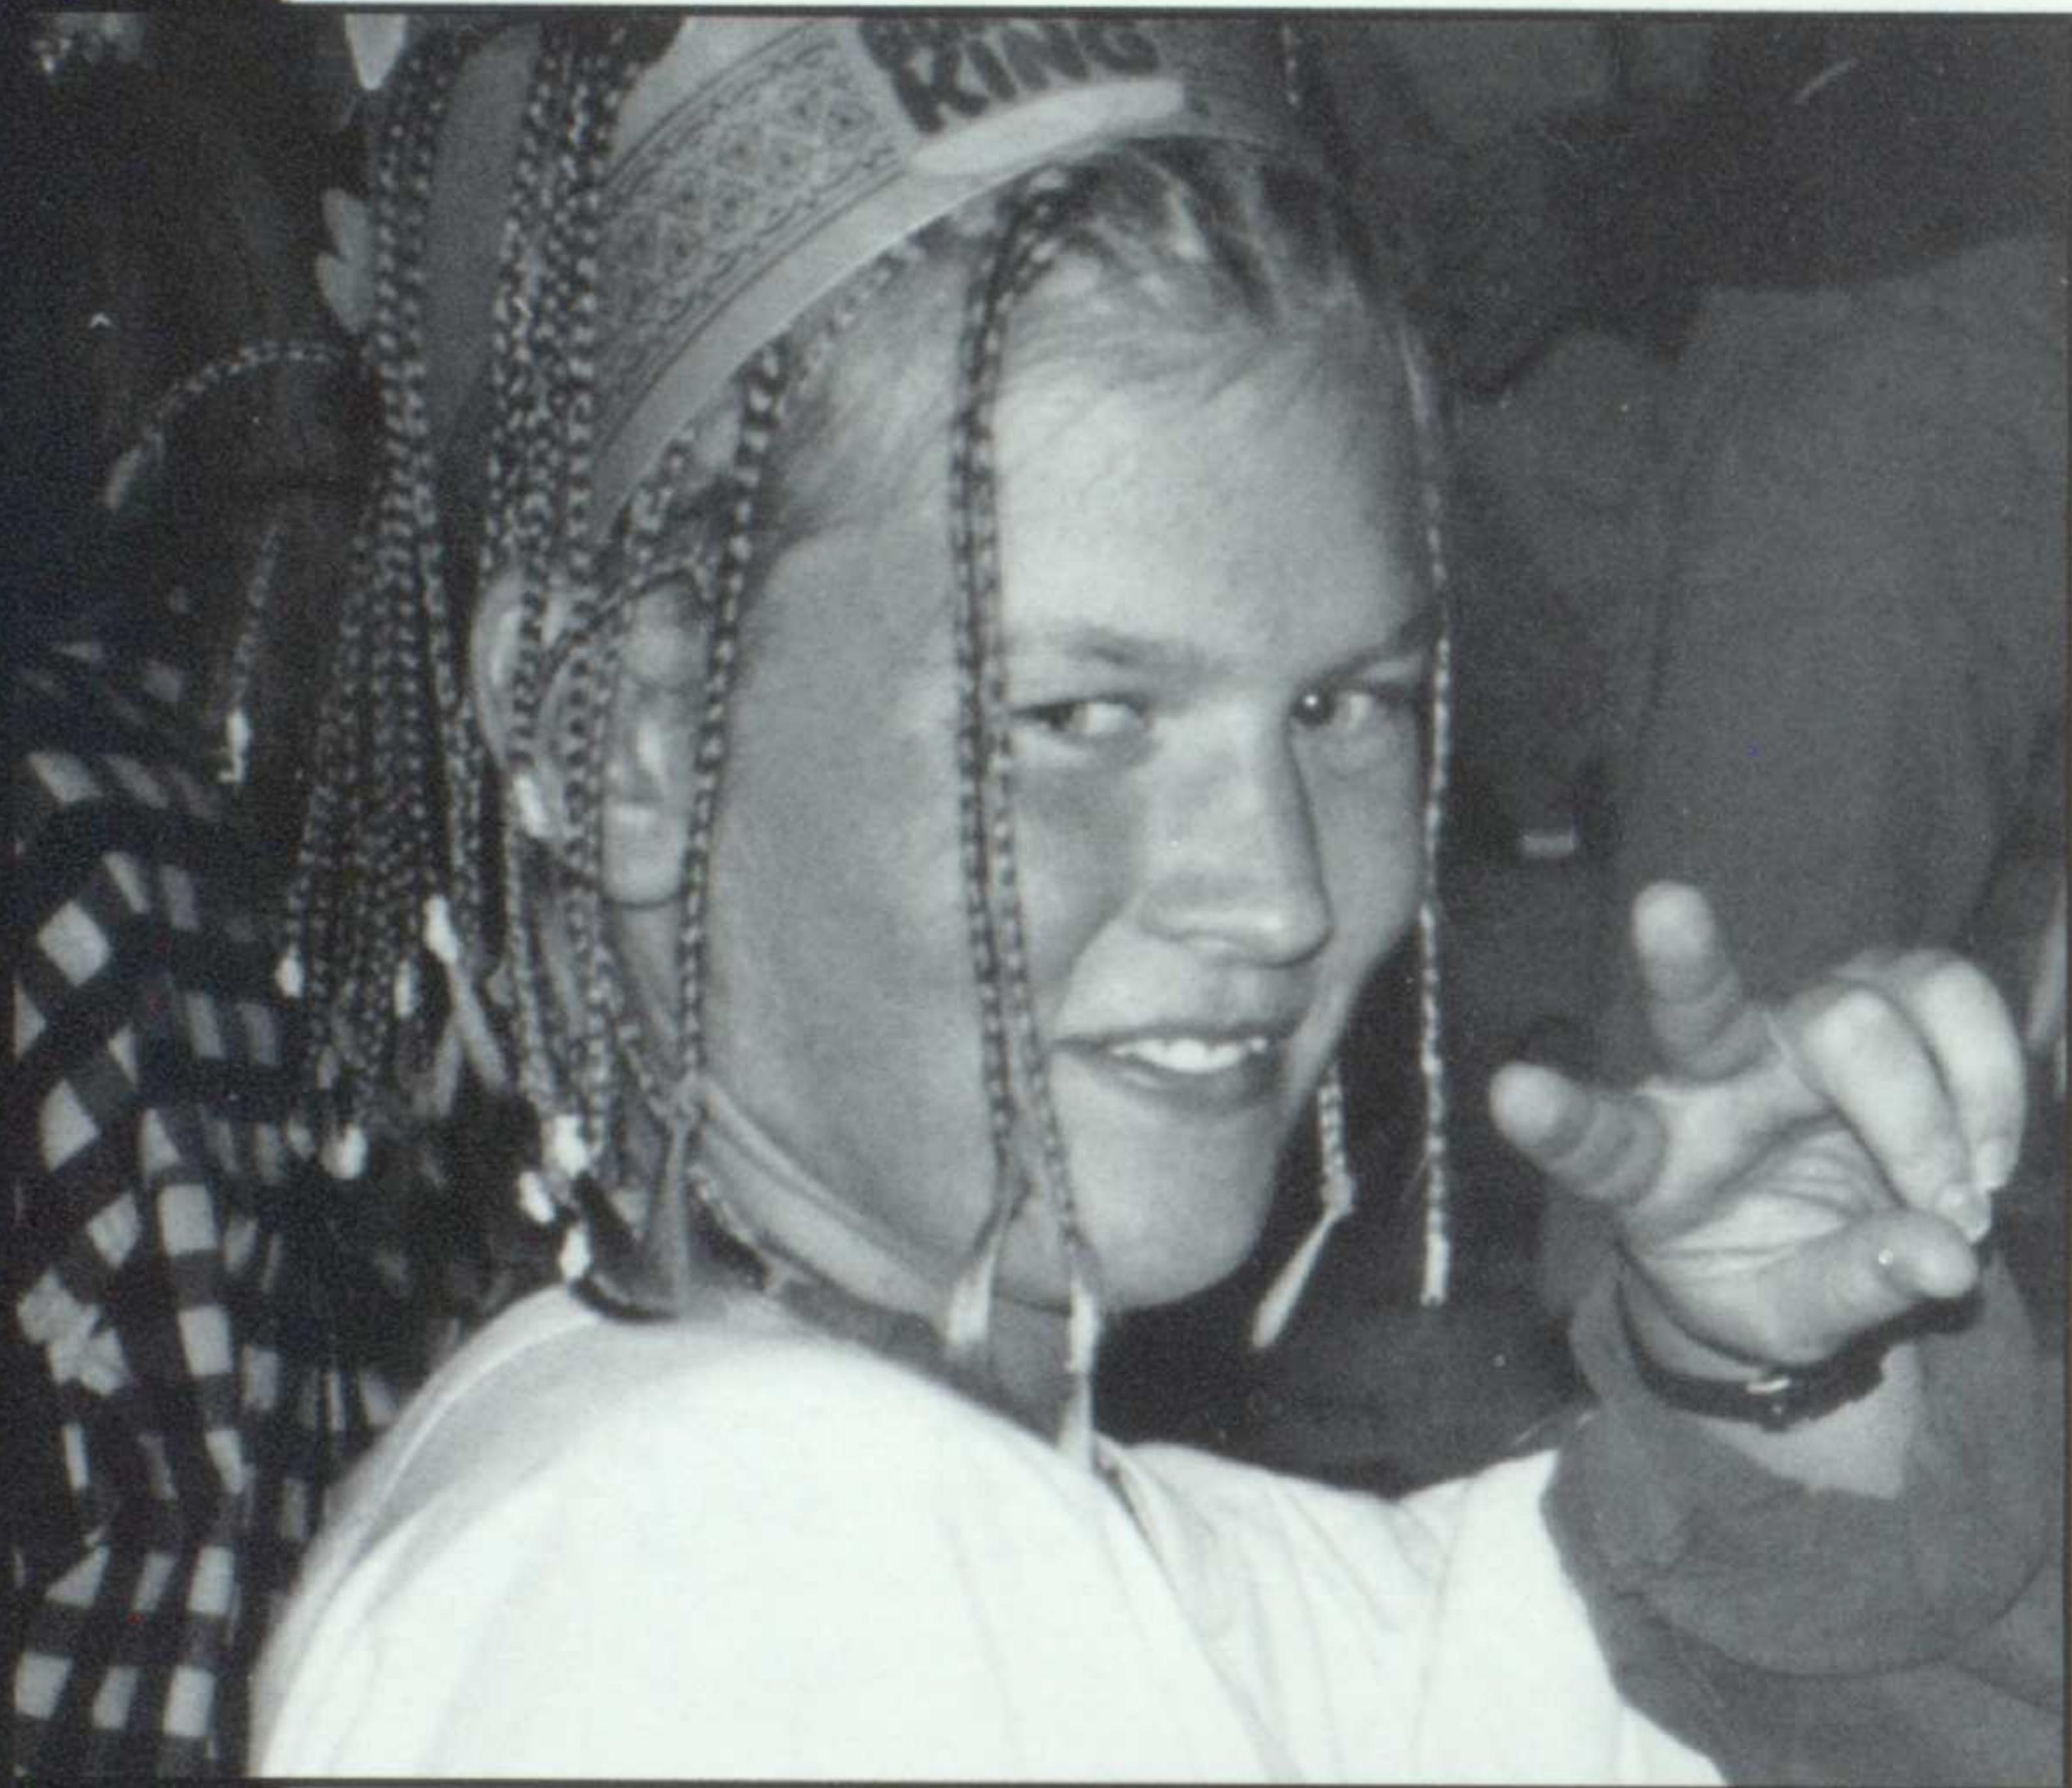

"Do you smell what I smell?" Amy Pham questions her husband. "It's your turn to sniff." Even so, her son Benjamin enjoyed the prom.

Brenda Demos-Kearns congratulates two of her favorite art students, Ken Coulter and Matt Clausen, during the Celebration of Excellence.

ONCE YOU POP, YOU CAN'T STOP!! The SPUDS sing their hearts out at the After-Graduation Party. Who knew these guys, Josh Seabloom, Jarad Hermann, John Hedge, Jared Kulka, Pete Rothermel, Saleel Muzumdar, Tom Tieu, Jeremy Fink, Nate Potter, Matt Garrett, Dickson Lao, Don Stickel, Chris Fish, and Brock Schmaltz, had such talent.

PEACE, LOVE, AND HAPPINESS!! Burger King Queen Kristi Chitwood doesn't seem too sad about leaving Kilbourne. It seems as if four years have been enough for her. Hmm, I wonder why she feels that way?

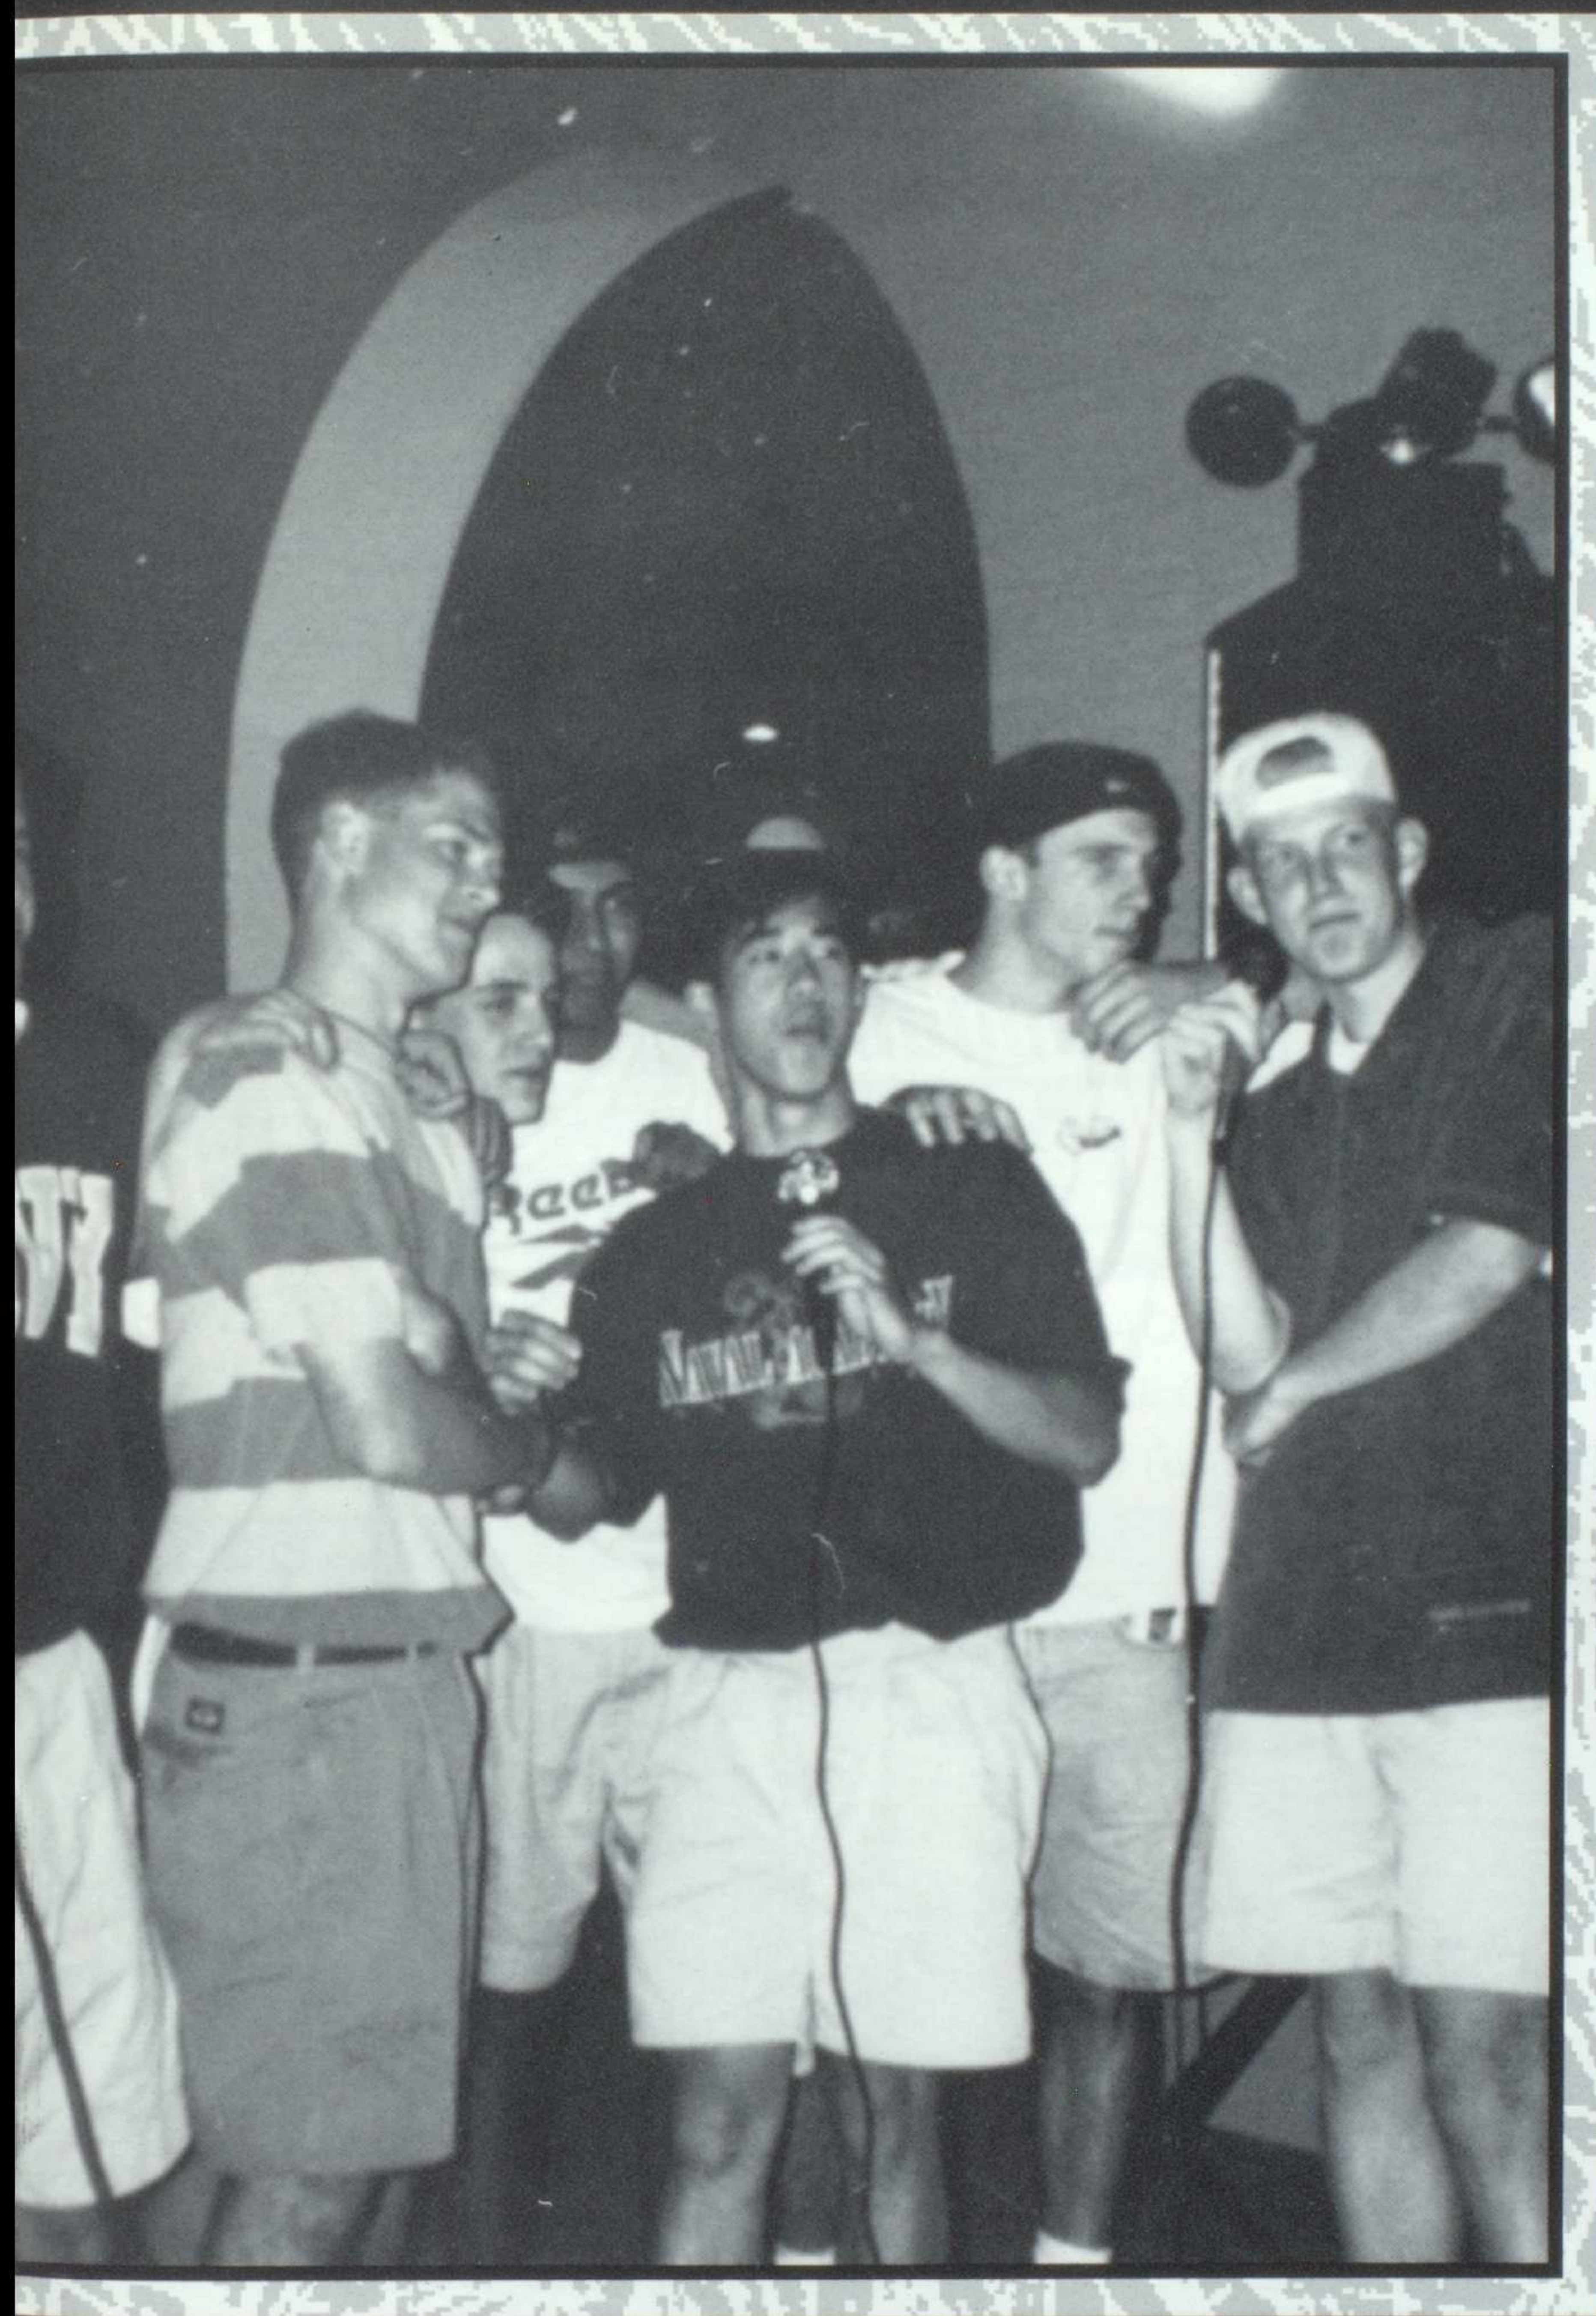

HEY, JOEL, YOU JUST GRADUATED! WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO NOW?? "I'M GOING TO DISNEYWORLD!!!" Senior Joel Trimarche is so excited to be graduating that he can not even wait long enough to return Mrs. Forward's hug. Congratulations, Joel.

MILK DOES YOUR BODY GOOD!! Obviously, seniors Geoff Cipkala and Nikki Brewer are not calcium deficient. Their wide grins say it all. Hey, guys, leave some milk for Santa; those cookies can get awfully dry.

AND YOU WILL ALWAYS BE... FOREVER YOUNG!! Seniors no longer, Bethany Broadfoot, Kelly Curtis, Anjali Goel, Kay Chen, Michelle Martin, Isti Islam, Libby Kirsch, Tom Tieu, and Angela Bookwalter eagerly await news on the winner of the fridge.. Is it the joy of graduating that brought such a smile to their faces, or could it be that 100 year old bottle of imported water from France??

700 E. Granville Rd.
Worthington, Ohio

To all my friends and customers,

I've moved my office to the showroom at Jack Maxton Chevrolet. The new and used car departments have been combined to allow us to better serve your automobile needs. As always I can still sell vehicles from all departments, including new cars, trucks, GEO's, conversion vans and used cars — at all 3 locations including Rt. 161, Sinclair Road and Westerville Road.

If you, a relative, or friend are in the market for a new, used, or lease car or truck, I would appreciate you keeping me in mind.

Thank you for continued support and business.

Gregory Kimbro

We are especially grateful to LANCE PARKER, the official photographer for the 94-95 yearbook.

"This guy is the greatest!" says Russ Greene of David Ream.

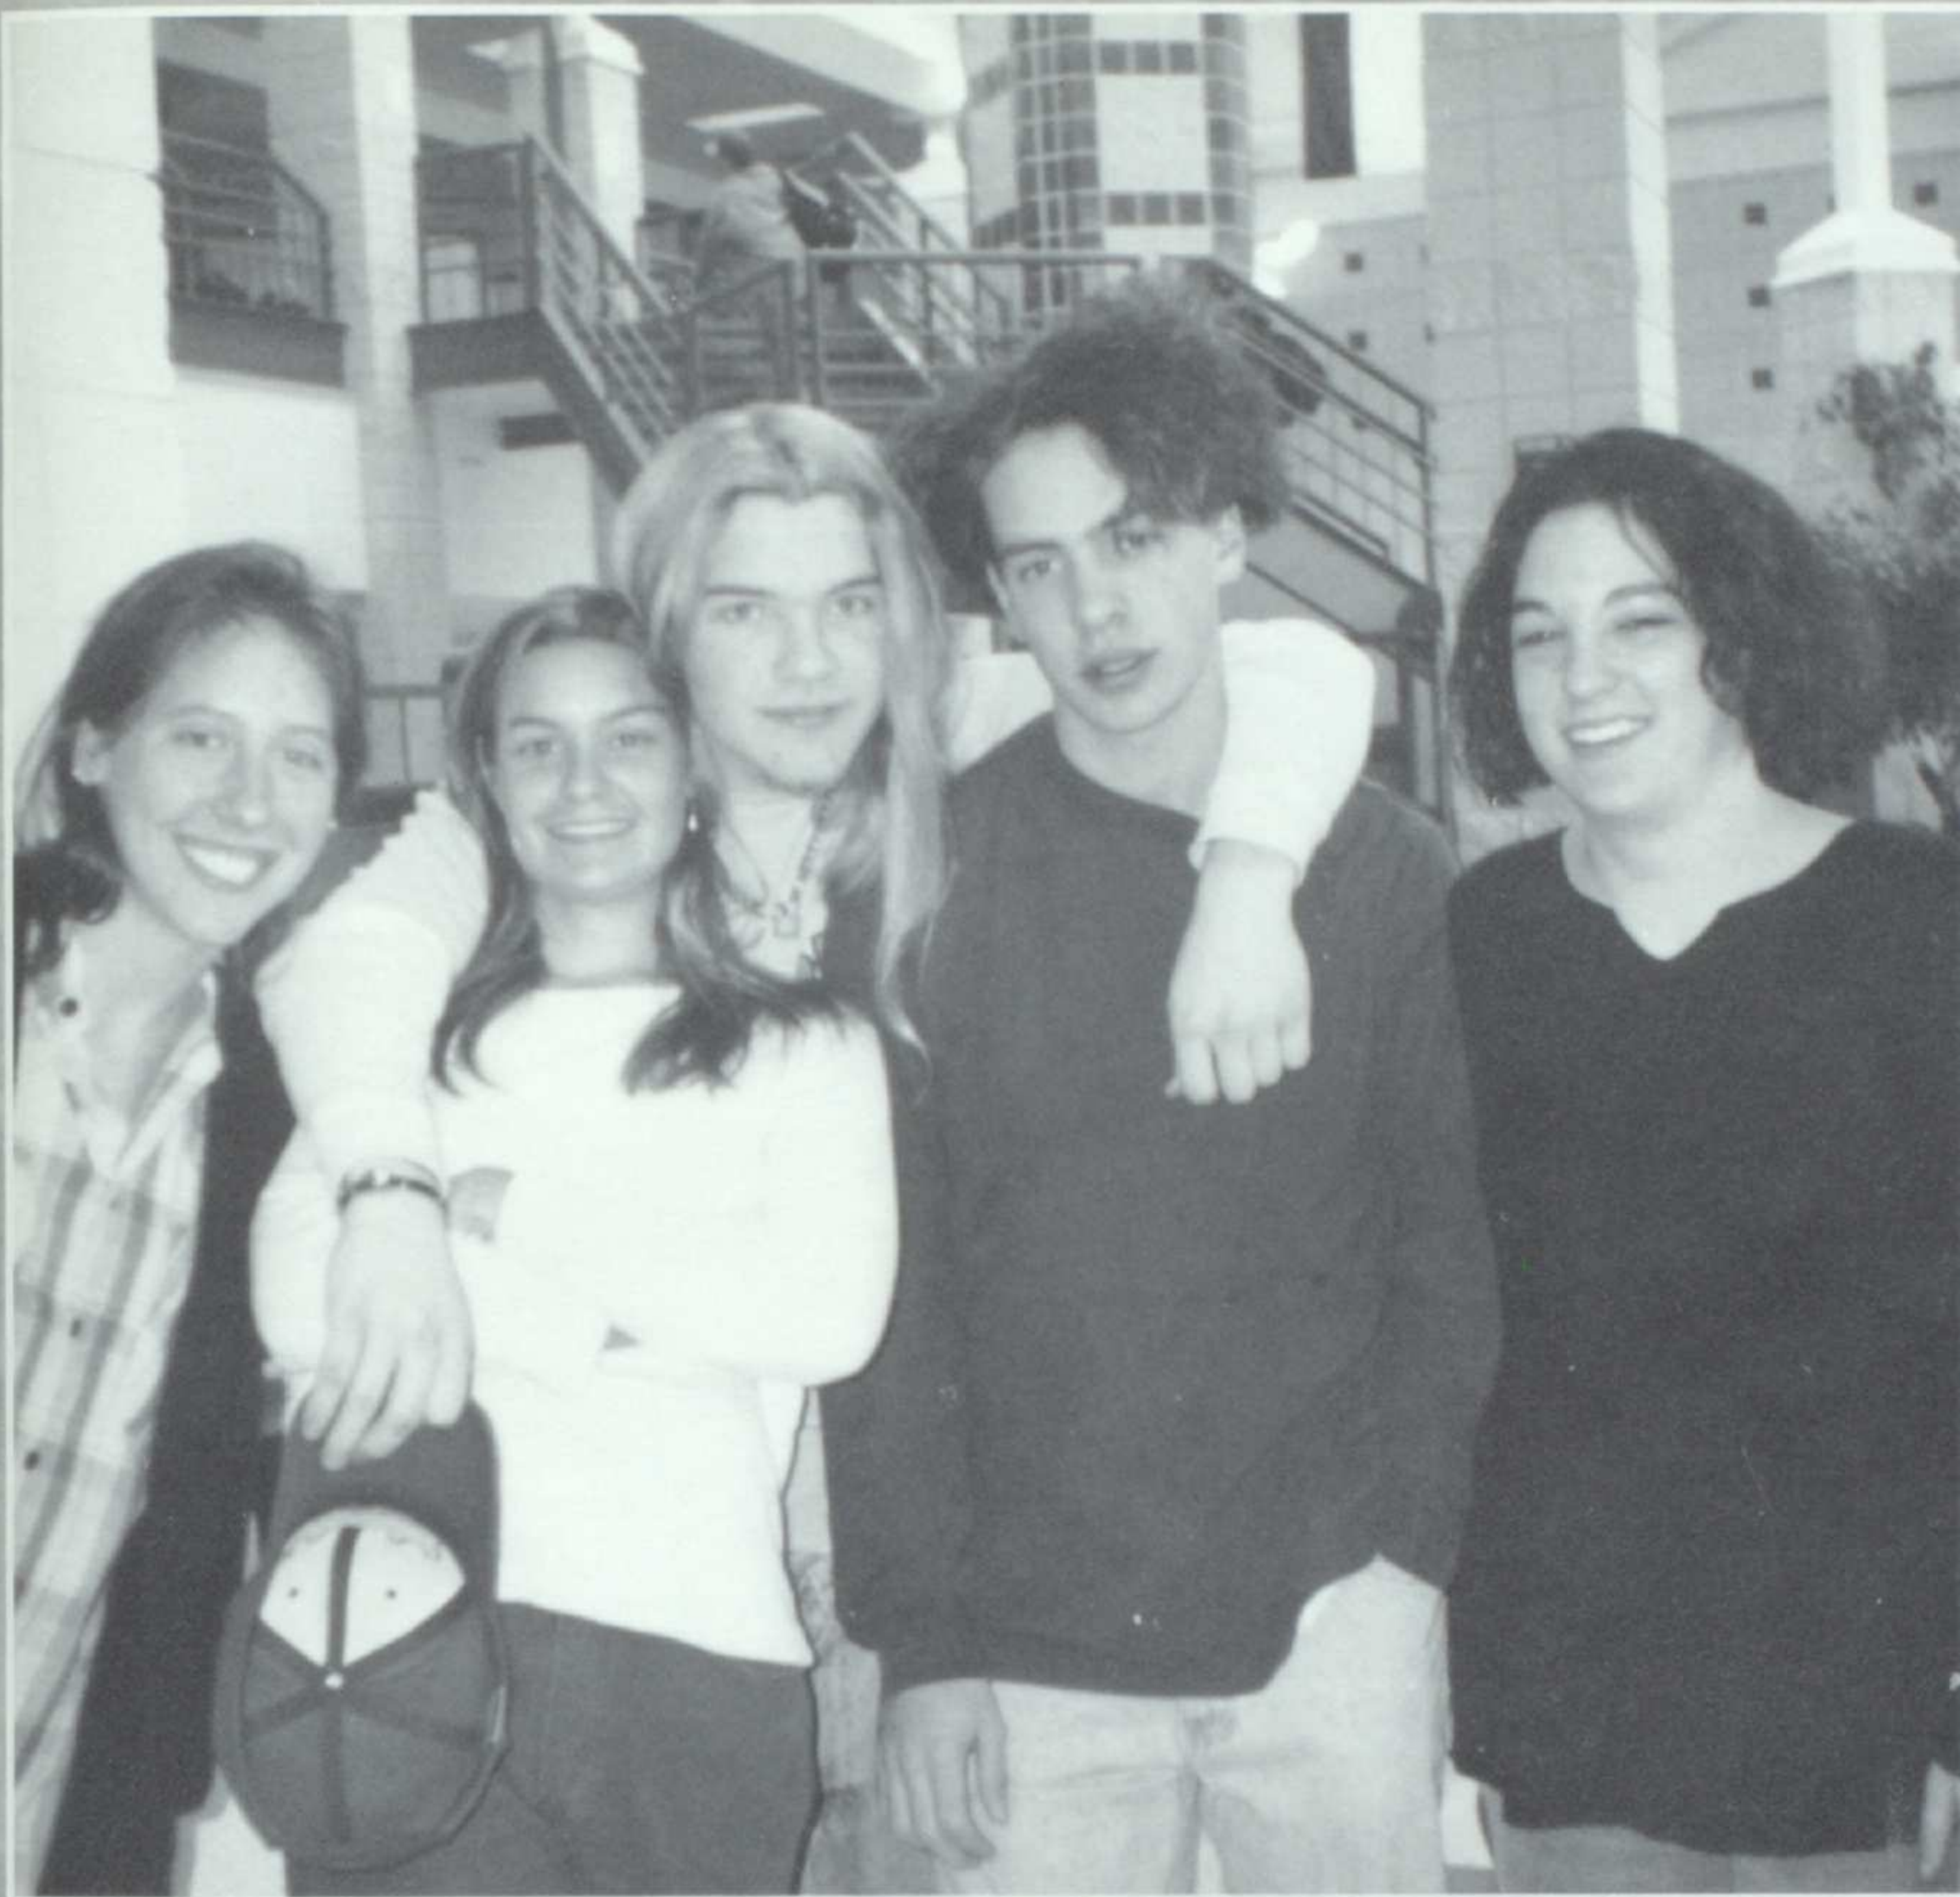

Giving us their angelic smiles are Megan Sells and Julie Clines during the homecoming dance.

268

CLOSING

"Meet our friend Bubba!" exclaim frequent zoo patrons John Dreiman and Stephen O'Neill. Happy to be mulching during "Clean Up the Grounds Day" is Greg Lawson.

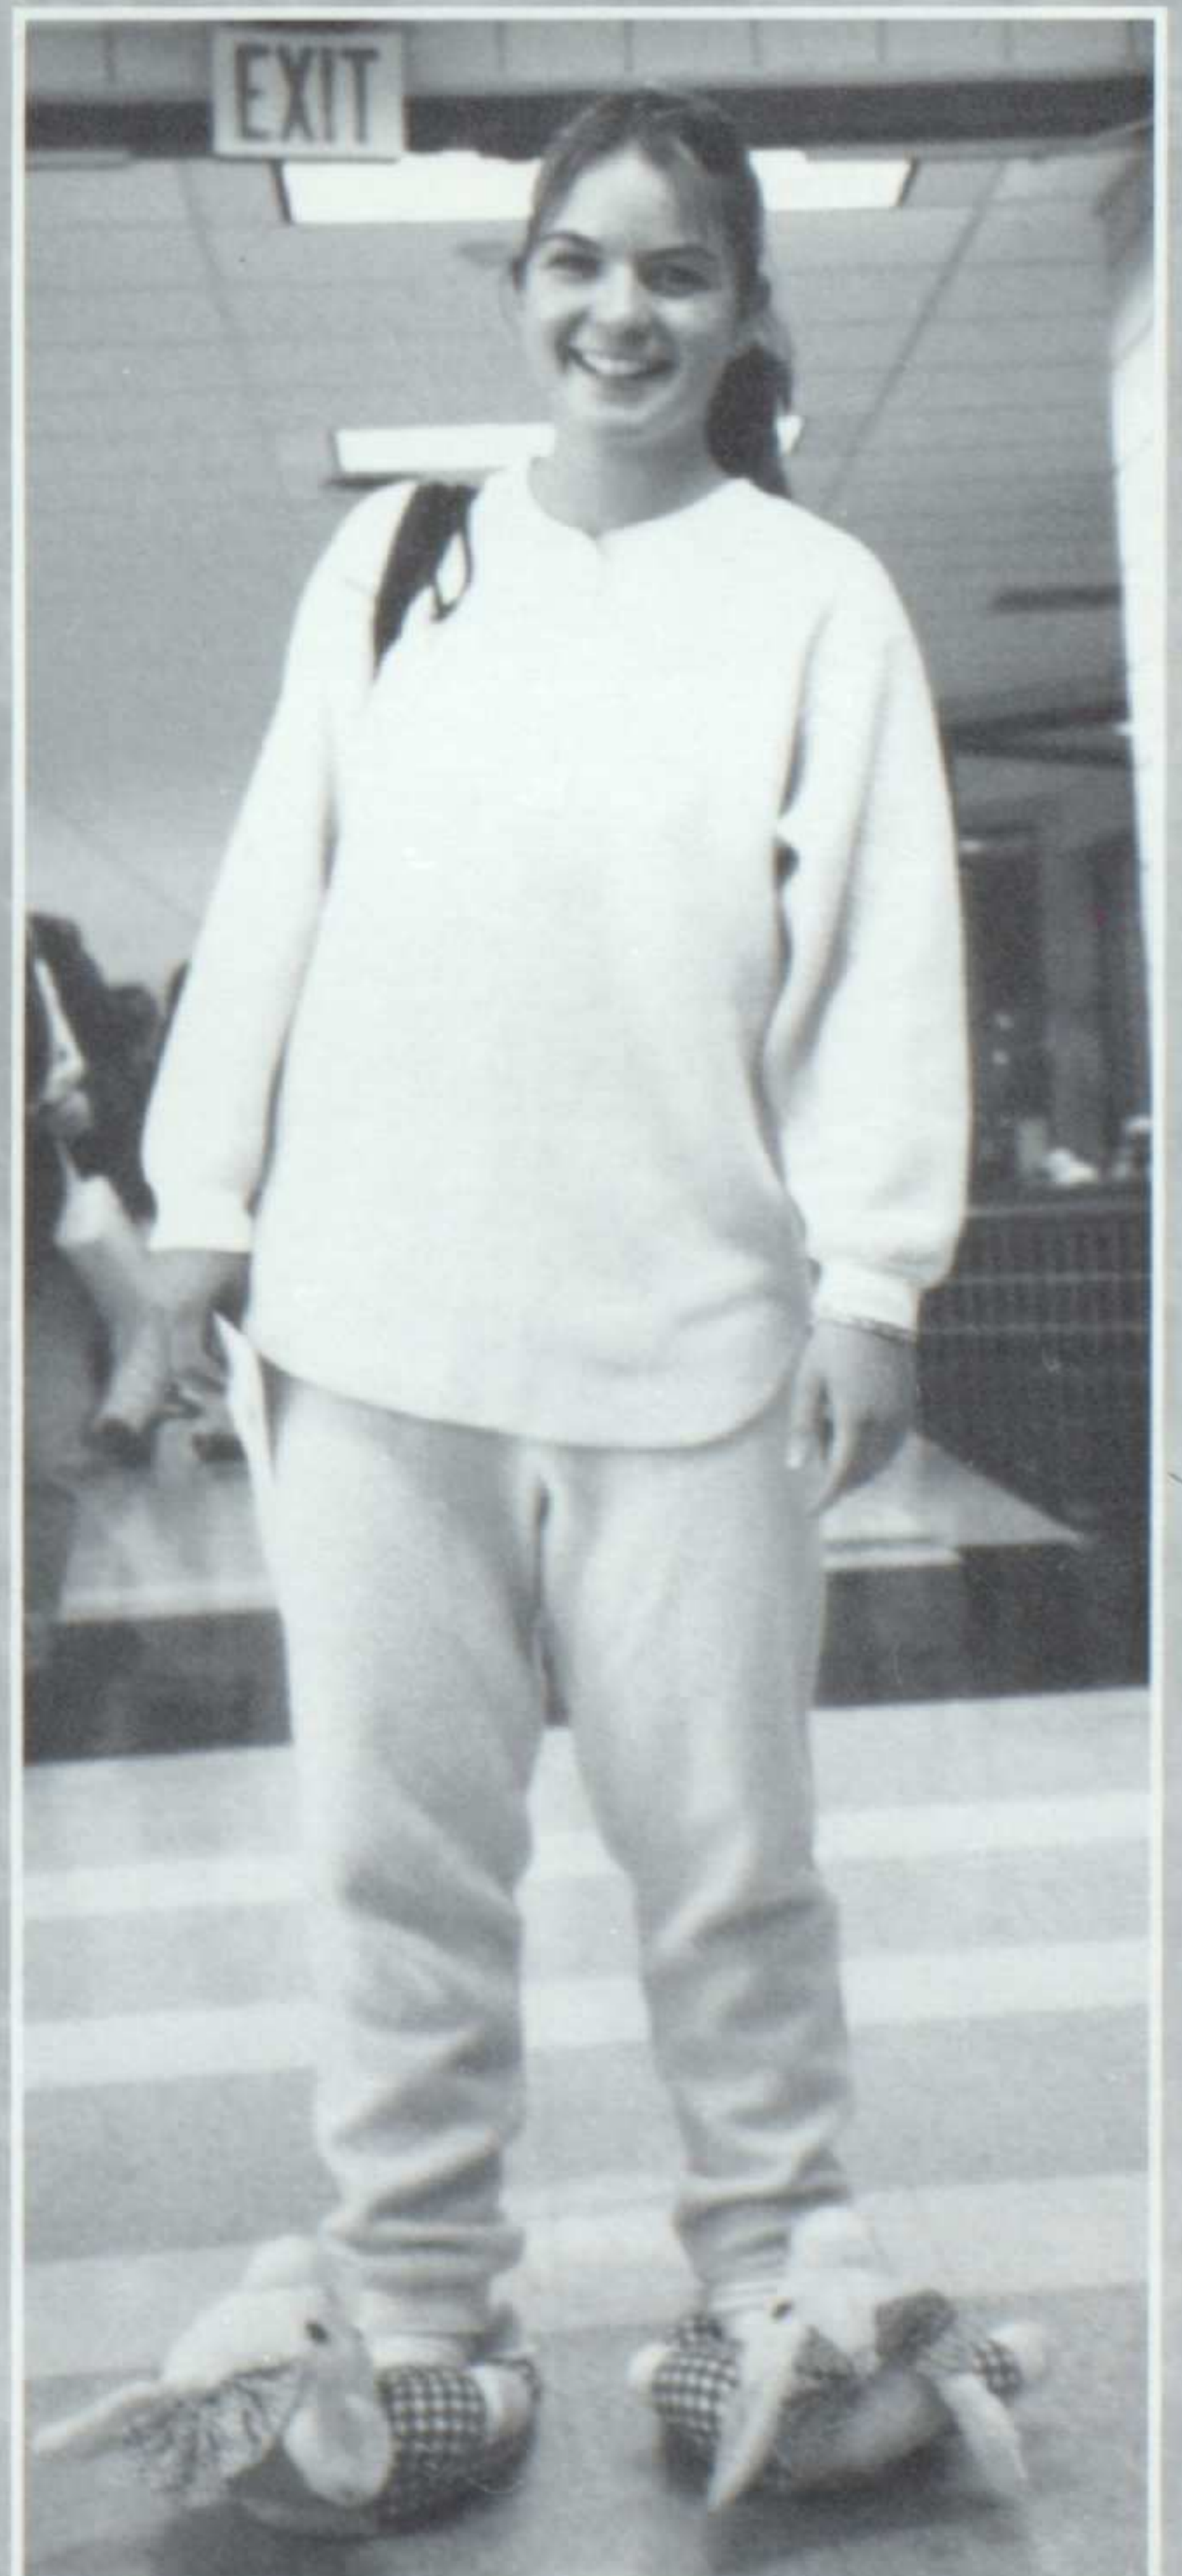

"Think summer," say Stefanie Collins, Paula Poka, Brian Hudler, Greg Latanick, and Maytal Russ.

Sizing up the hoop are Ismail Al Shahal and Eric Thomas.

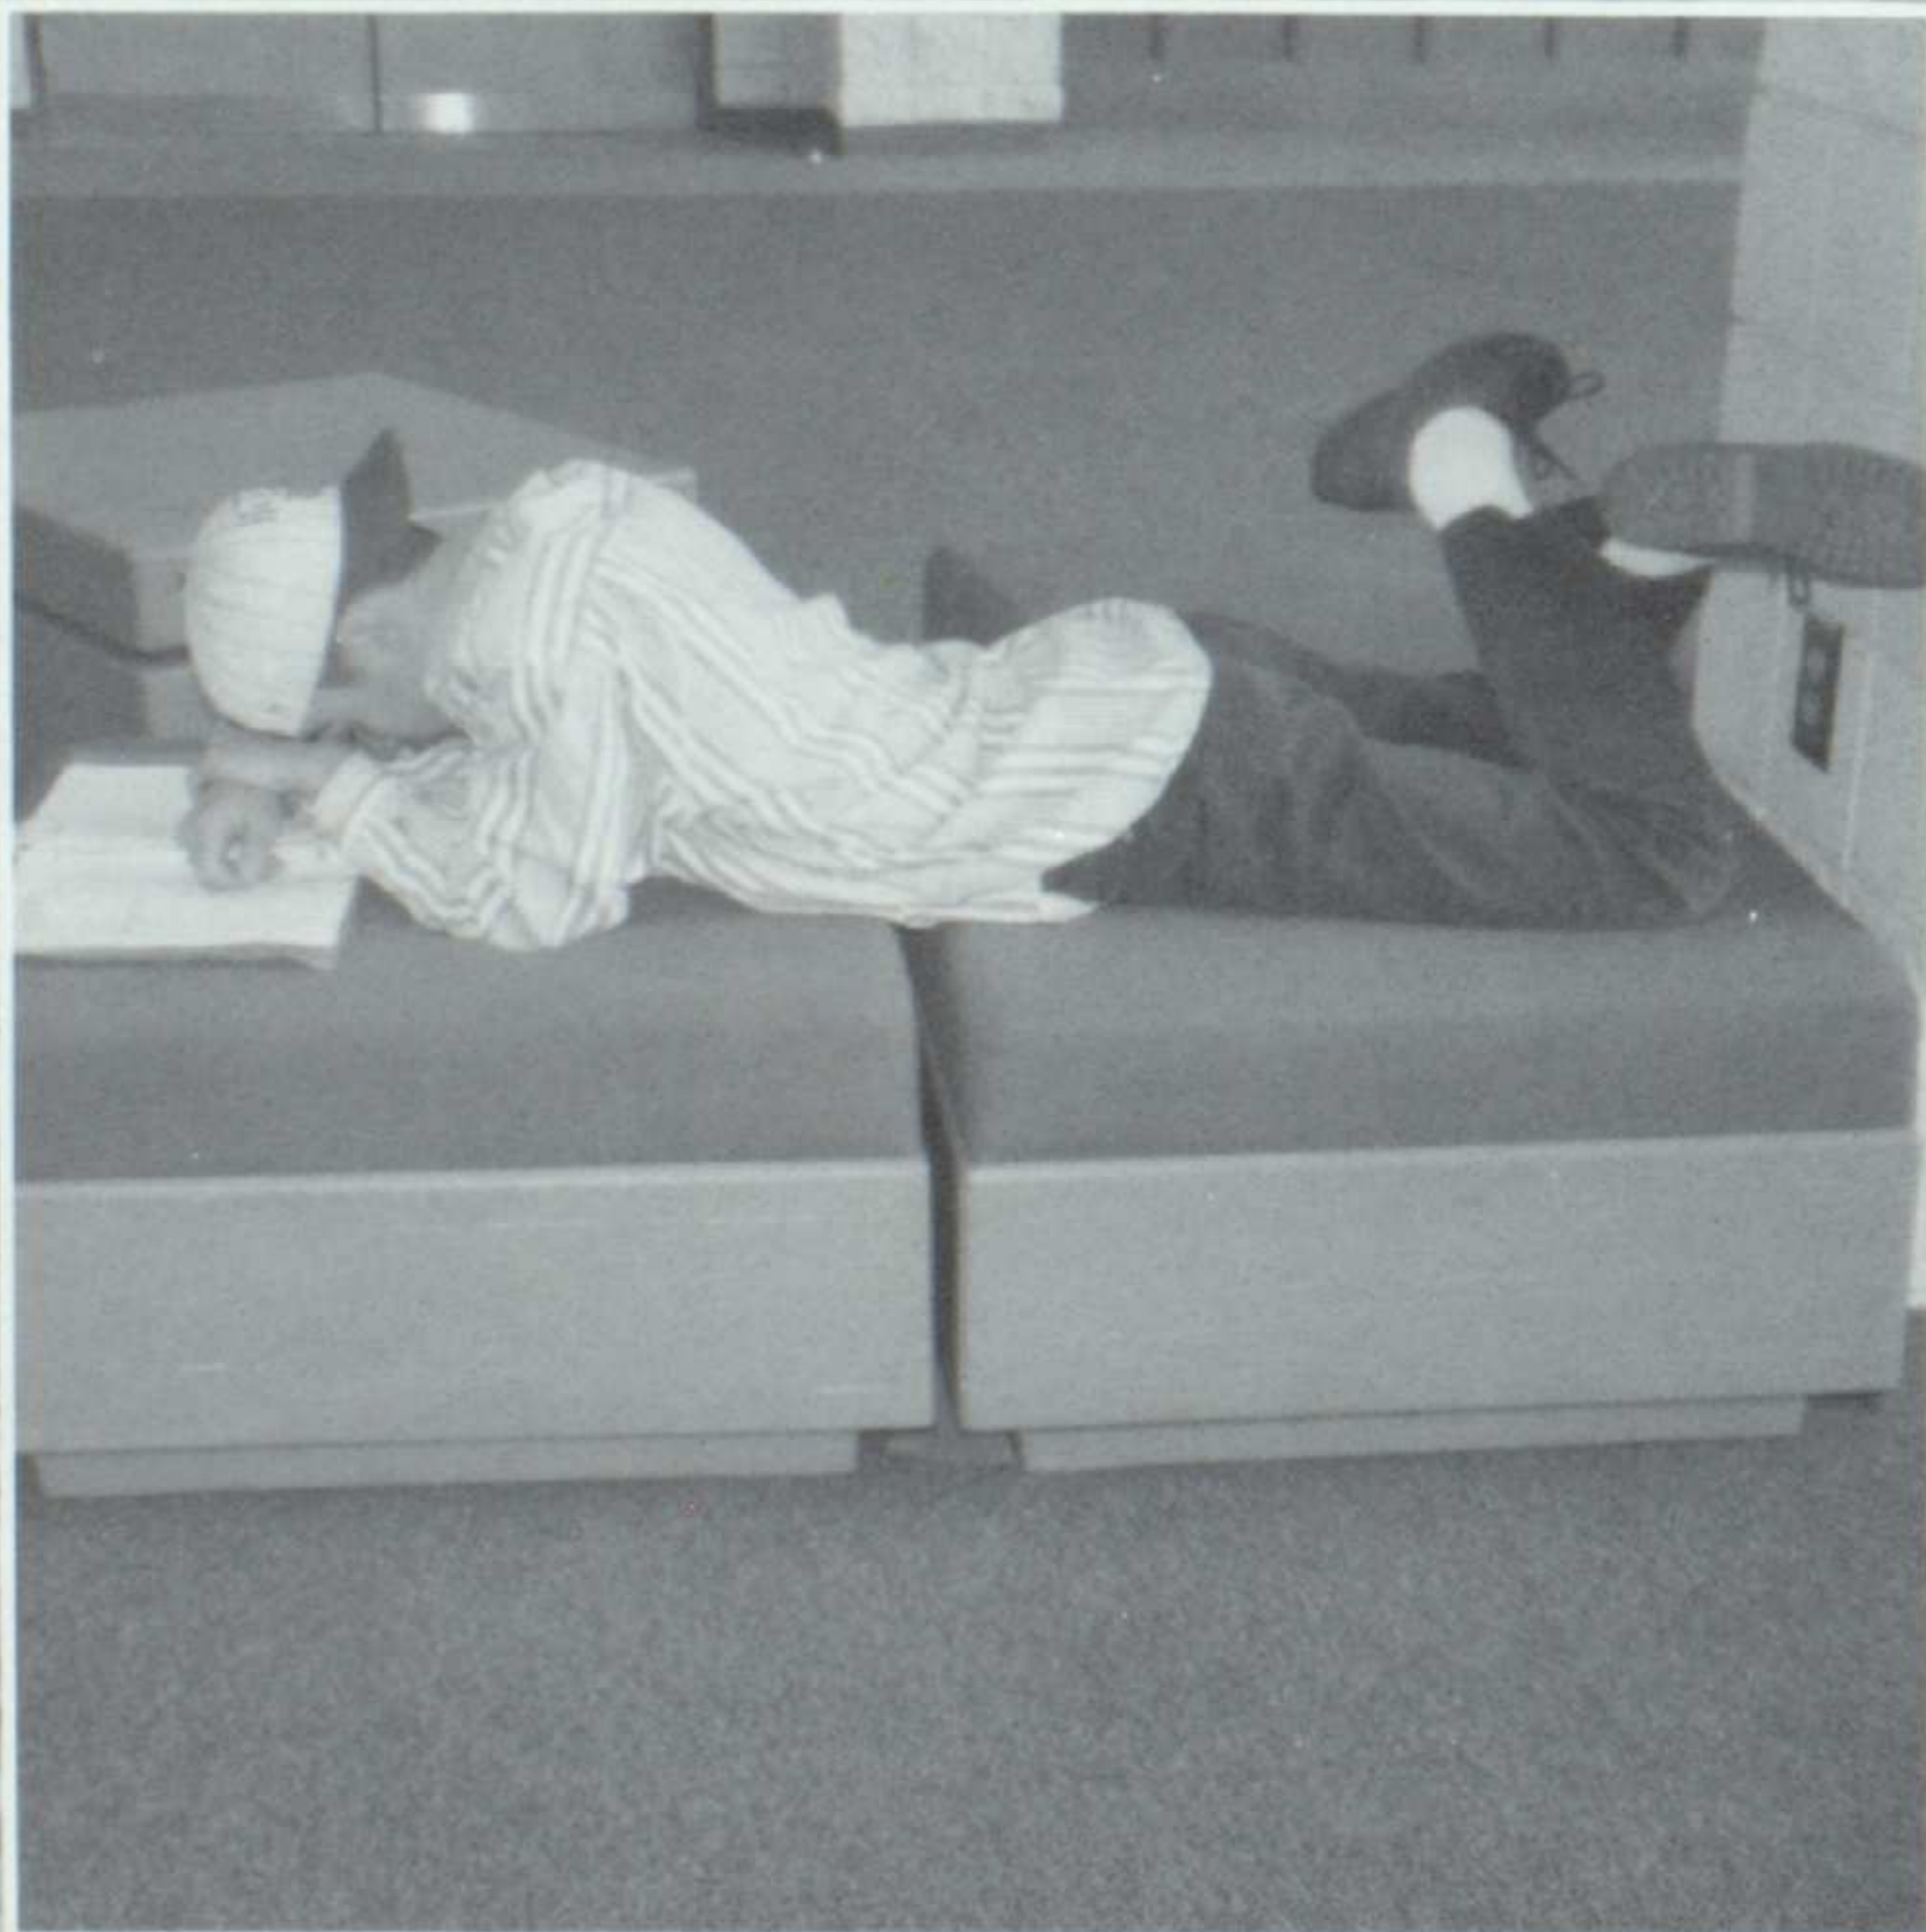

Stopping to take time out after lunch are Key Shakoore and Pina Patel.

"I've never been accused of not having school spirit," exclaims Megan Senecal on pajama day.

"We snuck out of class to hang out in the commons," giggle Daryl Earnest, Clint Carpenter, Denise Rodriguez, Cary Johnson, Keith Glenn, Jamie Myers, and Mandy Dutko. Let's just hope no one catches them making mischief.

"Who needs a bed time story if you have history notes?" snoozes Nick Gatto.

After Jacki Piero's tragic accident, no one messes with Diane Valine.

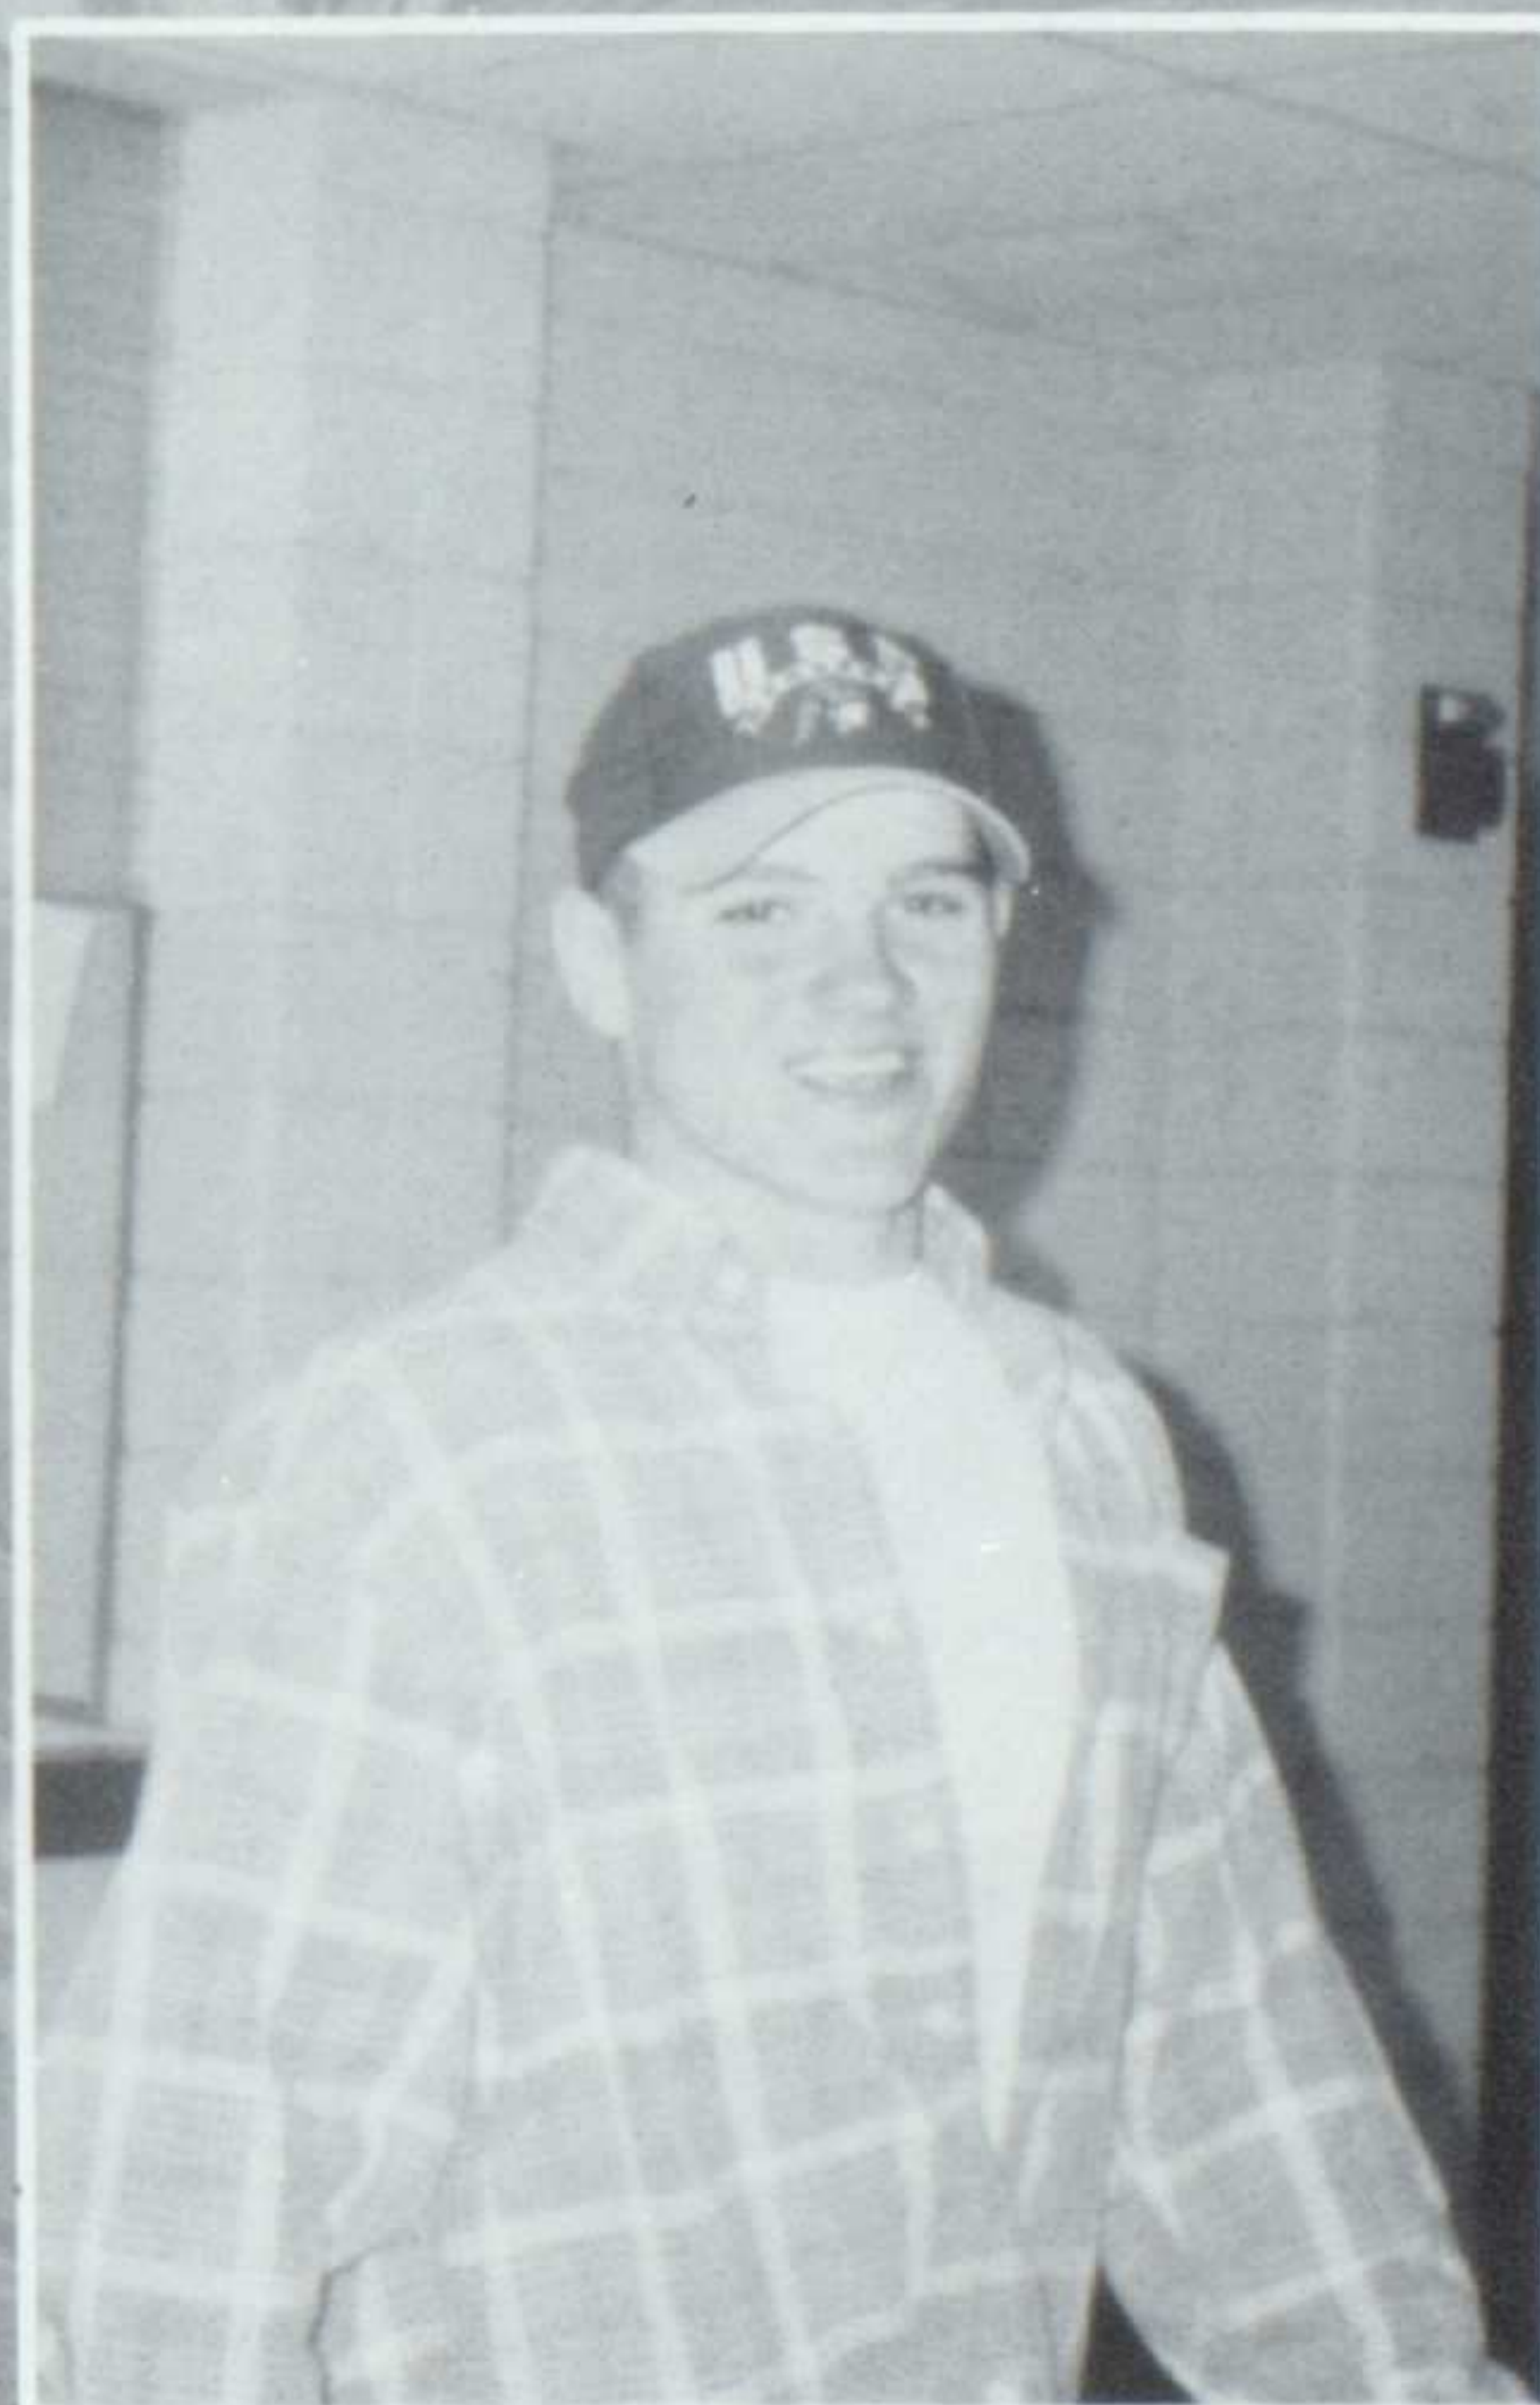

Boy, Keith Warren doesn't have to worry about going hungry for Kisha Carruth is serving him happily.

Straight off the runways in Paris, Doug Morgan sports the latest look.

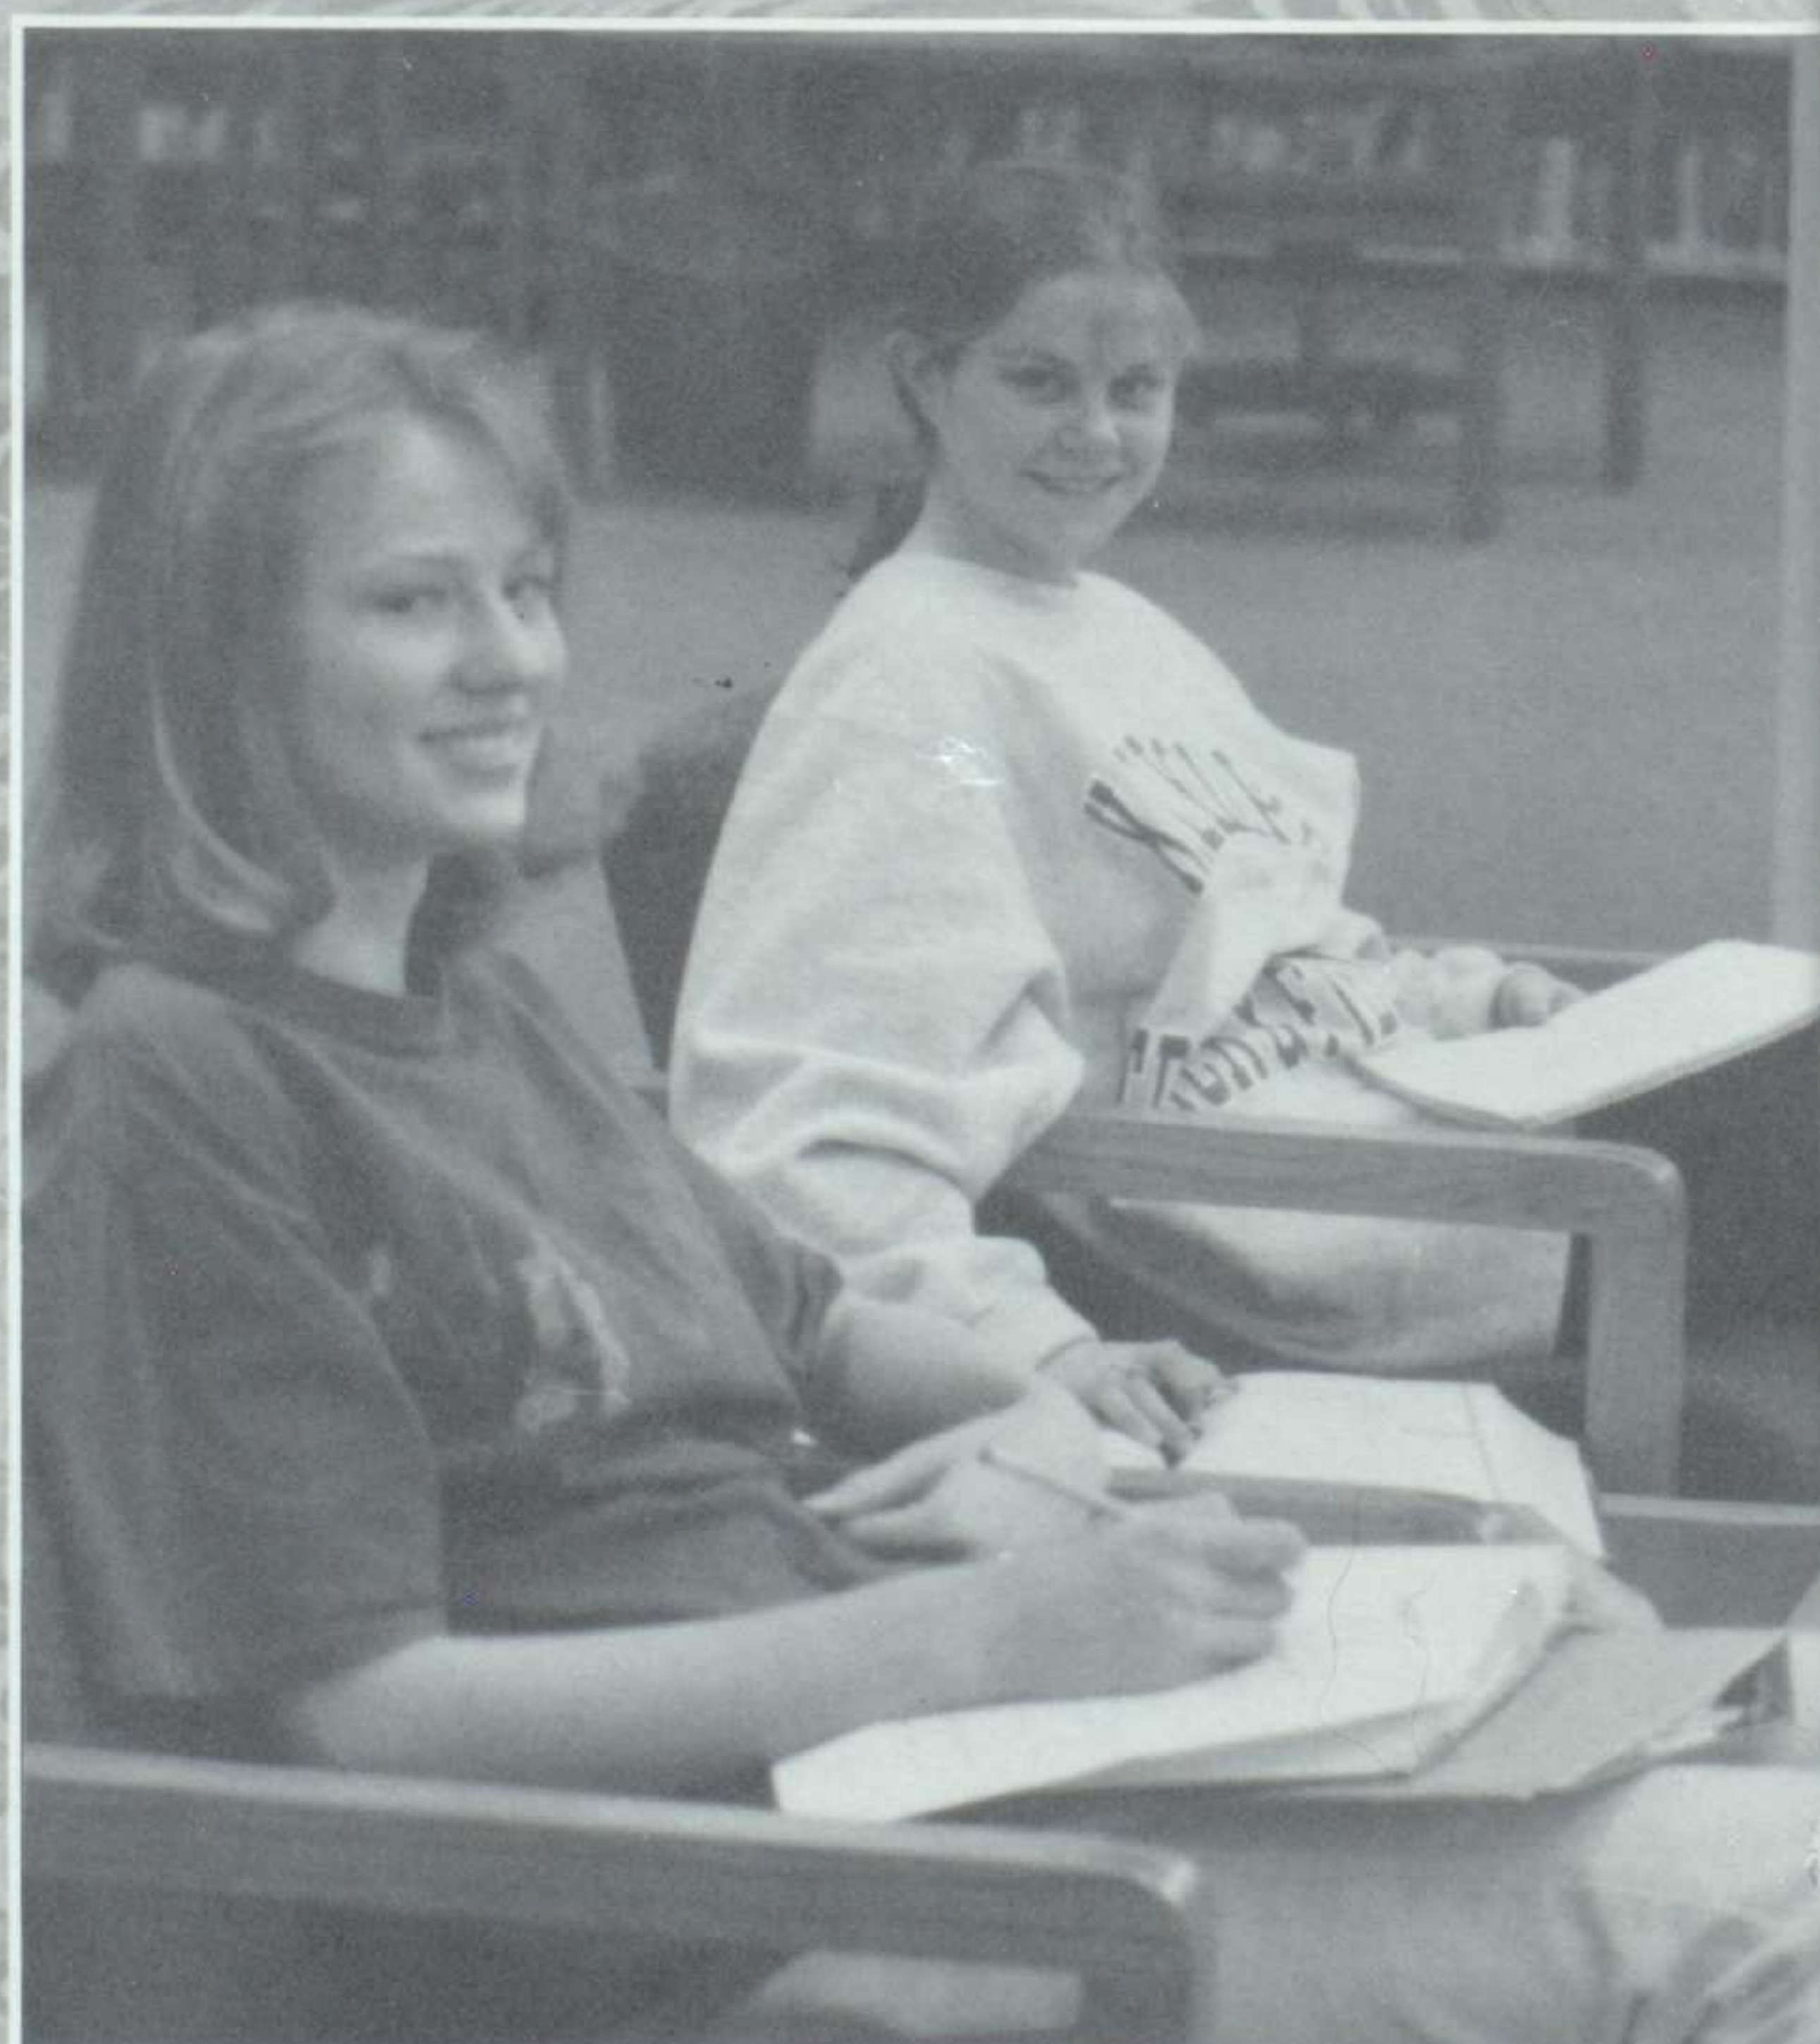

"Help is only a phone call away!" remark mediators Erin Tunis and Pete Wilson.

Why does Aaron Falvo look so smug?

"Happy Birthday to meeeeeee!" sings Katie "Bob" Doelker, as Charlotte James, Jessica Tande, Mikisha Lay, and Matt Langstaff woder about her sanity.

CANDIDS CLOSING

At the After Graduation Party Haeyun Lee and Hana Pasmikova enjoy the driving simulation. "Why are you taking our pictures?" ask Erin Macrae and Katie Wojciechowski, fearing the photographer is just another member of the library's high-tech security sustem.

"What can I say? All the ladies love me," says Nick Gatto while being smothered by Jennifer Brown and Melanie DiBenedetto.

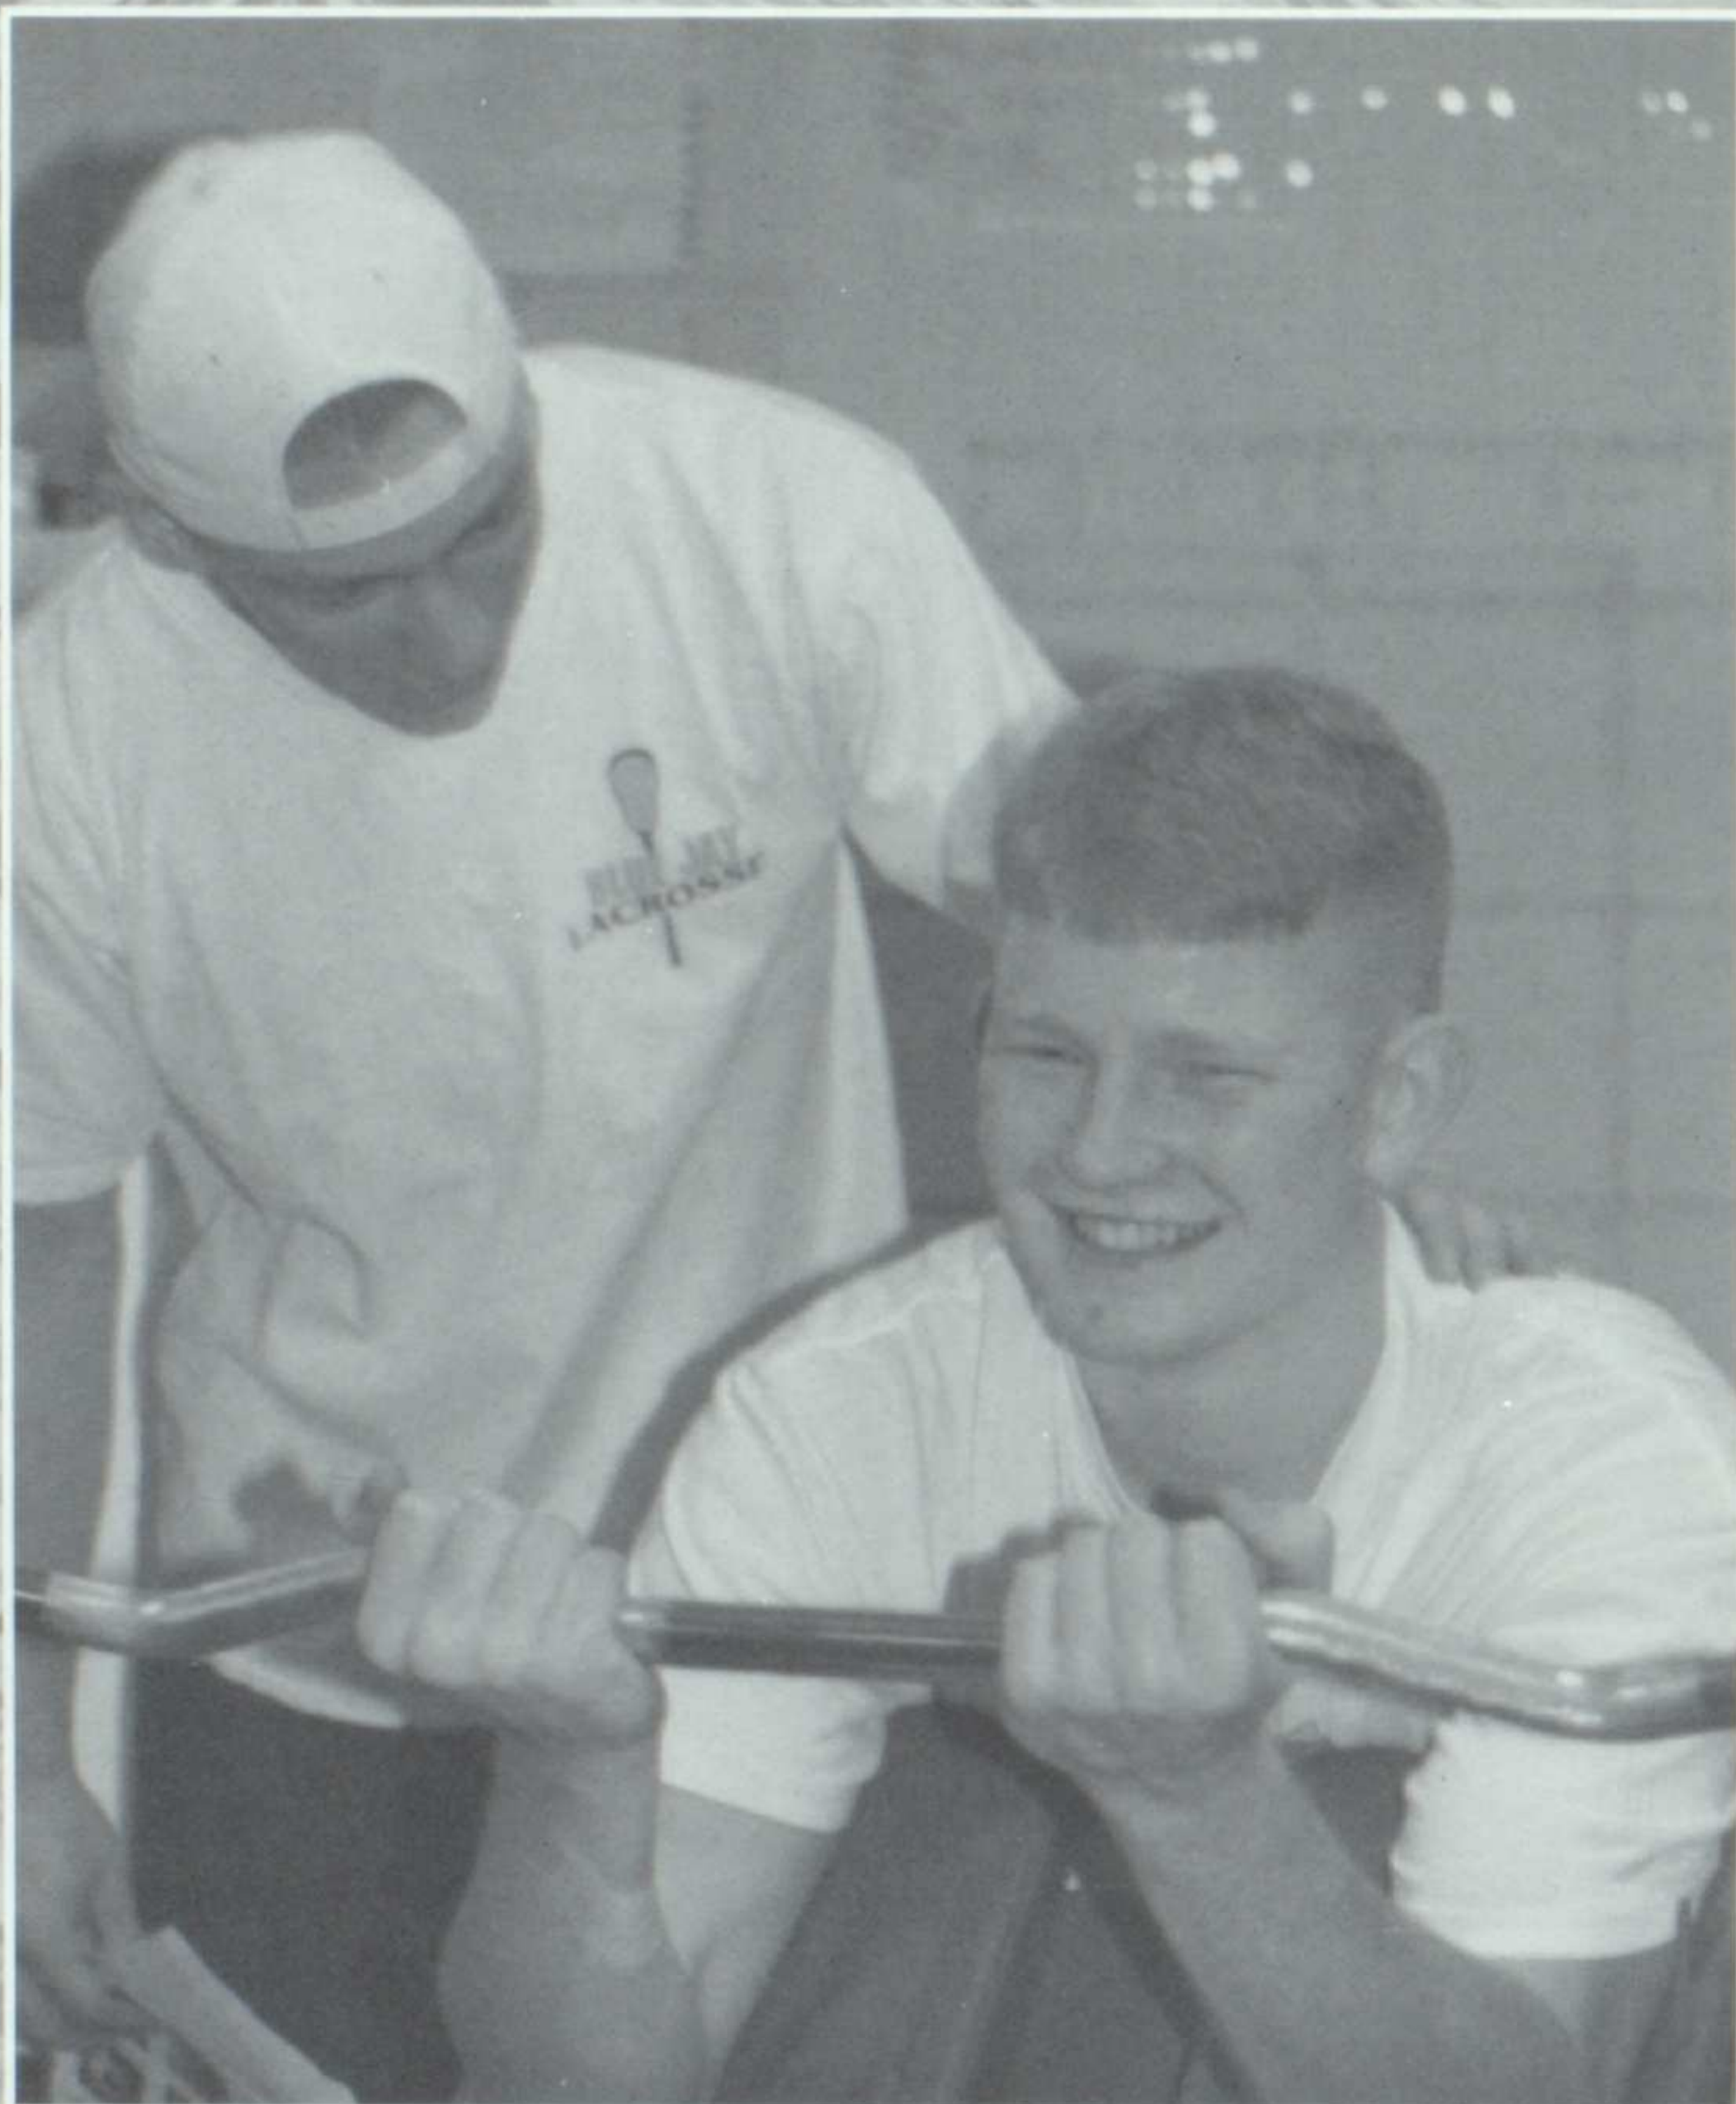

Showing off their big muscles, Jen Vinson and Kate Adams leave the entire gym class in awe.

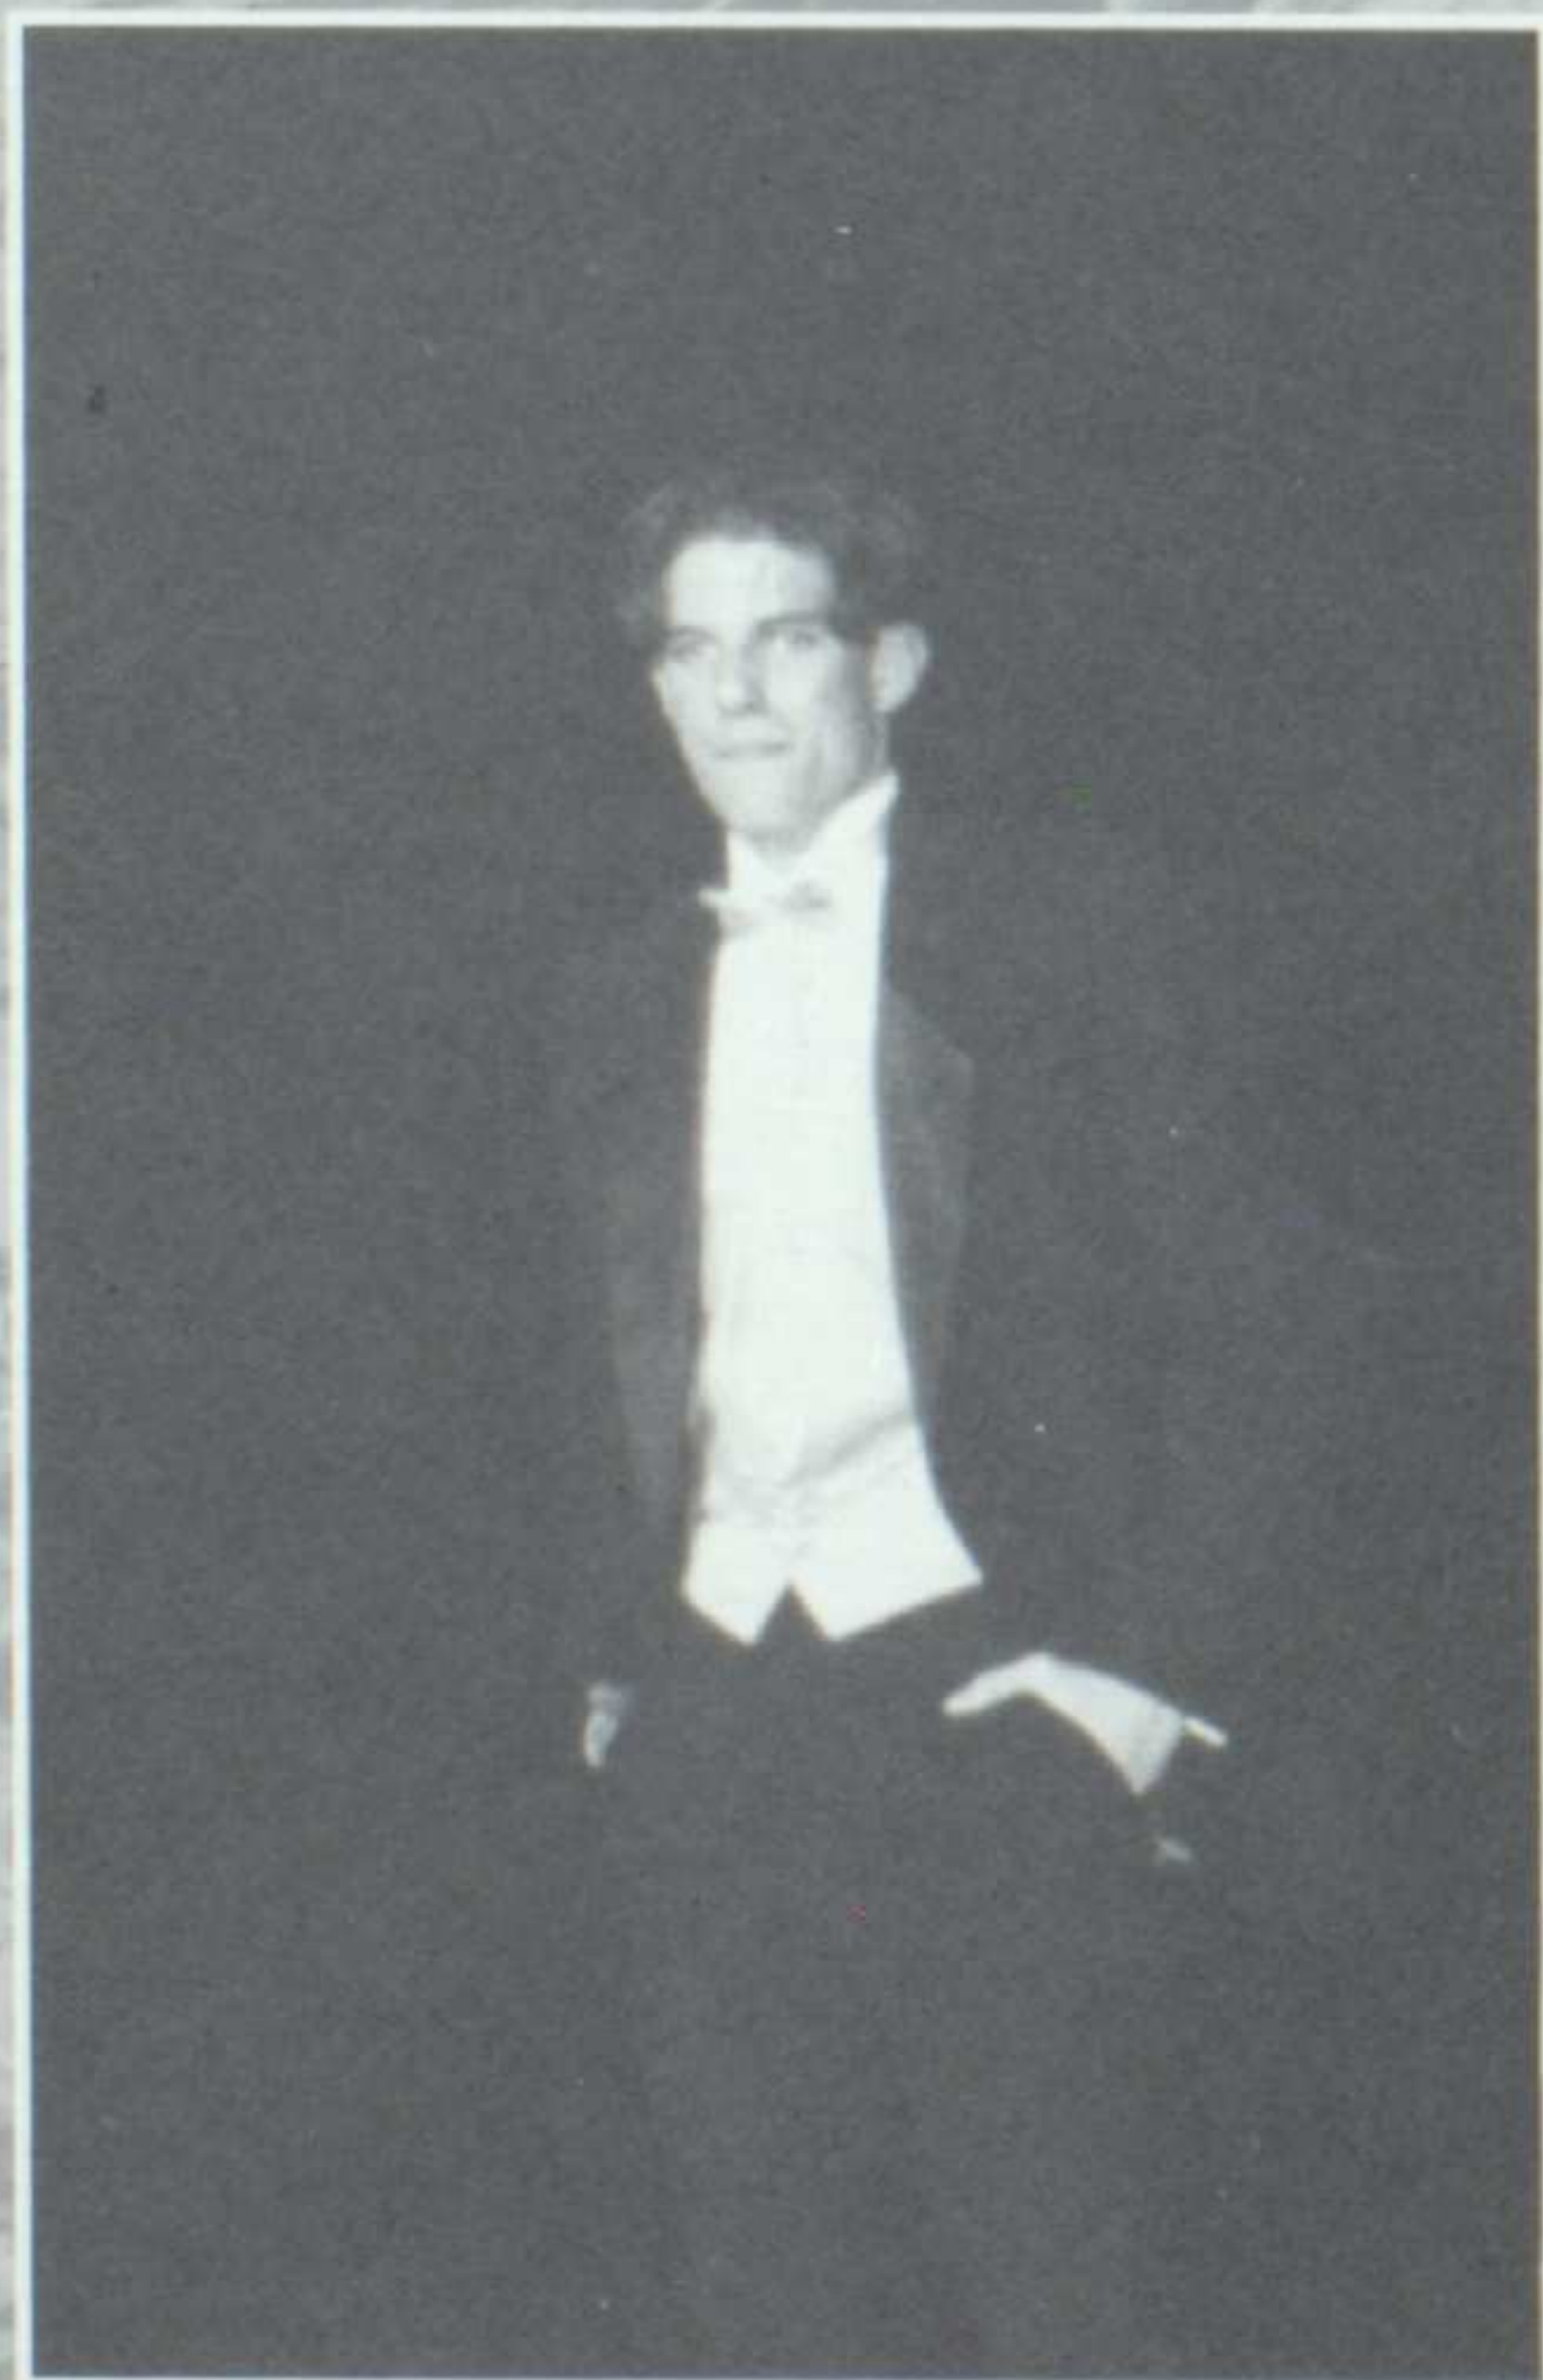

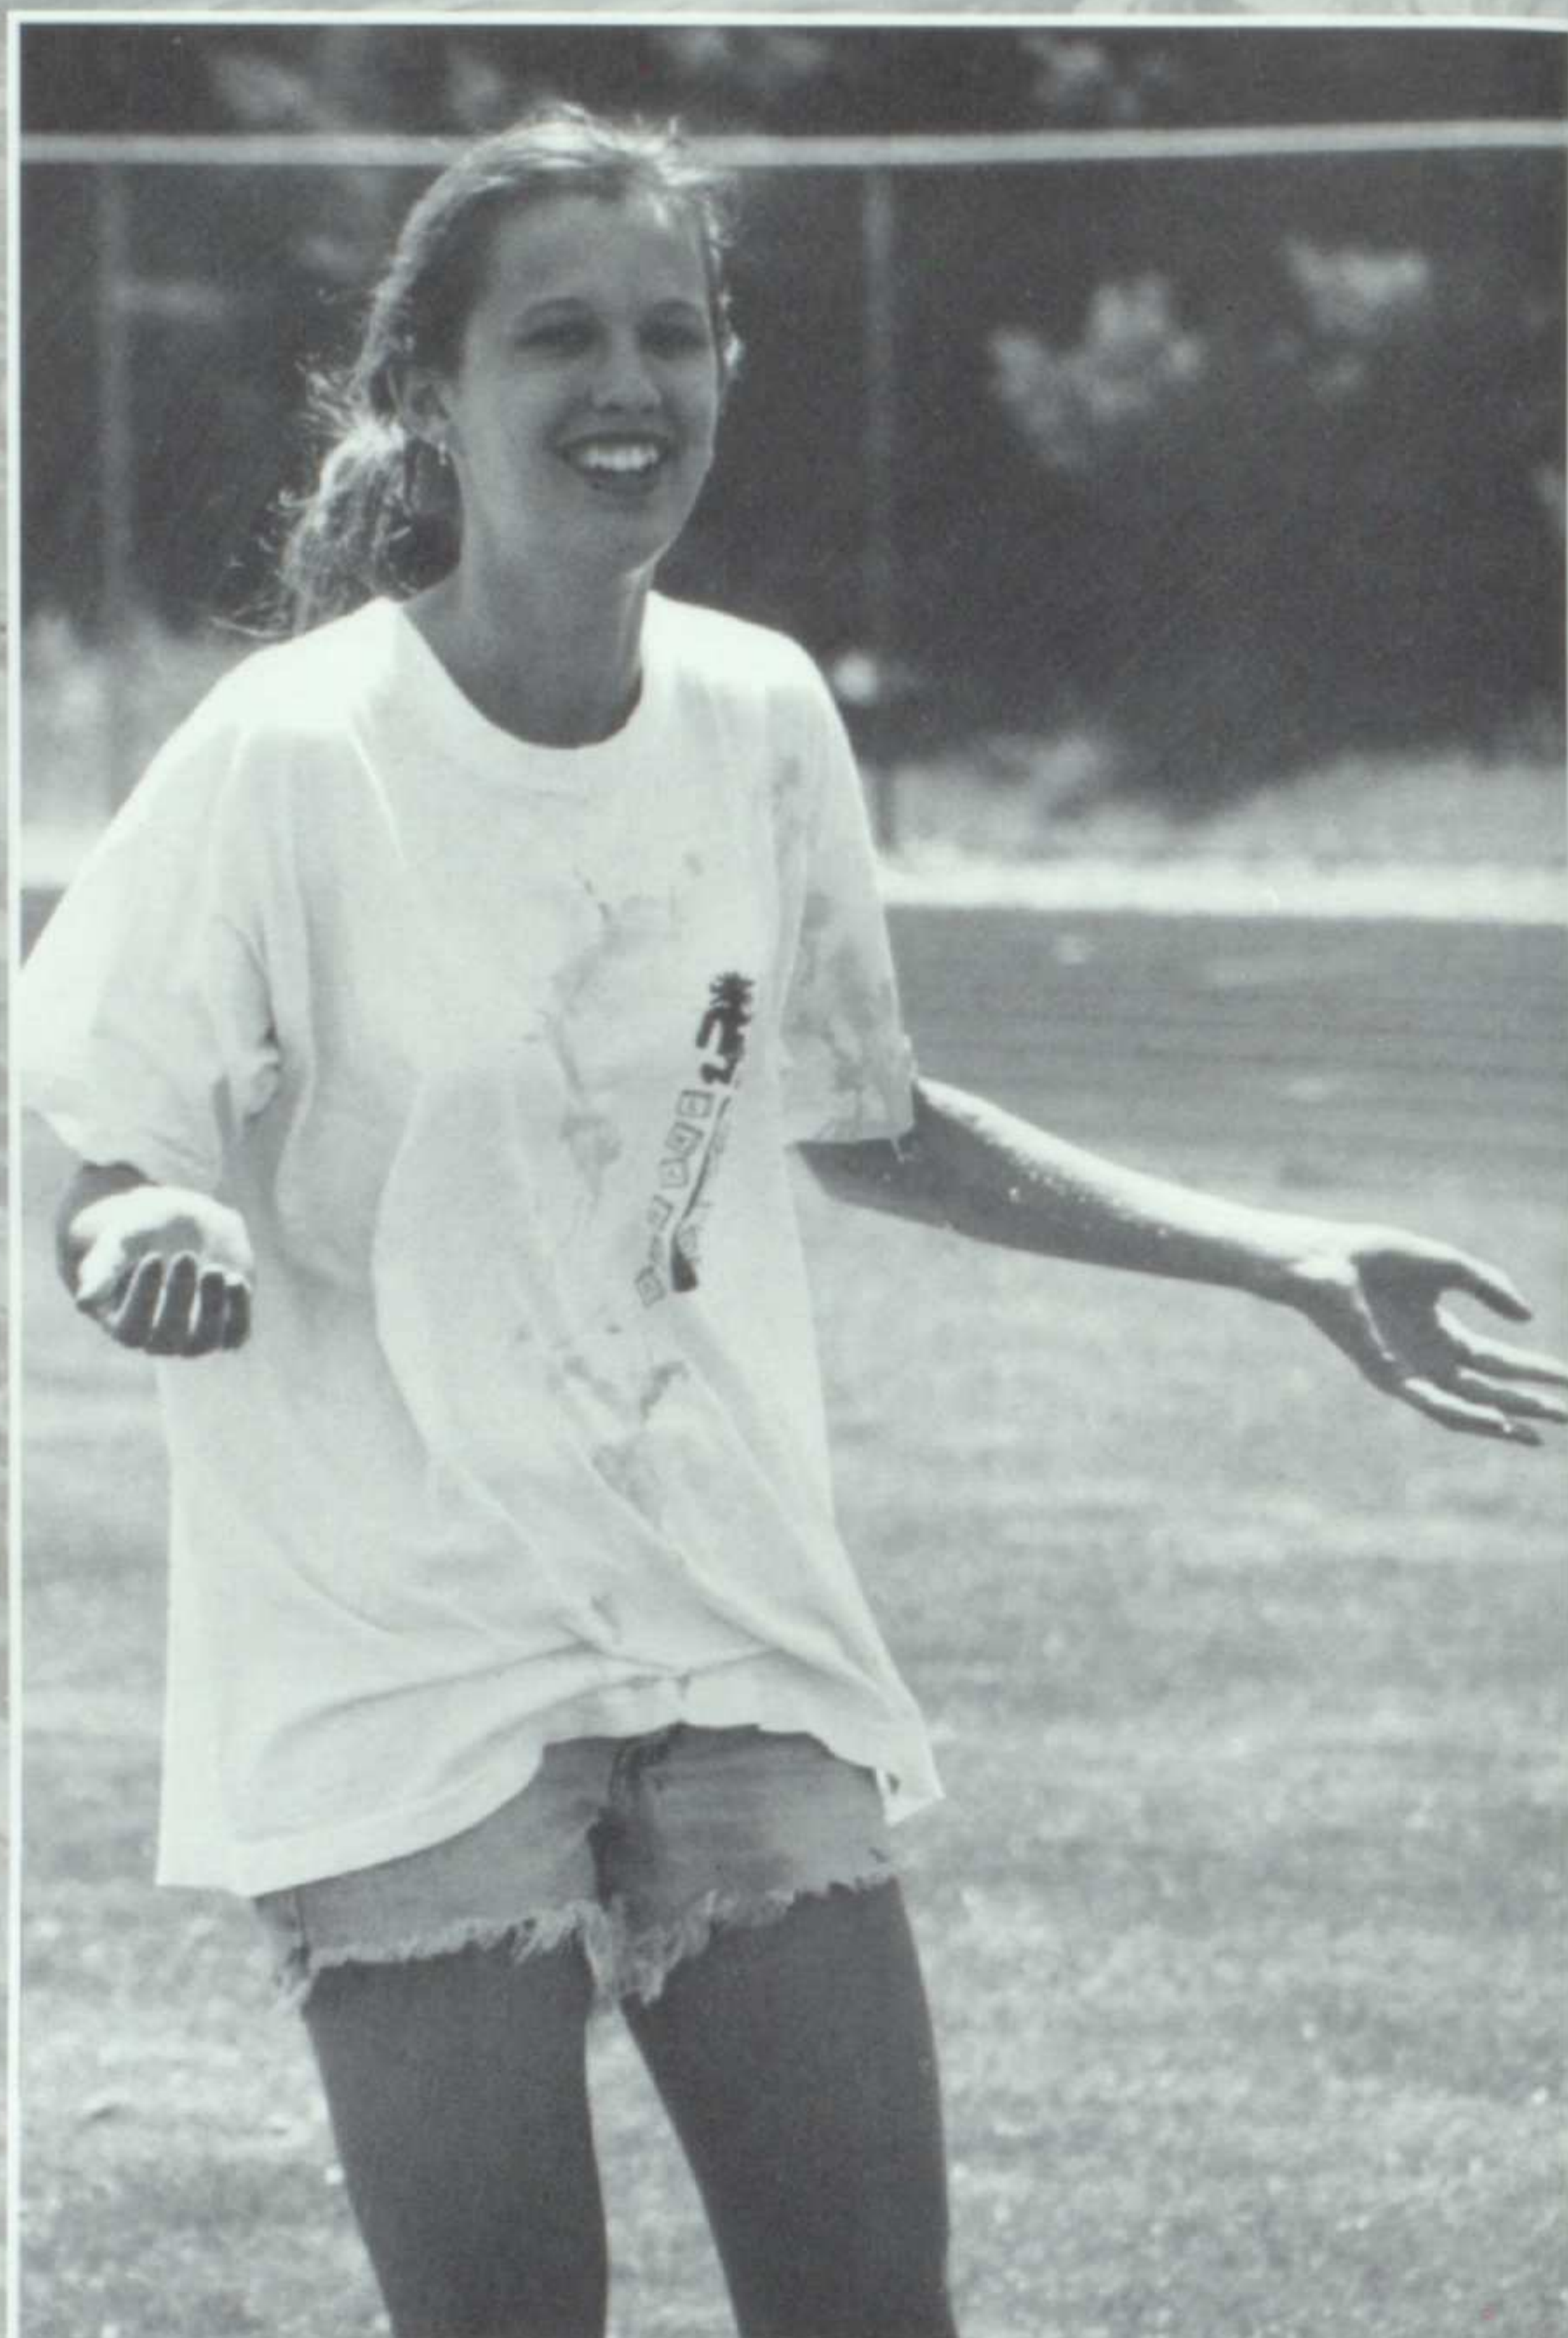

"Oh, don't smile at me Heide Martin," exclaims Mrs. Demos-Kearns. "You know buffing without goggles is an automatic Saturday school."
Wondering what the magician is going to pull out of his hat are victims, uhh volunteers, Michael Leachman and Kay Chen.

"Come on, man, it's just the bar," laughs Brian Anderson at Scott Frantz "I know you can do it!"

Silly Danielle Short doesn't realize she's supposed to catch the egg with her hands, not her shirt.

CANDIDS CLOSING

*Looking smooth, Brian Yeo struts his stuff at the prom fashion show. Calm down, girls, he's got a girlfriend.
"Two is better than one," giggles Jessica Brown as she drags both Nathans out onto the dance floor.*

"How many licks does it take to get to the center of a tootsie roll pop?" wonder Erin Otten, Mandy Hall, and Cyndi Maharas. How could these seniors make it through their first eighteen years with out learning such an important piece of information?

According to Geoff Gear, Scott Holowicki, and Aaron Lewis, there is nothing like piling on a bunch of other guys. What a fun game Buck-Buck is!!

"How much do you want to borrow?" asks a generous Canady Wiley. How sweet!!

275

CANDIDS
CLOSING

Enjoying the sunshine and music at Wolfapalooza are Jenny Garrett and Krista Freudeman.

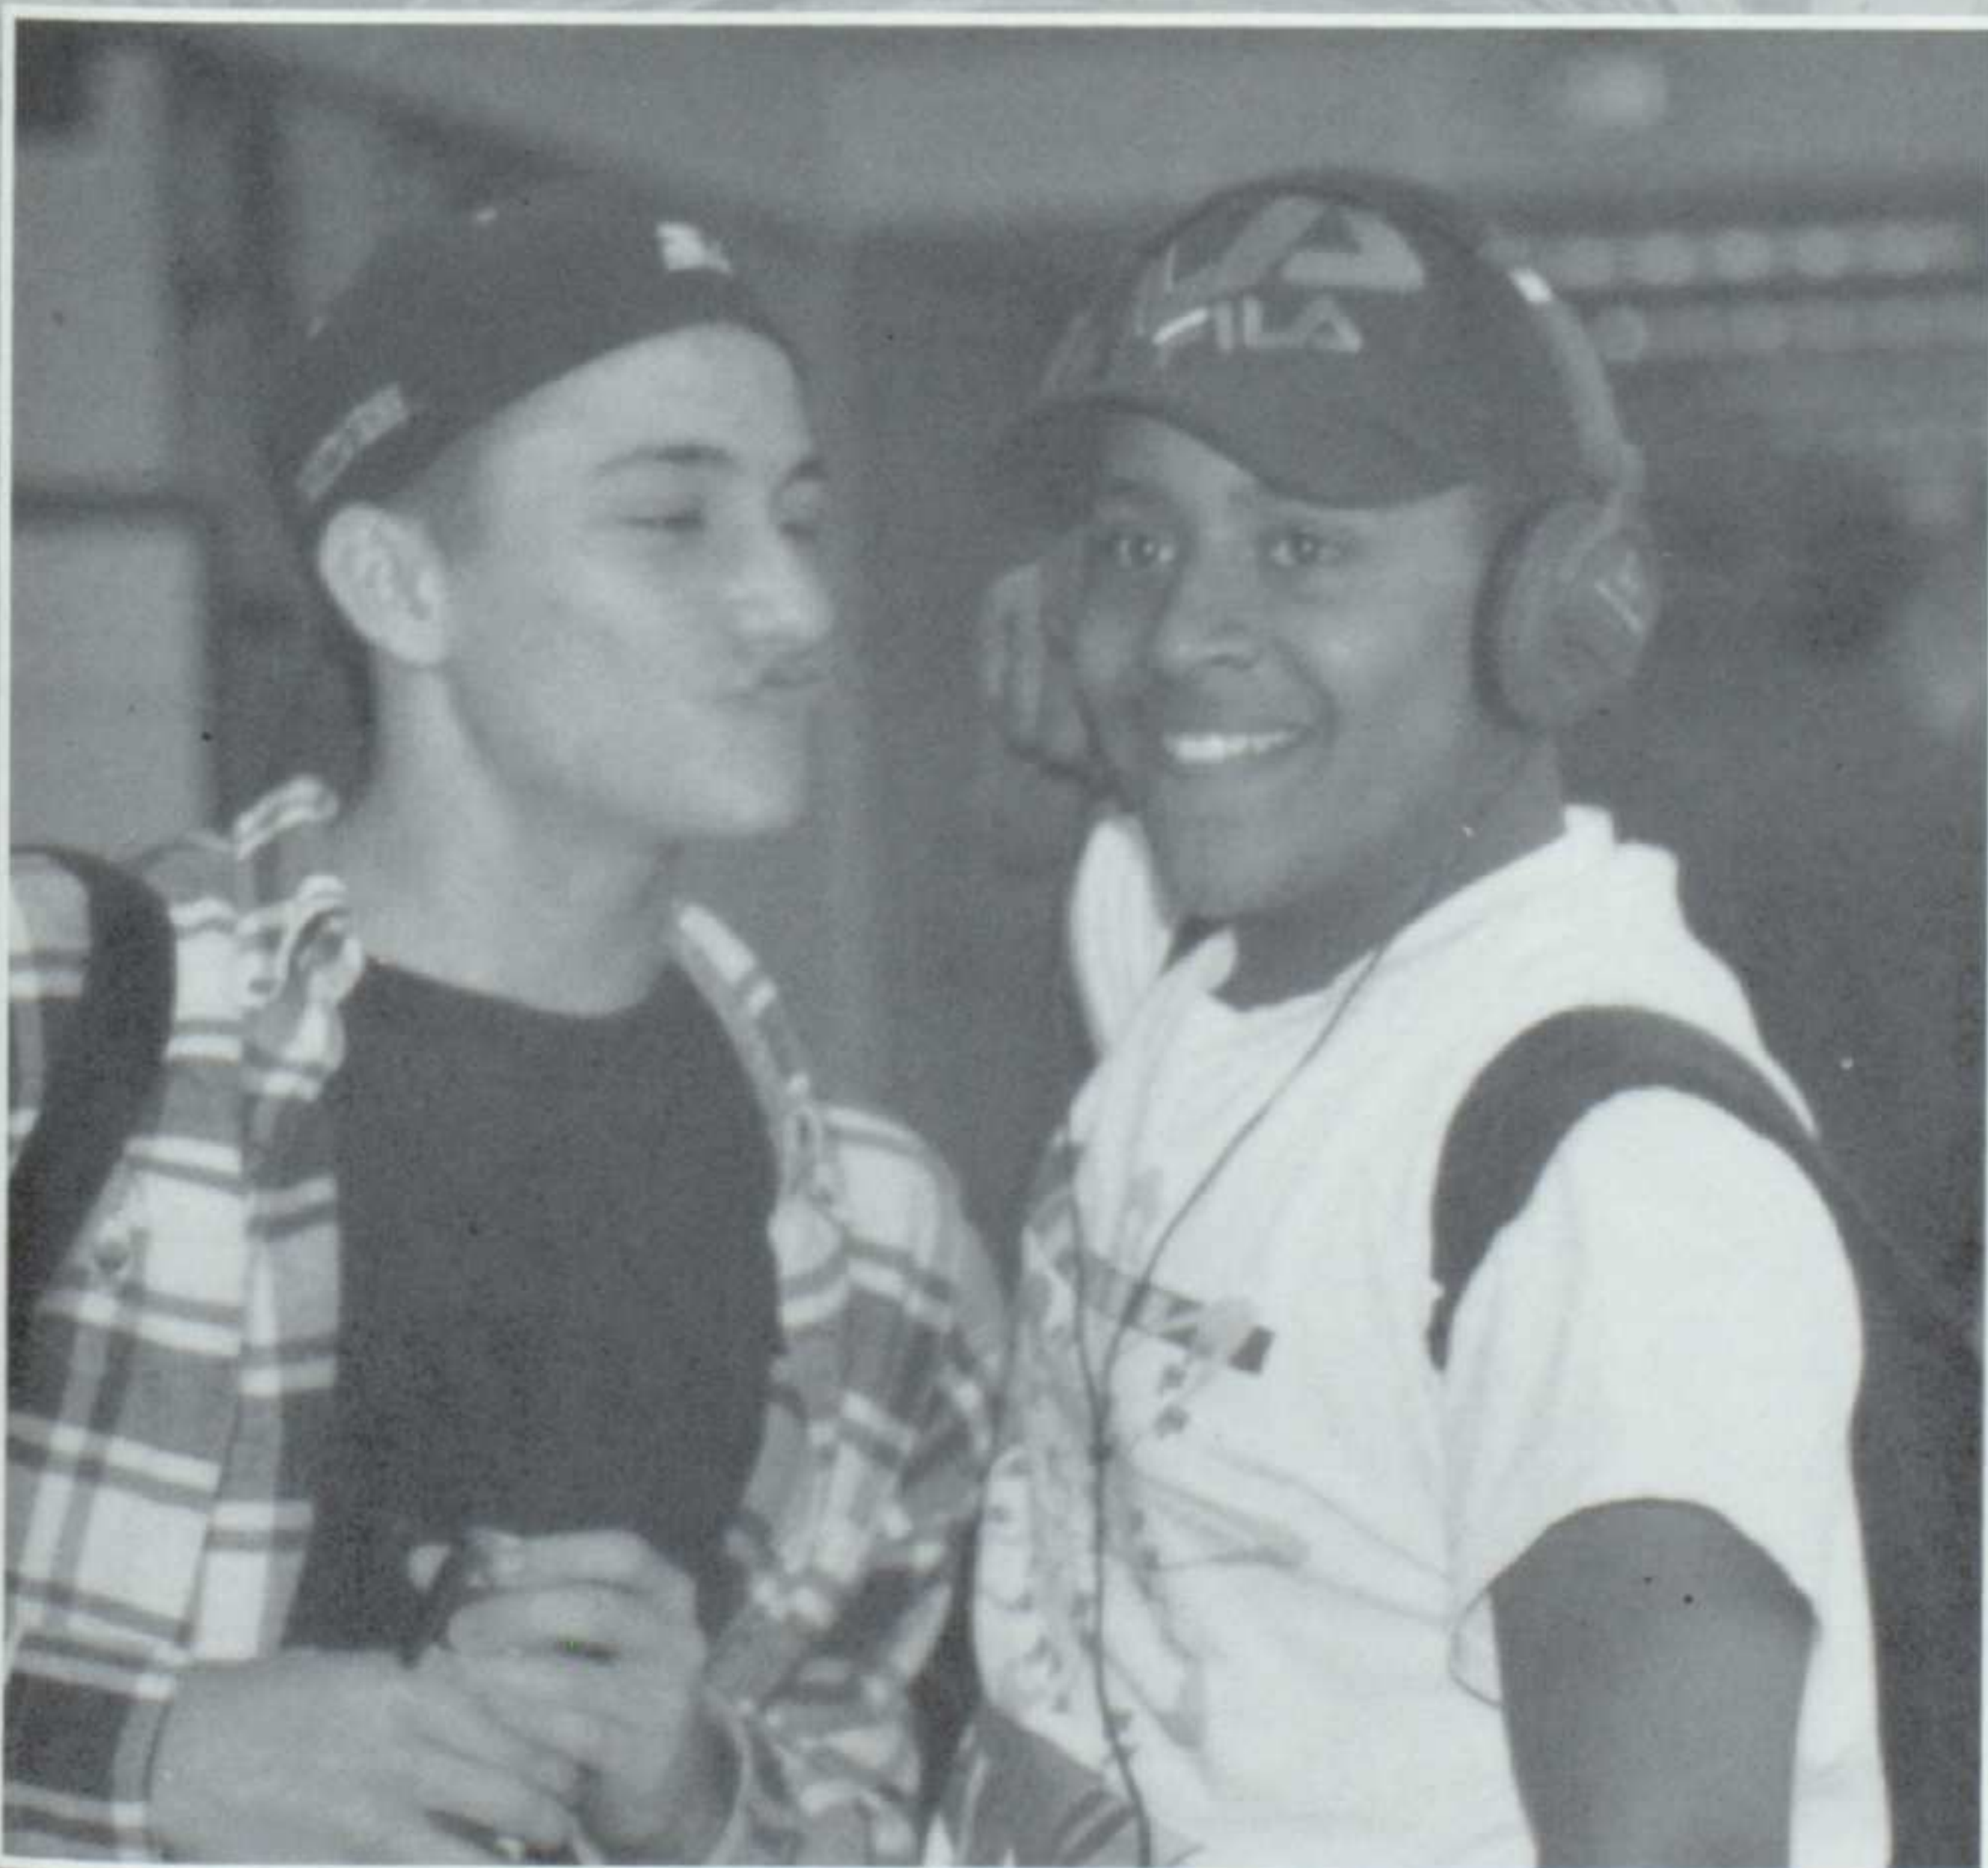

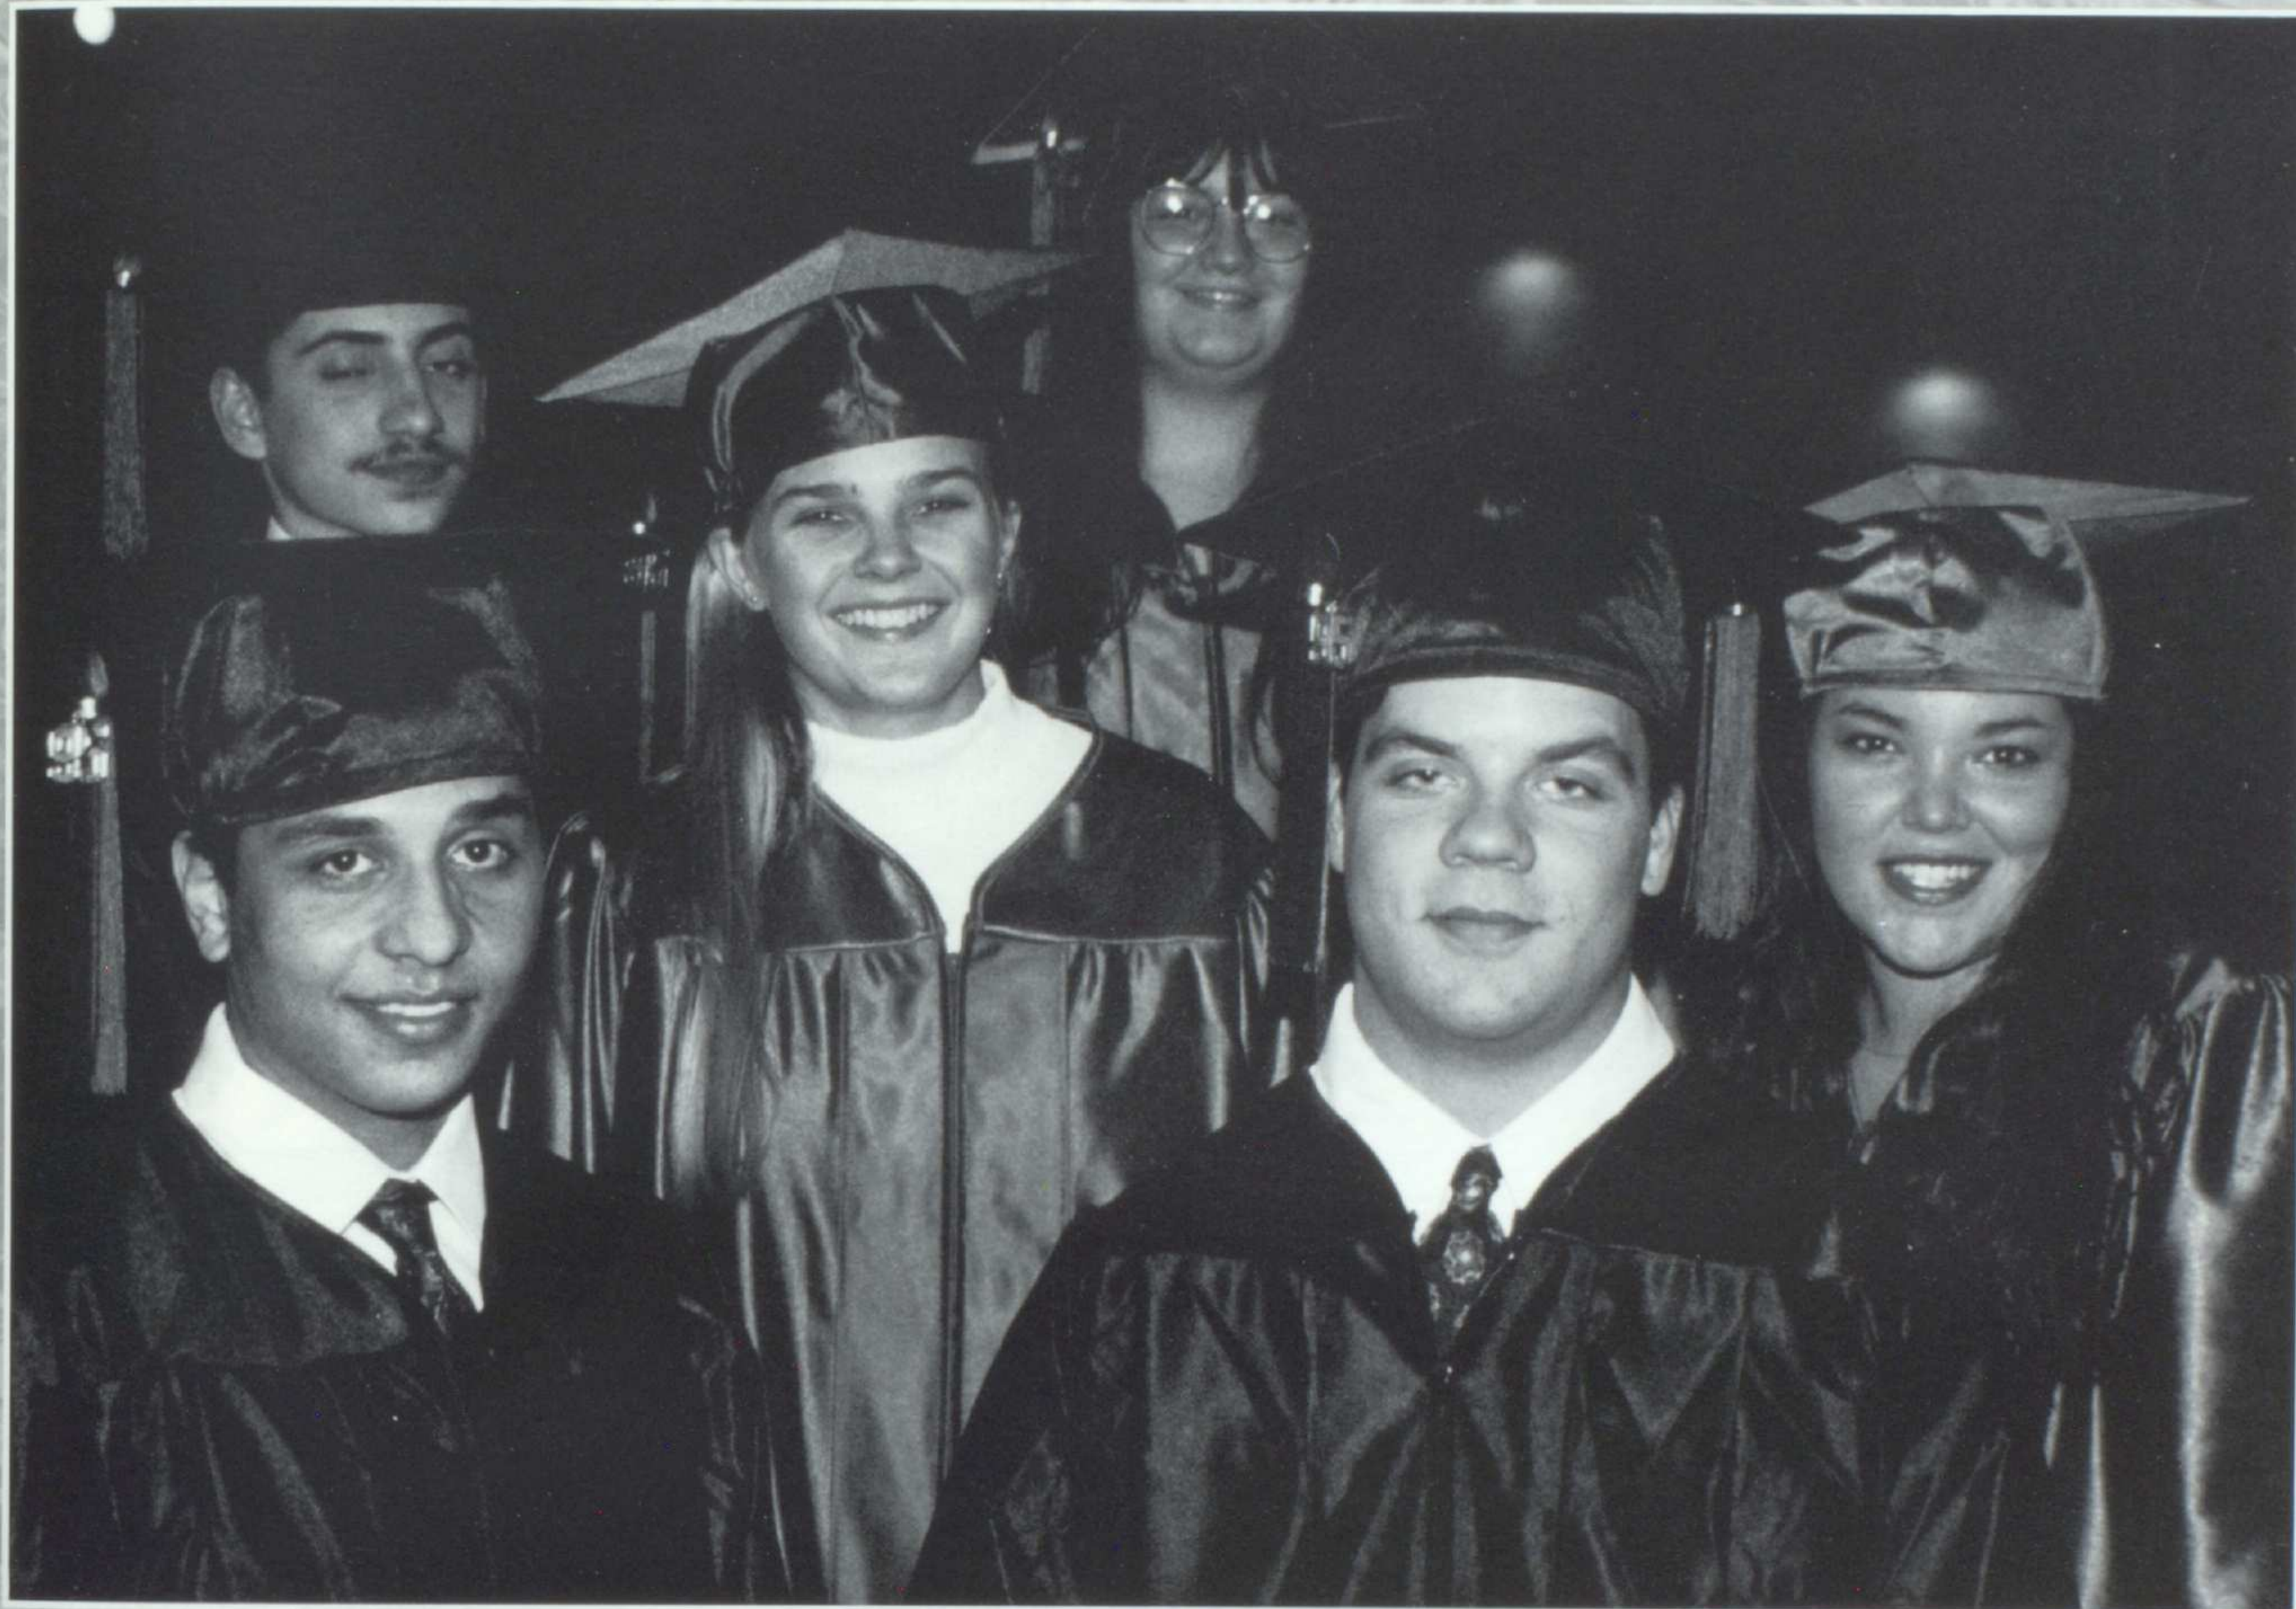

Taking advantage of the suspiciously low prices at Wolfapalooza are Beth DeLucia, Jenny Kielmeyer, Becca Sommerville, and Key Shakoor as they try to grab as much food as possible.

A big smile from Jenny Galvin expresses her happiness at graduation, but what is that expression on Drew Hartmann's face? Maybe he's still in shock.

After much hard work these seniors are excited to be the first class to graduate after completing "all four years" at Worthington Kilbourne High School. Ali Al Shahal, Melissa Barmes, Jim Begley, Summer Alexander, Ismail Al Shahal, and Andrea Canty can't wait to get out of here!

Pow! "Kiss this Shawn McQuone," says Cam Cosey. Sorry, Shawn, you'll have to get a little T.L.C. somewhere else.

Obviously ticked off that he didn't get a piece, Tim Kern pouts while Stephanie Walcott enjoys her pizza.

WOLFAPALOOZA!

For the past three years the Kilbourne Student Council has held an annual school gathering filled with different events and class competitions. The Final Fling, as it was previously called, was about an hour activity at the end of the school day. The popularity of this activity caused the student council to extend the Fling to a half day event and move the events outside so more people could participate. As a result of these improvements, Wolfapalooza was born.

Favorite competitions from the Fling such as the Slop Relay and Obstacle Course were carried over to Wolfapalooza. New events such as the sack race, balloon shoot, egg toss, and pogo-bal race were also fun games. Wyandot Lake, Kroger, and other local retailers donated the prizes awarded to winners of the events. Wolves Inc. also made a large contribution to this event by providing funding for lunch which consisted of a hot dog, chips, drink, and either cotton candy or snowcone for only 50 cents. Dear Nuclear Deer, a band made up of Kilbourne students Matt Prosser, Eric Yinger, Joe Paintin, and Aaron Woody, kept those not participating in the events entertained with their alternative style of music.

Though much of our student body decided not to participate in Wolfapalooza, those who did had a great time. According to Scott Schaffer, "All the time and hardwork became worthwhile when participants came up to me and said that they felt sorry for the kids who went home." The success of Wolfapalooza will probably lead to the continuation of this tradition next year. The students who decided not to come missed out on one of the most enjoyable days of the school year. Hopefully, next year they will appreciate all the hard work and attend.

By Sarah Thompson

Warming up to play for the anxious Wolfapalooza crowd are Dear Nuclear Deer members Joe Paintin and Aaron Woody.

Heading one of the sophomore teams in the shuffle relay, Erica Seabloom shouts out directions to her troop.

Participants in the slop relay, Heather Jacobson, Erin Cygan, and some unidentifiable victim try to wash off a mixture of flour, baked beans, rice, honey, and other slop. Yuk!!!

Was it suicide or a publicity stunt? No one will ever know why 38-year-old Frank Corder crashed his plane into the White House on September 15, 1994.

Cuba's boat people headed towards the US on anything that would float to escape their Communist island country.

Woodstock '94 looked a lot like the original 1969 rock festival—right down to the fans who wouldn't have missed it.

Thanks to Snyder, Fritts, and Parker for all of their help and support.

Mark Lee and Carl Meade went on the first untethered spacewalk in ten years. The seven million dollar space pack allowed them to fly free of their space shuttle 150 million miles above the Earth for seven hours.

Clinton's health care task force, headed by Hillary Rodham Clinton, came out with a proposal in '93. However, it's complexity killed it in '94.

GREED KILLS STRIKE

Fans were torn apart by the baseball strike. America's favorite past-time isn't worth giving up for any amount of money!

*As we walk the path of life
Throughout the years to come
We'll sing this song in honor of
Our dear old Worthington
Across the fields and through the hills
This song will echo clear,
Singing to our Alma Mater
Which we hold so dear,
Worthington Kilbourne High!*
